Annotations:

To better serve our customers, by making our annotations more current, LexisNexis has changed the sources that are read to create annotations for this publication. Rather than waiting for cases to appear in printed reporters, we now read court decisions as they are released by the courts. A consequence of the more current reading of cases, as they are posted online on LEXIS, is that the most recent cases annotated may not yet have print reporter citations. These will be provided, as they become available, through later publications.

This publication contains annotations taken from decisions of the North Carolina Supreme Court posted on LEXIS as of August 22, 2003, decisions of the North Carolina Court of Appeals posted as of September 16, 2003, and decisions of the appropriate federal courts posted as of September 16, 2003. These cases will be printed in the following reports:

South Eastern Reporter 2nd Series
Federal Reporter 3rd Series
Federal Supplement
Federal Rules Decisions
Bankruptcy Reports
Supreme Court Reporter

Additionally, annotations have been taken from the following sources:

North Carolina Law Review through Volume 81, No. 5, p. 2177
Wake Forest Law Review through Volume 38, no. 2, p. 838

CASE NOTES

Applied in Taylor v. Triangle Porsche-Audi, Inc., 27 N.C. App. 711, 220 S.E.2d 806 (1975); Willoughby v. Wilkins, 65 N.C. App. 626, 310 S.E.2d 90 (1983).

Rule 2. Calendaring of civil cases.

Subject to the provisions of Rule 40(a), Rules of Civil Procedure and G.S. 7A-146:

(a) The Senior Resident Judge and Chief District Judge in each Judicial District shall be responsible for the calendaring of all civil cases and motions for trial or hearing in their respective jurisdictions. A case management plan for the calendaring of civil cases must be developed by the Senior Resident Judge and the Chief District Court Judge. The Administrative Office of the Courts shall be available to provide assistance to judges in developing a case management program.

The effective date of the plan and any amendments thereto shall be either January 1 or July 1. The plan must be promulgated in writing and copies of the plan must be distributed to all attorneys of record within the judicial district. In order to provide for statewide dissemination, copies of plans effective January 1 shall be filed with the Administrative Office of the Courts on or before October 31 and on or before April 30 for plans effective July 1.

In districts with Trial Court Administrators, the responsibility for carrying out the case management plan may be delegated to the Trial Court Administrator.

The case management plan must contain a provision that attorneys may request that cases may be placed on the calendar.

(b) The civil calendar shall be prepared under the supervision of the Senior Resident Judge or Chief District Court Judge. Calendars must be published and distributed by the Clerk of Court to each attorney of record (or party where there is no attorney of record) and presiding judge no later than four weeks prior to the first day of court.

(c) Except in districts served by a Trial Court Administrator, a ready calendar shall be maintained by the Clerk of Court for the District and Superior Courts. Five months after a complaint is filed, the Clerk shall place that case on a ready calendar, unless the time is extended by written order of the Senior Resident Judge or the Chief District Judge for their respective jurisdictions.In districts with Trial Court Administrators, a case tracking system shall be maintained.

(d) During the first full week in January and first full week following the 4th of July or such other weeks as the Senior Resident Judge shall designate that are agreeable to the Chief Justice, the Senior Resident Judge of each district shall be assigned to his home district for administrative purposes. During such administrative terms, the Senior Resident Judge shall be responsible for reviewing all cases on the ready calendar, or all cases designated by the Trial Court Administrator, of each county in the judicial district. The Senior Resident Judge shall take appropriate actions to insure prompt disposition of any pending motions or other matters necessary to move the cases toward a conclusion. The Chief District Court Judge shall undertake periodically such an administrative review of the District Court Civil Docket.

(e) When an attorney is notified to appear for the setting of a calendar, pretrial conference, hearing of a motion or for trial, he must, consistent with ethical requirements, appear or have a partner, associate or another attorney familiar with the case present. Unless an attorney has been excused in advance by the judge before whom the matter is scheduled and has given prior notice to his opponent, a case will not be continued.

(f) Requests for a peremptory setting for cases involving persons who must travel long distances or numerous expert witnesses or other extraordinary reasons for such a request must be made to the Senior Resident Judge or Chief District Judge. In districts with Trial Court Administrators, requests should be made to the Trial Court Administrator. A peremptory setting shall be granted only for good and compelling reasons. A Senior Resident Judge or Chief District Judge may set a case peremptorily on his own motion.

(g) When a case on a published calendar (tentative or final) is settled, all attorneys of record must notify the Trial Court Administrator (Clerk of Court in those counties with no Trial Court Administrator) within twenty-four (24) hours of the settlement and advise who will prepare and present judgment, and when. (Amended July 1, 1980; May 16, 1988, effective July 1, 1988.)

Legal Periodicals. — For article analyzing the 1983 amendments to Rules 6, 7, 11, 16, 26, 52, 53 and 67, FRCP, comparing these rules with North Carolina practice, and suggesting changes in certain state and federal rules, see 20 Wake Forest L. Rev. 819 (1984).

CASE NOTES

Failure to Timely Calendar Motion. — Since civil cases in this State are ordinarily deemed ready for trial five months after filing, and motion for removal could have been calendared for hearing at many earlier court sessions, defendant's failure to put its motion on a hearing calendar until eight months after the case was filed, the hearing date being two months later, was unreasonable and thus a waiver of its right to have the case removed to a different county. Johnson v. Hampton Indus., Inc., 83 N.C. App. 157, 349 S.E.2d 332 (1986).

Notice of Hearing on Motion. — Plaintiff's counsel was entitled to rely upon the Trial Court Administrator's final calendar in the absence of any further direction from the court; an order dismissing a case based on the injured person's failure to appear at a hearing on the motion to dismiss was reversed where the first notice of hearing indicated that the motion was to have been heard on a specific date, but a later final calendar received by the injured person's counsel from the Trial Court Administrator indicated that the motion to dismiss was scheduled for a different, later day. Scruggs v. Chavis, — N.C. App. —, 584 S.E.2d 879, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1734 (2003).

Notice of Trial Date. — While no formal trial date was set under a local rule until the day of the calendar call, this does not alter the requirement that a party receive notice that a trial on the merits has been set for a particular session of court. A calendar request received four days before the start of the session is not sufficient. Dollar v. Tapp, 103 N.C. App. 162, 404 S.E.2d 482 (1991).

The law imposes certain affirmative duties on parties to a lawsuit to keep abreast of the proceedings in that suit. — A party once served with a summons has a duty to give the matter the attention a person of ordinary prudence would give to important business. This duty does not negate the notice requirements of this rule, however. Dollar v. Tapp, 103 N.C. App. 162, 404 S.E.2d 482 (1991).

Notice to Party Not Represented by Counsel. — Although rule formerly specified that the calendar be sent to each attorney of record and that the copy of the certificate of readiness be sent to opposing counsel, it was implicit in the rule that where a party is not represented by counsel he is entitled to the same notice. Laroque v. Laroque, 46 N.C. App. 578, 265 S.E.2d 444, cert. denied, 300 N.C. 558, 270 S.E.2d 109 (1980).

Continuance Not Granted to Unprepared Co-Counsel. — Where co-counsel of record appeared on behalf of defendant and moved for a continuance solely on the grounds that he was not prepared to try the case, under subdivision (e) of this rule co-counsel was not entitled to a continuance. Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. v. Templeton Oldsmobile-Cadillac-Pontiac, Inc., 109 N.C. App. 352, 427 S.E.2d 629, cert. denied, 333 N.C. 795, 431 S.E.2d 31 (1993).

Cited in Green v. Eure, 18 N.C. App. 671, 197 S.E.2d 599 (1973); Simmons v. Tuttle, 70 N.C. App. 101, 318 S.E.2d 847 (1984).

Rule 2.1. Designation of exceptional civil cases and complex business cases.

(a) The Chief Justice may designate any case or group of cases as (a) "exceptional" or (b) "complex business." A senior resident superior court judge, chief district court judge, or presiding superior court judge may ex mero motu, or on motion of any party, recommend to the Chief Justice that a case or cases be designated as exceptional or complex business.

(b) Such recommendation for exceptional cases may include special areas of expertise needed by the judge to be assigned and may include a list of recommended judges. Every complex business case shall be assigned to a special superior court judge for complex business cases, designated by the Chief Justice under Rule 2.2, who shall issue a written opinion upon final disposition of the case.

(c) Such recommendation shall be communicated to the Chief Justice through the Administrative Office of the Courts.

(d) Factors which may be considered in determining whether to make such designations include: the number and diverse interest of the parties; the amount and nature of anticipated pretrial discovery and motions; whether the parties voluntarily agree to waive venue for hearing pretrial motions; the complexity of the evidentiary matters and legal issues involved; whether it will promote the efficient administration of justice; and such other matters as the Chief Justice shall deem appropriate.

(e) The Chief Justice may enter such orders as are appropriate for the pretrial, trial, and other disposition of such designated case or cases. (Adopted January 5, 1988; amended August 28, 1995.)

Rule 2.2. Designation of special superior court judge for complex business cases.

The Chief Justice shall designate one or more superior court judges as special judges to hear and decide complex business cases as provided in Rule 2.1. Any judge so designated shall be known as a Special Superior Court Judge for Complex Business Cases. (Adopted August 28, 1995.)

COMMENT

The portion of this rule providing for the designation of a case as "exceptional" has been in effect in North Carolina since January 5, 1988, and has been utilized numerous times in various situations. The portion of this rule providing for the designation of a "complex business case" was adopted by the North Carolina Supreme Court on August 28, 1995, as a result of a recommendation in the January 1995 Annual Report of THE NORTH CAROLINA COMMISSION ON BUSINESS LAWS AND THE ECONOMY chaired by the North Carolina Attorney General.

The North Carolina Commission on Business Laws and the Economy was established by an executive order of the Governor on April 19, 1994, to recommend "any needed changes in existing statutes and regulations which affect the operation of businesses in North Carolina, particularly Chapter 55 of the North Carolina General Statutes ... and to recommend any needed new statutes, rules and regulations designed to assure that North Carolina offers a legal environment which provides the flexibility and support to allow businesses to operate successfully in this state and which will attract them to locate and incorporate here."

The Commission's report noted that many national corporations incorporate in the state of Delaware because of that state's Chancery Court which provides a high level of judicial expertise on corporate law issues. It also observed the desirability of a state having a substantial body of corporate law that provides predictability for business decision making. Also, it is essential that corporations litigating complex business issues receive timely and well reasoned written decisions from an expert judge.

Accordingly, the Commission recommended that the North Carolina Supreme Court amend Rule 2.1 to allow the Chief Justice to designate certain cases as complex business cases. The Commission also recommended that the Governor appoint at least one expert in corporate law matters as a Special Judge to hear cases designated by the Chief Justice pursuant to Rule 2.2.

The term "complex business case" is purposely not defined in order to give litigants the flexibility to seek a designation as such with respect to any business issue that they believe requires special judicial expertise. It is anticipated that any case involving significant issues arising under Chapters 55, 55B, 57C, 59, 78A, 78B and 78C of the General Statutes of North Carolina would be designated a complex business case.

Rule 3. Continuances.

An application for a continuance shall be made to the presiding judge of the court in which the case is calendared. (Amended February 13, 1973; amended August 15, 2002.)

Legal Periodicals. — For article analyzing the 1983 amendments to Rules 6, 7, 11, 16, 26, 52, 53 and 67, FRCP, comparing these rules with North Carolina practice, and suggesting changes in certain state and federal rules, see 20 Wake Forest L. Rev. 819 (1984).

CASE NOTES

The granting of a continuance is within the discretion of the trial court, and its exercise will not be reviewed in the absence of manifest abuse of discretion. Jenkins v. Jenkins, 27 N.C. App. 205, 218 S.E.2d 518 (1975).

Where a motion for continuance is based on a right guaranteed by the Constitution, the decision of the trial judge is reviewable as a question of law without a prior determination that there has been a gross abuse of discretion. State v. Harrill, 289 N.C. 186, 221 S.E.2d 325, death sentence vacated, 428 U.S. 904, 96 S. Ct. 3212, 49 L. Ed. 2d 1211 (1976).

Error and Prejudice Must Be Shown. — A new trial will be awarded because of a denial of a motion for continuance only if the defendant shows that there was error in the denial and that the defendant was prejudiced thereby. State v. Harrill, 289 N.C. 186, 221 S.E.2d 325, death sentence vacated, 428 U.S. 904, 96 S. Ct. 3212, 49 L. Ed. 2d 1211 (1976).

Attorneys, under the guise of having business requiring their presence elsewhere, ought not to be allowed to delay, defeat or prevent a litigant from having his case tried or being heard on a motion at some reasonably suitable and convenient time. Jenkins v. Jenkins, 27 N.C. App. 205, 218 S.E.2d 518 (1975).

Applied in Lee v. Jenkins, 57 N.C. App. 522, 291 S.E.2d 797 (1982); Butler Serv. Co. v. Butler Serv. Group, Inc., 66 N.C. App. 132, 310 S.E.2d 406 (1984).

Rule 3.1. Guidelines for resolving scheduling conflicts.

(a) In resolving scheduling conflicts when an attorney has conflicting engagements in different courts, the following priorities should ordinarily prevail:

1. Appellate courts should prevail over trial courts.

2. Any of the trial court matters listed in this subdivision, regardless of trial division, should prevail over any trial court matter not listed in this subdivision, regardless of trial division; there is no priority among the matters listed in this subdivision:

- — any trial or hearing in a capital case;
- — the trial in any case designated pursuant to Rule 2.1 of these Rues;
- — the trial in a civil action that has been peremptorily set as the first case for trial at a session of superior court;
- — the trial of a criminal case in superior court, when the defendant is in jail or when the defendant is charged with a Class A through E felony and the trial is reasonably expected to last for more than one week;
- — the trial in an action or proceeding in district court in which any of the following is contested:
  - — termination of parental rights,
  - — child custody,
  - — adjudication of abuse, neglect or dependency or disposition following adjudication,
  - — interim or final equitable distribution,
  - — alimony or post-separation support.

3. When none of the above priorities applies, priority shall be as follows: superior court, district court, magistrate's court.

(b) When an attorney learns of a scheduling conflict between matters in the same priority category, the attorney shall promptly give written notice to opposing counsel, the clerk of all courts and the appropriate judges in all cases, stating therein the circumstances relevant to resolution of the conflict under these guidelines. When the attorney learns of the conflict before the date on which the matters are scheduled to be heard, the appropriate judges are Senior Resident Superior Court Judges for matters pending in the Superior Court Division and Chief District Court Judges for matters pending in the District Court Division; otherwise the appropriate judges are the judges presiding over those matters. The appropriate judges should promptly confer, resolve the conflict, and notify counsel of the resolution.

(c) In resolving scheduling conflicts between matters in the same priority category, the presiding judges should give consideration to the following:

— the comparative age of the cases;
— the order in which the trial dates were set by published calendar, order or notice;
— the complexity of the cases;
— the estimated trial time;
— the number of attorneys and parties involved;
— whether the trial involves a jury;
— the difficulty or ease of rescheduling;
— the availability of witnesses, especially a child witness, an expert witness or a witness who must travel a long distance;
— whether the trial in one of the cases had already started when the other was scheduled to begin.

(d) Nothing in these guidelines is intended to prevent courts from voluntarily yielding a favorable scheduling position, and judges of all courts are urged to communicate with each other in an effort to lessen the impact of conflicts and continuances on all courts. (Adopted August 15, 2002.)

Rule 4. Enlargement of time.

The judge or clerk of the court in which the action is pending may by order extend the time for filing answer.

When counsel, by consent under Rule 6 (b), agree upon an enlargement of time, the agreement shall be reduced to writing and filed with the clerk.

Rule 5. Form of pleadings.

(a) If feasible, each paper presented to the court for filing shall be flat and unfolded, without manuscript cover, and firmly bound. All papers presented to the court for filing shall be letter size (8½″ x 11″), with the exception of wills and exhibits. The Clerk of Superior Court shall require a party to refile any paper which does not conform to this size. This subsection of this rule shall become effective on July 1, 1982. Prior to that date either letter or legal size papers will be accepted.

(b) All papers filed in civil actions, special proceedings and estates shall include as the first page of the filing a cover sheet summarizing the critical elements of the filing in a format prescribed by the Administrative Office of the Courts. The Clerk of Superior Court shall not reject the filing of any paper that does not include the required cover sheet. Instead, the clerk shall file the paper, notify the filing party of the omission and grant the filing party a reasonable time not to exceed five (5) days within which to file the required cover sheet. Until such time as the party files the required cover sheet, the court shall take no further action other than dismissal in the case. (Amended July 1, 1982; further amended September 5, 1996, effective October 1, 1996; further amended June 25, 1997, effective August 1, 1997.)

Rule 6. Motions in civil actions.

All motions, written or oral, shall state the rule number or numbers under which the movant is proceeding. (See Rule 7 of Rules of Civil Procedure.)

Motions may be heard and determined either at the pre-trial conference or on motion calendar as directed by the presiding judge.

Every motion shall be signed by at least one attorney of record in his individual name. He shall state his office address and telephone number immediately following his signature. The signature of an attorney constitutes a certificate by him that he has read the motion; that to the best of his knowledge, information and belief, there are good grounds to support it; and that the motion is not interposed for delay. (See Rule 7 (b) (2); also Rule 11.)

The court in civil matters, on its motion or upon motion by a party, may in its discretion order that argument of any motion be accomplished by means of a telephone conference without requiring counsel to appear in court in person. Upon motion of any party, the court may order such argument to be recorded in such manner as the court shall direct. The court may direct which party shall pay the costs of the telephone calls. Conduct of counsel during such arguments may be subject to punishment as for direct criminal contempt of court. (Amended January 1, 1985.)

CASE NOTES

Rule Number Necessary. — The trial judge should decline to rule upon motions which did not contain the rule number under which the movant is proceeding. Lehrer v. Edgecombe Mfg. Co., 13 N.C. App. 412, 185 S.E.2d 727 (1972).

Except When Defense of Insufficiency of Service of Process Asserted in Responsive Pleading. — Although worded as a motion, the defense of insufficiency of service of process was asserted in defendant's responsive pleading; therefore, the rule requiring that a movant state the rule number under which he is proceeding was inapplicable, and failure of defendant to so state did not constitute waiver of his defense of invalid service of process. Williams v. Hartis, 18 N.C. App. 89, 195 S.E.2d 806 (1973).

A motion which did not comply with the first paragraph of this rule was not totally defective since the directive of this rule of practice has the salutary purpose of ensuring that the court and the parties are aware of the grounds upon which the movant is relying, the court's order in the case indicated that the judge was fully aware of the basis for the motion. Wood v. Wood, 297 N.C. 1, 252 S.E.2d 799 (1979).

In a child custody proceeding where the defendant filed a motion for modification of a child visitation order, the plaintiff was not prejudiced by failure of the defendant to state the number of the rule under which he was proceeding as required by this rule since the written motion fully informed the plaintiff of the relief he was seeking and his reasons therefor. Hamlin v. Hamlin, 302 N.C. 478, 276 S.E.2d 381 (1981).

Where there is an awareness by the trial judge of the grounds, the motion is adequately stated for the purposes of this rule. McGinnis v. Robinson, 43 N.C. App. 1, 258 S.E.2d 84 (1979).

Notice of Hearing. — Plaintiff's counsel was entitled to rely upon the Trial Court Administrator's final calendar in the absence of any further direction from the court; an order dismissing a case based on the injured person's failure to appear at a hearing on the motion to dismiss was reversed where the first notice of hearing indicated that the motion was to have been heard on a specific date, but a later final calendar received by the injured person's counsel from the Trial Court Administrator indicated that the motion to dismiss was scheduled for a different, later day. Rule 7. Pre-trial procedure (see Rule 16).

There shall be a pre-trial conference in every civil case, unless counsel for all parties stipulate in writing to the contrary and the court approves the stipulation. Upon its own motion or upon request of any party, the court may dispense with or limit the scope of the pre-trial conference or order.

In uncontested divorce, default, and magistrate cases and magistrate appeals, a pre-trial conference or order is not required.

A party who has not requested a pre-trial conference may not move for a continuance on the ground that it has not been held.

At least twenty-one days prior to trial date, the plaintiff's attorney shall arrange a pre-trial conference with the defendant's attorney to be held not later than seven days before trial date. At such conference a pre-trial order shall be prepared and signed by the attorneys.

If, after due diligence, plaintiff's attorney cannot arrange a conference with defendant's attorney, he may apply to the presiding judge or other judge holding court in the district (or district court judge with respect to district court cases) who shall make an appropriate order. The defense attorney may initiate pre-trial under the same rules applicable to plaintiff's attorney.

The pre-trial order shall be in substance as shown on the attached sample form.

Editor's note. — The form referred to in this rule is set out following Rule 26.

Rule 7.1. Appointment of guardian ad litem for minors.

When any person is charged with a crime wherein the victim is a minor, or a minor is a potential witness to such crime, the court may appoint an attorney, from a list of pro bono attorneys approved by the Chief District Court Judge, as guardian ad litem for such minor victim or witness. (Adopted July 26, 1990, effective October 1, 1990.)

Rule 8. Discovery.

Counsel are required to begin promptly such discovery proceedings as should be utilized in each case, and are authorized to begin even before the pleadings are completed. Counsel are not permitted to wait until the pre-trial conference is imminent to initiate discovery. (Amended May 16, 1988, effective July 1, 1988.)

Rule 9. Opening statements.

At any time before the presentation of evidence counsel for each party may make an opening statement setting forth the grounds for his claim or defense.

The parties may elect to waive opening statements.

Opening statements shall be subject to such time and scope limitations as may be imposed by the court.

CASE NOTES

This rule limits the purpose of the statement to that of setting forth the grounds of a claim or defense, which means stating the evidence upon which the claim or defense is based. State v. Paige, 316 N.C. 630, 343 S.E.2d 848 (1986).

Defendant May Not Make Opening Statement Personally. — The defendant, while retaining the services of his court-appointed counsel was not entitled to make an opening statement in propria persona. State v. House, 295 N.C. 189, 244 S.E.2d 654 (1978).

Limitations on Defendant's Opening Statement Not Reversible Error. — While the trial judge may have more strictly supervised defendant's opening statement than is done in most trials, the limitations he imposed did not sufficiently prejudice the defendant's case to require reversal of his conviction. State v. Paige, 316 N.C. 630, 343 S.E.2d 848 (1986).

Rule 10. Opening and concluding arguments.

In all cases, civil or criminal, if no evidence is introduced by the defendant, the right to open and close the argument to the jury shall belong to him. If a question arises as to whether the plaintiff or the defendant has the final argument to the jury, the court shall decide who is so entitled, and its decision shall be final.

In a criminal case, where there are multiple defendants, if any defendant introduces evidence the closing argument shall belong to the solicitor.

In a civil case, where there are multiple defendants, if any defendant introduces evidence, the closing argument shall belong to the plaintiff, unless the trial judge shall order otherwise.

CASE NOTES

Trial Judge Controls Sequence of Argument. — The time and sequence of argument of a case to the jury is controlled by the trial judge under the authority of this rule. State v. Andrews, 12 N.C. App. 421, 184 S.E.2d 69, appeal dismissed, 279 N.C. 727, 185 S.E.2d 704 (1971), cert. denied, 404 U.S. 1041, 92 S. Ct. 726, 30 L. Ed. 2d 734, 407 U.S. 922, 92 S. Ct. 2467, 32 L. Ed. 2d 807 (1972); State v. Parker, 66 N.C. App. 293, 311 S.E.2d 321 (1984).

And He May Rule at Close of Evidence. — The trial judge is not required to rule upon the sequence of the argument prior to the closing of the evidence. State v. Andrews, 12

The right to closing argument is a substantial legal right of which a defendant may not be deprived by the exercise of a judge's discretion. State v. Eury, 317 N.C. 511, 346 S.E.2d 447 (1986).

Where a defendant offers evidence at trial, the prosecution has a right to make the opening and closing argument to the jury. State v. Pickard, 107 N.C. App. 94, 418 S.E.2d 690 (1992).

Where the defendant in a capital case presented evidence, the State had the right to give the final closing argument pursuant to this rule. G.S. 84-14 did not give defendant the right to respond to the State's argument. State v. Gladden, 315 N.C. 398, 340 S.E.2d 673, cert. denied, 479 U.S. 871, 107 S. Ct. 241, 93 L. Ed. 2d 166 (1986).

Where defendant introduced evidence, the state had the right to the opening and closing arguments. State v. Battle, 322 N.C. 69, 366 S.E.2d 454, cert. denied, 487 U.S. 1220, 108 S. Ct. 2876, 101 L. Ed. 2d 911 (1988).

When, in a capital case, a defendant does not offer evidence and is entitled to both open and close the argument to the jury, his attorneys may each address the jury as many times as they desire during the closing phase of the argument. The only limit to this right is the provision of G.S. 84-14 allowing the trial judge to limit to three the number of counsel on each side who may address the jury. State v. Eury, 317 N.C. 511, 346 S.E.2d 447 (1986).

Where defendant in a capital case presented no evidence during the guilt-innocence phase of the trial, he was entitled to present both the opening and final arguments to the jury during the closing arguments for that phase. State v. Mitchell, 321 N.C. 650, 365 S.E.2d 554 (1988).

If in a non-capital case defendant elects to present evidence, he is entitled to open the argument to the jury before the prosecution argues, and two of his counsel may address the jury within the time limits prescribed by G.S. 84-14. State v. Eury, 317 N.C. 511, 346 S.E.2d 447 (1986).

If defendant in a non-capital case does not present evidence, he is entitled to both open and close the argument to the jury. In such case he may have one lawyer make the opening argument and one the closing, or he may waive one argument and have both lawyers address the jury during the remaining argument. State v. Eury, 317 N.C. 511, 346 S.E.2d 447 (1986).

Where defendant by stipulation waived her opening argument, failure of the trial judge to allow both of defendant's counsel to make the closing argument was prejudicial error on the non-capital as well as the capital charges against her. State v. Eury, 317 N.C. 511, 346 S.E.2d 447 (1986).

When there are several defendants and one of them elects to offer evidence, the right to open and conclude the arguments belongs to the State. State v. Taylor, 289 N.C. 223, 221 S.E.2d 359 (1976).

Defendant's contention that consolidation of cases resulted in prejudicial error to him because he was deprived of his right to open and close the jury arguments when his codefendant elected to testify is without merit. State v. Taylor, 289 N.C. 223, 221 S.E.2d 359 (1976).

The trial court properly allowed the State to close the argument where defendant called a witness and examined him but did not glean helpful information from the witness because the witness refused to incriminate himself. State v. Curtis, 18 N.C. App. 116, 196 S.E.2d 278 (1973).

Proper test as to whether an object has been put in evidence is whether a party has offered it as substantive evidence or so that the jury may examine it and determine whether it illustrates, corroborates, or impeaches the testimony of a witness. If the party shows it to a witness to refresh his recollection, it has not been offered into evidence. State v. Hall, 57 N.C. App. 561, 291 S.E.2d 812 (1982).

The trial court did not err by granting defendant the right to open and close the final jury arguments where defendant offered no evidence of his own, but was called to testify by plaintiff as an adverse witness. Hord v. Atkinson, 68 N.C. App. 346, 315 S.E.2d 339 (1984).

Loss of Right to Open or Close. — Where defendant offered the photograph into evidence because the witness said it would help him illustrate his testimony, the photograph was then shown to the jury while the witness answered questions posed by defendant and defendant used the photograph to impeach the witness, defendant lost his right to open and close jury argument. State v. Skipper, 337 N.C. 1, 446 S.E.2d 252 (1994), cert. denied, 513 U.S. 1134, 115 S. Ct. 953, 130 L. Ed. 2d 895 (1995), cert. dismissed, 342 N.C. 417, 465 S.E.2d 547 (1995).

Closing Argument Improperly Denied. — Where defendant in embezzlement case did not introduce any evidence within the meaning of this rule, she was improperly deprived of her right to the closing argument to the jury and entitled to a new trial. State v. Shuler, 135 N.C. App. 449, 520 S.E.2d 585, 1999 N.C. App. LEXIS 1144 (1999).

Applied in State v. Brown, 13 N.C. App. 261, 185 S.E.2d 471 (1971); State v. McCaskill, 47 N.C. App. 289, 267 S.E.2d 331 (1980); State v. Watts, 77 N.C. App. 124, 334 S.E.2d 400 (1985);

Rule 11. Examination of witnesses.

When several counsel are employed by the same party, the examination or cross-examination of each witness for such party shall be conducted by one counsel, but the counsel may change with each successive witness or, with leave of the court, in a prolonged examination of a single witness.

CASE NOTES

Discretion of Trial Judge as to Change of Counsel. — This rule clearly leaves it to the discretion of the trial court to permit a change of counsel if a lengthy examination is imminent. State v. Houston, 19 N.C. App. 542, 199 S.E.2d 668, cert. denied, 284 N.C. 426, 200 S.E.2d 662 (1973).

Rule 12. Courtroom decorum.

Except for some unusual reason connected with the business of the court, attorneys will not be sent for when their cases are called in their regular order.

Counsel are at all times to conduct themselves with dignity and propriety. All statements and communications to the court other than objections and exceptions shall be clearly and audibly made from a standing position behind the counsel table. Counsel shall not approach the bench except upon the permission or request of the court.

The examination of witnesses and jurors shall be conducted from a sitting position behind the counsel table except as otherwise permitted by the court [see S. vs. Bass, 5 N.C. App. 431 (1969)]. Counsel shall not approach the witness except for the purpose of presenting, inquiring about, or examining the witness with respect to an exhibit, document, or diagram.

Any directions or instructions to the court reporter are to be made in open court by the presiding judge only, and not by an attorney.

Business attire shall be appropriate dress for counsel while in the courtroom.

All personalities between counsel should be avoided. The personal history or peculiarities of counsel on the opposing side should not be alluded to. Colloquies between counsel should be avoided.

Adverse witnesses and suitors should be treated with fairness and due consideration. Abusive language or offensive personal references are prohibited.

The conduct of the lawyers before the court and with other lawyers should be characterized by candor and fairness. Counsel shall not knowingly misinterpret the contents of a paper, the testimony of a witness, the language or argument of opposite counsel or the language of a decision or other authority; nor shall he offer evidence which he knows to be inadmissible. In an argument addressed to the court, remarks or statements should not be interjected to influence the jury or spectators. (See Rule 22, Canons of Ethics and Rules of Professional Conduct, N.C. State Bar, G.S. 4A p. 273.)

Suggestions of counsel looking to the comfort or convenience of jurors should be made to the court out of the jury's hearing. Before, and during trial, a lawyer should attempt to avoid communicating with jurors, even as to matters foreign to the cause.

Counsel should yield gracefully to rulings of the court and avoid detrimental remarks both in court and out. He should at all times promote respect for the court. (See Rule 1, Canons of Ethics and Rules of Professional Conduct, N.C. State Bar, G.S. 4A p. 269.)

CASE NOTES

Prosecutor's Closing Argument Did Not Violate Due Process. — While the defendant contended that the prosecutor improperly referred to matters outside the record, appealed to the jury's passion and prejudice, inserted his personal opinion into the argument, and engaged in name-calling and other improper theatrics, the defendant failed to carry the burden of establishing that any impropriety due to the prosecutor's statements and physical conduct during closing argument resulted in prejudice to the defendant such that the defendant's conviction was a denial of due process. Rule 13. Presence of counsel during jury deliberation.

The right to be present during the trial of civil cases shall be deemed to be waived by a party or his counsel by voluntary absence from the courtroom at a time when it is known that proceedings are being conducted, or are about to be conducted. In such event the proceedings, including the giving of additional instructions to the jury after they have once retired, or receiving the verdict, may go forward without waiting for the arrival or return of counsel or a party.

After the jury has retired to deliberate upon a verdict in a criminal case, at least one attorney representing the defendant shall remain in the immediate area of the courtroom so as to be available at all times during the deliberation of the jury and when the verdict is received.

Rule 14. Custody and disposition of evidence at trial.

Once any item of evidence has been introduced, the clerk (not the court reporter) is the official custodian thereof and is responsible for its safekeeping and availability for use as needed at all adjourned sessions of the court and for appeal.

After being marked for identification, all exhibits offered or admitted in evidence in any cause shall be placed in the custody of the clerk, unless otherwise ordered by the court.

Whenever any models, diagrams, exhibits, or materials have been offered into evidence and received by the clerk, they shall be removed by the party offering them, except as otherwise directed by the court, within 30 days after final judgment in the trial court if no appeal is taken; if the case is appealed, within 60 days after certification of a final decision from the appellate division. At the time of removal a detailed receipt shall be given to the clerk and filed in the case file.

If the party offering an exhibit which has been placed in the custody of the clerk fails to remove such article as provided herein, the clerk shall write the attorney of record (or the party offering the evidence if he has no counsel) calling attention to the provisions of this rule. If the articles are not removed within 30 days after the mailing of such notice, they may be disposed of by the clerk.

Rule 15. Electronic media and still photography coverage of public judicial proceedings.

The terms "electronic media coverage" and "electronic coverage" are used in the generic sense to include coverage by television, motion picture and still photography cameras, broadcast microphones and recorders.

(b) Coverage allowed.

Electronic media and still photography coverage of public judicial proceedings shall be allowed in the appellate and trial courts of this state, subject to the conditions below.

(1) The presiding justice or judge shall at all times have authority to prohibit or terminate electronic media and still photography coverage of public judicial proceedings, in the courtroom or the corridors immediately adjacent thereto.

(2) Coverage of the following types of judicial proceedings is expressly prohibited: adoption proceedings, juvenile proceedings, proceedings held before clerks of court, proceedings held before magistrates, probable cause proceedings, child custody proceedings, divorce proceedings, temporary and permanent alimony proceedings, proceedings for the hearing of motions to suppress evidence, proceedings involving trade secrets, and in camera proceedings.

(3) Coverage of the following categories of witnesses is expressly prohibited: police informants, minors, undercover agents, relocated witnesses, and victims and families of victims of sex crimes.

(4) Coverage of jurors is prohibited expressly at any stage of a judicial proceeding, including that portion of a proceeding during which a jury is selected. The trial judge shall inform all potential jurors at the beginning of the jury selection process of the restrictions of this particular provision which is designated (b)(4).

(c) Location of equipment and personnel.

(1) The location of equipment and personnel necessary for electronic media and still photographic coverage of trial proceedings shall be at a place either inside or outside the courtroom in such a manner that equipment and personnel are completely obscured from view from within the courtroom and not heard by anyone inside the courtroom.

(i) If located within the courtroom, this area must be set apart by a booth or other partitioning device constructed therein at the expense of the media. Such construction must be in harmony with the general architectural style and decor of the courtroom and must meet the approval of the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge and the governing body of the county or municipality that owns the facility.

(ii) If located outside the courtroom, any booth or other partitioning device must be built so that passage to and from the courtroom will not be obstructed. This arrangement must meet the approval of the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge and the governing body of the county or municipality that owns the facility.

(2) Appropriate openings to allow photographic coverage of the proceedings under these rules may be made in the booth or partitioning device, provided that no one in the courtroom will see or hear any photographic or audio equipment or the personnel operating such equipment. Those in the courtroom are not to know when or if any such equipment is in operation.

(3) The presiding judge may, however, exercise his or her discretion to permit the use of electronic media and still photography coverage without booths or other restrictions set out in Rule 15(c)(1) and (c)(2) if the use can be made without disruption of the proceedings and without distraction to the jurors and other participants. Such permission may be withdrawn at any time.

(4) Video tape recording equipment which is not a component part of a television camera shall be located in an area remote from the courtroom.

(5) Media personnel shall not exit or enter the booth area or courtroom once the proceedings are in session except during a court recess or adjournment.

(6) Electronic media equipment and still photography equipment shall not be taken into the courtroom or removed from the designated media area except at the following times:

(i) prior to the convening of proceedings;

(ii) during the luncheon recess;

(iii) during any court recess with the permission of the presiding justice or judge; and

(iv) after adjournment for the day of the proceedings.

(7) The Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and the Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, may waive the requirements of Rule 15(c)(1) and (2) with respect to judicial proceedings in the Supreme Court and in the Court of Appeals, respectively.

(1) This Court hereby designates the North Carolina Association of Broadcasters, the Radio and Television News Directors Association of the Carolinas, and the North Carolina Press Association, as the official representatives of the news media. The governing boards of these associations shall designate one person to represent the television media, one person to represent the radio broadcasters, and one person to represent still photographers in each county in which electronic media and still photographic coverage is desired. The names of the persons so designated shall be forwarded to the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge, the Director of the Administrative Office of the Courts, and the county manager or other official responsible for administrative matters in the county or municipality in which coverage is desired. Thereafter these persons shall conduct all negotiations with the appropriate officials concerning the construction of the booths or partitioning devices referred to above. Such persons shall also be the only persons authorized to speak for the media to the presiding judge concerning the coverage of any judicial proceedings.

(2) It is the express intent and purpose of this rule to preclude judges and other officials from having to "negotiate" with various representatives of the news media. Since these rules require pooling of equipment and personnel, cooperation by the media is of the essence and the designation of three media representatives is expressly intended to prevent presiding judges from having to engage in discussion with others from the media.

(e) Equipment and personnel.

(1) Not more than two television cameras shall be permitted in any trial or appellate court proceedings.

(2) Not more than one still photographer, utilizing not more than two still cameras with not more than two lenses for each camera and related equipment for print purposes, shall be permitted in any proceeding in a trial or appellate court.

(3) Not more than one wired audio system for radio broadcast purposes shall be permitted in any proceeding in a trial or appellate court. Audio pickup for all media purposes shall be accomplished with existing audio systems present in the court facility. If no technically suitable audio system exists in the court facility, microphones and related wiring essential for media purposes may be installed and maintained at media expense. The microphones and wiring must be unobtrusive and shall be located in places designated in advance of any proceeding by the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge of the judicial district in which the court facility is located. Such modifications or additions must be approved by the governing body of the county or municipality which owns the facility. Provided, however, hand-held audio tape recorders may be used upon prior notification to, and with the approval of, the presiding judge; such approval may be withdrawn at any time.

(4) Any "pooling" arrangements among the media required by these limitations on equipment and personnel shall be the sole responsibility of the media without calling upon the presiding judge to mediate any dispute as to the appropriate media representative or equipment authorized to cover a particular proceeding. In the absence of advance media agreement on disputed equipment or personnel issues, the presiding judge shall exclude all contesting media personnel from a proceeding.

(5) In no event shall the number of personnel in the designated area exceed the number necessary to operate the designated equipment or which can comfortably be secluded in the restricted area.

(f) Sound and light criteria.

(1) Only television photographic and audio equipment which does not produce distracting sound or light shall be employed to cover judicial proceedings. No artificial lighting device of any kind shall be employed in connection with the television camera.

(2) Only still camera equipment which does not produce distracting sound or light shall be employed to cover judicial proceedings. No artificial lighting device of any kind shall be employed in connection with a still camera.

(g) Courtroom light sources.

With the concurrence of the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge of the judicial district in which a court facility is situated, modifications and additions may be made in light sources existing in the facility, provided such modifications or additions are installed and maintained without public expense and provided such modifications or additions are approved by the governing body of the county or municipality which owns the facility.

(h) Conferences of counsel.

To protect the attorney-client privilege and the right to counsel, there shall be no audio pickup or broadcast of conferences which occur in a court facility between attorneys and their clients, between co-counsel of a client, between adverse counsel, or between counsel and the presiding judge held at the bench.

(i) Impermissible use of media material.

None of the film, video tape, still photographs or audio reproductions developed during or by virtue of coverage of a judicial proceeding shall be admissible as evidence in the proceeding out of which it arose, any proceeding subsequent and collateral thereto, or upon any retrial or appeal of such proceedings. (Amended June 13, 1990.)

Rule 16. Withdrawal of appearance.

No attorney who has entered an appearance in any civil action shall withdraw his appearance, or have it stricken from the record, except on order of the court. Once a client has employed an attorney who has entered a formal appearance, the attorney may not withdraw or abandon the case without (1) justifiable cause, (2) reasonable notice to the client, and (3) the permission of the court. (See Smith vs. Bryant, 264 N.C. 208. See also Rule 43 of Rules of the N.C. State Bar, Volume 4(a) of General Statutes of North Carolina, page 278, entitled "Withdrawal from employment as attorney or counsel.")

CASE NOTES

This rule is expressly based on Smith v. Bryant, 264 N.C. 208, 141 S.E.2d 303 (1965). Underwood v. Williams, 69 N.C. App. 171, 316 S.E.2d 342 (1984).

Attorney-Client Relationship Dissolved at Any Time. — As between the attorney and his client, the relationship may, in good faith, be dissolved at any time. High Point Bank & Trust Co. v. Morgan-Schultheiss, Inc., 33 N.C. App. 406, 235 S.E.2d 693, cert. denied, 293 N.C. 258, 237 S.E.2d 535 (1977), 439 U.S. 958, 99 S. Ct. 360, 58 L. Ed. 2d 350 (1978).

But Withdrawal from Litigation Must Be Justified. — The attorney may not be released from litigation in which he appears for the client without first satisfying the court that his withdrawal therefrom is justified, and whether he is justified will depend on the circumstances of that particular situation. High Point Bank & Trust Co. v. Morgan-Schultheiss, Inc., 33 N.C. App. 406, 235 S.E.2d 693, cert. denied, 293 N.C. 258, 237 S.E.2d 535 (1977), 439 U.S. 958, 99 S. Ct. 360, 58 L. Ed. 2d 350 (1978).

Notice Required. — Where plaintiff's counsel had entered a formal appearance, he was obligated to provide plaintiff with reasonable notice of his intention to withdraw, and where the record failed to show any such facts, on the record plaintiff was entitled to reversal of the summary judgment entered against him immediately upon the withdrawal of his attorney despite plaintiff's request for an opportunity to obtain new counsel. Underwood v. Williams, 69 N.C. App. 171, 316 S.E.2d 342 (1984).

No more than adequate or reasonable notice is required for an attorney to withdraw as attorney of record. Hensgen v. Hensgen, 53 N.C. App. 331, 280 S.E.2d 766 (1981).

Where attorney provided reasonable notice to his client by filing a motion to withdraw some five months prior to trial, which motion the defendant received, and filed with the superior court and sent to the defendant notice of the hearing to determine the motion to withdraw about three weeks prior to the hearing, and where the trial court granted attorney's motion for withdrawal and ordered said withdrawal, attorney completely complied with the requirements of this rule in withdrawing from representation of defendant. Benton v. Mintz, 97 N.C. App. 583, 389 S.E.2d 410 (1990).

Where the defendant told his attorney that he did not require his services any longer, there was just cause for the attorney's withdrawal within the meaning of this rule. County of Wayne ex rel. Scanes v. Jones, 79 N.C. App. 474, 339 S.E.2d 435 (1986).

The defendant received reasonable notice of his attorney's withdrawal within the meaning of this rule, as evidenced by the defendant's statement in court that he did not want a lawyer. County of Wayne ex rel. Scanes v. Jones, 79 N.C. App. 474, 339 S.E.2d 435 (1986).

Trial court did not abuse its discretion in allowing attorney to withdraw as counsel on the day of trial; the dissolution of the attorney/client relationship, as well as the defendant's reputed unwillingness to pay surveyors hired pursuant to litigation preparation, constituted justifiable cause for attorney's withdrawal. Benton v. Mintz, 97 N.C. App. 583, 389 S.E.2d 410 (1990).

Rule 17. Entries on records.

No entry shall be made on the records of the Superior or District Court by any person except the clerk, his regular deputy, a person specifically directed by the presiding judge, or the judge himself.

CASE NOTES

Entry of Magistrate's Judgment. — Entry of the magistrate's judgment for purposes of G.S. 1A-1, Rule 58 was not less automatic simply because the magistrate himself (rather than a clerk) noted the judgment in the court minutes. Provident Fin. Co. v. Locklear, 89 N.C. App. 535, 366 S.E.2d 599 (1988).

Rule 18. Custody of appellate reports.

The clerks of the Superior Court shall be officially responsible for the care and preservation of the volumes of the Appellate Division Reports furnished by the State pursuant to G.S. 147-45, and for the General Statutes of North Carolina furnished by the Administrative Office of the Courts under G.S. 7A-300(9).

Each clerk of the Superior Court shall report to the presiding judge of the Superior Court at the first session of court held in January and July each year what volumes, if any, of said reports are missing or have been lost since the last report to the end that the judge may enter an appropriate order for replacement of same pursuant to G.S. 147-51.

Rule 19. Recordari; supersedeas; certiorari.

The Superior Court shall grant the writ of recordari only upon petition specifying the grounds of the application. The petition shall be verified and the writ may be granted with or without notice. When notice is given the petition shall be heard upon answer thereto duly verified, and upon the affidavits and other evidence offered by the parties. The decision thereupon shall be final, subject to appeal as in other cases. If the petition is granted without notice, the petitioner shall give an undertaking for costs and for the writ of supersedeas, if prayed for. In such case the writ of recordari shall be made returnable to the session of the Superior Court of the county in which the judgment or proceeding complained of was granted, and ten days' written notice shall be given to the adverse party before the session of the court to which the writ is returnable. At that session the respondent may move to dismiss, or may answer the writ, and the answer shall be verified. After hearing the application upon the petition, answer, affidavits, and evidence offered, the court shall dismiss it or order it placed on the trial docket.

In proper cases and in like manner, the court may grant the writ of certiorari. When a diminution of the record is suggested and the record is manifestly imperfect, the court may grant the writ upon motion in the cause.

CASE NOTES

Comparison to Power of Court of Appeals to Issue Writ Under G.S. 7A-32. — The authority of a superior court to grant a writ of certiorari pursuant to this rule in appropriate cases is analogous to the power of the Court of Appeals to issue a writ of certiorari pursuant to G.S. 7A-32(c). State v. Hamrick, 110 N.C. App. 60, 428 S.E.2d 830 (1993), appeal dismissed, cert. denied, 334 N.C. 436, 433 S.E.2d 181 (1993).

Rule 20. Sureties.

No member of the bar, in any case, suit, action or proceeding in which he appears as counsel, and no employee of the General Court of Justice, employee of the Sheriff's Department, or other law enforcement officer, shall act as a surety in any suit, action or proceeding pending in any division of the General Court of Justice.

Rule 21. Jury instruction conference.

At the close of the evidence (or at such earlier time as the judge may reasonably direct) in every jury trial, civil and criminal, in the superior and district courts, the trial judge shall conduct a conference on instructions with the attorneys of record (or party, if not represented by counsel). Such conference shall be out of the presence of the jury, and shall be held for the purpose of discussing the proposed instructions to be given to the jury. An opportunity must be given to the attorneys (or party if not represented by counsel) to request any additional instructions or to object to any of those instructions proposed by the judge. Such requests, objections and the rulings of the court thereon shall be placed in the record. If special instructions are desired, they should be submitted in writing to the trial judge at or before the jury instruction conference.[1]

At the conclusion of the charge and before the jury begins its deliberations, and out of the hearing, or upon request, out of the presence of the jury, counsel shall be given the opportunity to object on the record to any portion of the charge, or omission therefrom, stating distinctly that to which he objects and the grounds of his objection.

The court may recall the jury after they have retired and give them additional instructions in order: (i) to correct or withdraw an erroneous instruction; or (ii) to inform the jury on a point of law which should have been covered in the original instructions. The provisions of the first two paragraphs of this Rule 21 also apply to the giving of all additional instructions, except that the court in its discretion shall decide whether additional argument will be permitted. (Added September 15, 1981.)

CASE NOTES

N.C.R.A.P., Rule 10(b)(2) and this rule were designed to prevent unnecessary new trials caused by errors in instructions that the court could have corrected if brought to its attention at the proper time. This policy is met when a request to alter an instruction has been submitted and the trial judge has considered and refused the request. In most instances, it is obvious that further objection at the close of the instructions would be unavailing. Wall v. Stout, 310 N.C. 184, 311 S.E.2d 571 (1984).

Conference Need Not Be Recorded. — The rule does not require that the conference be on the record. State v. Thompson, 59 N.C. App. 425, 297 S.E.2d 177 (1982), appeal dismissed and cert. denied, 307 N.C. 582, 299 S.E.2d 650 (1983).

This rule does not require that the instruction conference be recorded or that the judge's proposed charge be reduced to writing and submitted to counsel. By the very wording of the rule itself, it is clear that the instruction conference contemplated by this rule shall be held "for the purpose of discussing the proposed instructions" and providing an opportunity for counsel to object to any of the instructions proposed by the judge or to request additional instructions. State v. Fennell, 307 N.C. 258, 297 S.E.2d 393 (1982).

Conference Not Recorded Absent Request. — Where either party to the trial desires a recorded instruction conference, G.S. 15A-1231(b) requires that party to make such a request to the trial judge. Absent such a request, G.S. 15A-1231(b) is silent and this rule supplements the statute (pursuant to G.S. 7A-34) by requiring the trial court to hold an unrecorded conference. State v. Bennett, 308 N.C. 530, 302 S.E.2d 786 (1983); State v. Nealy, 64 N.C. App. 663, 308 S.E.2d 343 (1983), cert. denied, 310 N.C. 155, 311 S.E.2d 295 (1984).

G.S. 15A-1231 and this rule require the trial court to hold an unrecorded conference in every case and a recorded conference when requested by either party. State v. Clark, 71 N.C. App. 55, 322 S.E.2d 176 (1984), overruled on other grounds, State v. Moore, 327 N.C. 378, 395 S.E.2d 124 (1990).

[1] In criminal cases, the provisions of G.S. 15A-1231 are also applicable.

No Conflict with G.S. 15A-1231(b). — Since this rule requires a conference without regard to whether it is requested by a party and G.S. 15A-1231(b) requires a recorded conference only at the request of either party, there is no conflict between the two provisions. Both may be given full effect. State v. Bennett, 308 N.C. 530, 302 S.E.2d 786 (1983).

Failure to Request Conference. — Where defendant did not request an instruction conference, he cannot assert as error the trial court's failure to conduct one. State v. Morris, 60 N.C. App. 750, 300 S.E.2d 46 (1983).

Subsection (b) of G.S. 15A-1231 clearly contemplates that a defendant is required to request an instruction conference as a prerequisite for assigning error to the trial court's failure to conduct one. Pursuant to the provisions of G.S. 7A-34, the provision of this rule which requires the trial judge to conduct a jury instruction conference conflicts with subsection (b) of G.S. 15A-1231 and must give way to the provisions of the statute. State v. Morris, 60 N.C. App. 750, 300 S.E.2d 46 (1983).

Failure to make contemporaneous objection to the jury charge prevents the court from recalling the jury to correct allegedly prejudicial errors; such failure constitutes a waiver of the right to challenge the instructions on appeal. Lee v. Keck, 68 N.C. App. 320, 315 S.E.2d 323, cert. denied, 311 N.C. 401, 319 S.E.2d 271 (1984).

Failure to Request Further Jury Instructions. — Where trial court submitted two mitigating circumstances instructions (one for mental or emotional disturbance and one for inability to conform conduct to law), at the defendant's request, and defendant failed to request further instructions concerning his organic brain damage, he failed to preserve an objection for review. State v. McNeil, 350 N.C. 657, 518 S.E.2d 486, 1999 N.C. LEXIS 880 (1999), cert. denied, 529 U.S. 1024, 120 S. Ct. 1432, 146 L. Ed. 2d 321 (2000).

Where record is silent as to whether a jury instruction conference was held, the defendant must hold himself accountable. State v. Nealy, 64 N.C. App. 663, 308 S.E.2d 343 (1983), cert. denied, 310 N.C. 155, 311 S.E.2d 295 (1984).

Where no instruction conference is held, the defendant should seek a stipulation from the State pursuant to N.C.R.A.P., Rule 11(a) acknowledging the trial court's failure in this regard. Where the State refuses to agree to the stipulation, and objects to such a notation in the record, the defendant should request that trial judge settle the record on appeal pursuant to N.C.R.A.P., Rule 11(c). Where the record is silent, it will be presumed that the trial court acted correctly. State v. Nealy, 64 N.C. App. 663, 308 S.E.2d 343 (1983), cert. denied, 310 N.C. 155, 311 S.E.2d 295 (1984).

Where defense counsel submitted a written request for particular instructions prior to the jury arguments, which the court denied, defendant was not required by either N.C.R.A.P., Rule 10(b)(2) or this rule to repeat his objection to the jury instructions in order to properly preserve his exception for appellate review. State v. Smith, 311 N.C. 287, 316 S.E.2d 73 (1984).

Applied in Radford v. Norris, 63 N.C. App. 501, 305 S.E.2d 64 (1983); Harris v. Scotland Neck Rescue Squad, Inc., 75 N.C. App. 444, 331 S.E.2d 695 (1985); State v. Richardson, 328 N.C. 505, 402 S.E.2d 401 (1991).

Rule 22. Local court rules.

In order to insure general uniformity throughout each respective judicial district, all trial judges shall observe and enforce the local rules in effect in any judicial district where they are assigned to hold court. The senior resident judge shall see that each judge assigned to hold a session of court in his district is furnished with a copy of the local court rules at or before the commencement of his assignment. (Added September 21, 1981.)

Rule 23. Summary jury trial.

The senior resident superior court judge of any superior court district or a presiding judge unless prohibited by local rule may upon joint motion or consent of all parties order the use of a summary jury upon good cause shown and upon such terms and conditions as justice may require. The order shall describe the terms and conditions proposed for the summary jury proceeding. Such terms and conditions may include: (1) a provision as to the binding or non-binding nature of the summary jury proceeding; (2) variations in the method for selecting jurors; (3) limitations on the amount of time provided for argument and the presentation of witnesses; (4) limitations on the method or manner of presentation of evidence; (5) appointment of a referee to preside over the summary jury trial; (6) setting the date for conducting the summary jury trial; (7) approval of a settlement agreement contingent upon the outcome of the summary jury proceeding; or (8) such other matters as would in the opinion of the court contribute to the fair and efficient resolution of the dispute. The court shall maintain jurisdiction over the case, and may, where appropriate, rule on pending motions. (Added August 14, 1991.)

COMMENT

The summary jury trial is a dispute resolution technique pioneered in the federal courts in the early 1980s. Pursuant to reports of its success as a settlement tool, the North Carolina Supreme Court in 1987 authorized the use of summary jury trials in three judicial districts on an experimental basis. Since that time, a number of summary jury trials have been conducted.

In May, 1991, a report prepared by the Private Adjudication Center detailed the North Carolina state courts' experience with the summary jury trial. That report noted that a number of variations in the summary jury trial process had been used successfully. The report concluded with a number of recommendations subsequently endorsed by the Dispute Resolution Committee of the North Carolina Bar Association. One of the recommendations was that the North Carolina Supreme Court adopt a General Rule of Practice authorizing the use of summary jury trials throughout the state.

Pursuant to that recommendation, this General Rule provides for the use of summary jury trials based upon the voluntary agreement of the parties, manifested by way of a joint motion to the court. The rule further provides that the authority to approve the request lies with the senior resident superior court judge for the county or judicial district in which the action is pending (or a presiding judge unless prohibited by local rule). The request shall be approved if the court finds that it is in the interest of justice for good cause shown. In this context, good cause relates to a judicial determination that the use of a summary jury trial represents a fair and efficient method for pursuing settlement of the dispute.

The Rule does not authorize a court to mandate the use of a summary jury trial. Nothing in the rule, however, prohibits a judge or other court administrator from raising the possibility of using a summary jury trial with the parties during a pre-trial conference or other event and explaining the possible benefits of the process.

The summary jury trials conducted to date in North Carolina have employed a number of innovative techniques. These variations, many of which are detailed in the above-referenced report, have ranged from variations on the methods used to select a jury to limitations on the manner in which evidence is presented. In other cases, the parties have requested that the court appoint a referee to preside over the summary jury proceeding. In addition, the parties in several summary jury trials have agreed that the results would be binding, sometimes pursuant to a "high/low agreement" that limits both parties' risk of an aberrant result. The Rule specifically provides that the court has the power to authorize these practices in appropriate cases.

Rule 23.1. Summary procedure for significant commercial disputes.

(a) The senior resident superior court judge of any superior court district, or a presiding judge unless prohibited by local rule may, upon joint motion or consent of all parties, order Summary Procedures For A Significant Commercial Dispute ("Summary Procedures") in any case within the subject matter jurisdiction of the superior court that does not include a claim for personal, physical or mental injury where: (1) the amount in controversy exceeds $500,000; (2) at least one party is a North Carolina citizen, corporation or business entity (or a subsidiary of such corporation or business entity) or has its principal place of business in North Carolina; and (3) all parties agree to forego any claim of punitive damages and waive the right to a jury trial. The joint motion or consent for summary procedures must be filed with the court on or before the time the answer or other responsive pleading is due.

(b) To the extent they are not inconsistent with these Rules, the North Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure shall apply to Summary Proceedings.

(c) Summary Proceedings are commenced by filing with the court and serving a complaint.

(d) The complaint and any accompanying documents shall be sent, via next-day delivery, to either a person identified in the agreement between the, parties to receive notice of Summary Proceedings or, absent such specification, to each defendant's principal place of business or residence.

(e) The complaint must state prominently on the first page that Summary Proceedings are requested. The complaint also must contain a statement of the amount in controversy exclusive of interest and costs, a statement that one of the parties is a North Carolina citizen, corporation or other business entity, or a subsidiary of such corporation or business entity, or that such citizen, corporation or business entity has its principal place of business in North Carolina, and a statement that the defendant has agreed to submit to the court's jurisdiction for Summary Proceedings.

(f) Any action pending in any other jurisdiction which could have been brought initially as a Summary Proceeding in this state may, subject to the procedures of the court of the other jurisdiction, be transferred to the superior courts of this state and converted to a Summary Proceeding. Any pending action in this state may be converted to a Summary Proceeding subject to the provisions of this Rule 23.1. Within 15 days of transfer or conversion, the court shall hold a conference at which time a schedule for the remainder of the action shall be established that will conform as closely as feasible to these Rules. Unless cause not to do so is shown, the record from any prior proceedings shall be incorporated into the record of the Summary Proceedings.

(g) A defendant shall serve an answer together with any compulsory counterclaims within thirty days after service of the complaint.

(h) A plaintiff shall serve a reply to any counterclaim within twenty days after service of the counterclaim. Any answer or reply to a counterclaim shall be accompanied by a list of persons consulted, or relied upon, in connection with preparation of the answer or reply. Crossclaims, permissive counterclaims and third-party claims are not permitted absent agreement of all parties. Crossclaims, counterclaims and third-party claims, if any, are subject to the provisions of this Rule 23.1.

(i) A party may, in lieu of an answer, respond to a complaint or counterclaim by moving to dismiss. A motion to dismiss and accompanying brief must be served within thirty days after service of the complaint upon the defendant. A motion to dismiss a counterclaim and accompanying brief must be served within twenty days after service of the counterclaim. An answering brief in opposition to a motion to dismiss is due within fifteen days after service of the motion and accompanying brief. A reply brief in support of the motion to dismiss is due within ten days after service of the answering brief. The opening and answering briefs shall be limited to twenty-five pages, and the reply brief shall be limited to ten pages. Within thirty days after the filing of the final reply brief on all motions to dismiss, if no oral argument occurs, or within thirty days of oral argument if oral argument occurs, the court will either render to the parties its decision on such motions or will provide to the parties an estimate of when such decision will be rendered. Such additional time shall not normally exceed an additional thirty days. If a motion to dismiss a claim is denied, an answer to that claim shall be filed within ten days of such denial.

(j) Within seven days of filing of the answer, a plaintiff shall serve upon the answering defendant a copy of each document in the possession of plaintiff that plaintiff intends to rely upon at trial, a list of witnesses that plaintiff intends to call at trial and a list of all persons consulted or relied upon in connection with preparation of the complaint. Within thirty days of the filing of the answer, the answering defendant shall provide to all other parties a list of witnesses it intends to call at trial and all documents in its possession that it intends to rely upon at trial. A plaintiff against whom a counterclaim has been asserted shall serve upon the defendant asserting the counterclaim, within thirty days after such plaintiff receives from the defendant asserting the counterclaim the materials referred to in the preceding sentence, a list of witnesses it intends to call at trial in opposition to the counterclaim, all documents in its possession that it intends to rely upon at trial in opposition to the counterclaim and all persons consulted or relied upon in connection with preparation of the reply to the counterclaim.

(k) Any party may serve upon any other party up to ten written interrogatories (with any sub-part to be counted as a separate interrogatory) within thirty days after the filing of the last answer. Responses are due within twenty days after service of the interrogatories.

(l) Any party may serve on any other party a request to produce and permit the party making the request, or someone acting on his behalf, to inspect and copy any designated documents, said request to be served within thirty days after filing of the last answer. The response to a document request is due within thirty days after service of the document request and must include production of the documents at that time for inspection and copying.

(m) Any party may serve on any other party a notice of up to four depositions to begin no sooner than seven days from service of the deposition notice and subsequent to the filing of all answers. A party may also take the deposition of any person on the other party's witness list, as well as the deposition of all affiants designated under Section (s) of this Rule. The first deposition notice by a party shall be served not later than sixty days after the filing of the last answer. All depositions to be taken by a party are to be scheduled and completed within 120 days of the filing of the last answer.

(n) Any party may serve upon any other party up to ten requests for admission (with any sub-part to be counted as a separate request for admission) within thirty days of the filing of the last answer. Responses are due within twenty days after service.

(o) Parties are obligated to supplement promptly their witness list, the documents they intend to rely upon at trial and their discovery responses under this Rule.

(p) Discovery disputes, at the court's option, may be addressed by a referee at the expense of the parties or by the court.

(q) Unless otherwise ordered by the court, all discovery, except for discovery contemplated by Section (s) of this Rule, shall be completed within 180 days after the filing of the last answer.

(r) There shall be no motions for summary judgment in Summary Proceedings.

(s) If the parties notify the court within seven days after the close of discovery that the parties have agreed to forego witnesses at the trial of the case, the parties may submit briefs and appendices in support of their cause as follows:

(1) Plaintiff's Brief — thirty days following close of discovery;

(2) Defendant's Answering Brief — within thirty days after service of plaintiff's brief; and

(3) Plaintiff's Reply Brief — within fifteen days of service after Defendant's Answering Brief.

(t) The briefs must cite to the applicable portions of the record. Affidavits may be used but all affiants must be identified prior to the close of discovery and must, at the option of any other party, be produced for deposition within two weeks from the date discovery would otherwise close. The court shall make factual findings based upon the record presented by the parties.

(u) If the parties elect to forego witnesses at trial and submit briefs pursuant to Section (s) of this Rule, trial shall consist of oral argument, or submission on briefs if oral argument is waived by the parties with the consent of the court, to be scheduled and held by the court within one week of the close of briefing pursuant to Section (s).

(v) If the parties elect to present live witnesses at trial, the trial shall be scheduled to begin between thirty and sixty days after the close of discovery. Within thirty days after the close of discovery, the parties shall provide the court with an agreed upon pre-trial order. The pre-trial order shall include a summary of the claims or defenses of each party, a list of the witnesses each party expects to introduce at trial, a description of any evidentiary disputes, a statement of facts not in dispute and a statement of disputed issues of fact. Absent contrary court order, the trial shall be limited to five days, which shall be allocated equitably between the parties. Within ten days of the close of trial, each party shall file a post-trial brief including proposed findings of fact and conclusions of law. Each brief shall not exceed fifty pages.

(w) Within thirty days after the filing of the final brief, if no oral argument occurs, or within thirty days of argument if oral argument occurs, the court will either render to the parties its decision after trial or will provide the parties an estimate of when the decision will be rendered. Such additional time shall not normally exceed an additional thirty days.

(x) The schedule for trial or decision after trial or on motion to dismiss shall not be extended unless the assigned judge certifies that:

(1) the demands of the case and its complexity make the schedule under this Rule incompatible with serving the ends of justice; or

(2) the trial cannot reasonably be held or the decision rendered within such time because of the complexity of the case or the number of complexity of pending criminal cases. (Adopted August 28, 1995.)

COMMENT

This rule was adopted by the North Carolina Supreme Court on June 1995 as a result of a recommendation in the January 1995 Annual Report of THE NORTH CAROLINA COMMISSION ON BUSINESS LAWS AND THE ECONOMY chaired by the North Carolina Attorney General.

In its report, the Commission observed that, historically, North Carolina has enjoyed a high quality, efficient civil justice system. In recent years, however, civil litigation (and in particular, complex commercial litigation) has become protracted and costly. This is the result of many factors, including more complex laws and regulations, legal tactics and increased caseload.

The North Carolina court system has responded by instituting a number of innovative programs designed to resolve civil disputed more efficiently. These include court-ordered arbitration and a pilot mediation program. Despite the success of these programs, resolution of complex business and commercial disputes in North Carolina can be slow and costly.

The Commission noted that a state court system that offers alternatives to the normal litigation process which can expedite the resolution of significant commercial and business disputes is an important element of a progressive, efficient business environment. States that can offer alternatives are more likely to attract new business organizations and incorporations as well as business expansions.

Accordingly, the Commission recommended that the State establish a summary procedure through which North Carolina citizens and business entities and their subsidiaries, and businesses which are headquartered in the State can more efficiently resolve significant commercial civil disputes. The Commission recommended that the availability of such a summary procedure be limited to civil actions in superior court where 1) at least $500,000 is in controversy, 2) at least one party is a North Carolina citizen or corporation, and 3) all parties consent to the summary proceeding. As part of that agreement, the parties to the summary proceeding must agree to waive punitive damages and a jury trial.

The summary procedure provided for in this Rule can be utilized only with consent of all parties. It does not restrict any parties' rights and is supplementary to, and not inconsistent with, the General Statutes. (See G.S. 7A-34.) Its purpose is to provide an alternative procedure for significant commercial disputes and thereby improve the overall efficiency of the court system.

Rule 24. Pretrial conference in capital cases.

There shall be a pretrial conference in every case in which the defendant stands charged with a crime punishable by death. No later than ten days after the superior court obtains jurisdiction in such a case, the district attorney shall apply to the presiding superior court judge or other superior court judge holding court in the district, who shall enter an order requiring the prosecution and defense counsel to appear before the court within forty-five days thereafter for the pretrial conference. Upon request of either party at the pretrial conference the judge may for good cause shown continue the pretrial conference for a reasonable time.

At the pretrial conference, the court and the parties shall consider:

(1) simplification and formulation of the issues, including, but not limited to, the nature of the charges against the defendant, and the existence of evidence of aggravating circumstances;

(2) timely appointment of assistant counsel for an indigent defendant when the State is seeking the death penalty; and

(3) such other matters as may aid in the disposition of the action.

The judge shall enter an order that recites that the pretrial conference took place, and any other actions taken at the pretrial conference.

This rule does not affect the rights of the defense or the prosecution to request, or the court's authority to grant, any relief authorized by law, including but not limited to appointment of assistant counsel, in advance of the pretrial conference. (Adopted April 7, 1994, effective June 1, 1994.)

CASE NOTES

Right to Be Present Not Implicated. — The pretrial conference required in capital cases by this Rule takes place before the jury panel is selected and sworn and is not a stage of the trial; thus, defendant's right to be present at every stage of his trial was not implicated by Rule 24 pretrial conference. State v. Chapman, 342 N.C. 330, 464 S.E.2d 661 (1995), cert. denied, 518 U.S. 1023, 116 S. Ct. 2560, 135 L. Ed. 2d 1077 (1996).

Aggravating Circumstances. — While this rule requires the trial court and the parties to consider the existence of evidence of aggravating circumstances, nothing in the rule intimates that the prosecution must enumerate with finality all aggravating circumstances it will pursue at trial, nor can a trial court require the prosecution to declare which aggravating circumstances it will rely upon at the punishment phase. State v. Chapman, 342 N.C. 330, 464 S.E.2d 661 (1995), cert. denied, 518 U.S. 1023, 116 S. Ct. 2560, 135 L. Ed. 2d 1077 (1996).

The pretrial conference is an administrative device intended to clarify the charges against the defendant and assist the prosecutor in determining whether any aggravating circumstances exist which justify seeking the death penalty. Capital defendants do not stand to lose or gain any rights at the conference. State v. Chapman, 342 N.C. 330, 464 S.E.2d 661 (1995), cert. denied, 518 U.S. 1023, 116 S. Ct. 2560, 135 L. Ed. 2d 1077 (1996).

Failure of District Attorney to Apply for Conference. — As a sanction for the district attorney's failure to timely file a petition for a pretrial conference, the trial court exceeded its authority by prohibiting the state from seeking the death penalty where defendant was charged with first-degree murder. State v. Rorie, 348 N.C. 266, 500 S.E.2d 77 (1998).

Rule 25. Motions for appropriate relief and habeas corpus applications in capital cases.

When considering motions for appropriate relief and/or applications for writs of habeas corpus in capital cases, the following procedures shall be followed:

(1) All appointments of defense counsel shall be in accordance with G.S. 7A-451(c), (d), and (e) and rules adopted by the Office of Indigent Defense Services;

(2) All requests for appointment of experts made prior to the filing of a motion for appropriate relief and subsequent to a denial by the Director of Indigent Defense Services shall be ruled on by the senior resident superior court judge or the senior resident superior court judge's designee in accordance with rules adopted by the Office of Indigent Defense Services;

(3) All requests for other ex parte and similar matters arising prior to the filing of a motion for appropriate relief shall be ruled on by the senior resident superior court judge or the senior resident superior court judge's designee in accordance with rules adopted by the Office of Indigent Defense Services;

(4) All motions for appropriate relief, when filed, shall be referred to the senior resident superior court judge or the senior resident superior court judge's designee for that judge's review and administrative action, including, as may be appropriate, dismissal, calendaring for hearing, entry of a scheduling order for subsequent events in the case, or other appropriate actions;

(5) Subsequent to direct appeal, an application for writ of habeas corpus shall not be used as a substitute for appeal and/or a motion for appropriate relief and is not available as a means of reviewing and correcting non-jurisdictional legal error. If the applicant has been sentenced pursuant to a final judgment issued by a competent tribunal of criminal jurisdiction (i.e., by a trial court having subject matter jurisdiction to enter the sentence), the application for writ of habeas corpus shall be denied. In the event the application for writ of habeas corpus raises a meritorious challenge to the original jurisdiction of the sentencing court, and the writ is granted, the judge shall make the writ returnable before the senior resident superior court judge of the judicial district where the applicant was sentenced or the senior resident superior court judge's designee. In the event the application for writ of habeas corpus raises a meritorious non-jurisdictional challenge to the applicant's conviction and sentence, the judge shall immediately refer the matter to the senior resident superior court judge of the judicial district where the applicant was sentenced or the senior resident superior court judge's designee for disposition as a motion for appropriate relief; and

(6) All requests for and awards of attorney fees and other expenses of representation shall be made in accordance with rules adopted by the Office of Indigent Defense Services. (Adopted May 7, 1998, effective June 1, 1998; Amended effective December 19, 2002; Amended effective May 1, 2003.)

Rule 26. Secure leave periods for attorneys.

(A) Purpose, Authorization. In order to secure for the parties to actions and proceedings pending in the Superior and District Courts, and to the public at large, the heightened level of professionalism that an attorney is able to provide when the attorney enjoys periods of time that are free from the urgent demands of professional responsibility and to enhance the overall quality of the attorney's personal and family life, any attorney may from time to time designate and enjoy one or more secure leave periods each year as provided in this Rule.

(B) Length, Number. A secure leave period shall consist of one or more complete calendar weeks. During any calendar year, an attorney's secure leave periods pursuant to this Rule and to Rule 33A of the Rules of Appellate Procedure shall not exceed, in the aggregate, three calendar weeks.

(C) Designation, Effect. To designate a secure leave period an attorney shall file a written designation containing the information required by subsection

(D), with the official specified in subsection (E), and within the time provided in subsection (F). Upon such filing, the secure leave period so designated shall be deemed allowed without further action of the court, and the attorney shall not be required to appear at any trial, hearing, in-court or out-of-court deposition, or other proceeding in the Superior or District Courts during that secure leave period.

(D) Content of Designation. The designation shall contain the following information:

(1) the attorney's name, address, telephone number and state bar number,

(2) the date of the Monday on which the secure leave period is to begin and of the Friday on which it is to end,

(3) the dates of all other secure leave periods during the current calendar year that have previously been designated by the attorney pursuant to this Rule and to Rule 33A of the Rules of Appellate Procedure,

(4) a statement that the secure leave period is not being designated for the purpose of delaying, hindering or interfering with the timely disposition of any matter in any pending action or proceeding, and

(5) a statement that no action or proceeding in which the attorney has entered an appearance has been scheduled, peremptorily set or noticed for trial, hearing, deposition or other proceeding during the designated secure leave period.

(E) Where to File Designation. The designation shall be filed as follows:

(1) if the attorney has entered an appearance in any criminal action, in the office of the District Attorney for each prosecutorial district in which any such case or proceeding is pending;

(2) if the attorney has entered an appearance in any civil action, either

(a) in the office of the trial court administrator for each superior court district and district court district in which any such case is pending or,

(b) if there is no trial court administrator for a superior court district, in the office of the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge for that district,

(c) if there is no trial court administrator for a district court district, in the office of the Chief District Court Judge for that district;

(3) if the attorney has entered an appearance in any special proceeding or estate proceeding, in the office of the Clerk of Superior Court of the county in which any such matter is pending;

(4) if the attorney has entered an appearance in any juvenile proceeding, with the juvenile case calendaring clerk in the office of the Clerk of Superior Court of the county in which any such proceeding is pending.

(F) When to File Designation. To be effective, the designation shall be filed:

(1) no later than ninety (90) days before the beginning of the secure leave period, and

(2) before any trial, hearing, deposition or other matter has been regularly scheduled, peremptorily set or noticed for a time during the designated secure leave period.

(G) Procedure When Court Proceeding Scheduled Despite Designation. If, after a designation of a secure leave period has been filed pursuant to this rule, any trial, hearing, in-court deposition or other in-court proceeding is scheduled or peremptorily set for a time during the secure leave period, the attorney shall file with the official by whom the matter was calendared or set, and serve on all parties, a copy of the designation with a certificate of service attached. Any party may, within ten days after service of the copy of the designation and certificate of service, file a written objection with that official and serve a copy on all parties. The only ground for objection shall be that the designation was not in fact filed in compliance with this Rule. If no objection is filed, that official shall reschedule the matter for a time that is not within the attorney's secure leave period. If an objection is filed, the court shall determine whether the designation was filed in compliance with this Rule. If the court finds that the designation was filed as provided in this Rule, it shall reschedule the matter for a time that is not within the attorney's secure leave period. If the court finds the designation was not so filed, it shall enter any scheduling, calendaring or other order that it finds to be in the interests of justice.

(H) Procedure When Deposition Scheduled Despite Designation. If, after a designation of a secure leave period has been filed pursuant to this Rule, any deposition is noticed for a time during the secure leave period, the attorney may serve on the party that noticed the deposition a copy of the designation with a certificate of service attached, and that party shall reschedule the deposition for a time that is not within the attorney's secure leave period. Any dispute over whether the secure leave period was properly designated pursuant to this Rule shall be resolved pursuant to the portions of the Rules of Civil Procedure, G.S. 1A-1, that govern discovery.

(I) Nothing in this Rule shall limit the inherent power of the Superior and District Courts to reschedule a case to allow an attorney to enjoy a leave during a period that has not been designated pursuant to this Rule, but there shall be no entitlement to any such leave. (Adopted May 6, 1999, effective January 1, 2000.)

Editor's note. — This rule is effective January 1, 2000, and applies to all actions and proceedings pending in the Superior and District Courts on and after that date.

COMMENT

Legislation establishing a statewide Custody and Visitation Program in North Carolina required that the Administrative Office of the Courts "promulgate rules and regulations necessary and appropriate for the administration of the program" and that services provided be "uniform." G.S. 7A-494. Uniform rules will protect families receiving such services, will allow meaningful statistical comparisons to be made, and allow both mediators and the mediation program to be periodically reevaluated. The Program is to be established in phases throughout North Carolina, beginning on July 1, 1989.

Rule 1. Goals of mediation.

The goals of custody and visitation dispute mediation are centered in the reduction of the stress and anxiety experienced by children in separation and divorce, by furnishing an alternative way for the parties to settle custody and visitation disputes. A trained mediator helps the parties reorganize the family, continue parenting their children despite separation, and begins an educational process which will allow parties to recognize and meet the needs of their children. Mediation provides a structured, confidential, nonadversarial setting which will help the parties make informed choices about matters involving their children, with the hope that such cooperative resolution will alleviate the acrimony between the parties, reducing attendant stress on both the parties and the child. A successful mediation will help the parties put a parenting plan in writing, will teach them to solve future problems without recourse to the courts, and thus reduce the stress of relitigation of custody and visitation disputes.

Rule 2. Purpose of program.

The Custody and Visitation Mediation Program is to provide the services of skilled mediators to further the goals set out above.

Rule 3. Definitions.

Rule 3.01. Mediation.

A process whereby a trained, neutral third party acts to encourage and facilitate the resolution of a dispute without prescribing what the resolution should be.

Rule 3.02. Mediator.

A trained, neutral third party who acts to encourage and facilitate the resolution of a dispute without prescribing what the resolution should be.

Rule 3.03. Parenting agreement.

A written agreement reached by the parties with the assistance of the mediator, which may be presented to the court for approval and adoption as an order of the court.

Rule 4. Administration of program.

The Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC) is responsible for establishing the Program in the several judicial districts of the State, and is to promulgate rules and regulations for the administration of the program. The Director of the AOC shall appoint necessary staff to plan, organize, and administer the program on a statewide basis. The AOC is to cooperate with each Chief District Court Judge and other district personnel in implementation and administration of the program.

Rule 4.01. Employment of mediators.

Mediators are to be employed by the Chief District Court Judge of the judicial district, and are to be full or part-time employees.

Rule 4.02. In-house contracts permitted.

When deemed appropriate by the AOC, the Chief District Court Judge may contract for delivery of mediation services, such contract to be approved by the Director. Such contracts are exempt from competitive bidding procedures under Chapter 143 of the General Statutes.

Rule 4.03. Administration of funds.

Funds appropriated by the General Assembly for the establishment and maintenance of mediation programs are to be administered by the AOC.

Rule 4.04. Multi-district programs.

The AOC may authorize all or part of a program in one district to be operated in conjunction with that of another district or districts.

Rule 4.05. Advisory committee established.

The Director of the AOC shall appoint a Custody Mediation Advisory Committee of at least five members to advise the Custody Mediation Program. Members of the Committee are to receive the same per diem and travel expenses as members of State boards and commissions generally.

Rule 5. Local district programs.

Each local district program is to consist of a qualified mediator, or mediators, and such clerical staff as the AOC in consultation with the local program deems necessary.

Rule 6. Qualifications of mediators.

A person desiring to furnish mediation services must demonstrate that he or she:

1) Has at least a master's degree in psychology, social work, family counseling, or a comparable human relations discipline; and

2) Has completed at least 40 hours of training in mediation techniques by an instructor deemed qualified by the AOC; and

3) Has had professional training and experience relating to child development, family dynamics, or comparable areas; and

4) Meets such other criteria as specified by the AOC.

Rule 6.01. Initial training period.

A person just beginning to furnish mediation services in the North Carolina Custody and Visitation Mediation Program shall satisfy the following requirements during an initial training period of 18-24 months following employment, unless some or all of the requirements are waived by the Director of the AOC or his designee:

Level I:

A. 18 Hours of Court Observations (Note: Suggest that Band C occur prior to D)

B. 18 Hours of Custody Mediation Observation

C. 40 Hours of Divorce Mediation Training

D. 24 Hours of Co-Mediation

(Note: E and F begin simultaneously)

E. Minimum of 2 consecutive weeks/maximum of 4 consecutive weeks of internship in one district

F. 150 Mediation Sessions

G. Meetings/Additional Training: (As designated by the AOC)

Regional Meetings
Annual Training Meeting(s)
Trainee Progression Meetings

Level II:

A. 18 Hours of Co-Mediation (Note: To Be Completed Within 1st Quarter of Level II)

B. 150 Mediation Sessions

C. Meetings/Additional Training: (As designated by the AOC)

Regional Meetings
Annual Training Meeting(s)
Trainee Progression Meetings

Documentation is to be provided to the Chief District Court Judge and the AOC at the conclusion of each level of the Training Progression. (See Appendix B, Mediator Training Progression.)

Rule 6.02. Continuing education.

A mediator is to keep abreast of developments in the field through such professional journals and bulletins as are available; further, a mediator is to participate in at least 20 hours of continuing education each two years, in a program approved by the Director of the AOC or his designee. A mediator should also regularly participate as a co-mediator, preferably with mediators outside the mediator's judicial district.

Rule 6.03. Continuing evaluation.

The performance of a mediator should be regularly evaluated by the AOC. Results of such mediation performance evaluation will be shared with the Chief District Court Judge. Methods of evaluation may include:

- ◊ Observation through a one-way mirror;
- ◊ Videotaped sessions (with permission of the parties);
- ◊ Audio tape-recorded sessions (with permission of the parties);
- ◊ Co-mediations of the mediator and the evaluator;
- ◊ Review of written agreements for completeness and specificity.

Rule 6.04. Mediator ethics.

See Appendix B, Standards of Practice for Mediators in the North Carolina Mandatory Custody Mediation Program.

Rule 7. [Referrals].

The rules, as adopted, contained no heading for Rule 7. The bracketed heading has been added by the publisher.

Rule 7.01. Referral to mediation (Chapter 50 cases).

All actions involving unresolved issues as to the custody or visitation of a minor child shall be ordered to mediation on such issues prior to the trial of the matter, unless the court waives mediation. Such actions include an action for custody or visitation in which no order has been previously entered, motions to modify orders previously entered, and actions to enforce custody and visitation orders. This mandatory referral procedure does not limit the right of the court to enter temporary and ex parte orders under the applicable statutory provisions, or to immediately enforce existing orders. The order of referral shall advise the parties that a show cause order may be issued, or other sanctions imposed, if they fail to appear at the orientation session, or the first mediation session. (See Appendix B, Brochure and form AOC-CV-632, Motion and Order to waive Custody Mediation.)

Comment:

In the opinion of the Advisory Committee, the mandatory provisions of G.S. 50-13.1(b), the statutory authority for this section, apply only to actions brought under the provisions of Chapter 50 of the General Statutes. Actions instituted under the provisions of the Juvenile Code, as found in Chapter 7B of the General Statutes, often include issues of placement and visitation at the dispositional stage; such issues may, in appropriate cases, be referred for mediation by a district court judge pursuant to rule 7.02. Actions brought under the provisions of Chapter 50B of the General Statutes (Domestic Violence) are often inappropriate for mediation because the necessarily involve allegations of spousal abuse. If, however,the court finds the custody or visitation aspect of a domestic violence case to be appropriate for mediation, due consideration should be given to safety issues in the case. (See Apendix B, Domestic Violence Policy.)

Rule 7.02. Referral of placement issues in juvenile cases.

In a judicial district in which the custody mediation program is in operation, cases in which juvenile(s) have been adjudicated to be abused, neglected, dependent, delinquent or undisciplined, may be referred to the program for mediation of any dispute over placement of the juvenile(s), provided the Chief District Court Judge in the district has determined that such referrals are appropriate and that available resources allow mediation of such cases.

The Chief District Court Judge shall regularly monitor the number of cases referred to the program to ensure that resources allow continued referral of such cases.

In Districts where the Chief Judge has authorized referrals of such cases to mediation, a referral may be made upon the motion of the Court or upon the motion of any party. In the discretion of the Presiding Judge, an order of referral to mediation may be made. The Order of referral should identify the persons who are to participate in the mediation and shall designate the persons who are entitled to receive a copy of any agreement that is reached.

If an agreement is reached in mediation regarding the placement of the juvenile(s) in question, the mediator shall assist the participants in reducing the agreement to writing and shall ensure that each participant understands the written document. The mediator shall encourage each participant to review the agreement with their attorney prior to signing the same and shall afford them a reasonable opportunity to do so. After the agreement is signed by all participants, the mediator shall promptly furnish a copy to each party, attorney, and persons designated in the referral order for review prior to the dispositional hearing. After a hearing at which all parties have a right to be heard, the court may incorporate the terms of said agreement in its dispositional order, provided it finds the same to be in the best interests of the juvenile(s).

Rule 8. Waiver of mediation.

On its own motion, or that of either party, the court may waive the setting of a contested custody or visitation matter for mediation. Good cause includes, but is not limited to, a showing of undue hardship to a party, an agreement between the parties for private mediation, allegations of abuse or neglect of the minor child, allegations of alcoholism, drug abuse, or spouse abuse, or allegations of severe psychological, psychiatric, or emotional problems. Where a party resides more than 50 miles from court, such distance shall be considered good cause. (See Appendix B, AOC-CV-632 Motion and Order to Waive Custody Mediation.)

Rule 9. Orientation.

Prior to mediation, an orientation session shall be held at which the goals and procedures of the mediation process shall be explained to the parties to reduce apprehension and avoidance of the process. An intake form shall be completed. (See Appendix B, Sample Mediation Intake Form.) The parties shall be advised that if they fail to appear for the initial mediation session, an order to show cause might be issued and the non-appearing party could be found in contempt of the court.

Rule 10. Attendance at mediation sessions.

The mediation process shall consist of no more than three sessions, each of which shall not exceed two hours in length. A party must attend the orientation and first mediation session before deciding to withdraw from the process. The number of sessions may be extended by agreement of the parties with the permission of the Chief District Court Judge.

Rule 11. Neutral stance of mediator.

While a mediator is to be a neutral in promoting an agreement between the parties, the mediator is to be aware of the best interests of the children involved in the case. During the mediation process, the mediator is to help the parties avoid agreements which do not promote the best interests of the child.

Rule 12. The mediation process.

The mediator should assist the parties in focusing on the needs of their child, the need to reorganize the family and use its strengths, the need to maintain continuity of relationships and stability in the child's life, and the options available to the parties which would accomplish those goals. The mediator should help the parties select from the range of options those which are sound and workable, in an effort to reach an agreement which will reduce the conflict in the family, benefiting both the parties and child.

Rule 12.01. Authority of mediator.

The mediator shall be in control at all times of the mediation process and the procedures to be followed in the mediation. The mediator may suspend the mediation session if it becomes unsafe for any of the participants, including the mediator.

Rule 12.02. Location.

The mediation proceeding shall be held in a private and safe location.

Rule 12.03. Confidentiality.

The mediation proceeding shall be confidential. Neither the mediator nor any party or other person involved in mediation sessions shall be competent to testify as to communications made during or in furtherance of such mediation sessions; provided, there is no privilege as to communications made in furtherance of a crime or fraud. An individual shall not, however, obtain thereby immunity from prosecution for criminal conduct or be excused from the reporting requirement of G.S. 7A-543 or G.S. 108A-102.

Rule 12.04. Parenting plan.

A detailed and clearly written parenting agreement, or parenting plan, is the desired end-product of the mediation process. (See Appendix B, Sample Parenting Agreement). The parenting plan may include a designation of the party having legal or physical custody, and what duties and responsibilities such designation includes. The plan should also include a complete schedule of the child's time with each party, including holidays, vacation time, and special events. Arrangements may be made for special day observance, such as birthdays. The need of the child to maintain relationships with persons with whom the child has a substantial relationship may be addressed.

The mediator should help the parties reduce their agreement to writing and ensure that each party understands the written document. Before the parties sign the proposed agreement, the mediator shall mail a copy of the proposed agreement to parties and counsel, encourage each parties to have their attorneys review the agreement with them prior to their signing the plan, and afford them a reasonable opportunity to do so. The mediator shall promptly submit the initial signed agreement, or any signed modification agreement to the court. An Order Approving Parenting Agreement (Appendix B, AOC-CV-631) is to be attached for the judge's signature. Signed copies will be provided to both parties and their attorneys. Some of the procedures set forth in this rule may not be applicable to mediation of placement issues in Juvenile cases. Refer to Rule 7.02 for procedures in mediation of placement issues in Juvenile cases.

Rule 12.05. Plan incorporated in court order.

Where an initial signed agreement or a signed modification of that agreement is submitted to the court, it shall be incorporated in a court order unless the court finds good reason not to do so. (See Appendix B, AOC-CV-631, Order Approving Parenting Agreement.) When incorporated, the agreement is enforceable as is any other court order. Even though designated "parenting agreement," or some similar name, the incorporated agreement shall be considered a custody order or child custody determination within the meaning of Chapter 50A of the General Statutes, G.S. 14-320.1, G.S. 1 10-139.1, or other places where those terms appear. Some of the procedures set forth in this rule may not be applicable to mediation of placement issues in Juvenile cases. Refer to Rule 7.02 for procedures in mediation of placement issues in Juvenile cases.

Rule 12.06. Termination of mediation.

After the parties have attended at least the orientation and first mediation session, either or both of the parties may decide not to participate further in the mediation process, and the mediator shall report to the court that no agreement was reached.

Either party may move to have the mediation proceedings dismissed and the action heard in court due to the mediator's bias, undue familiarity with a party, or other prejudicial ground. Further, if the mediator determines that the case is not suitable for mediation due to a power imbalance between the parties, the presence of child abuse or neglect, or other reason, the mediator may report to the court that the case was not resolved. (See Appendix B, AOC-CV-914M, Order to Calendar Custody or Visitation Dispute.)

Where an agreement is not reached, the custody mediation office may make available information on community resources for families and children involved in a family reorganization.

Rule 12.07. Return to mediation.

The mediator shall explain to the parties that the needs of their children change over time, and encourage them to return to mediation if they are unable to resolve any problems caused by that factor, or other changes in circumstances. (See Appendix B, Motion and Order to Return to Custody Mediation, AOC-CV-634.)

Rule 12.08. Other participants.

With the consent of all parties, the mediator may speak with the child, in an effort to assist the parties to assess the needs and interests of the child. Refer to Rule 7.02 for special rules regarding participants in mediation of placement issues in Juvenile cases.

Rule 12.09. Caucus with parties.

Although it is generally desirable for the mediator to talk with the parties together, if there is no objection by either party, the mediator may caucus with each party.

Rule 12.10. Evaluation of program.

The Administrative Office of the Courts shall evaluate the program from time to time, and shall prepare a summary of the program activities to be included in the North Carolina Courts Annual Report of the Administrative Office of the Courts.

Comment:

In addition to evaluation of the statistics compiled and submitted by the various programs (See Appendix B, AOC-A-91OM, Custody Mediation Monthly Report), user satisfaction might be monitored by the use ofexit interviews, andfollow-up questionnaires and telephone interviews in a sampling ofcases at some time after the completion ofthe process.

Rule 12.11. Complaint procedure.

The written orientation materials provided to the parties shall advise them how a complaint about the mediator, or mediation process, can be filed with the Chief District Court Judge of the judicial district. (See Appendix B, Brochure.)

North Carolina
Child Support Guidelines

Effective October 1, 2002

Introduction

Section 50-13.4 of the North Carolina General Statutes requires the Conference of Chief District Judges to prescribe uniform statewide presumptive guidelines for determining the child support obligations of parents, and to review the guidelines periodically (at least once every four years) to determine whether their application results in appropriate child support orders.

These revised guidelines are the product of the ongoing review process conducted by the Conference of Chief District Judges. The Conference conducted a public hearing to provide interested citizens an opportunity to comment on the guidelines and also considered written comments from agencies, attorneys, judges and members of the public.

Applicability and Deviation

North Carolina's child support guidelines apply as a rebuttable presumption in all legal proceedings involving the child support obligation of a parent (including orders entered in criminal and juvenile proceedings, orders entered in UIFSA proceedings, and voluntary support agreements and consent orders approved by the court). The guidelines do not apply to orders for "prior maintenance" (reimbursement of child-related expenses incurred prior to the date an action for child support is filed) or child support orders entered against stepparents or other persons or agencies who are secondarily liable for child support.

The guidelines must be used when the court enters a temporary or permanent child support order in a non-contested case or a contested hearing.

The court upon its own motion or upon motion of a party may deviate from the guidelines if, after hearing evidence and making findings regarding the reasonable needs of the child for support and the relative ability of each parent to provide support, it finds by the greater weight of the evidence that application of the guidelines would not meet, or would exceed, the reasonable needs of the child considering the relative ability of each parent to provide support, or would otherwise be unjust or inappropriate. If the court deviates from the guidelines, the court must make written findings (1) stating the amount of the supporting parent's presumptive child support obligation determined pursuant to these guidelines; (2) determining the reasonable needs of the child and the relative ability of each parent to provide support; (3) supporting the court's conclusion that the presumptive amount of child support determined under the guidelines is inadequate or excessive or that application of the guidelines is otherwise unjust or inappropriate; and (4) stating the basis on which the court determined the amount of child support ordered. (One example of a reason to deviate may be when one parent pays 100% of the child support obligation and 100% of the insurance premium.)

The guidelines are intended to provide adequate awards of child support that are equitable to the child and both of the child's parents. When the court does not deviate from the guidelines, an order for child support in an amount determined pursuant to the guidelines is conclusively presumed to meet the reasonable needs of a child considering the relative ability of each parent to provide support, and specific findings regarding a child's reasonable needs or the relative ability of each parent to provide support are therefore not required.

Regardless of whether the court deviates from the guidelines or enters a child support order pursuant to the guidelines, the court should consider incorporating in, or attaching to, its order, or including in the case file, the child support worksheet it uses to determine the supporting parent's presumptive child support obligation under the guidelines.

Self-Support Reserve; Supporting Parents With Low Incomes

The Guidelines include a self-support reserve that ensures that obligors have sufficient income to maintain a minimum standard of living based on the 2002 federal poverty level for one person ($738.00 net per month). For obligors with an adjusted gross income of less than $800, the Guidelines require, absent a deviation, the establishment of a minimum support order ($50). For obligors with adjusted gross incomes above $800, the Schedule of Basic Support Obligations incorporates a further adjustment to maintain the self-support reserve for the obligor.

If the obligor's adjusted gross income falls within the shaded area of the Schedule and Worksheet A is used, the basic child support obligation and the obligor's total child support obligation are computed using only the obligor's income. In these cases, childcare and health insurance premiums should not be used to calculate the child support obligation. However, payment of these costs by either parent may be a basis for deviation. This approach prevents disproportionate increases in the child support obligation with moderate increases in income and protects the integrity of the self-support reserve. In all other cases, the basic child support obligation is computed using the combined adjusted gross incomes of both parents.

Determination Of Support In Cases Involving High Combined Income

In cases in which the parents' combined adjusted gross income is more than $20,000 per month ($240,000 per year), the supporting parent's basic child support obligation cannot be determined by using the child support schedule.

In cases in which the parents' combined income is above $20,000 per month, the court should, on a case by case basis, consider the reasonable needs of the child(ren) and the relative ability of each parent to provide support. The schedule of basic child support may be of assistance to the court in determining a minimal level of child support.

Assumptions And Expenses Included In Schedule Of Basic Child Support Obligations

North Carolina's child support guidelines are based on the "income shares" model, which was developed under the Child Support Guidelines Project funded by the U.S. Office of Child Support Enforcement and administered by the National Center for State Courts. The income shares model is based on the concept that child support is a shared parental obligation and that a child should receive the same proportion of parental income he or she would have received if the child's parents lived together. The schedule of basic child support obligations is based primarily on economic research performed pursuant to the Family Support Act of 1988 [P.L. 100-485, § 128], which required the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services to conduct a study of the patterns of expenditures on children. The schedule has been updated based on changes in the consumer price index, changes in federal and state tax rates, and other data.

The child support schedule that is a part of the guidelines is based on economic data which represent adjusted estimates of average total household spending for children between birth and age 18, excluding child care, health insurance, and health care costs in excess of $100 per year. Expenses incurred in the exercise of visitation are not factored into the schedule.

The schedule assumes that the parent who receives child support claims the tax exemptions for the child. If the parent who receives child support has minimal or no income tax liability, the court may consider requiring the custodial parent to assign the exemption to the supporting parent and deviate from the guidelines.

Income

The Schedule of Basic Child Support Obligations is based upon net income converted to gross annual income by incorporating the federal tax rates. North Carolina tax rates and FICA. Gross income is income before deductions for federal or state income taxes, Social Security or Medicare taxes, health insurance premiums, retirement contributions, or other amounts withheld from income.

(1) Gross Income. "Income" means a parent's actual gross income from any source, including but not limited to income from employment or self-employment (salaries, wages, commissions, bonuses, dividends, severance pay, etc.), ownership or operation of a business, partnership, or corporation, rental of property, retirement or pensions, interest, trusts, annuities, capital gains, social security benefits, workers compensation benefits, unemployment insurance benefits, disability pay and insurance benefits, gifts, prizes and alimony or maintenance received from persons other than the parties to the instant action. When income is received on an irregular, non-recurring, or one-time basis, the court may average or prorate the income over a specified period of time or require an obligor to pay as child support a percentage of his or her non-recurring income that is equivalent to the percentage of his or her recurring income paid for child support.

Specifically excluded are benefits received from means-tested public assistance programs, including but not limited to Temporary Assistance to Needy Families (TANF), Supplemental Security Income (SSI), Food Stamps and General Assistance.

Social security benefits received for the benefit of a child as a result of the disability or retirement of either parent are included as income attributed to the parent on whose earnings record the benefits are paid, but are deducted from that parent's child support obligation.

Except as otherwise provided, income does not include the income of a person who is not a parent of a child for whom support is being determined regardless of whether that person is married to or lives with the child's parent or has physical custody of the child.

(2) Income from self-employment or operation of a business. Gross income from self-employment, rent, royalties, proprietorship of a business, or joint ownership of a partnership or closely held corporation, is defined as gross receipts minus ordinary and necessary expenses required for self-employment or business operation. Ordinary and necessary business expenses do not include amounts allowable by the Internal Revenue Service for the accelerated component of depreciation expenses, investment tax credits, or any other business expenses determined by the court to be inappropriate for determining gross income. In general, income and expenses from self-employment or operation of a business should be carefully reviewed to determine an appropriate level of gross income available to the parent to satisfy a child support obligation. In most cases, this amount will differ from a determination of business income for tax purposes.

Expense reimbursements or in-kind payments (for example, use of a company car, free housing, or reimbursed meals) received by a parent in the course of employment, self-employment, or operation of a business are counted as income if they are significant and reduce personal living expenses.

(3) Potential or Imputed Income. If either parent is voluntarily unemployed or underemployed to the extent that the parent cannot provide a minimum level of support for himself or herself and his or her children when he or she is physically and mentally capable of doing so, and the court finds that the parent's voluntary unemployment or underemployment is the result of a parent's bad faith or deliberate suppression of income to avoid or minimize his or her child support obligation, child support may be calculated based on the parent's potential, rather than actual, income. Potential income may not be imputed to a parent who is physically or mentally incapacitated or is caring for a child who is under the age of three years and for whom child support is being determined.

The amount of potential income imputed to a parent must be based on the parent's employment potential and probable earnings level based on the parent's recent work history, occupational qualifications and prevailing job opportunities and earning levels in the community. If the parent has no recent work history or vocational training, potential income should not be less than the minimum hourly wage for a 40-hour work week.

(4) Income Verification. Child support calculations under the guidelines are based on the parents' current incomes at the time the order is entered. Income statements of the parents should be verified through documentation of both current and past income. Suitable documentation of current earnings (at least one full month) includes pay stubs, employer statements, or business receipts and expenses, if self-employed. Documentation of current income must be supplemented with copies of the most recent tax return to provide verification of earnings over a longer period. Sanctions may be imposed for failure to comply with this provision on the motion of a party or by the court on its own motion

Pre-Existing Support Obligations And Responsibility For Other Children

Child support payments actually made by a parent under any pre-existing court order, separation agreement or voluntary support arrangement are deducted from the parent's gross income. The court may consider a voluntary support arrangement as a pre-existing child support obligation when the supporting parent has consistently paid child support for a reasonable and extended period of time. A pre-existing support order is one that is in effect at the time a child support order in the pending action is entered or modified, regardless of whether the child or children for whom support is being paid were born before or after the child or children for whom support is being determined. Actual payments of alimony should not be considered as a deduction from gross income but may be considered as a factor to vary from the final presumptive child support obligation.

A parent's financial responsibility (as determined below) for his or her natural or adopted children who currently reside with the parent (other than children for whom child support is being determined in the pending action) is deducted from the parent's gross income. Use of this deduction is appropriate when a child support order is entered or modified, but may not be the sole basis for modifying an existing order.

A parent's financial responsibility for his or her natural or adopted children who currently reside with the parent (other than children for whom child support is being determined in the pending action) is (a) equal to the basic child support obligation for these children based on the parent's income if the other parent of these children does not live with the parent and children; or (b) one-half of the basic child support obligation for these children based on the combined incomes of both of the parents of these children if the other parent of these children lives with the parent and children.

Basic Child Support Oblication

The basic child support obligation is determined using the attached schedule of basic child support obligations. For combined monthly adjusted gross income amounts falling between amounts shown in the schedule the basic child support obligation should be interpolated.

The number of children refers to children for whom the parents share joint legal responsibility and for whom support is being sought.

Child Care Costs

Reasonable child care costs that are, or will be, paid by a parent due to employment or job search are added to the basic child support obligation and prorated between the parents based on their respective incomes.

When the gross monthly income of the parent paying child care costs falls below the amounts indicated below, 100% of child care costs are added.

1 child = $1,100	4 children = $1,900
2 children = $1,500	5 children = $2,100
3 children = $1,700	6 children = $2,300

At these income levels, the parent who pays child care costs does not benefit from the tax credit for child care. When the income of the parent who pays child care costs exceeds the amounts indicated above, only 75% of actual child care costs are added (because the parent is entitled to the income tax credit for child care expenses).

Health Insurance and Health Care Costs

The amount that is, or will be, paid by a parent for health (medical, or medical and dental) insurance for the children for whom support is being determined is added to the basic child support obligation and prorated between the parents based on their respective incomes. Payments that are made by a parent's employer for health insurance and are not deducted from the parent's wages are not included. When a child for whom support is being determined is covered by a family policy, only the health insurance premium actually attributable to that child is added. If this amount is not available or cannot be verified, the total cost of the premium is divided by the total number of persons covered by the policy and then multiplied by the number of covered children for whom support is being determined.

The court may order that uninsured medical or dental expenses in excess of $100 per year or other uninsured health care costs (including reasonable and necessary costs related to orthodontia, dental care, asthma treatments, physical therapy, treatment of chronic health problems, and counseling or psychiatric therapy for diagnosed mental disorders) be paid by the parents in proportion to their respective incomes.

The court may order either parent to obtain and maintain health (medical or medical and dental) insurance coverage for a child if it is actually and currently available to the parent at a reasonable cost. Health insurance is considered reasonable in cost if it is employment related or other group health insurance, regardless of delivery mechanism. If health insurance is not actually and currently available to a parent at a reasonable cost at the time the court orders child support, the court may enter an order requiring the parent to obtain and maintain health insurance for a child if and when the parent has access to reasonably-priced health insurance for the child.

Other Extraordinary Expenses

Other extraordinary child-related expenses (including 1. expenses related to special or private elementary or secondary schools to meet a child's particular educational needs, and 2. expenses for transporting the child between the parents' homes) may be added to the basic child support obligation and ordered paid by the parents in proportion to their respective incomes if the court determines the expenses are reasonable, necessary, and in the child's best interest.

Child Support Worksheets

A parent's presumptive child support obligation under the guidelines must be determined using one of the attached child support worksheets.

The child support worksheets must include the incomes of both parents, regardless of whether one parent is seeking child support from the other parent or a third party is seeking child support from one or both parents. The child support worksheets may not be used to calculate the child support obligation of a stepparent or other party who is secondarily liable for child support. Do not include the income of an individual who is not the parent of a child for whom support is being determined on the worksheets.

Use Worksheet A when one parent (or a third party) has primary physical custody of all of the children for whom support is being determined. A parent (or third party) has primary physical custody of a child if the child lives with that parent (or custodian) for at least 242 nights during the year. Primary physical custody is determined without regard to whether a parent has primary, shared, or joint legal custody of a child. Do not use Worksheet A when (a) a parent has primary custody of one or more children and the parents share custody of one or more children [instead, use Worksheet B] or (b) when primary custody of two or more children is split between the parents [instead, use Worksheet C]. In child support cases involving primary physical custody, a child support obligation is calculated for both parents but the court enters an order requiring the parent who does not have primary physical custody of the child to pay child support to the parent or other party who has primary physical custody of the child.

Use Worksheet B when (a) the parents share custody of all of the children for whom support is being determined, or (b) when one parent has primary physical custody of one or more of the children and the parents share custody of another child. Parents share custody of a child if the child lives with each parent for at least 123 nights during the year and each parent assumes financial responsibility for the child's expenses during the time the child lives with that parent. A parent does not have shared custody of a child when that parent has visitation rights that allow the child to spend less than 124 nights per year with the parent and the other parent has primary physical custody of the child. Shared custody is determined without regard to whether a parent has primary, shared, or joint legal custody of a child. Do not apply the self-sufficiency reserve incorporated into the shaded area of the schedule when using Worksheet B.

In cases involving shared custody, the parents' combined basic support obligation is increased by 50% (multiplied by 1.5) and is allocated between the parents based on their respective incomes and the amount of time the children live with the other parent. The adjustment based on the amount of time the children live with the other parent is calculated for all of the children regardless of whether a parent has primary, shared, or split custody of a child. After child support obligations are calculated for both parents, the parent with the higher child support obligation is ordered to pay the difference between his or her presumptive child support obligation and the other parent's presumptive child support obligation.

Use Worksheet C when primary physical custody of two or more children is split between the parents. Split custody refers to cases in which one parent has primary custody of at least one of the children for whom support is being determined and the other parent has primary custody of the other child or children. Do not use Worksheet C when the parents share custody of one or more of the children and have primary physical custody or split custody of another child [instead, use Worksheet B]. The parents' combined basic support obligation is allocated between the parents based on their respective incomes and the number of children living with each parent. After child support obligations are calculated for both parents, the parent with the higher child support obligation is ordered to pay the difference between his or her presumptive child support obligation and the other parent's presumptive child support obligation. Do not apply the self-sufficiency reserve incorporated into the shaded area of the schedule when using Worksheet C.

Modification

In a proceeding to modify an existing order that is three years old or older, a difference of 15% or more between the amount of the existing order and the amount of child support resulting from application of the guidelines based on the parents' current incomes and circumstances shall be presumed to constitute a substantial change of circumstances warranting modification. If the order is less than three years old, this presumption does not apply.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETING CHILD SUPPORT WORKSHEET A OBLIGEE WITH SOLE CUSTODY OF CHILD(REN)

Worksheet A should be used when the obligee has physical custody of the child(ren) who are involved in the pending action for a period of time that is more than two-thirds of the year (more than 243 days per year). However, if the non-custodial parent's income falls within the shaded area of the Schedule, determine the basic child support obligation based on the non-custodial parent's monthly adjusted gross income, rather than the combined income of both parents, and do not proceed further on the worksheet.

On line 1, enter the monthly gross incomes of both parties in the appropriate column, subtract the payments made by each parent under previous child support orders for other children of that parent and the amount of the parent's financial responsibility for other children living with that parent, and enter the difference (monthly adjusted gross income) for each parent on line 2. Add the monthly adjusted gross incomes of both parents and enter the result in the third column (Combined) on line 2. Divide each parent's monthly adjusted gross income by the combined monthly adjusted income and enter each parent's percentage share of the combined income on line 3.

On line 4, enter the amount of the basic child support obligation for the child(ren) for whom support is sought by using the Schedule of Basic Child Support Obligations based on the combined income of both parents (line 3) and the number of children involved in the pending action.

On lines 5a through 5c, enter the amount of work-related child care costs, health insurance premiums for the child(ren), and extraordinary child-related expenses that are paid by either parent under the column for that parent. On line 5d, enter the sum of lines 5a through 5c for each parent, and in the third column (Combined) enter the total expenses paid by both parents. Add line 4 and line 5d (Combined) and enter the result on line 6 (total child support obligation).

On line 7, multiply line 6 by line 3 (percentage share of income) and enter the result in the appropriate column for each parent. On line 8, enter the amount of expenses paid directly by the non-custodial parent (line 5d) under the appropriate column; leave the custodial parent's column blank and do not enter any amount paid by the custodial parent. Subtract line 8 from line 7 for the non-custodial parent only and enter the difference on line 9 (recommended child support order) under the column for the non-custodial parent. Leave the column for the custodial parent blank.

NOTE TO PLAINTIFF AND DEFENDANT: *The information required to complete the worksheet is known only to the parties. It is the responsibility of the parties to provide this information to the court so that the court can set the appropriate amount of child support. The Clerk of Superior Court CANNOT obtain this information or fill out this worksheet for you. INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETING CHILD SUPPORT WORKSHEET B
PARENTS WITH JOINT OR SHARED CUSTODY

Worksheet B should be used when the parents share joint physical custody of at least one of the child(ren) for whom support is sought. Legal custody of the child(ren) is not relevant with respect to this determination. Worksheet B should be used if one parent has sole legal custody but, in fact, the parents exercise joint physical custody of the child(ren) as defined below. On the other hand, the worksheet should not be used simply because the parents share joint legal custody of the child(ren).

Joint physical custody is defined as custody for at least one-third of the year (more than 122 overnights per year) - not one-third of a shorter period of time, e.g. one-third of a particular month. For example, child support would not be abated merely because the child spends an entire month with one parent during the summer. Worksheet B should be used only if both parents have custody of the child(ren) for at least one-third of the year and the situation involves a true sharing of expenses, rather than extended visitation with one parent that exceeds 122 overnights. Parents share custody of a child if the child lives with each parent for at least 123 nights during the year and each parent assumes financial responsibility for the child's expenses during the time the child lives with that parent. A parent does not have shared custody of a child when that parent has visitation rights that allow the child to spend less than 124 nights per year with the parent and the other parent has primary physical custody of the child. Split custody refers to cases in which one parent has primary custody of the other child or children. Child support computations for shared and split custody are determined without regard to whether a parent has primary, shared, or joint legal custody of a child.

In cases involving joint or shared physical custody, the basic child support obligation is multiplied by 1.5 to take into account the increased cost of maintaining two primary homes for the child(ren). Each parent's child support obligation is calculated based on the percentage of time that the child(ren) spends with the other parent. The support obligations of both parents are then offset against each other, and the parent with the higher support obligation pays the difference between the two amounts.

Lines 1 through 4 of Worksheet B are calculated in the same manner as lines 1 through 4 of Worksheet A. Multiply line 4 by 1.5 and enter the result on line 5. On line 6, multiply line 5 by each parent's percentage share of income (line 3) and enter the result under the appropriate column for each parent.

On lines 7 and 8, enter the number of nights the child(ren) spend with each parent during the year and calculate the percentage of total overnights spent with each parent. If at least one of the children does not spend at least 123 overnights with each parent, Worksheet B should not be used. The total number of nights should equal 365 times the total number of children. On line 9, multiply plaintiff's line 6 by defendant's line 8 and enter the result under the column for plaintiff, then multiply defendant's line 6 by plaintiff's line 8 and enter the result under the column for defendant.

Lines 10a through 10d of Worksheet B are calculated in the same manner as lines 5a through 5d of Worksheet A. On line 11, multiply line 10d (Combined) by line 3 for each parent and enter the result under the column for that parent. Subtract line 11 from line 10d for each parent and enter the result on line 12 (if negative, enter zero).

Subtract line 12 from line 9 for each parent and enter the result on line 13 under the appropriate column. In some cases, the result may be a negative number. If the result is negative, enter it as a negative number on line 13, not as a positive number or as a zero. If plaintiff's line 13 is greater than defendant's line 13, enter the difference between these two amounts on line 14 under plaintiff's column and leave defendant's column blank. If defendant's line 13 is greater than plaintiff's line 13, enter the difference between these two amounts on line 14 under defendant's column and leave plaintiff's column blank. [Note that if either of the number on line 13 is a negative number, you must change the signs when you subtract. For example, $100 minus negative $50 equals $150.]

NOTE TO PLAINTIFF AND DEFENDANT: *The information required to complete the worksheet is known only to the parties. It is the responsibility of the parties to provide this information to the Court so that the Court can set the appropriate amount of child support. The Clerk of Superior Court CANNOT obtain this information or fill out this worksheet for you. INSTRUCTIONS FOR COMPLETING CHILD SUPPORT WORKSHEET C
SPLIT CUSTODY OF CHILD(REN)

Worksheet C is used when there is more than one child involved in the pending action and each parent has physical custody of at least one of the children.

Lines 1 through 4 of Worksheet C are calculated in the same manner as lines 1 through 4 of Worksheet A. On line 5a, enter the number of children living with each parent and the total number of children for whom support is sought. Divide the number of children living with each parent by the total number of children and enter the result in the appropriate column for each parent on line 5b. (For example, if there are three children of the parties and one child lives with the plaintiff, divide one by three and enter 33.33% in plaintiff's column, then divide two by three and enter 66.67% in defendant's column on line 5b.) Multiply line 4 by line 5b for each parent and enter the results on line 5c.

On line 6a, multiply defendant's line 5c by plaintiff's line 3 (plaintiff's percentage share of income) and enter the result in the column for plaintiff. Multiply plaintiff's line 5c by defendant's line 3 and enter the result on line 6b.

Lines 7a through 7d of Worksheet C are calculated in the same manner as lines 5a through 5d of Worksheet A. On line 8, multiply line 7d (Combined) by line 3 for each parent and enter the result under the column for that parent. Subtract line 8 from line 7d for each parent and enter the result on line 9 (if negative, enter zero).

Subtract line 9 from line 6a or 6b for each parent and enter the result on line 10 under the appropriate column. In some cases, the result may be a negative number. If the result is negative, enter it as a negative number on line 10, not as a positive number or as a zero. If plaintiff's line 10 is greater than defendant's line 10, enter the difference between these two amounts on line 11 under plaintiff's column and leave defendant's column blank. If defendant's line 10 is greater than plaintiff's line 10, enter the difference between these two amounts on line 11 under defendant's column and leave plaintiff's column blank. [Note that if either of the numbers on line 10 is a negative number, you must change the signs when you subtract. For example, $100 minus negative $50 equals $150.]

NOTE TO PLAINTIFF AND DEFENDANT: *The information required to complete the worksheet is known only to the parties. It is the responsibility of the parties to provide this information to the Court so that the Court can set the appropriate amount of child support. The Clerk of Superior Court CANNOT obtain this information or fill out this worksheet for you. RULES FOR COURT-ORDERED ARBITRATION IN NORTH CAROLINA

Adopted August 28, 1986.
Effective January 1, 1987, with amendments received through December 19, 2002.

Rule
1. Actions subject to arbitration.
2. Arbitrators.
3. Arbitration hearings.
4. The award.
5. Trial de novo.
6. The court's judgment.
7. Costs.
8. Administration.
9. Application of rules.

Index follows Rules.

Editor's note. — The Rules for Court-Ordered Arbitration were initially adopted as a pilot program applicable to the Third, Fourteenth and Twenty-Ninth Judicial Districts by order of the Supreme Court on August 28, 1986. The order of the court provided:

"The North Carolina General Assembly authorized the Supreme Court of North Carolina 'by such rules as it shall determine appropriate' to 'provide for an experimental, pilot program in three judicial districts selected by the Court, of mandatory, nonbinding arbitration of all claims for money damages of $15,000 or less ... provided ... that no state funds shall be used to implement the pilot program,' 1985 Sess. Laws ch. 698, § 23 [See G.S. § 7A-37]. The Court has determined that such a pilot program should be instituted in this state on an experimental basis provided funds can be obtained to conduct the program.

Now, therefore, provided sufficient funds can be obtained to conduct the program, the Court orders:

(1) An experimental, pilot program of mandatory, nonbinding arbitration shall be operated for two years in the Third, Fourteenth, and Twenty-Ninth Judicial Districts;

(2) The program shall operate pursuant to the attached 'Rules for Court-Ordered Arbitration';

(3) These rules shall become effective on 1 January 1987;

(4) These rules shall be promulgated by their publication, together with this order, in the Advance Sheets of the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals of North Carolina."

By order dated May 5, 1988, the expiration date of this pilot program was extended from December 31, 1988, to October 1, 1989.

Subsequently, by order dated September 14, 1989, the Supreme Court provided for the operation of these rules on a permanent basis in the Third, Fourteenth and Twenty-Ninth Judicial Districts, and in other judicial districts designated by the Administrative Office of the Courts, subject to the availability of funds. The order of the court provides:

"WHEREAS, the North Carolina General Assembly, by Ch. 301 of the 1989 Session Laws [see G.S. § 7A-37.1], authorized statewide court-ordered, nonbinding arbitration in certain civil actions, and further authorized the Supreme Court of North Carolina to adopt rules governing this procedure and to supervise its implementation and operation through the Administrative Office of the Courts.

NOW, THEREFORE, the Court orders:

(1) The program shall operate on a permanent basis in the Third, Fourteenth, and Twenty-Ninth Judicial Districts, and in all other judicial districts designated by the Administrative Office of the Courts, in consultation with local court officials, subject to the availability of funds appropriated for this purpose;

(2) Effective immediately, the program shall operate pursuant to the attached 'Rules for Court-Ordered Arbitration in North Carolina';

(3) These rules shall be promulgated by their publication, together with this order, in the Advance Sheets of the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals of North Carolina."

Rule 1. Actions subject to arbitration.

(a) By order of the court.

(1) District Court. All civil actions filed in the District Court Division are subject to court-ordered arbitration under these rules, except actions:

(i) Which are assigned to a magistrate, provided that appeals from judgments of magistrates are subject to court-ordered arbitration under these rules except appeals from summary ejectment actions and actions in which the sole claim is an action on an account;

(ii) In which class certification is sought;

(iii) In which a request has been made for a preliminary injunction or a temporary restraining order;

(iv) Involving family law matters including claims filed under N.C. Gen. Stat. chapters 50, 50A, 50B, 51, 52, 52B and 52C;

(v) Involving title to real estate;

(vi) Which are special proceedings; or

(vii) In which the sole claim is an action on an account.

(2) Superior Court. The Senior Resident Superior Court Judge may order any civil Superior Court action to arbitration, where the amount in controversy does not exceed $15,000, under these rules after the Court confers with the parties at a scheduling conference. The judge shall enter a written order, which finds that the action is appropriate for arbitration and that the amount in controversy does not exceed $15,000.

(b) Arbitration by agreement.

(1) District Court. The parties in any other civil action pending in the District Court Division may, upon joint written motion, request to submit the action to arbitration under these rules. The Court may approve the motion if it finds that arbitration under these rules is appropriate, and the amount in controversy does not exceed $15,000. The consent of the parties shall not be presumed, but shall be stated by the parties expressly in writing.

(2) Superior Court. The parties in any civil action pending in the Superior Court Division where the amount in controversy does not exceed $15,000 may, upon joint written motion, request to submit the action to arbitration under these rules. The Court may approve the motion if it finds that arbitration under these rules is appropriate, and the amount in controversy does not exceed $15,000. The consent of the parties shall not be presumed, but shall be stated by the parties expressly in writing.

(c) Exemption and withdrawal from arbitration. The Court may exempt or withdraw any action from arbitration on its own motion, or on motion of a party, made not less than 10 days before the arbitration hearing and a showing that: (i) the action is excepted from arbitration under Arb. Rule 1(a)(1) or (ii) there is a compelling reason to do so.

COMMENT

The purpose of these rules is to create an efficient economical alternative to traditional litigation for prompt resolution of disputes in District Court Subject to the opt-in of Superior Court cases under Arb. Rule 1(b), the rules provide for court-ordered arbitration of District Court actions because District Court actions are typically suitable for consideration in the manner provided in these rules and Superior Court actions are covered by another dispute resolution program. The $15,000 jurisdictional limit by statute and Arb. Rule 1 applies only to the claim(s) actually asserted, even though the claim(s) is or are based on a statute providing for multiple damages, e.g. N.C. Gen. Stat. §§ 1-538, 75-16. An arbitrator may award damages in any amount which a party is entitled to recover. These rules do not affect the jurisdiction or functions of the magistrates where they have been assigned such jurisdiction. Counsel are expected to value their cases reasonably without Court involvement.

"Family law issues" in Arb. Rule 1(a)(1)(iv) includes all family law cases such as divorce, guardianship, adoptions, juvenile matters, child support, custody and visitation. "Summary ejectments" and "special proceedings", referred to in Arb. Rule 1(a)(vi), are actions so designated by the General Statutes.

CASE NOTES

Objection to Arbitration. — When an injured party did not timely object, pursuant to N.C. R. Arb. 1, to civil arbitration of her personal injury claim, or avail herself of numerous opportunities to withdraw her case from civil arbitration, the trial court subsequently had jurisdiction to enter a judgment approving the arbitrator's award dismissing her case. Clendening v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., — N.C. App. —, — S.E.2d —, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 2114 (Aug. 20, 2002).

Rule 2. Arbitrators.

(a) Selection.

(1) The Court shall approve and maintain a list of qualified arbitrators, which shall be a public record. The parties may stipulate to an arbitrator on the Court's list within the first 20 days after the 60-day period fixed in Arb. Rule 8(b). If there is no stipulation, the Court shall appoint an arbitrator from the list and notify the parties of the arbitrator selected.

(2) Parties may choose an arbitrator who is not on the Court's list provided the arbitrator consents, the Court approves the choice, and the arbitrator otherwise meets all the requirements of Arb. Rule 2 with the exception of the requirement to complete the arbitrator training as prescribed by the Administrative Office of the Courts. The stipulation of agreement on an arbitrator, the arbitrator's consent, and the court order approving such stipulation shall be filed within the same 20-day period for choosing an arbitrator on the Court's list.

(b) Eligibility. An arbitrator shall be a member in good standing of the North Carolina State Bar and have been licensed to practice law for five years. The arbitrator shall have been admitted in North Carolina for at least the last two years of the five-year period. Admission outside North Carolina may be considered for the balance of the five-year period, so long as the arbitrator was admitted as a duly licensed member of the bar of a state(s) or a territory(ies) of the United States or the District of Columbia. In addition, an arbitrator shall complete the arbitrator training course prescribed by the Administrative Office of the Courts and be approved by the Chief District Court Judge for such service. Arbitrators so approved shall serve at the pleasure of the appointing Court.

(c) Fees and expenses. Arbitrators shall be paid a $75 fee by the Court for each arbitration hearing when they file their awards with the Court. An arbitrator may be reimbursed for expenses actually and necessarily incurred in connection with an arbitration hearing and paid a reasonable fee not exceeding $75 for work on a case not resulting in a hearing upon the arbitrator's written application to and approval by the Chief Judge of the District Court.

(d) Oath of office. Arbitrators shall take an oath or affirmation similar to that prescribed in N.C. Gen. Stat. § 11-11, in a form approved by the Administrative Office of the Courts, before conducting any hearings.

(e) Arbitrator ethics; Disqualification. Arbitrators shall comply with the Canons of Ethics for Arbitrators promulgated by the Supreme Court of North Carolina. Arbitrators shall be disqualified and must recuse themselves in accordance with the Canons.

(f) Replacement of arbitrator. If an arbitrator is disqualified, recused, unable, or unwilling to serve, a replacement shall be appointed by the Court from the list of arbitrators.

COMMENT

Under Arb. Rule 2(a) the parties have a right to choose one arbitrator from the list if they wish to do so, but they have the burden of taking the initiative if they want to make the selection, and they must do it promptly.

When assigning arbitrators to serve in cases, the Court is encouraged to regularly use all arbitrators on the Court's list as established in Arb. Rule 2(a).

The parties in a particular case may choose a person to be an arbitrator who is not on the list required by Arb. Rule 2(a)(1), provided that person consents, the choice is approved by the Chief District Court Judge, and the person otherwise meets the requirements of Arb. Rule 2. The stipulation of agreement on an arbitrator, the arbitrator's consent, and the order approving such stipulation and consent must be filed within the 20-day period mentioned in Arb. Rule 2(a)(1).

Under Arb. Rule 2(c) filing of the award is the final act at which payment should be made, closing the matter for the arbitrator. The arbitrator should make the award when the hearing is concluded. Hearings must be brief and expedited so that an arbitrator can hear at least three per day. See Arb. Rule 3(n).

Payments and expense reimbursements authorized by Arb. Rule 2(c) are made subject to Court approval to insure conservation and judicial monitoring of the use of funds available for the program.

Rule 3. Arbitration hearings.

(a) Hearing scheduled by the court. Arbitration hearings shall be scheduled by the Court and held in a courtroom, if available, or in any other public room suitable for conducting judicial proceedings and shall be open to the public.

(b) Pre-hearing exchange of information. At least 10 days before the date set for the hearing, the parties shall exchange:

(1) Lists of witnesses they expect to testify;

(2) Copies of documents or exhibits they expect to offer in evidence; and

(3) A brief statement of the issues and their contentions.

Parties may agree in writing to rely on stipulations and/or statements, sworn or unsworn, rather than a formal presentation and witnesses and documents, for all or part of the hearing. Failure to comply with Arb. Rule 3(b) may be cause for sanctions under Arb. Rule 3(l). Each party shall bring to the hearing and provide to the arbitrator a copy of these materials. These materials shall not be filed with the Court or included in the case file.

(c) Exchanged documents considered authenticated. Any document exchanged may be received in the hearing as evidence without further authentication; however, the party against whom it is offered may subpoena and examine as an adverse witness anyone who is the author, custodian or a witness through whom the document might otherwise have been introduced. Documents not so exchanged may not be received if to do so would, in the arbitrator's opinion, constitute unfair, prejudicial surprise.

(d) Copies of exhibits admissible. Copies of exchanged documents or exhibits are admissible in arbitration hearings.

(e) Witnesses. Witnesses may be compelled to testify under oath or affirmation and produce evidence by the same authority and to the same extent as if the hearing were a trial. The arbitrator is empowered and authorized to administer oaths and affirmations in arbitration hearings.

(f) Subpoenas. N.C. R. Civ. P. 45 shall apply to subpoenas for attendance of witnesses and production of documentary evidence at an arbitration hearing under these rules.

(g) Authority of arbitrator to govern hearings. Arbitrators shall have the authority of a trial judge to govern the conduct of hearings, except for the power to punish for contempt. The arbitrator shall refer all contempt matters to the Court.

(h) Law of evidence used as guide. The law of evidence does not apply, except as to privilege, in an arbitration hearing but shall be considered as a guide toward full and fair development of the facts. The arbitrator shall consider all evidence presented and give it the weight and effect the arbitrator determines appropriate.

(i) No ex parte communications with arbitrator. No ex parte communications between parties or their counsel and arbitrators are permitted.

(j) Failure to appear; Defaults; Rehearing. If a party who has been notified of the date, time and place of the hearing fails to appear without good cause therefor, the hearing may proceed and an award may be made by the arbitrator against the absent party upon the evidence offered by the parties present, but not by default for failure to appear or by dismissing the case. If a party is in default for any other reason but no judgment has been entered upon the default pursuant to N.C. R. Civ. P. 55(b) before the hearing, the arbitrator may hear evidence and may issue an award against the party in default. The Court may order a rehearing of any case in which an award was made against a party who failed to obtain a continuance of a hearing and failed to appear for reasons beyond the party's control. Such motion for rehearing shall be filed with the Court within the time allowed for demanding trial de novo stated in Arb. Rule 5(a).

(k) No record of hearing made. No official transcript of an arbitration hearing shall be made. The arbitrator may permit any party to record the arbitration hearing in any manner that does not interfere with the proceeding.

(l) Sanctions. Any party failing to attend an arbitration proceeding shall be subject to sanctions by the Court on motion of a party, report of the arbitrator, or by the Court on its own motion. These sanctions may include those provided in N.C. R. Civ. P. 11, 37(b)(2)(A)-37(b)(2)(D) and N.C. Gen. Stat. § 6-21.5.

(m) Proceedings in forma pauperis. The right to proceed in forma pauperis is not affected by these rules.

(n) Limits of hearings. Arbitration hearings shall be limited to one hour unless the arbitrator determines at the hearing that more time is necessary to ensure fairness and justice to the parties.

(1) A written application for a substantial enlargement of time for a hearing must be filed with the Court and the arbitrator, if appointed, and must be served on opposing parties at the earliest practicable time, and no later than the date for prehearing exchange of information under Arb. Rule 3(b). The Court will rule on these applications after consulting the arbitrator if appointed.

(2) An arbitrator is not required to receive repetitive or cumulative evidence.

(o) Hearing concluded. The arbitrator shall declare the hearing concluded when all the evidence is in and any arguments the arbitrator permits have been completed. In exceptional cases, the arbitrator has discretion to receive post-hearing briefs, but not evidence, if submitted within three days after the hearing has been concluded.

(p) Parties must be present at hearings; Representation. All parties shall be present at hearings in person or through counsel. Parties may appear pro se as permitted by law.

(q) Motions. Designation of an action for arbitration does not affect a party's right to file any motion with the Court.

(1) The Court, in its discretion, may consider and determine any motion at any time. It may defer consideration of issues raised by motion to the arbitrator for determination in the award. Parties shall state their contentions regarding pending motions referred to the arbitrator in the exchange of information required by Arb. Rule 3(b).

(2) Pendency of a motion shall not be cause for delaying an arbitration hearing unless the Court so orders.

COMMENT

Good faith compliance with Arb. Rule 3(b) is required by professional courtesy and fairness as well as the spirit of these rules. Failure to comply with Arb. Rule 3(b) may justify a sanction of limiting of evidence otherwise admissible under Arb. Rules 3(c) — 3(f) and 3(g).

Arb. Rule 3(d) contemplates that the arbitrator shall return all evidence submitted when the hearing is concluded and the award has been made. Original documents and exhibits should not be marked in any way to identify them with the arbitration, to avoid possible prejudice in any future trial.

The purpose of Arb. Rule 3(n) is to ensure that hearings are limited and expedited. Failure to limit and expedite the hearings defeats the purpose of these rules. In this connection, note the option in Arb. Rule 3(b) for use of prehearing stipulations and/or sworn or unsworn statements to meet time limits.

Under Arb. Rule 3(o) the declaration that the hearing is concluded by the arbitrator formally marks the end of the hearing. Note Arb. Rule 4(a), which requires the arbitrator to file the award within three days after the hearing is concluded or post-hearing briefs are received. The usual practice should be a statement of the award at the close of the hearing, without submission of briefs. In the unusual case where an arbitrator is willing to receive post-hearing briefs, the arbitrator should specify the points to be addressed promptly and succinctly. Time limits in these rules are governed by N.C. R. Civ. P. 6 and N.C. Gen. Stat. §§ 103-4, 103-5.

Arb. Rule 3(p) requires that all parties be present in person or through counsel. The presence of the parties or their counsel is necessary for presentation of the case to the arbitrator. Rule 3(p) does not require that a party or any representative of a party have authority to make binding decisions on the party's behalf in the matters in controversy.

The rules do not establish a separate standard for pro se representation in court-ordered arbitrations. Instead, pro se representation in court-ordered arbitrations is governed by applicable principles of North Carolina law in that area. See Arb. Rule 3(p). Conformance of practice in court-ordered arbitrations with the applicable law, whatever it may provide, is ensured by providing that pro se representation be "as permitted by law."

Under Arb. Rule 3(q)(1), the Court will rule on prehearing motions which dispose of all or part of the case on the pleadings, or which relate to procedural management of the case. The Court will normally defer to the arbitrator's consideration motions addressed to the merits of a claim requiring a hearing, the taking of evidence, or examination of records and documents other than the pleadings and motion papers, except in cases in which an N.C. R. Civ. P. 12(b) motion is filed in lieu of a responsive pleading.

CASE NOTES

Violation of This Rule May Result in a Loss of N.C. Arb. Rule 5(a) Rights. — The trial court's order enforcing an arbitration award, which implicitly imposed the sanctions of striking defendants' request for trial de novo or of entering judgment against defendants, was within the purview of G.S. 1A-1, Rule 37(b)(2)(c), did not constitute an abuse of the court's discretion, and did not violate N.C. Arb. Rule 5(a). Mohamad v. Simmons, 139 N.C. App. 610, 534 S.E.2d 616, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 993 (2000).

Defendants violated subsection (p) of this rule where they failed to attend the hearing in person, and where no evidence in the record reflected that counsel purporting to appear on defendants' behalf or the representative of defendants' liability insurance carrier were authorized "to make binding decisions . . . in all matters" on behalf of defendants. Mohamad v. Simmons, 139 N.C. App. 610, 534 S.E.2d 616, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 993 (2000).

Defendant violated N.C. R. Arb. 3(p) by not being present at an arbitration hearing and not providing documentation before or at the hearing that defendant's attorney or insurance company's representative was authorized to act for defendant; trial court did not abuse its discretion by denying defendant's request for a trial de novo as a sanction for defendant's violation. Parks v. Green, 153 N.C. App. 405, 571 S.E.2d 14, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1278 (2002).

Failure to Participate in Arbitration in Good Faith. — Failure of defendant in auto accident case to appear at arbitration hearing, and lack of evidence regarding attorney's authority, resulted in conclusion that defendant failed to participate in arbitration hearing in good faith and meaningful manner. Bledsole v. Johnson, 150 N.C. App. 619, 564 S.E.2d 902, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 652 (2002), cert. granted, 356 N.C. 297, 570 S.E.2d 498 (2002).

Evidence Did Not Support Finding of Failure to Participate in Good Faith. — There was no evidence to support the trial court's finding that defendant motorist in a personal injury case failed to participate in court ordered arbitration in a good faith and meaningful manner, and the trial court's sanction striking the motorist's motion for a trial de novo was reversed; an associate attorney appearing for the motorist was a person authorized to make decisions on motorist's behalf. Bledsole v. Johnson, 357 N.C. 133, 579 S.E.2d 379, 2003 N.C. LEXIS 418 (2003).

Insurance Carriers. — N.C. R. Arb. 3(P) does not require that a representative of a defendant's insurance carrier be present at a court-ordered, non-binding arbitration hearing where the insurance carrier is not a party named in the action. Johnson v. Brewington, 150 N.C. App. 425, 562 S.E.2d 919, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 484 (2002).

Rule 4. The award.

(a) Filing the award. The award shall be in writing, signed by the arbitrator and filed with the clerk within three days after the hearing is concluded or the receipt of post-hearing briefs, whichever is later.

(b) Findings; Conclusions; Opinions. No findings of fact and conclusions of law or opinions supporting an award are required.

(c) Scope of award. The award must resolve all issues raised by the pleadings, may be in any amount supported by the evidence, shall include interest as provided by law, and may include attorney's fees as allowed by law.

(d) Copies of award to parties. The arbitrator shall deliver a copy of the award to all of the parties or their counsel at the conclusion of the hearing or the Court shall serve the award after filing. A record shall be made by the arbitrator or the Court of the date and manner of service.

COMMENT

Ordinarily, the arbitrator should issue the award at the conclusion of the hearing. See Arb. Rule 4(a). If the arbitrator wants post-hearing briefs, the arbitrator must receive them within three days, consider them, and file the award within three days thereafter. See Arb. Rule 3(o) and its Comment. If the arbitrator deems it appropriate, the arbitrator may explain orally the basis of the award.

Rule 5. Trial de novo.

(a) Trial de novo as of right. Any party not in default for a reason subjecting that party to judgment by default who is dissatisfied with an arbitrator's award may have a trial de novo as of right upon filing a written demand for trial de novo with the Court, and service of the demand on all parties, on an approved form within 30 days after the arbitrator's award has been served, or within 10 days after an adverse determination of an Arb. Rule 3(j) motion to rehear. Demand for jury trial pursuant to N.C. R. Civ. P. 38(b) does not preserve the right to a trial de novo. A demand by any party for a trial de novo in accordance with this section is sufficient to preserve the right of all other parties to a trial de novo. Any trial de novo pursuant to this section shall include all claims in the action.

(b) Filing fee. The first party filing a demand for trial de novo shall pay a filing fee equivalent to the arbitrator's compensation, which shall be held by the Court until the case is terminated. The fee shall be returned to the demanding party only upon written order of the trial judge finding that the position of the demanding party has been improved over the arbitrator's award. Otherwise, the filing fee shall be deposited into the Judicial Department's General Fund.

(c) No reference to arbitration in presence of jury. A trial de novo shall be conducted as if there had been no arbitration proceeding. No reference may be made to prior arbitration proceedings in the presence of a jury without consent of all parties to the arbitration and the Court's approval.

(d) No evidence of arbitration admissible. No evidence that there have been arbitration proceedings or of statements made and conduct occurring in arbitration proceedings may be admitted in a trial de novo, or in any subsequent proceeding involving any of the issues in or parties to the arbitration, without the consent of all parties to the arbitration and the Court's approval.

(e) Arbitrator not to be called as witness. An arbitrator may not be deposed or called as a witness to testify concerning anything said or done in an arbitration proceeding in a trial de novo or any subsequent civil or administrative proceeding involving any of the issues in or parties to the arbitration. The arbitrator's notes are privileged and not subject to discovery.

(f) Judicial immunity. The arbitrator shall have judicial immunity to the same extent as a trial judge with respect to the arbitrator's actions in the arbitration proceeding.

CASE NOTES

Right to Jury Trial. — Arbitration judgment was not void as a violation of an injured party's right to jury trial under G.S. 1A-1, N.C. R. Civ. P. 38 and 39, N.C. Const. art. I, § 25 or U.S. Const. amend. VII, because her right to a jury trial was protected by N.C. R. Arb. 5(a), which allowed any party to have a trial de novo upon written demand filed within 30 days of the arbitrator's award. Clendening v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., — N.C. App. —, — S.E.2d —, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 2114 (Aug. 20, 2002).

Exercise of Right to Trial De Novo Could Not Support Challenge to the Party's Good Faith Participation in Arbitration. — Fact that a nonprevailing party exercises the right provided in N.C. R. Arb. 5(a) to seek a trial de novo cannot support a challenge to the party's good-faith participation in the arbitration proceedings; there was no evidence to support the trial court's finding that defendant motorist in a personal injury case failed to participate in court ordered arbitration in a good faith and meaningful manner, and the trial court's sanction striking the motorist's motion for a trial de novo was reversed; Bledsole v. Johnson, 357 N.C. 133, 579 S.E.2d 379, 2003 N.C. LEXIS 418 (2003).

Rule 6. The court's judgment.

(a) Termination of action before judgment. Dismissals or a consent judgment may be filed at any time before entry of judgment on an award.

(b) Judgment entered on award. If the case is not terminated by dismissal or consent judgment, and no party files a demand for trial de novo within 30 days after the award is served, the clerk or the Court shall enter judgment on the award, which shall have the same effect as a consent judgment in the action. A copy of the judgment shall be served on all parties or their counsel.

COMMENT

A judgment entered on the arbitrator's award is not appealable because there is no record for review by an appellate court. A trial de novo is not an "appeal," in the sense of an appeal to the North Carolina Court of Appeals from Superior Court or District Court, from the arbitrator's award. By failing to demand a trial de novo the right to appeal is waived.

CASE NOTES

Effective Consent to Arbitration. — When an injured party did not seek a trial de novo regarding an arbitrator's award dismissing her case within the time provided by N.C. R. Arb. 6(b), thus failing to timely avail herself of the opportunity to have a trial de novo of her claims before a jury, she effectively consented to have the matter referred to civil arbitration and was governed by the rules applicable to such proceedings. Clendening v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., — N.C. App. —, — S.E.2d —, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 2114 (Aug. 20, 2002).

"Consent Judgment." — Trial court's judgment adopting an arbitrator's award dismissing an injured party's personal injury case was not void for being a consent judgment entered without the injured party's express consent because N.C. R. Arb. 6(b) only provided that an arbitration award had the "effect" of a consent judgment, and an arbitration award did not become a consent judgment or have the same requirements for validity as a consent judgment, nor was it required that the parties consent to the entry of an arbitration judgment. Clendening v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., — N.C. App. —, — S.E.2d —, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 2114 (Aug. 20, 2002).

Rule 7. Costs.

(a) Arbitration costs. The arbitrator may include in an award court costs accruing through the arbitration proceedings in favor of the prevailing party.

(b) Costs denied if party does not improve position in trial de novo. A party demanding trial de novo whose position is not improved at the trial may be denied costs in connection with the arbitration proceeding by the trial judge, even though that party prevails at trial.

Rule 8. Administration.

(a) Actions designated for arbitration. The Court shall designate actions eligible for arbitration upon the filing of the complaint or docketing of an appeal from a magistrate's judgment and give notice of such designation to the parties.

(b) Hearings rescheduled; 60 day limit; Continuance.

(1) The Court shall schedule hearings with notice to the parties to begin within 60 days after: (i) the docketing of an appeal from a magistrate's judgment, (ii) the filing of the last responsive pleading, or (iii) the expiration of the time allowed for the filing of such pleading.

(2) A hearing may be scheduled, rescheduled, or continued to a date after the time allowed by this rule only by the Court before whom the case is pending upon a written motion and a showing of a strong and compelling reason to do so.

(c) Date of hearing advanced by agreement. A hearing may be held earlier than the date set by the Court, by agreement of the parties with Court approval.

(d) Forms. Forms for use in these arbitration proceedings must be approved by the Administrative Office of the Courts.

(e) Delegation of nonjudicial functions. To conserve judicial resources and facilitate the effectiveness of these rules, the Court may delegate nonjudicial, administrative duties and functions to supporting Court personnel and authorize them to require compliance with approved procedures.

(f) Definitions. "Court" as used in these rules means:

(1) The Chief District Court Judge or the delegate of such judge; or

(2) Any assigned judge exercising the Court's jurisdiction and authority in an action.

COMMENT

One goal of these rules is to expedite disposition of claims filed in District Court. See Arb. Rule 8(a). The 60 days in Arb. Rule 8(b)(1) will allow for discovery, trial preparation, pretrial motions disposition and calendaring. A motion to continue a hearing will be heard by a judge mindful of this goal. Continuances may be granted when a party or counsel is entitled to such under law, e.g. N.C. R. Civ. P. 40(b); rule of Court, e.g. N.C. Prac. L 3; or customary practice.

Any settlement reached prior to the scheduled arbitration hearing must be reported by the parties to the Court official administering the arbitration. The parties must file dismissals or a consent judgment prior to the scheduled hearing to close the case without a hearing. If the dismissals or consent judgment are not filed before the scheduled hearing, the parties should appear at the hearing to have their agreement entered as the award of the arbitrator.

Editor's note. — As to the applicability of the Rules for Court-Ordered Arbitration, see the order of the Supreme Court preceding these rules.

NORTH CAROLINA CANONS OF ETHICS FOR ARBITRATORS

Adopted August 19, 1999.

Canon
1. An arbitrator shall uphold the integrity and fairness of the arbitration process.
2. An arbitrator shall disclose any interest or relationship likely to affect impartiality or which might create an appearance of partiality or bias.
3. An arbitrator, in communicating with parties, shall avoid impropriety or the appearance of impropriety.
4. An arbitrator shall conduct proceedings fairly and diligently.
5. An arbitrator shall make decisions in a just, independent and deliberate manner.
6. An arbitrator shall be faithful to the relationship of trust and confidentiality inherent in that office.
7. Ethical considerations relating to arbitrators appointed by one party.
8. Canons are subject to laws and professional responsibility principles; choice or law.

Index follows Rules.

Canon 1. An arbitrator shall uphold the integrity and fairness of the arbitration process.

A. Fair and just processes for resolving disputes are indispensable in our society. Arbitration is an important method for deciding many types of disputes. For arbitration to be effective, there must be broad public confidence in and understanding of the integrity and fairness of the process. Therefore, an arbitrator has a responsibility not only to the parties but also to the courts, the public and the process of arbitration itself and must observe high standards of conduct so that the integrity and fairness of the process will be preserved. Accordingly, an arbitrator has a responsibility to the public, parties whose rights will be decided, the courts, and other participants in the proceeding. These Canons shall be construed and applied to further these objectives.

B. It may be inconsistent with the integrity of the arbitration process for persons to solicit appointment for themselves. However, persons may indicate a general willingness to serve as arbitrators, e.g., by listing themselves with institutions that sponsor arbitration, or with courts that have court-annexed arbitration programs. Arbitrators may advertise, consistent with the law.

C. Persons may accept appointment as arbitrators only if they believe that they can be available to conduct the arbitration promptly. They shall exercise judgment whether their skills or expertise are sufficient to support demands of the arbitration and, if these skills or expertise are not sufficient, they shall decline to serve or withdraw from the arbitration, with the court's approval in court-administered arbitration, and notice to the parties.

D. After accepting appointment and while serving as an arbitrator, a person shall avoid entering into any financial, business, professional, family or social relationship, or acquiring any financial or personal interest likely to affect impartiality or which might reasonably create the appearance of partiality or bias. For one year after decision of a case, persons who have served as arbitrators shall avoid entering into any such relationship, or acquiring any such interest, in the circumstances which might reasonably create the appearance that they had been influenced in the arbitration by the anticipation or expectation of the relationship or interest, unless all parties to the arbitration consent to any such relationship or acquiring any such interest.

E. Arbitrators shall conduct themselves in a way that is fair, in word and action, to all parties and must not be swayed by outside pressure, public clamor, fear of criticism or self-interest. If an arbitrator determines that he or she cannot serve impartially, that arbitrator shall decline appointment or withdraw from serving and shall notify the parties, and the court in court-administered arbitrations.

F. When an arbitrator's authority is derived from the parties' agreement, the arbitrator shall not exceed that authority nor do less than required to exercise that authority completely. Where the parties' agreement sets forth procedures to be followed in conducting the arbitration or refers to rules to be followed, the arbitrator must comply with such procedures or rules.

G. An arbitrator shall make all reasonable efforts to prevent delaying tactics, harassment of parties or other participants, or other abuse or disruption of the arbitration process.

H. An arbitrator's ethical obligations begin upon acceptance of appointment and continue throughout all stages of the proceeding. In addition, wherever specifically set forth in these Canons, certain ethical obligations begin as soon as a person is asked to serve as an arbitrator and continue for one year after the decision in the case has been given to the parties.

I. An experienced arbitrator should participate in development of new practitioners in the field and should engage in efforts to educate the public about the value and use of arbitration procedures. An arbitrator should provide pro bono services, as appropriate. (Adopted August 19, 1999, effective October 1, 1999.)

COMMENT

References to "commercial" in American Bar Association & American Arbitration Association, Code of Ethics for Arbitrators in Commercial Disputes, Canon I (1977) (Code), 33 Bus. Law. 311 (1977), from which these Canons have been adapted, have been deleted. Excess verbiage has been deleted. The catchline has been changed from "should" to "shall" to underscore the mandatory nature of the principle; "should" has been omitted in Canon I.A in the penultimate sentence, and the language amended, to underscore this. "Should" in the last sentence has been changed to "shall." "Should" has been changed to "shall" or "must" in other parts of the Canon.

Other additions in Canon I.A follow the Preamble to North Carolina Dispute Resolution Commission, Standards of Conduct for Mediators, 344 N.C. 753 (Standards). The addition in Canon I.B gives examples of circumstances in which persons may offer services as arbitrators. It is consistent with N.C. Ct-Ord. Arb. R. 2(a). Unlike the Code, Canon I.B says it "may be" inconsistent with the integrity of the arbitration process to solicit appointment as an arbitrator. This is because of the difficulty, e.g., in drawing a line between advertisement permitted by law and solicitation that is condemned in some professional standards, e.g., those for lawyers. Arbitrators must be mindful of fairness, neutrality, disclosure and conflict of interest principles stated in these Canons. The last sentence in Canon I.B makes it clear that the Canons should not be read to forbid arbitrator advertising where, e.g., commercial free speech principles under the Constitution allow it. The addition in Canon I.C is taken from Standards I.B-I.C and covers situations of court-appointed arbitrators under, e.g., the Uniform Arbitration Act, N.C. Gen. Stat. § 1-567.4, or in court-annexed arbitrations; these arbitrators are subject to court order appointing them, and the court is the final arbiter of these issues. The thrust of Canon I.C is consistent with Revised North Carolina Rules of Professional Conduct 1.1 (Rule), although the latter deals with competence of a lawyer, and the Canon governs competence to serve as an arbitrator. Canon I.D states a one-year rule instead of the "reasonable time" principle of the Code. The one-year rule has been substituted to coincide with the time in the Federal Arbitration Act, 9 U.S.C. §§ 9-11, during which a party can move to set aside an award. The Uniform Act, N.C. Gen. Stat. §§ 1-567.13—1-567.14, requires set-aside applications to be made within 90 days of an award. Fed. R. Civ. P. 60(b) and N.C.R. Civ. P. 60(b) limit certain judgment set-aside motions to one year. One year has been chosen as the time when nearly all conflict issues would arise and be resolved. The addition to Canon I.D, penultimate sentence, follows the consent rule in Rule 1.12(a). Additions in Canon II.E follow Standard II.C, with additions to cover court-annexed arbitration or arbitrations where a court has appointed an arbitrator under, e.g., the Uniform Act. "Asked" replaces "requested" in Canon I.H. The phrase "continues for one year" has been added to coincide with the one-year rule for Canon I.D.

Canon I.I has been adapted from Society of Professionals in Dispute Resolution, Ethical Standards of Professional Conduct, Support of the Profession (1987) (SPIDR Standards), reprinted in Rena A. Gorlin, Codes of Professional Responsibility 327 (2d ed. 1990); unlike standards applicable to arbitrators in proceedings, Canon I.I is hortatory, not mandatory. The Rules do not include the equivalent of ABA, Model Rules of Professional Conduct, Rule 6.1, which says a lawyer should aspire to provide 50 hours of public service a year. See Alice Neece Moseley et al., An Overview of the Revised North Carolina Rules of Professional Conduct: An Examination of the Interests Promoted and Subordinated, 32 Wake Forest L. Rev. 939, 990-91 (1997). Since these Canons would apply to all arbitrators, including non-lawyers, and Canon I.I states aspirations to provide continuing education, there is no inconsistency with the Rules. Canon I.I is consistent with North Carolina attorneys' obligations to take 12 hours of continuing legal education a year. Other lawyers teach this CLE, and these lawyers have the same role as Canon I.I would contemplate for experienced arbitrators.

The Canon's language has been tightened.

Canon I generally parallels North Carolina Code of Judicial Conduct, Canons 1-3 (Code of Judicial Conduct), See also National Academy of Arbitrators et al., Code of Professional Responsibility for Arbitrators of Labor-Management Disputes, ¶¶ 1.A-1.C.2, III.A (May 30, 1996) (Academy Code); International Bar Association, Ethics for International Arbitrators, Arts. 1-2 (1986) (IBA Ethics), 26 Int'l Legal Mat'ls 584 (1987), 6A Benedict on Admiralty, Doc. No. 7-12D (Frank L. Wiswall, Jr. ed., 7th rev. ed. 1999), SPIDR Standards, General Responsibilities & Responsibilities to the Parties § 1, Background and Qualifications.

Canon 2. An arbitrator shall disclose any interest or relationship likely to affect impartiality or which might create an appearance of partiality or bias.

A. Persons asked to serve as arbitrators shall, before accepting, disclose:

(1) any direct or indirect financial or personal interest in the outcome of the arbitration;

(2) any existing or past financial, business, professional, family or social relationships which are likely to affect impartiality or which might reasonably create an appearance of partiality or bias. Persons asked to serve as arbitrators shall disclose any such relationships which they personally have with any party or its lawyer, or with any individual whom they have been told will be a witness. They shall also disclose any such relationships involving their spouses or minor children residing in the household or their current employers, partners or business associates; and

(3) any information required by a court in the case of court-administered arbitrations.

B. Persons asked to accept appointment as arbitrators shall make a reasonable effort to inform themselves of any interests or relationships described in Canon II.A.

C. The obligation to disclose interests or relationships described in Canon II.A is a continuing duty which requires a person accepting appointment as an arbitrator to disclose, at any stage of the arbitration, any such interests or relationships which may arise, or which are recalled or discovered.

D. Disclosure shall be made to all parties unless other disclosure procedures are provided in the rules or practices of an institution or court administering the arbitration. Where more than one arbitrator has been appointed, the other arbitrators shall be informed of interests and relationships which have been disclosed.

E. If an arbitrator is asked by all parties to withdraw, the arbitrator shall do so, provided however, if a court is administering the arbitration, the arbitrator shall inform the court of the request and shall comply with court orders. If an arbitrator is asked to withdraw by less than all of the parties because of alleged partiality or bias, the arbitrator shall withdraw unless any of these circumstances exists:

(1) If the parties' agreement, or arbitration rules to which the parties have agreed, establish procedures for determining challenges to arbitrators, those procedures shall be followed;

(2) If the arbitrator, after carefully considering the matter, determines that the reason for the challenge is not substantial, and that he or she can nevertheless act and decide the case impartially and fairly, and that withdrawal would cause unfair delay or expense to another party or would be contrary to the interest of justice; or

(3) The court administering the arbitration decides otherwise.

F. The parties may waive disqualification of an arbitrator upon full disclosure of any basis for disqualification, and upon approval of the court in court-administered arbitrations. (Adopted August 19, 1999, effective October 1, 1999.)

COMMENT

Excess verbiage has been deleted. "Asked" has been substituted for "requested." "Shall" has been substituted for "should" throughout the Canon; see Comment for Canon I.

Canon II.A's provisions have been stated clearly in the conjunctive ("and"). Canon II.A(2) has been amended to follow Code of Judicial Conduct, Canon 3(C)(2) as to spouses and minor children. Canon II.A(3) has been added for court-annexed arbitration or arbitration administered by a court under, e.g., the Uniform Act. Although Canon VIII.B generally provides that these Canons state principles paramount to institutional (e.g., the Code) ethics standards, Canon VIII.B states an exception for Canon II.D's disclosure principles. Canon II.E has been modified to account for situations where a court administers arbitration, e.g., court-annexed arbitration, but also where a court appoints an arbitrator, e.g., pursuant to the Uniform Act, N.C. Gen. Stat. § 1-567.4. Canon II.F has been added; it is taken from N.C. Ct.-Ord. Arb. R. 2(e); however, court approval is required only if a court has appointed an arbitrator in a court-annexed arbitration or pursuant to, e.g., the Uniform Act.

Canon II generally follows Code of Judicial Conduct, Canon 3(C), although Canon II does not specify degrees of kinship as the Code of Judicial Conduct does. See also Academy Code, ¶¶ 2.B, 3.A; IBA Ethics, Arts. 1, 3-4; SPIDR Standards, Responsibilities to the Parties § 4.

Canon 3. An arbitrator, in communicating with parties, shall avoid impropriety or the appearance of impropriety.

A. If the parties' agreement or arbitration rules referred to in that agreement establish the manner or content of communications between the arbitrator and the parties, the arbitrator shall follow those procedures notwithstanding any contrary provision in Canons III.B and III.C.

B. Unless otherwise provided in applicable arbitration rules or in the parties' agreement, arbitrators shall not discuss a case with any party in the absence of other parties, except in these circumstances:

(1) Discussions may be had with a party concerning such matters as setting the time and place of hearings or making other arrangements for conducting proceedings. The arbitrator shall promptly inform other parties of the discussion and shall not make any final determination concerning the matter discussed before giving each absent party an opportunity to express its views.

(2) If all parties request or consent to it, such discussion may take place.

C. Unless otherwise provided in applicable arbitration rules or in the parties' agreement, whenever an arbitrator communicates in writing with one party, the arbitrator shall send a copy of the communication to other parties at the same time. whenever the arbitrator receives a written communication concerning the case from a party which has not already been sent to other parties, the arbitrator shall send that communication to other parties. (Adopted August 19, 1999, effective October 1, 1999.)

COMMENT

"Shall" has been substituted for "should" throughout Canon III; see Comment to Canon I. Code III.B(2), stating "If a party fails to be present at a hearing after having been given due notice, the arbitrator may discuss the case with any party present," has been deleted as redundant with Canon IV.F. Revisions have also tightened the text; the last phrase clarifies "to do so." See also Code of Judicial Conduct, Canon 2, for which Canon III is a rough parallel in some respects; Academy Code. ¶ 2.D; IBA Ethics, Art. 5.

Canon 4. An arbitrator shall conduct proceedings fairly and diligently.

A. An arbitrator shall conduct proceedings in an evenhanded manner and treat all parties with equality and fairness at all stages of the proceedings.

B. An arbitrator shall perform duties diligently and conclude the case as promptly as circumstances reasonably permit.

C. An arbitrator shall be patient, dignified and courteous to parties, their lawyers, witnesses, and all others with whom the arbitrator deals in that capacity and shall encourage similar conduct by all participants in the proceedings. This does not preclude an arbitrator's imposing sanctions if permitted by law or by the parties' agreement.

D. Unless otherwise agreed by the parties or provided in arbitration rules to which the parties have agreed, an arbitrator shall accord to all parties the right to appear in person and to be heard after due notice of the time and place of hearing.

E. An arbitrator shall not deny a party the opportunity to be represented by counsel.

F. If a party fails to appear after due notice, an arbitrator may proceed with the arbitration when authorized to do so by the parties or by law. An arbitrator may do so only after receiving assurance that notice has been given to the absent party.

G. When an arbitrator determines that more information than has been presented by the parties is required to decide a case, it is not improper for the arbitrator to ask questions, call witnesses, and request documents or other evidence.

H. It is not improper for an arbitrator to suggest to the parties that they discuss settling the case. An arbitrator may not be present or otherwise participate in settlement discussions unless asked to do so by all parties. An arbitrator may not pressure a party to settle.

I. Nothing in these Canons is intended to prevent a person from acting as a mediator, conciliator or other neutral in a dispute in which he or she has been appointed as an arbitrator, if asked to do so by all parties or where authorized or required to do so by applicable law or rules.

J. Where there is more than one arbitrator, the arbitrators shall afford each other full opportunity to participate in all aspects of the proceedings.

K. In court-annexed arbitrations where one or more of the parties is proceeding without counsel, at the hearing the arbitrator shall discuss the nature of the arbitration process with all parties and counsel present, including the arbitrator's role, time allotted for each party's case, order of proceedings, and the right to trial de novo (if applicable) if a party not in default is dissatisfied with the arbitrator's award, unless parties waive these explanations. (Adopted August 19, 1999, effective October 1, 1999.)

COMMENT

Language has been tightened, and excess verbiage has been deleted. "Shall" or "may" has been substituted for "should" throughout Canon IV; see Comment to Canon I.

Canon IV.C has been amended to follow Code of Judicial Conduct, Canon 3(A)(3). The final sentence recognizes that arbitrators may be empowered to impose sanctions in, e.g., court-annexed arbitration or by the parties' agreement, in addition to the arbitrator's ethical obligation to encourage proper conduct. Canon IV.H is consistent with Standard IV.B. Canon IV.I has been modified to take into account procedures other than mediation or conciliation, e.g., early neutral evaluation, etc. Canon IV.K has been added; it only applies to court-annexed arbitration. Where there has been an agreement to arbitrate governed by, e.g., the Uniform Act, but parties have not appointed an arbitrator pursuant to the Act and the court does so under, e.g., N.C. Gen. Stat. § 1-567.4, there is no reason to require that arbitrator to explain the nature of arbitration. Many court-annexed arbitrations involve small claims where parties may appear without counsel; fairness and efficiency suggest that an explanation at the beginning of the hearing, unless waived, will expedite the proceeding. Parties in court-annexed arbitration may agree to binding arbitration with no trial de novo; if this is the case, there is no need to explain a right to trial de novo. Canon IV.K was suggested by Standard IV.A.

See also Academy Code, ¶¶ 1.A, 2.J, 4-5; IRA Ethics, Arts. 7-8, SPIDR Standards, Responsibilities to the Parties §§ 2, 5-6. The Uniform Act and the International Commercial Arbitration and Conciliation Act provide for representation by counsel. N.C. Gen. Stat. §§ 1-567.7, 1-567.48(b).

Canon 5. An arbitrator shall make decisions in a just, independent and deliberate manner.

A. An arbitrator shall, after careful deliberation, decide all issues submitted for determination. An arbitrator may decide no other issues.

B. An arbitrator shall decide all issues justly, exercising independent judgment, and shall not permit outside pressure to affect the decision.

C. An arbitrator shall not delegate the duty to decide to any other person, unless the parties agree to such delegation.

D. If all parties agree to settle issues in dispute and ask an arbitrator to embody that agreement in an award, an arbitrator may do so but is not required to do so unless satisfied with the propriety of the settlement terms. Whenever an arbitrator embodies the parties' settlement in an award, the arbitrator shall state in the award that it is based on the parties' agreement. (Adopted August 19, 1999, effective October 1, 1999.)

COMMENT

Revisions tighten the text and omit excess verbiage. "Shall" has been substituted for "should" throughout Canon V; see Comment to Canon I. The new material in Canon V.C makes it clear that parties can agree that an arbitrator may delegate decisionmaking in whole or in part, e.g., to conciliators as provided in the North Carolina International Commercial Arbitration and Conciliation Act. See also Academy Code, ¶¶ 2.G-2.I, 6.

Canon 6. An arbitrator shall be faithful to the relationship of trust and confidentiality inherent in that office.

A. An arbitrator is in a relationship of trust to the parties and shall not at any time use confidential information acquired during the arbitration proceeding to gain personal advantage or advantage for others or to affect adversely the interest of another.

B. Unless the parties agree otherwise, or the law or applicable rules require, an arbitrator shall keep confidential all matters relating to the arbitration proceedings and decision.

C. It is not proper at any time for an arbitrator to inform anyone of the decision before it is given to all parties. Where there is more than one arbitrator, it is not proper at any time for an arbitrator to inform anyone concerning the arbitrators' deliberations. After an arbitration award has been made, it is not proper for an arbitrator to assist in post-arbitral proceedings, except as required by law, or as agreed by the parties.

D. In many types of arbitrations it is customary for arbitrators to serve without pay. In some types of cases it is customary for arbitrators to receive compensation for services and reimbursement for expenses. Where such payments are to be made, all persons asked to serve, or who serve as arbitrators, shall be governed by the same high standards of integrity and fairness as apply to their other activities in the case. Accordingly, such persons shall scrupulously avoid bargaining with parties over the amount of payments, or engaging in communications concerning payments, which would create an appearance of coercion or other impropriety. Absent provisions in the parties' agreement, in rules to which the parties have agreed, or in applicable law, certain practices relating to payments are generally recognized as preferable to preserve the integrity and fairness of the arbitration process. These practices include:

(1) It is preferable that before the arbitrator finally accepts appointment, the basis of payment be established and that all parties be informed in writing.

(2) In cases conducted under the rules or administration of an institution that is available to assist in making arrangements for payments, payments shall be arranged by the institution to avoid the necessity for arbitrators communicating directly with parties concerning the subject.

(3) Where no institution is available to assist in making arrangements for payments, it is preferable that any discussions with arbitrators concerning payments take place in the presence of all parties.

(4) In cases where arbitration is court-administered, court rules, orders and practices shall be followed. (Adopted August 19, 1999, effective October 1, 1999.)

COMMENT

Excess verbiage has been deleted, and language has been tightened. "Shall" replaces "should" throughout Canon VI, except in Canon VI.D(3), where "should" has been omitted. Canon VI.C has been modified to allow parties to agree to use the arbitrator in other neutral roles, e.g., as a post-award mediator. Although Canon VIII.B generally provides that these Canons state principles paramount to institutional (e.g., the Code) ethics standards, Canon VIII.B states an exception for Canon VI.D(2)'s payment principles Canon VI.D(4) has been added to take into account, e.g, court annexed arbitration. See also Academy Code, ¶¶ 2.C, 2.K, 3.A; IBA Ethics, Arts. 6, 9, SPIDR Standards, Responsibilities to the Parties § 3, Disclosure of Fees.

Canon 7. Ethical considerations relating to arbitrators appointed by one party.

A. Obligations under Canon I. Non-neutral party-appointed arbitrators shall observe Canon I obligations to uphold the integrity and fairness of the arbitration process, subject to these provisions:

(1) Non-neutral arbitrators may be predisposed to the party appointing them but in all other respects are obligated to act in good faith and with integrity and fairness. For example, non-neutral arbitrators shall not engage in delaying tactics or harassment of a party or witness and shall not knowingly make untrue or misleading statements to other arbitrators.

(2) Provisions of Canon I.D relating to relationships and interests do not apply to non-neutral arbitrators.

B. Obligations under Canon II. Non-neutral party-appointed arbitrators shall disclose to all parties, and to other arbitrators, interests and relationships which Canon II requires to be disclosed. Disclosure required by Canon II is for the benefit of the party appointing the non-neutral arbitrator and for the benefit of other parties and arbitrators so that they may know of bias which may exist or appear to exist. This obligation is subject to these provisions:

(1) Disclosure by non-neutral arbitrators must be sufficient to describe the general nature and scope of any interest or relationship, but need not include as detailed information as is expected from persons appointed as neutral arbitrators.

(2) Non-neutral arbitrators are not obliged to withdraw if asked to do so by a party who did not appoint them, notwithstanding Canon II.E.

C. Obligations under Canon III. Non-neutral party-appointed arbitrators shall observe Canon III's obligations concerning communications with parties, subject to these provisions:

(1) In an arbitration in which two party-appointed arbitrators are expected to appoint the third arbitrator, non-neutral arbitrators may consult with the party who appointed them concerning acceptability of persons under consideration for appointment as the third arbitrator.

(2) Non-neutral arbitrators may communicate with the party who appointed them concerning any other aspect of the case, provided they first inform the other arbitrators and the parties that they intend to do so. If such communication occurred before the person was appointed as arbitrator, or before the first hearing or other meeting of parties with the arbitrators, the non-neutral arbitrator shall, at the first hearing or meeting, disclose that such communication has taken place. In complying with Canon VII.C(2), it is sufficient that there be disclosure that such communication has occurred without disclosing the content of the communication. It is also sufficient to disclose at any time the intention to follow the procedure of having such communications in the future, and there is no requirement thereafter that there be disclosure before each separate occasion when such a communication occurs.

(3) When non-neutral arbitrators communicate in writing with a party that appointed them concerning any matter as to which communication is permitted under these Canons, they are not required to send copies of such writing to other parties or arbitrators.

D. Obligations under Canon IV. Non-neutral party-appointed arbitrators shall observe Canon IV's obligations to conduct proceedings fairly and diligently.

E. Obligations under Canon V. Non-neutral party-appointed arbitrators shall observe Canon V's obligations concerning making decisions, but such arbitrators may be predisposed toward deciding in favor of the party who appointed them.

F. Obligations under Canon VI. Non-neutral party-appointed arbitrators shall observe Canon VI's obligations to be faithful to the relationship of trust inherent in the office of arbitrator, but such arbitrators are not subject to Canon VI.D's provisions with respect to payments by the party appointing them. (Adopted August 19, 1999, effective October 1, 1999.)

COMMENT

"Shall" or "must" has been substituted for "should" in Canon VII; see Comment to Canon I. Excess verbiage has been deleted; sentences have been tightened; Canons VII.E and VII.F have been rewritten to convey the same sense as the Code. Nothing in Rule 1.12(d) conflicts with Canon VII.

Canon 8. Canons are subject to laws and professional responsibility principles; choice or law.

A. These Canons are subject to applicable constitutional, statutory, decisional or administrative rules, State or federal, and when these conflict with these Canons, the Canon provision shall be deemed superseded if it is not possible to give effect to the rule and these Canons.

B. These Canons and other ethics or similar rules which may apply to an arbitrator in any other capacity e.g., as a professional, shall be read in pari materia, giving effect to these Canons and the ethics rules if possible. If an arbitrator is subject to other arbitrator ethics rules, e.g., the ABA-AAA Code of Ethics for Arbitrators in Commercial Disputes, and these Canons, these Canons shall govern if there is a conflict of standards; provided however, that the principle of primacy in Canon VIII.B shall not apply to disclosure principles in Canon II.D and payment principles in Canon VI.D(2).

C. These Canons apply to arbitrations in North Carolina, or arbitrations administered by a court in North Carolina, to arbitrations where the parties choose North Carolina law exclusive of conflict of laws principles in the contract or other agreement, or where it is determined that North Carolina law exclusive of conflict of laws principles applies, regardless of where the arbitration is conducted. (Adopted August 19, 1999, effective October 1, 1999.)

COMMENT

Canon VIII is not part of the Code. However, given the possibility of conflicting rules of court, professional responsibility rules, legislation or constitutional principles, statement of the obvious in Canon VIII.A-B seems appropriate. Canon VIII.B provides that if an arbitrator is subject to professional or other ethics rules because of that arbitrator's status as, e.g., a lawyer, these Canons and the professional ethics rules shall be read in pari materia, giving effect to both if possible.

Rule 8.5 suggested Canon VIII.C, which is intended to cover court-annexed arbitrations, arbitrations where a court has appointed an arbitrator pursuant to, e.g., the Uniform Act, N.C. Gen. Stat. § 1-567.4, and arbitrations where parties have chosen North Carolina law or where North Carolina law, exclusive of conflict of laws principles, applies. This means that parties and the arbitrator cannot step across a state line and escape these principles.

Index follows Rules.

Rule 1. Initiating settlement events.

A. Purpose of mandatory settlement procedures. Pursuant to G.S. 7A-38.1, these Rules are promulgated to implement a system of settlement events which are designed to focus the parties' attention on settlement rather than on trial preparation and to provide a structured opportunity for settlement negotiations to take place. Nothing herein is intended to limit or prevent the parties from engaging in settlement procedures voluntarily at any time before or after those ordered by the Court pursuant to these Rules.

B. Duty of counsel to consult with clients and opposing counsel concerning settlement procedures. In furtherance of this purpose, counsel, upon being retained to represent any party to a superior court case, shall advise his or her client(s) regarding the settlement procedures approved by these Rules and shall attempt to reach agreement with opposing counsel on the appropriate settlement procedure for the action.

C. Initiating the mediated settlement conference in each action by court order.

(1) Order by Senior Resident Superior Court Judge. The Senior Resident Superior Court Judge of any judicial district may, by written order, require all persons and entities in Rule 4 to attend a pre-trial mediated settlement conference in a civil action except an action in which a party is seeking the issuance of an extraordinary writ or is appealing the revocation of a motor vehicle operator's license.

(2) Motion to authorize the use of other settlement procedures. The parties may move the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge to authorize the use of some other settlement procedure allowed by these rules or by local rule in lieu of a mediated settlement conference, as provided in G.S. 7A-38.1(i). Such motion shall be filed within 21 days of the order requiring a mediated settlement conference on an AOC form, and shall include:

(a) the type of other settlement procedure requested;

(b) the name, address and telephone number of the neutral selected by the parties;

(c) the rate of compensation of the neutral;
(d) that the neutral and opposing counsel have agreed upon the selection and compensation of the neutral selected;
(e) that all parties consent to the motion.

If the parties are unable to agree to each of the above, then the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge shall deny the motion and the parties shall attend the mediated settlement conference as originally ordered by the Court. Otherwise, the court may order the use of any agreed upon settlement procedures authorized by Rules 10-12 herein or by local rules of the Superior Court in the county or district where the action is pending.

(3) Timing of the order. The Senior Resident Superior Court Judge shall issue the order requiring a mediated settlement conference as soon as practicable after the time for the filing of answers has expired. Rules 1.A.(4) and 3.B. herein shall govern the content of the order and the date of completion of the conference.

(4) Content of order. The court's order shall (1) require the mediated settlement conference be held in the case; (2) establish a deadline for the completion of the conference; (3) state clearly that the parties have the right to select their own mediator as provided by Rule 2; (4) state the rate of compensation of the court appointed mediator in the event that the parties do not exercise their right to select a mediator pursuant to Rule 2; and (5) state that the parties shall be required to pay the mediator's fee at the conclusion of the settlement conference unless otherwise ordered by the court. The order shall be on an A.O.C. form.

(5) Motion for court ordered mediated settlement conference. In cases not ordered to mediated settlement conference, any party may file a written motion with the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge requesting that such conference be ordered. Such motion shall state the reasons why the order should be allowed and shall be served on non-moving parties. Objections to the motion may be filed in writing with the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge within 10 days after the date of the service of the motion. Thereafter, the Judge shall rule upon the motion without a hearing and notify the parties or their attorneys of the ruling.

(6) Motion to dispense with mediated settlement conference. A party may move the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge, to dispense with the mediated settlement conference ordered by the Judge. Such motion shall state the reasons the relief is sought. For good cause shown, the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge may grant the motion.

D. Initiating the mediated settlement conference by local rule.

(1) Order by local rule. In judicial districts in which a system of scheduling orders or scheduling conferences is utilized to aid in the administration of civil cases, the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge of said districts may, by local rule, require all persons and entities identified in Rule 4 to attend a pre-trial mediated settlement conference in any civil action except an action in which a party is seeking the issuance of an extraordinary writ or is appealing the revocation of a motor vehicle operator's license.

(2) Scheduling orders or notices. In judicial districts in which scheduling orders or notices are utilized to manage civil cases and for all cases ordered to mediated settlement conference by local rule, said order or notice shall (1) require that a mediated settlement conference be held in the case; (2) establish a deadline for the completion of the conference; (3) state clearly that the parties have the right to select their own mediator and the deadline by which that selection should be made; (4) state the rate of compensation of the court appointed mediator in the event that the parties do not exercise their right to select a mediator; and (5) state that the parties shall be required to pay the mediator's fee at the conclusion of the settlement conference unless otherwise ordered by the court.

(3) Scheduling Conferences. In judicial districts in which scheduling conferences are utilized to manage civil cases and for cases ordered to mediated settlement conferences by local rule, the notice for said scheduling conference shall (1) require that a mediated settlement conference be held in the case; (2) establish a deadline for the completion of the conference; (3) state clearly that the parties have the right to select their own mediator and the deadline by which that selection should be made; (4) state the rate of compensation of the court appointed mediator in the event that the parties do not exercise their right to select a mediator; and (5) state that the parties shall be required to pay the mediator's fee at the conclusion of the settlement conference unless otherwise ordered by the court.

(4) Application of Rule 1.B. The provisions of Rule 1.B.(2), (5) and (6) shall apply to Rule 1.C. except for the time limitations set out therein.

(5) Deadline for completion. The provisions of Rule 3.B. determining the deadline for completion of the mediated settlement conference shall not apply to mediated settlement conferences conducted pursuant to Rule 1.C. The deadline for completion shall be set by the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge or designee at the scheduling conference or in the scheduling order or notice, whichever is applicable. However, the completion deadline shall be well in advance of the trial date.

(6) Selection of mediator. The parties may select or nominate, or the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge may appoint, mediators pursuant to the provisions of Rule 2., except that the time limits for selection, nomination, and appointment shall be set by local rule. All other provisions of Rule 2. shall apply to mediated settlement conferences conducted pursuant to Rule 1.C.

(7) Use of other settlement procedures. The parties may utilize other settlement procedures pursuant to the provisions of Rule 1.C.(2) and Rule 10. However, the time limits and method of moving the court for approval to utilize another settlement procedure set out in those rules shall not apply and shall be governed by local rule.

Rule 2. Selection of mediator.

A. Selection of certified mediator by agreement of parties. The parties may select a mediator certified pursuant to these Rules by agreement within 21 days of the court's order. The plaintiff's attorney shall file with the court a Notice of Selection of Mediator by Agreement within 21 days of the court's order, however, any party may file the notice. Such notice shall state the name, address and telephone number of the mediator selected; state the rate of compensation of the mediator; state that the mediator and opposing counsel have agreed upon the selection and rate of compensation; and state that the mediator is certified pursuant to these Rules. The notice shall be on an AOC form.

B. Nomination and court approval of a non-certified mediator. The parties may select a mediator who does not meet the certification requirements of these Rules but who, in the opinion of the parties and the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge, is otherwise qualified by training or experience to mediate the action and who agrees to mediate indigent cases without pay.

If the parties select a non-certified mediator, the plaintiff's attorney shall file with the court a Nomination of Non-Certified Mediator within 21 days of the court's order. Such nomination shall state the name, address and telephone number of the mediator; state the training, experience or other qualifications of the mediator; state the rate of compensation of the mediator; and state that the mediator and opposing counsel have agreed upon the selection and rate of compensation.

The Senior Resident Superior Court Judge shall rule on said nomination without a hearing, shall approve or disapprove of the parties' nomination and shall notify the parties of the court's decision. The nomination and approval or disapproval of the court shall be on an AOC form.

C. Appointment of mediator by the court. If the parties cannot agree upon the selection of a mediator, the plaintiff or plaintiff's attorney shall so notify the court and request, on behalf of the parties, that the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge appoint a mediator. The motion must be filed within 21 days after the court's order and shall state that the attorneys for the parties have had a full and frank discussion concerning the selection of a mediator and have been unable to agree. The motion shall be on an AOC form.

Upon receipt of a motion to appoint a mediator, or in the event the plaintiff's attorney has not filed a Notice of Selection or Nomination of Non-Certified Mediator with the court within 21 days of the court's order, the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge shall appoint a mediator, certified pursuant to these Rules, under a procedure established by said Judge and set out in Local Rules. Only mediators who agree to mediate indigent cases without pay shall be appointed.

The Dispute Resolution Commission shall furnish for the consideration of Senior Resident Superior Court Judge(s) a list of those certified superior court mediators who request appointments in said district. Said list shall contain the mediators' names, addresses and telephone numbers and shall be provided in writing or on the Commission's web site.

D. Mediator information directory. To assist the parties in the selection of a mediator by agreement, the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge having authority over any county participating in the mediated settlement conference program shall prepare and keep current for such county a central directory of information on all certified mediators who wish to mediate cases in that county. Such information shall be collected on loose leaf forms provided by the Dispute Resolution Commission and be kept in one or more notebooks made available for inspection by attorneys and parties in the office of the Clerk of Superior Court in such county.

E. Disqualification of mediator. Any party may move the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge of the district where the action is pending for an order disqualifying the mediator. For good cause, such order shall be entered. If the mediator is disqualified, a replacement mediator shall be selected or appointed pursuant to Rule 2. Nothing in this provision shall preclude mediators from disqualifying themselves.

Rule 3. The mediated settlement conference.

A. Where conference is to be held. Unless all parties and the mediator otherwise agree, the mediated settlement conference shall be held in the courthouse or other public or community building in the county where the case is pending. The mediator shall be responsible for reserving a place and making arrangements for the conference and for giving timely notice of the time and location of the conference to all attorneys, unrepresented parties and other persons and entities required to attend.

B. When conference is to be held. As a guiding principle, the conference should be held after the parties have had a reasonable time to conduct discovery but well in advance of the trial date.

The court's order issued pursuant to Rule 1.B.(1) shall state a deadline for completion for the conference which shall be not less than 120 days nor more than 180 days after issuance of the court's order. The mediator shall set a date and time for the conference pursuant to Rule 6.B.(5).

C. Request to extend deadline for completion. A party, or the mediator, may request the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge to extend the deadline for completion of the conference. Such request shall state the reasons the extension is sought and shall be served by the moving party upon the other parties and the mediator. If any party does not consent to the request, said party shall promptly communicate its objection to the office of the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge.

The Senior Resident Superior Court Judge may grant the request by setting a new deadline for the completion of the conference, which date may be set at any time prior to trial. Notice of the Judge's action shall be served immediately on all parties and the mediator by the person who sought the extension and shall be filed with the court.

D. Recesses. The mediator may recess the conference at any time and may set times for reconvening. If the time for reconvening is set before the conference is recessed, no further notification is required for persons present at the conference.

E. The mediated settlement conference is not to delay other proceedings. The mediated settlement conference shall not be cause for the delay of other proceedings in the case, including the completion of discovery, the filing or hearing of motions, or the trial of the case, except by order of the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge.

Rule 4. Duties of parties, attorneys and other participants in mediated settlement conferences.

A. Attendance.

(1) The following persons shall attend a mediated settlement conference:

(i) All individual parties.

(ii) Any party that is not a natural person or a governmental entity shall be represented at the conference by an officer, employee or agent who is not such party's outside counsel and who has been authorized to decide on behalf of such party whether and on what terms to settle the action;

(iii) Any party that is a governmental entity shall be represented at the conference by an employee or agent who is not such party's outside counsel and who has authority to decide on behalf of such party whether and on what terms to settle the action; provided, if under law proposed settlement terms can be approved only by a board, the representative shall have authority to negotiate on behalf of the party and to make a recommendation to that board.

(b) Insurance company representatives. A representative of each liability insurance carrier, uninsured motorist insurance carrier, and underinsured motorist insurance carrier which may be obligated to pay all or part of any claim presented in the action. Each such carrier shall be represented at the conference by an officer, employee or agent, other than the carrier's outside counsel, who has the authority to make a decision on behalf of such carrier or who has been authorized to negotiate on behalf of the carrier and can promptly communicate during the conference with persons who have such decision-making authority.

(c) Attorneys. At least one counsel of record for each party or other participant, whose counsel has appeared in the action.

(2) Any party or person required to attend a mediated settlement conference shall physically attend until an agreement is reduced to writing and signed as provided in Rule 4.C. or an impasse has been declared. Any such party or person may have the attendance requirement excused or modified, including the allowance of that party's or person's participation without physical attendance:

(a) By agreement of all parties and persons required to attend and the mediator; or

(b) By order of the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge, upon motion of a party and notice to all parties and persons required to attend and the mediator.

B. Notifying lien holders. Any party or attorney who has received notice of a lien or other claim upon proceeds recovered in the action shall notify said lien holder or claimant of the date, time, and location of the mediated settlement conference and shall request said lien holder or claimant to attend the conference or make a representative available with whom to communicate during the conference.

C. Finalizing agreement. If an agreement is reached at the conference, parties to the agreement shall reduce its terms to writing and sign it along with their counsel. By stipulation of the parties and at their expense, the agreement may be electronically or stenographically recorded. A consent judgment or one or more voluntary dismissals shall be filed with the court by such persons as the parties shall designate.

D. Payment of mediator's fee. The parties shall pay the mediator's fee as provided by Rule 7.

E. Related Cases. Upon application by any party or person, the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge may order that an attorney of record or a party in a pending Superior Court Case or a representative of an insurance carrier that may be liable for all or any part of a claim pending in Superior Court shall, upon reasonable notice, attend a mediation conference that may be convened in another pending case, regardless of the forum in which the other case may be pending, provided that all parties in the other pending case consent to the attendance ordered pursuant to this rule. Any such attorney, party or carrier representative that properly attends a mediation conference pursuant to this rule shall not be required to pay any of the mediation fees or costs related to that mediation conference. Any disputed issues concerning an order entered pursuant to this rule shall be determined by the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge who entered the order.

CASE NOTES

Requirement of Attending Mediation. — Plaintiffs satisfied the requirements for requesting and participating in pre-litigation mediation as required by G.S. 7A-38.3 and N.C.R. Super. Ct. Mediated Settlement Conf. Rule 4; the pleadings alleged that they participated in pre-litigation mediation, and the mediator's report did not list any party as being absent. Powell v. Bulluck, 155 N.C. App. 613, 573 S.E.2d 699, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1628 (2002).

Sanctions for Failure to Attend. — Trial court did not abuse its discretion by striking defendant's answer and entering default where corporate defendant had no good cause for failing to have officer mediation settlement conference and was not excused. The sanctions entered were specifically authorized by former Rule 37(b)(2)c (repealed by 1993 Session Laws, c. 553, s. 1.). Triad Mack Sales & Serv., Inc. v. Clement Bros. Co., 113 N.C. App. 405, 438 S.E.2d 485 (1994).

Trial court had inherent authority to sanction a party for failing to execute a mediated settlement agreement by refusing to sign the agreement after it orally agreed to the terms. Few v. Hammack Enters., Inc., 132 N.C. App. 291, 511 S.E.2d 665 (1999).

DRC COMMENTS TO RULE 4

DRC Comment to Rule 4.C.

N.C.G.S. § 7A-38.1(1) provides that no settlement shall be enforceable unless it has been reduced to writing and signed by the parties. When a settlement is reached during a mediated settlement conference, the mediator shall be sure its terms are reduced to writing and signed by the parties and their attorneys before ending the conference.

DRC Comment to Rule 4.E.

Rule 4.E. was adopted to clarify a Senior Resident Superior Court Judge's authority in those situations where there may be a case related to a Superior Court case pending in a different forum. For example, it is common for there to be claims asserted against a third-party tortfeasor in a Superior Court case at the same time that there are related workers' compensation claims being asserted in an Industrial Commission case. Because of the related nature of such claims, the parties in the Industrial Commission case may need an attorney of record, party, or insurance carrier representative in the Superior Court case to attend the Industrial Commission mediation conference in order to resolve the pending claims in that case. Rule 4.E. specifically authorizes a Senior Resident Superior Court Judge to order such attendance provided that all parties in the related Industrial Commission case consent and the persons ordered to attend receive reasonable notice. The Industrial Commission's Rules for Mediated Settlement and Neutral Evaluation Conferences contain a similar provision that provides that persons involved in an Industrial Commission case may be ordered to attend a mediation conference in a related Superior Court Case.

Rule 5. Sanctions for failure to attend mediated settlement conferences.

If a party or other person required to attend a mediated settlement conference fails to attend without good cause, a resident or presiding Superior Court Judge may impose upon the party or person any appropriate monetary sanction including, but not limited to, the payment of fines, attorneys fees, mediator fees, expenses and loss of earnings incurred by persons attending the conference.

A party seeking sanctions against another party or person shall do so in a written motion stating the grounds for the motion and the relief sought. Said motion shall be served upon all parties and on any person against whom sanctions are being sought. The court may initiate sanction proceedings upon its own motion by the entry of a show cause order. If the court imposes sanctions, it shall do so, after notice and a hearing, in a written order, making findings of fact supported by substantial evidence and conclusions of law. (See also Rule 7.G. and the Comment to Rule 7.G.)

CASE NOTES

Striking Answer and Entering Default for Failure to Attend. — Trial court did not abuse its discretion by striking defendant's answer and entering default where corporate defendant had no good cause for failing to have officer mediation settlement conference and was not excused. The sanctions entered were specifically authorized by former Rule 37(b)(2)c (repealed by 1993 Session Laws, c. 553, s. 1.). Triad Mack Sales & Serv., Inc. v. Clement Bros. Co., 113 N.C. App. 405, 438 S.E.2d 485 (1994).

Quoted in Few v. Hammack Enters., Inc., 132 N.C. App. 291, 511 S.E.2d 665 (1999).

Rule 6. Authority and duties of mediators.

A. Authority of mediator.

(1) Control of conference. The mediator shall at all times be in control of the conference and the procedures to be followed. However, the mediator's conduct shall be governed by standards of conduct promulgated by the Supreme Court which shall contain a provision prohibiting mediators from prolonging a conference unduly.

(2) Private consultation. The mediator may communicate privately with any participant or counsel prior to and during the conference. The fact that private communications have occurred with a participant shall be disclosed to all other participants at the beginning of the conference.

(3) Scheduling the conference. The mediator shall make a good faith effort to schedule the conference at a time that is convenient with the participants, attorneys and mediator. In the absence of agreement, the mediator shall select the date for the conference.

B. Duties of mediator.

(1) The mediator shall define and describe the following at the beginning of the conference:

(a) The process of mediation;

(b) The differences between mediation and other forms of conflict resolution;

(c) The costs of the mediated settlement conference;

(d) That the mediated settlement conference is not a trial, the mediator is not a judge, and the parties retain their right to trial if they do not reach settlement;

(e) The circumstances under which the mediator may meet and communicate privately with any of the parties or with any other person;

(f) Whether and under what conditions communications with the mediator will be held in confidence during the conference;

(g) The inadmissibility of conduct and statements as provided by G.S. 7A-38.1;

(h) The duties and responsibilities of the mediator and the participants; and

(i) That any agreement reached will be reached by mutual consent.

(2) Disclosure. The mediator has a duty to be impartial and to advise all participants of any circumstances bearing on possible bias, prejudice or partiality.

(3) Declaring impasse. It is the duty of the mediator to determine in a timely manner that an impasse exists and that the conference should end. To that end, the mediator shall inquire of and consider the desires of the parties to cease or continue the conference.

(4) Reporting results of conference. The mediator shall report to the court on an AOC form within 10 days of the conference whether or not an agreement was reached by the parties. If an agreement was reached, the report shall state whether the action will be concluded by consent judgment or voluntary dismissal and shall identify the person designated to file such consent judgment or dismissals. The mediator's report also shall inform the court of the absence of any party, attorney, or insurance representative known to the mediator to have been absent from the mediated settlement conference without permission. The Dispute Resolution Commission or the Administrative Office of the Courts may require the mediator to provide statistical data for evaluation of the Mediated Settlement Conference Program.

(5) Scheduling and holding the conference. It is the duty of the mediator to schedule the conference and conduct it prior to the conference completion deadline set out in the court's order. The mediator shall make an effort to schedule the conference at a time that is convenient with all participants. In the absence of agreement, the mediator shall select a date and time for the conference. Deadlines for completion of the conference shall be strictly observed by the mediator unless said time limit is changed by a written order of the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge.

(6) Distribution of mediator evaluation form. At the mediated settlement conference, the mediator shall distribute a mediator evaluation form approved by the Dispute Resolution Commission. The mediator shall distribute one copy per party with additional copies distributed upon request. The evaluation is intended for purposes of self-improvement and the mediator shall review returned evaluation forms.

Rule 7. Compensation of the mediator.

A. By agreement. When the mediator is stipulated by the parties, compensation shall be as agreed upon between the parties and the mediator.

B. By court order. When the mediator is appointed by the court, the parties shall compensate the mediator for mediation services at the rate of $125 per hour. The parties shall also pay to the mediator a one-time, per case administrative fee of $125 which is due upon appointment.

C. Change of appointed mediator. Pursuant to Rule 2.A., the parties have twenty-one (21) days to select a mediator. Parties who fail to select a mediator within that time frame and then desire a substitution after the court has appointed a mediator, shall obtain court approval for the substitution. If the court approves the substitution, the parties shall pay the court's original appointee the $125 one time, per case administrative fee provided for in Rule 7.B.

D. Indigent cases. No party found to be indigent by the court for the purposes of these rules shall be required to pay a mediator fee. Any mediator conducting a settlement conference pursuant to these rules shall waive the payment of fees from parties found by the court to be indigent. Any party may move the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge for a finding of indigence and to be relieved of that party's obligation to pay a share of the mediator's fee.

Said motion shall be heard subsequent to the completion of the conference or, if the parties do not settle their case, subsequent to the trial of the action. In ruling upon such motions, the Judge shall apply the criteria enumerated in G.S. 1-110(a), but shall take into consideration the outcome of the action and whether a judgment was rendered in the movant's favor. The court shall enter an order granting or denying the party's request.

E. Postponement fees. As used herein, the term "postponement" shall mean reschedule or not proceed with a settlement conference once a date for the settlement conference has been agreed upon and scheduled by the parties and the mediator. After a settlement conference has been scheduled for a specific date, a party may not unilaterally postpone the conference. A conference may be postponed only after notice to all parties of the reason for the postponement, payment of a postponement fee to the mediator, and consent of the mediator and the opposing attorney. If a mediation is postponed within seven (7) business days of the scheduled date, the fee shall be $125. If the settlement conference is postponed within three (3) business days of the scheduled date, the fee shall be $250. Postponement fees shall be paid by the party requesting the postponement unless otherwise agreed to between the parties. Postponement fees are in addition to the one time, per case administrative fee provided for in Rule 7.B.

F. Payment of compensation by parties. Unless otherwise agreed to by the parties or ordered by the court, the mediator's fee shall be paid in equal shares by the parties. For purposes of this rule, multiple parties shall be considered one party when they are represented by the same counsel. Parties obligated to pay a share of the fees shall pay them equally. Payment shall be due upon completion of the conference.

G. Sanctions for failure to pay mediator's fee. Willful failure of a party to make timely payment of that party's share of the mediator's fee (whether the one time, per case, administrative fee, the hourly fee for mediation services, or any postponement fee) or willful failure of a party contending indigent status to promptly move the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge for a finding of indigency, shall constitute contempt of court and may result, following notice, in a hearing and the imposition of any and all lawful sanctions by a Resident or Presiding Superior Court Judge.

DRC COMMENTS TO RULE 7

DRC Comment to Rule 7.B.

Court-appointed mediators may not be compensated for travel time, mileage, or any other out-of-pocket expenses associated with a court-ordered mediation.

DRC Comment to Rule 7.E.

Though MSC Rule 7.E. provides that mediators "shall" assess the postponement fee, it is understood there may be rare situations where the circumstances occasioning a request for a postponement are beyond the control of the parties, for example, an illness, serious accident, unexpected and unavailable trial conflict. When the party or parties take steps to notify the mediator as soon as possible in such circumstances, the mediator, may, in his or her discretion, waive the postponement fee.

Non-essential requests for postponements work a hardship on parties and mediators and serve only to inject delay into a process and program designed to expedite litigation. As such, it is expected that mediators will assess a postponement fee in all instances where a request does not appear to be absolutely warranted. Moreover, mediators are encouraged not to agree to postponements in instances where, in their judgment, the mediation could be held as scheduled.

DRC Comment to Rule 7.F.

If a party is found by a Senior Resident Superior Court Judge to have failed to attend a mediated settlement conference without good cause, then the Court may require that party to pay the mediator's fee and related expenses.

DRC Comment to Rule 7.G.

If the Mediated Settlement Conference Program is to be successful, it is essential that mediators, both party-selected and court-appointed, be compensated for their services. MSC Rule 7.G. is intended to give the court express authority to enforce payment of fees owed both court-appointed and party-selected mediators. In instances where the mediator is party-selected, the court may enforce fees which exceed the caps set forth in 7.B. (hourly fee and administrative fee) and 7.E. (postponement/cancellation fee) or which provide for payment of services or expenses not provided for in Rule 7 but agreed to among the parties, for example, payment for travel time or mileage.

Rule 8. Mediator certification and decertification.

The Dispute Resolution Commission may receive and approve applications for certification of persons to be appointed as Superior Court mediators. For certification, a person shall:

D. Demonstrate familiarity with the statute, rules, and practice governing mediated settlement conferences in North Carolina;

E. Be of good moral character and adhere to any standards of practice for mediators acting pursuant to these Rules adopted by the Supreme Court. Applicants for certification and re-certification and all certified Superior Court mediators shall report to the Commission any criminal convictions, disbarments or other disciplinary complaints and actions as soon as the applicant or mediator has notice of them;

(These requirements may include completion of training or self-study designed to improve a mediator's communication, negotiation, facilitation or mediation skills; completion of observations; service as a mentor to a less experienced mediator; being mentored by a more experienced mediator; or serving as a trainer. Mediators shall report on a Commission approved form.)

Certification may be revoked or not renewed at any time it is shown to the satisfaction of the Dispute Resolution Commission that a mediator no longer meets the above qualifications or has not faithfully observed these rules or those of any district in which he or she has served as a mediator. Any person who is or has been disqualified by a professional licensing authority of any state for misconduct shall be ineligible to be certified under this Rule.

D. To complete certification, a training program shall pay all administrative fees established by the Administrative Office of the Courts upon the recommendation of the Dispute Resolution Commission.

Rule 10. Other settlement procedures.

A. Order authorizing other settlement procedures. Upon receipt of a motion by the parties seeking authorization to utilize a settlement procedure in lieu of a mediated settlement conference, the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge may order the use of the procedure requested under these rules or under local rules unless the court finds that the parties did not agree upon all of the relevant details of the procedure, (including items a-e in Rule 1.C.(2)); or that for good cause, the selected procedure is not appropriate for the case or the parties.

B. Other settlement procedures authorized by these rules. In addition to mediated settlement conferences, the following settlement procedures are authorized by these Rules;

C. General rules applicable to other settlement procedures.

(iv) Scheduling and holding the proceeding. It is the duty of the neutral to schedule the proceeding and conduct it prior to the completion deadline set out in the court's order. Deadlines for completion of the proceeding shall be strictly observed by the neutral unless said time limit is changed by a written order of the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge.

(3) Extensions of time. A party or a neutral may request the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge to extend the deadlines for completion of the settlement procedure. A request for and extension shall state the reasons the extension is sought and shall be served by the moving party upon the other parties and the neutral. If the court grants the motion for an extension, this order shall set a new deadline for the completion of the settlement procedure. Said order shall be delivered to all parties and the neutral by the person who sought the extension.

(4) Where procedure is conducted. The neutral shall be responsible for reserving a place agreed to by the parties, setting a time, and making other arrangements for the proceeding, and for giving timely notice to all attorneys and unrepresented parties in writing of the time and location of the proceeding.

(5) No delay of other proceedings. Settlement proceedings shall not be cause for delay of other proceedings in the case, including but not limited to the conduct or completion of discovery, the filing or hearing of motions, or the trial of the case, except by order of the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge.

to enforce a settlement of the action. However, no evidence otherwise discoverable shall be inadmissible merely because it is presented or discussed in a settlement proceeding.

No neutral shall be compelled to testify or produce evidence concerning statements made and conduct occurring in a settlement proceeding in any civil proceeding for any purpose, including proceedings to enforce a settlement of the action, except to attest to the signing of any such agreements, an except proceedings for sanctions under this section, disciplinary proceedings of the State Bar, disciplinary proceedings of any agency established to enforce standards of conduct for mediators or other neutrals, and proceedings to enforce laws concerning juvenile or elder abuse.

(7) No record made. There shall be no record made of any proceedings under these Rules unless the parties have stipulated to binding arbitration or binding summary trial in which case any party after giving adequate notice to opposing parties may record the proceeding.

(8) Ex parte communication prohibited. Unless all parties agree otherwise, there shall be no ex parte communication prior to the conclusion of the proceeding between the neutral and any counsel or party on any matter related to the proceeding except with regard to administrative matters.

(9) Duties of the parties.

(a) Attendance. All persons required to attend a mediated settlement conference pursuant to Rule 4 shall attend any other settlement procedure which is non-binding in nature, authorized by these rules, and ordered by the court except those persons to whom the parties agree and the Senior Resident Superior Court judge excuses. Those persons required to attend other settlement procedures which are binding in nature, authorized by these rules, and ordered by the court shall be those persons to whom the parties agree.

Notice of such agreement shall be given to the court and to the neutral through the filing of a motion to authorize the use of other settlement procedures within 21 days after entry of the Order requiring a mediated settlement conference. The notice shall be on an AOC form.

(b) Finalizing agreement. If an agreement is reached in the proceeding, the parties to the agreement shall reduce its terms to writing, and sign it along with their counsel. By stipulation of the parties and at their expense, the agreement may be electronically or stenographically recorded. A consent judgment or one or more voluntary dismissals shall be filed with the court by such persons as the parties shall designate.

(c) Payment of neutral's fee. The parties shall pay the neutral's fee as provided by Rule 10.C.(12).

(10) Selection of neutrals in other settlement procedures. The parties may select any individual to serve as a neutral in any settlement procedure authorized by these rules. For arbitration, the parties may select either a single arbitrator or a panel of arbitrators. Notice of such selection shall be given to the court and to the neutral through the filing of a motion to authorize the use of other settlement procedures within 21 days after entry of the Order requiring a mediated settlement conference.

The notice shall be on an AOC form. Such notice shall state the name, address and telephone number of the neutral selected; state the rate of compensation of the neutral; and state that the neutral and opposing counsel have agreed upon the selection and compensation.

(11) Disqualification. Any party may move a Resident or Presiding Superior Court Judge of the district in which an action is pending for an order disqualifying the neutral; and for good cause, such order shall be entered. Cause shall exist if the selected neutral has violated any standard of conduct of the State Bar or any standard of conduct for neutrals that may be adopted by the Supreme Court.

(12) Compensation of the neutral. A neutral's compensation shall be paid in an amount agreed to among the parties and the neutral. Time spent reviewing materials in preparing for the neutral evaluation, conducting the proceeding, and making and reporting the award shall be compensable time.

Unless otherwise ordered by the court or agreed to by the parties, the neutral's fees shall be paid in equal shares by the parties. For purposes of this section, multiple parties shall be considered one party when they are represented by the same counsel. The presiding officer and jurors in a summary jury trial are neutrals within the meaning of these Rules and shall be compensated by the parties.

(13) Sanctions for failure to attend other settlement procedures. If any person required to attend a settlement procedure fails to attend without good cause, a Resident or Presiding Judge may impose upon the person any appropriate monetary sanction including but not limited to, the payment of fines, reimbursement of a party's attorney fees, expenses, and share of the neutral's fee and loss of earnings incurred by persons attending the conference.

A party seeking sanctions against a person, or a Resident or Presiding Judge upon his/her own motion, shall do so in a written motion stating the grounds for the motion and the relief sought. Said motion shall be served upon all parties and on any person against whom sanctions are being sought. If the court imposes sanctions, it shall do so, after notice and a hearing, in a written order, making findings of fact supported by substantial evidence and conclusions of law.

Rule 11. Rules for Neutral evaluation.

A. Nature of neutral evaluation. Neutral evaluation is an informal, abbreviated presentation of facts and issues by the parties to an evaluator at an early stage of the case. The neutral evaluator is responsible for evaluating the strengths and weaknesses of the case, providing candid assessment of liability, settlement value, and a dollar value or range of potential awards if the case proceeds to trial. The evaluator is also responsible for identifying areas of agreement and disagreement and suggesting necessary and appropriate discovery.

B. When conference is to be held. As a guiding principle, the neutral evaluation conference should be held at an early stage of the case after the time for the filing of answers has expired but in advance of the expiration of the discovery period.

C. Pre-conference submissions. No later than twenty (20) days prior the date established for the neutral evaluation conference to begin, each party shall furnish the evaluator with written information about the case, and shall at the same time certify to the evaluator that they served a copy of such summary on all other parties to the case. The information provided to the evaluator and the other parties hereunder shall be a summary of the significant facts and issues in the party's case, shall not be more than five (5) pages in length, and shall have attached to it copies of any documents supporting the parties' summary. Information provided to the evaluator and to the other parties pursuant to this paragraph shall not be filed with the Court.

D. Replies to pre-conference submissions. No later than ten (10) days prior to the date established for the neutral evaluation conference to begin any party may, but is not required to, send additional written information not exceeding three (3) pages in length to the evaluator, responding to the submission of an opposing party. The response shall be served on all other parties and the party sending such response shall certify such service to the evaluator, but such response shall not be filed with the Court.

E. Conference Procedure. Prior to a neutral evaluation conference, the evaluator may request additional written information from any party. At the conference, the evaluator may address questions to the parties and give them an opportunity to complete their summaries with a brief oral statement.

F. Modification of procedure. Subject to approval of the evaluator, the parties may agree to modify the procedures required by these rules for neutral evaluation.

G. Evaluator's duties.

(1) Evaluator's opening statement. At the beginning of the conference the evaluator shall define and describe the following points to the parties in addition to those matters set out in Rule 10.C.(2)(b):

(a) The fact that the neutral evaluation conference is not a trial, the evaluator is not a judge, the evaluator's opinions are not binding on any party, and the parties retain their right to trial if they do not reach a settlement.

(b) The fact that any settlement reached will be only by mutural consent of the Parties.

(2) Oral report to parties by evaluator. In addition to the written report to the Court required under these rules, at the conclusion of the neutral evaluation conference the evaluator shall issue an oral report to the parties advising them of his or her opinions of the case. Such opinion shall include a candid assessment of liability, estimated settlement value, and the strengths and weaknesses of each party's claims if the case proceeds to trial. The oral report shall also contain a suggested settlement or disposition of the case and the reasons therefore. The evaluator shall not reduce his or her oral report to writing, and shall not inform the Court thereof.

(3) Report of evaluator to court. Within ten (10) days after the completion of the neutral evaluation conference, the evaluator shall file a written report with the Court using an AOC form, stating when and where the conference was held, the names of those persons who attended the conference, whether or not an agreement was reached by the parties and the name of the person designated to file judgments or dismissals concluding the action.

H. Evaluator's authority to assist negotiations. If all parties to the neutral evaluation conference request and agree, the evaluator may assist the parties in settlement discussions.

I. Finalizing agreement. If before the conclusion of the neutral evaluation conference and the evaluator's report to the Court the parties are able to reach a settlement of their claims, the parties shall reduce the agreement to writing and sign it along with their counsel. A consent judgment or one or more voluntary dismissals shall be filed with the Court by such persons as the parties shall designate.

Rule 12. Rules for arbitration.

In this form of settlement procedure the parties select an arbitrator who shall hear the case and enter an advisory decision. The arbitrator's decision is made to facilitate the parties' negotiation of a settlement and is non-binding, unless neither party timely requests a trial de novo, in which case the decision is entered by the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge as a judgment, or the parties agree that the decision shall be binding.

A. Arbitrators.

(1) Arbitrator's Canon of Ethics. Arbitrators shall comply with the Canons of Ethics for Arbitrators promulgated by the Supreme Court of North Carolina. Arbitrators shall be disqualified and must recuse themselves in accordance with the Canons.

B. Exchange of information.

(1) Pre-hearing exchange of information. At least 10 days before the date set for the arbitration hearing the parties shall exchange in writing:

(a) Lists of witnesses they expect to testify.

(b) Copies of documents or exhibits they expect to offer into evidence.

(c) A brief statement of the issues and contentions of the parties.

Parties may agree in writing to rely on stipulations and/or statements, sworn or unsworn, rather than a formal presentation of witnesses and documents, for all or part of the hearing. Each party shall bring to the hearing and provide to the arbitrator a copy of these materials. These materials shall not be filed with the court or included in the case file.

(2) Exchanged documents considered authenticated. Any document exchanged may be received in the hearing as evidence without further authentication; however, the party against whom it is offered may subpoena and examine as an adverse witness anyone who is the author, custodian, or a witness through whom the document might otherwise have been introduced. Documents not so exchanged may not be received if to do so would, in the arbitrator's opinion, constitute unfair, prejudicial surprise.

(3) Copies of exhibits admissible. Copies of exchanged documents or exhibits are admissible in arbitration hearings, in lieu of the originals.

C. Arbitration hearings.

(1) Witnesses. Witnesses may be compelled to testify under oath or affirmation and produce evidence by the same authority and to the same extent as if the hearing were a trial. The arbitrator is empowered and authorized to administer oaths and affirmations in arbitration hearings.

(2) Subpoenas. Rule 45 of the North Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure shall apply to subpoenas for attendance of witnesses and production of documentary evidence at an arbitration hearing under these rules.

(3) Motions. Designation of an action for arbitration does not affect a party's right to file any motion with the court.

(a) The court, in its discretion, may consider and determine any motion at any time. It may defer consideration of issues raised by motion to the arbitrator for determination in the award. Parties shall state their contentions regarding pending motions referred to the arbitrator in the exchange of information required by Rule 12.B.(1).

(b) Pendency of a motion shall not be cause for delaying an arbitration hearing unless the court so orders.

(4) Law of evidence used as guide. The law of evidence does not apply, except as to privilege, in an arbitration hearing but shall be considered as a guide toward full and fair development of the facts. The arbitrator shall consider all evidence presented and give it the weight and effect the arbitrator determines appropriate.

(5) Authority of arbitrator to govern hearings. Arbitrators shall have the authority of a trial Judge to govern the conduct of hearings, except for the power to punish for contempt. The arbitrator shall refer all matters involving contempt to the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge.

(6) Conduct of hearing. The arbitrator and the parties shall review the list of witnesses, exhibits and written statements concerning issues previously exchanged by the parties pursuant to Rule 12.B.(1), above. The order of the hearing shall generally follow the order at trial with regard to opening statements and closing arguments of counsel, direct and cross examination of witnesses and presentation of exhibits. However, in the arbitrator's discretion the order may be varied.

(7) No Record of hearing made. No official transcript of an arbitration hearing shall be made. The arbitrator may permit any party to record the arbitration hearing in any manner that does not interfere with the proceeding.

(8) Parties must Be present at hearings; Representation. Subject to the provisions of rule 10.C.(9), all parties shall be present at hearings in person or through representative authorized to make binding decisions on their behalf in all matters in controversy before the arbitrator. All parties may be represented by counsel. Parties may appear pro se as permitted by law.

(9) Hearing concluded. The arbitrator shall declare the hearing concluded when all the evidence is in and any arguments the arbitrator permits have been completed. In exceptional cases, the arbitrator has discretion to receive post-hearing briefs, but not evidence, if submitted within three days after the hearing has been concluded.

D. The award.

(1) Filing the award. The award shall be in writing, signed by the arbitrator and filed with the Clerk of the Superior Court in the County where the action is pending, with a copy to the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge within twenty (20) days after the hearing is concluded or the receipt of post-hearing briefs, whichever is later. An award form, which shall be an AOC form, shall be used by the arbitrator as its report to the court and may be used to record its award.

(2) Findings; Conclusions; Opinions. No findings of fact and conclusions of law or opinions supporting an award are required.

(3) Scope of award. The award must resolve all issues raised by the pleadings, may be in any amount supported by the evidence, shall include interest as provided by law, and may include attorney's fees as allowed by law.

(4) Costs. The arbitrator may include in an award court costs accruing through the arbitration proceedings in favor of the prevailing party.

(5) Copies of award to parties. The arbitrator shall deliver a copy of the award to all of the parties or their counsel at the conclusion of the hearing or the arbitrator shall serve the award after filing. A record shall be made by the arbitrator of the date and manner of service.

E. Trial De Novo.

(1) Trial de novo as of right. Any party not in default for a reason subjecting that party to judgment by default who is dissatisfied with an arbitrator's award may have a trial de novo as of right upon filing a written demand for trial de novo with the court, and service of the demand on all parties, on an AOC form within 30 days after the arbitrator's award has been served. Demand for jury trial pursuant to N.C. R. Civ. P. 39(b) does not preserve the right to a trial de novo. A demand by any party for a trial de novo in accordance with this section is sufficient to preserve the right of all other parties to a trial de novo. Any trial de novo pursuant to this section shall include all claims in the action.

(2) No reference to arbitration in presence of jury. A trial de novo shall be conducted as if there had been no arbitration proceeding. No reference may be made to prior arbitration proceedings in the presence of a jury without consent of all parties to the arbitration and the court's approval.

F. Judgment on the arbitration decision.

(1) Termination of action before judgment. Dismissals or a consent judgment may be filed at any time before entry of judgment on an award.

(2) Judgment entered on award. If the case is not terminated by dismissal or consent judgment, and no party files a demand for trial de novo within 30 days after the award is served, the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge shall enter judgment on the award, which shall have the same effect as a consent judgment in the action. A copy of the judgment shall be served on all parties or their counsel.

G. Agreement for binding arbitration.

(1) Written agreement. The arbitrator's decision may be binding upon the parties if all parties agree in writing. Such agreement may be made at any time after the order for arbitration and prior to the filing of the arbitrator's decision. The written agreement shall be executed by the parties and their counsel, and shall be filed with the Clerk of Superior Court and the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge prior to the filing of the arbitrator's decision.

(2) Entry of judgment on a binding decision. The arbitrator shall file the decision with the Clerk of Superior Court and it shall become a judgment in the same manner as set out in G.S. 1-567.1ff.

H. Modification procedure. Subject to approval of the arbitrator, the parties may agree to modify the procedures required by these rules for court ordered arbitration.

Rule 13. Rules for summary trials.

In a summary bench trial, evidence is presented in a summary fashion to a presiding officer, who shall render a verdict. In a summary jury trial, evidence is presented in summary fashion to a privately procured jury, which shall render a verdict. The goal of summary trials is to obtain an accurate prediction of the ultimate verdict of a full civil trial as an aid to the parties and their settlement efforts.

Rule 23 of the General Rules fo Practice also provide for summary jury trials. While parties may request of the Court permission to utilize that process, it may not be substituted in lieu of mediated settlement conferences or other procedures outlined in these rules.

A. Pre-summary trial conference. Prior to the summary trial, counsel for the parties shall attend a conference with the presiding officer selected by the parties pursuant to Rule 10.C.(10). That presiding officer shall issue an order which shall:

(1) Confirm the completion of discovery or set a date for the completion;

(2) Order that all statements made by counsel in the summary trial shall be founded on admissible evidence, either documented by deposition or other discovery previously filed and served, or by affidavits of the witnesses;

(3) Schedule all outstanding motions for hearing;

(4) Set dates by which the parties exchange:

(a) A list of parties' respective issues and contentions for trial;

(b) A preview of the party's presentation, including notations as to the document (e.g. deposition, affidavit, letter, contract) which supports that evidentiary statement;

(c) All documents or other evidence upon which each party will rely in making its presentation; and

(d) All exhibits to be presented at the summary trial.

(5) Set the date by which the parties shall enter a stipulation, subject to the presiding officer's approval, detailing the time allowable for jury selection, opening statements, the presentation of evidence, and closing arguments (total time is usually limited to one day);

(6) Establish a procedure by which private, paid jurors will be located and assembled by the parties if a summary jury trial is to held and set the date by which the parties shall submit agreed upon jury instructions, jury selection questionnaire, and the number of potential jurors to be questioned and seated;

(7) Set a date for the summary jury trial; and

(8) Address such other matters as are necessary to place the matter in a posture for summary trial.

B. Presiding officer to issue order if parties unable to agree. If the parties are unable to agree upon the dates and procedures set out in Section A. of this Rule, the presiding officer shall issue an order which addresses all matters necessary to place the case in a posture for summary trial.

C. Stipulation to a binding summary trial. At any time prior to the rendering of the verdict, the parties may stipulate that the summary trial be binding and the verdict become a final judgment. The parties may also make a binding high/low agreement, wherein a verdict below a stipulated floor or above a stipulated ceiling would be rejected in favor of the floor or ceiling.

D. Evidentiary motions. Counsel shall exchange and file motion in limine and other evidentiary matters, which shall be heard prior to the trial. Counsel shall agree prior to the hearing of said motions as to whether the presiding officer's rulings will be binding in all subsequent hearings or non-binding and limited to the summary trial.

E. Jury selection. In the case of a summary jury trial, potential jurors shall be selected in accordance with the procedure set out in the pre-summary trial order. These jurors shall complete a questionnaire previously stipulated to by the parties. Eighteen jurors or such lesser number as the parties agree shall submit to questioning by the presiding officer and each party for such time as is allowed pursuant to the Summary Trial Pre-trial Order. Each party shall then have three peremptory challenges, to be taken alternately, beginning with the plaintiff. Following the exercise of all peremptory challenges, the first twelve seated jurors, or such lesser number as the parties may agree, shall constitute the panel.

After the jury is seated, the presiding officer in his/her discretion, may describe the issues and procedures to be used in presenting the summary jury trial. The jury shall not be informed of the non-binding nature of the proceeding, so as not to diminish the seriousness with which they consider the matter and in the event the parties later stipulate to a binding proceeding.

F. Presentation of evidence and arguments of counsel. Each party may make a brief opening statement, following which each side shall present its case within the time limits set in the Summary Trial Pre-trial Order. Each party may reserve a portion of its time for rebuttal or surrebuttal evidence. Although closing arguments are generally omitted, subject to the presiding officer's discretion and the parties' agreement, each party may be allowed to make closing arguments within the time limits previously established.

Evidence shall be presented in summary fashion by the attorneys for each party without live testimony. Where the credibility of a witness is important, the witness may testify in person or by video deposition. All statements of counsel shall be founded on evidence that would be admissible at trial and documented by prior discovery.

Affidavits offered into evidence shall be served upon opposing parties far enough in advance of the proceeding to allow time for affiants to be deposed. Counsel may read portions of the deposition to the jury. Photographs, exhibits, documentary evidence and accurate summaries of evidence through charts, diagrams, evidence notebooks, or other visual means are encouraged, but shall be stipulated by both parties or approved by the presiding officer.

G. Jury charge. In a summary jury trial, following the presentation of evidence by both parties, the presiding officer shall give a brief charge to the jury, relying on predetermined jury instructions and such additional instructions as the presiding officer deems appropriate.

H. Deliberation and verdict. In a summary jury trial, the presiding officer shall inform the jurors that they should attempt to return a unanimous verdict. The jury shall be given a verdict form stipulated to by the parties or approved by the presiding officer. The form may include specific interrogatories, a general liability inquiry and/or an inquiry as to damages. If, after diligent efforts and a reasonable time, the jury is unable to reach a unanimous verdict, the presiding officer may recall the jurors and encourage them to reach a verdict quickly, and/or inform them that they may return separate verdicts, for which purpose the presiding officer may distribute separate forms.

In a summary bench trial, at the close of the presentation of evidence and arguments of counsel and after allowing time for settlement discussions and consideration of the evidence by the presiding officer, the presiding officer shall render a decision. Upon a party's request, the presiding officer may allow three business days for the filing of post-hearing briefs. If the presiding officer takes the matter under advisement or allows post-hearing briefs, the decision shall be rendered no later than ten days after the close of the hearing or filing of briefs whichever is longer.

I. Jury questioning. In a summary jury trial the presiding officer may allow a brief conference with the jurors in open court after a verdict has been returned, in order to determine the basis of the jury's verdict. However, if such a conference is used, it should be limited to general impressions. The presiding officer should not allow counsel to ask detailed questions of jurors to prevent altering the summary trial from a settlement technique to a form of pre-trial rehearsal. Jurors shall not be required to submit counsels' questioning and shall be informed of the option to depart.

J. Settlement discussions. Upon the retirement of the jury in summary jury trials or the presiding officer in summary bench trials, the parties and/or their counsel shall meet for settlement discussions. Following the verdict or decision, the parties and/or their counsel shall meet to explore further settlement possibilities. The parties may request that the presiding officer remain available to provide such input or guidance as the presiding officer deems appropriate.

K. Modification of procedure. Subject to approval of the presiding officer, the parties may agree to modify the procedures set forth in these Rules for summary trial.

L. Settlement of the case. In the event that the parties settle the case in the course of the summary trial, the presiding officer shall direct the parties to immediately prepare and sign a memorandum of settlement which shall be filed with the Clerk of Superior Court.

Rule 14. Local rule making.

The Senior Resident Superior Court Judge of any district conducting mediated settlement conferences under these Rules is authorized to publish local rules, not inconsistent with these Rules and G.S. 7A-38.1, implementing mediated settlement conferences in that district.

Rule 15. Definitions.

A. The term, Senior Resident Superior Court Judge, as used throughout these rules, shall refer both to said judge or said judge's designee.

B. The phrase, AOC forms, shall refer to forms prepared by, printed, and distributed by the Administrative Office of the Courts to implement these Rules or forms approved by local rule which contain at least the same information as those prepared by the Administrative Office of the Courts. Proposals for the creation or modification of such forms may be initiated by the Dispute Resolution Commission.

Rule 16. Time limits.

Any time limit provided for by these Rules may be waived or extended for good cause shown. Service of papers and computation of time shall be governed by the Rules of Civil Procedure.

Editor's note. — These rules were adopted by an order of the North Carolina Supreme Court dated and effective October 16, 2001, which provided, in part:

"WHEREAS, section 7A-38.4A of the North Carolina General Statutes established pretrial settlement procedures in district court actiions, and

"WHEREAS, N.C.G.S. § 7A-38.4A(k) and (o) enables this Court to implement section 7A-38.4A by adopting rules and by adopting standards for certification of mediators and procedures for the enforcement of those standards,

"NOW, THEREFORE, pursuant to N.C.G.S. § 7A-38.4A(o), the Settlement Procedures in District Court Actions Involving Family Financial Issues are adopted to read as attached hereto."

Rule 1. Initiating settlement procedures.

A. Purpose of mandatory settlement procedures. Pursuant to G.S. 7A-38.4A, these Rules are promulgated to implement a system of settlement events which are designed to focus the parties' attention on settlement rather than on trial preparation and to provide a structured opportunity for settlement negotiations to take place. Nothing herein is intended to limit or prevent the parties from engaging in settlement procedures voluntarily at any time before or after those ordered by the Court pursuant to these Rules.

B. Duty of counsel to consult with clients and opposing counsel concerning settlement procedures. In furtherance of this purpose, counsel, upon being retained to represent any party to a district court case involving family financial issues, including equitable distribution, child support, alimony, post-separation support action, or claims arising out of contracts between the parties under G.S. 50-20(d), 52-10, 52-10.1 or 52 B shall advise his or her client regarding the settlement procedures approved by these Rules and, at or prior to the scheduling conference mandated by G.S. 50-21(d), shall attempt to reach agreement with opposing counsel on the appropriate settlement procedure for the action.

C. Ordering settlement procedures.

(1) Equitable distribution scheduling conference. At the scheduling conference mandated by G.S. 50-21(d) in an equitable distribution action, or at such earlier time as specified by local rule, the Court shall include in its scheduling order a requirement that the parties and their counsel attend a mediated settlement conference or, if the parties agree, other settlement procedure conducted pursuant to these rules, unless excused by the Court pursuant to Rule 1.C.(6) or by the Court or mediator pursuant to Rule 4.A.(2).

(2) Scope of settlement proceedings. All other financial issues existing between the parties when the equitable distribution settlement proceeding is ordered, or at any time thereafter, may be discussed, negotiated or decided at the proceeding. In those districts where a child custody and visitation mediation program has been established pursuant to G.S. 7A-494, child custody and visitation issues may be the subject of settlement proceedings ordered pursuant to these Rules only in those cases in which the parties and the mediator have agreed to include them and in which the parties have been exempted from, or have fulfilled the program requirements. In those districts where a child custody and visitation mediation program has not been established pursuant to G.S. 7A-494, child custody and visitation issues may be the subject of settlement proceedings ordered pursuant to these Rules with the agreement of all parties and the mediator.

(3) Authorizing settlement procedures other than mediated settlement conference. The parties and their attorneys are in the best position to know which settlement procedure is appropriate for their case. Therefore, the Court shall order the use of a settlement procedure authorized by Rules 10-12 herein or by local rules of the District Court in the county or district where the action is pending if the parties have agreed upon the procedure to be used, the neutral to be employed and the compensation of the neutral. If the parties have not agreed on all three items, then the Court shall order the parties and their counsel to attend a mediated settlement conference conducted pursuant to these Rules.

The motion for an order to use a settlement procedure other than a mediated settlement conference shall be submitted on an AOC form at the scheduling conference and shall state:

(a) the settlement procedure chosen by the parties;

(b) the name, address and telephone number of the neutral selected by the parties;

(c) the rate of compensation of the neutral;

(d) that all parties consent to the motion.

(4) Content of order. The Court's order shall (1) require the mediated settlement conference or other settlement proceeding be held in the case; (2) establish a deadline for the completion of the conference or proceeding; and (3) state that the parties shall be required to pay the neutral's fee at the conclusion of the settlement conference or proceeding unless otherwise ordered by the Court. Where the settlement proceeding ordered is a judicial settlement conference, the parties shall not be required to pay for the neutral.

The order shall be contained in the Court's scheduling order, or, if no scheduling order is entered, shall be on an AOC form. Any scheduling order entered at the completion of a scheduling conference held pursuant to local rule may be signed by the parties or their attorneys in lieu of submitting the forms referred to hereinafter relating to the selection of a mediator.

(5) Court-ordered settlement procedures in other family financial cases. Any party to an action involving family financial issues not previously ordered to a mediated settlement conference may move the Court to order the parties to participate in a settlement procedure. Such motion shall be made in writing, state the reasons why the order should be allowed and be served on the non-moving party. Any objection to the motion or any request for hearing shall be filed in writing with the Court within 10 days after the date of the service of the motion. Thereafter, the Judge shall rule upon the motion and notify the parties or their attorneys of the ruling. If the Court orders a settlement proceeding, then the proceeding shall be a mediated settlement conference conducted pursuant to these Rules. Other settlement procedures may be ordered if the circumstances outlined in subsection (3) above have been met.

(6) Motion to dispense with settlement procedures. A party may move the Court to dispense with the mediated settlement conference or other settlement procedure. Such motion shall be in writing and shall state the reasons the relief is sought. For good cause shown, the Court may grant the motion. Such good cause may include, but not be limited to, the fact that the parties have participated in a settlement procedure such as nonbinding arbitration or early neutral evaluation prior to the court's order to participate in a mediated settlement conference or have elected to resolve their case through arbitration under the Family Law Arbitration Act (G.S. 50-41 et seq) or that one of the parties has alleged domestic violence. The Court may also dispense with the mediated settlement conference for good cause upon its own motion or by local rule. (Adopted effective October 16, 2001.)

Rule 2. Selection of mediator.

A. Selection of certified family financial mediator by agreement of the parties. The parties may select a certified family financial mediator certified pursuant to these Rules by agreement by filing with the Court a Designation of Mediator by Agreement at the scheduling conference. Such designation shall: state the name, address and telephone number of the mediator selected; state the rate of compensation of the mediator; state that the mediator and opposing counsel have agreed upon the selection and rate of compensation; and state that the mediator is certified pursuant to these Rules.

In the event the parties wish to select a mediator who is not certified pursuant to these Rules, the parties may nominate said person by filing a Nomination of Non-Certified Family Financial Mediator with the Court at the scheduling conference. Such nomination shall state the name, address and telephone number of the mediator; state the training, experience, or other qualifications of the mediator; state the rate of compensation of the mediator; state that the mediator and opposing counsel have agreed upon the selection and rate of compensation, if any. The Court shall approve said nomination if, in the Court's opinion, the nominee is qualified to serve as mediator and the parties and the nominee have agreed upon the rate of compensation.

Designations of mediators and nominations of mediators shall be made on an AOC form. A copy of each such form submitted to the Court and a copy of the Court's order requiring a mediated settlement conference shall be delivered to the mediator by the parties.

B. Appointment of certified family financial mediator by the Court. If the parties cannot agree upon the selection of a mediator, they shall so notify the Court and request that the Court appoint a mediator. The motion shall be filed at the scheduling conference and shall state that the attorneys for the parties have had a full and frank discussion concerning the selection of a mediator and have been unable to agree. The motion shall be on an AOC form.

Upon receipt of a motion to appoint a mediator, or in the event the parties have not filed a designation or nomination of mediator, the Court shall appoint a certified family financial mediator certified pursuant to these Rules under a procedure established by said Judge and set out in local order or rule.

The Dispute Resolution Commission shall furnish for the consideration of the District Court Judges of any district where mediated settlement conferences are authorized to be held a list of those certified family financial mediators who request appointments in said district. Said list shall contain the mediators' names, addresses and phone numbers and shall be provided in writing or on the Commission's web site.

C. Mediator information directory. To assist the parties in the selection of a mediator by agreement, the Chief District Court Judge having authority over any county participating in the mediated settlement conference program shall prepare and keep current for such county a central directory of information on all mediators certified pursuant to these Rules who wish to mediate in that county. Such information shall be collected on loose leaf forms provided by the Dispute Resolution Commission and be kept in one or more notebooks made available for inspection by attorneys and parties in the office of the Clerk of Court in such county and the office of the Chief District Court Judge or Trial Court Administrator in such county or, in a single county district, in the office of the Chief District Court Judge or said judge's designee.

D. Disqualification of mediator. Any party may move a Court of the district where the action is pending for an order disqualifying the mediator. For good cause, such order shall be entered. If the mediator is disqualified, a replacement mediator shall be selected or appointed pursuant to Rule 2. Nothing in this provision shall preclude mediators from disqualifying themselves. (Adopted effective October 16, 2001.)

Rule 3. The mediated settlement conference.

A. Where conference is to be held. The mediated settlement conference shall be held in any location agreeable to the parties and the mediator. If the parties cannot agree to a location, the mediator shall be responsible for reserving a neutral place and making arrangements for the conference and for giving timely notice of the time and location of the conference to all attorneys and pro se parties.

B. When conference is to be held. As a guiding principle, the conference should be held after the parties have had a reasonable time to conduct discovery but well in advance of the trial date. The mediator is authorized to assist the parties in establishing a discovery schedule and completing discovery.

The Court's order issued pursuant to Rule 1.A.(1) shall state a deadline for completion of the conference which shall be not more than 150 days after issuance of the Court's order, unless extended by the Court. The mediator shall set a date and time for the conference pursuant to Rule 6.B.(5).

C. Request to extend deadline for completion. A party, or the mediator, may move the Court to extend the deadline for completion of the conference. Such motion shall state the reasons the extension is sought and shall be served by the moving party upon the other parties and the mediator. If any party does not consent to the motion, said party shall promptly communicate its objection to the Court.

The Court may grant the request by entering a written order setting a new deadline for completion of the conference, which date may be set at any time prior to trial. Said order shall be delivered to all parties and the mediator by the person who sought the extension.

D. Recesses. The mediator may recess the conference at any time and may set times for reconvening. If the time for reconvening is set during the conference, no further notification is required for persons present at the conference.

E. The mediated settlement conference is not to delay other proceedings. The mediated settlement conference shall not be cause for the delay of other proceedings in the case, including the completion of discovery, the filing or hearing of motions, or the trial of the case, except by order of the Court. (Adopted effective October 16, 2001.)

Rule 4. Duties of parties, attorneys and other participants in mediated settlement conferences.

A. Attendance.

(1) The following persons shall attend a mediated settlement conference:

(b) Attorneys. At least one counsel of record for each party whose counsel has appeared in the action.

(2) Any person required to attend a mediated settlement conference shall physically attend until such time as an agreement has been reached or the mediator, after conferring with the parties and their counsel, if any, declares an impasse. No mediator shall prolong a conference unduly.

Any such person may have the attendance requirement excused or modified, including allowing a person to participate by phone, by agreement of both parties and the mediator or by order of the Court. Ordinarily, attorneys for the parties may be excused from attending only after they have appeared at the first session.

B. Finalizing by notarized agreement, consent order and/or dismissal. The essential terms of the parties' agreement shall be reduced to writing as a summary memorandum at the conclusion of the conference unless the parties have reduced their agreement to writing, have signed it and in all other respects have complied with the requirements of Chapter 50 of the General Statutes. The parties and their counsel shall use the summary memorandum as a guide to drafting such agreements and orders as may be required to give legal effect to the its terms.

Within thirty (30) days of reaching agreement at the conference, all final agreements and other dispositive documents shall be executed by the parties and notarized, and judgments or voluntary dismissals shall be filed with the Court by such persons as the parties or the Court shall designate. In the event the parties fail to agree on the wording or terms of a final agreement or court order, the mediator may schedule another session if the mediator determines that it would assist the parties.

C. Payment of mediator's fee. The parties shall pay the mediator's fee as provided by Rule 7. (Adopted effective October 16, 2001.)

Rule 5. Sanctions for failure to attend mediated settlement conferences.

If any person required to attend a mediated settlement conference fails to attend without good cause, the Court may impose upon that person any appropriate monetary sanction including, but not limited to, the payment of attorneys fees, mediator fees, expenses and loss of earnings incurred by persons attending the conference.

A party to the action seeking sanctions, or the Court on its own motion, shall do so in a written motion stating the grounds for the motion and the relief sought. Said motion shall be served upon all parties and on any person against whom sanctions are being sought. If the Court imposes sanctions, it shall do so, after notice and a hearing, in a written order, making findings of fact supported by substantial evidence and conclusions of law. (See also Rule 7.F. and the Comment to Rules 7.F.) (Adopted effective October 16, 2001; Amended November 21, 2002.)

Rule 6. Authority and duties of mediators.

A. Authority of mediator.

(1) Control of conference. The mediator shall at all times be in control of the conference and the procedures to be followed. However, the mediator's conduct shall be governed by standards of conduct promulgated by the Supreme Court, which shall contain a provision prohibiting mediators from prolonging a conference unduly.

(2) Private consultation. The mediator may communicate privately with any participant during the conference. However, there shall be no ex parte communication before or outside the conference between the mediator and any counsel or party on any matter touching the proceeding, except with regard to scheduling matters. Nothing in this rule prevents the mediator from engaging in ex parte communications, with the consent of the parties, for the purpose of assisting settlement negotiations.

B. Duties of mediator.

(1) The mediator shall define and describe the following at the beginning of the conference:

(a) The process of mediation;

(b) The differences between mediation and other forms of conflict resolution;

(c) The costs of the mediated settlement conference;

(d) That the mediated settlement conference is not a trial, the mediator is not a judge, and the parties retain their right to trial if they do not reach settlement;

(e) The circumstances under which the mediator may meet and communicate privately with any of the parties or with any other person;

(f) Whether and under what conditions communications with the mediator will be held in confidence during the conference;

(g) The inadmissibility of conduct and statements as provided by G.S. 7A-38.4A(j);

(h) The duties and responsibilities of the mediator and the participants; and

(i) The fact that any agreement reached will be reached by mutual consent.

(2) Disclosure. The mediator has a duty to be impartial and to advise all participants of any circumstance bearing on possible bias, prejudice or partiality.

(3) Declaring impasse. It is the duty of the mediator to determine in a timely manner that an impasse exists and that the conference should end. To that end, the mediator shall inquire of and consider the desires of the parties to cease or continue the conference.

(4) Reporting results of conference. The mediator shall report to the Court, or its designee, using an AOC form, within 10 days of the completion of the conference, whether or not an agreement was reached by the parties. If the case is settled or otherwise disposed of prior to the conference, the mediator shall file the report indicating the disposition of the case, the person who informed the mediator that settlement had been reached, and the person who will present final documents to the court.

If an agreement was reached at the conference, the report shall state whether the action will be concluded by consent judgment or voluntary dismissal and shall identify the persons designated to file such consent judgment or dismissals. If partial agreements are reached at the conference, the report shall state what issues remain for trial. The mediator's report shall inform the Court of the absence without permission of any party or attorney from the mediated settlement conference. The Administrative Office of the Courts, in consultation with the Dispute Resolution Commission, may require the mediator to provide statistical data in the report for evaluation of the mediated settlement conference program.

Mediators who fail to report as required pursuant to this rule shall be subject to the contempt power of the court and sanctions.

(5) Scheduling and holding the conference. The mediator shall schedule the conference and conduct it prior to the conference completion deadline set out in the Court's order. The mediator shall make an effort to schedule the conference at a time that is convenient with all participants. In the absence of agreement, the mediator shall select a date and time for the conference. Deadlines for completion of the conference shall be strictly observed by the mediator unless changed by written order of the Court.

(6) Informational brochure. Before the conference, the mediator shall distribute to the parties or their attorneys a brochure prepared by the Dispute Resolution Commission explaining the mediated settlement conference process and the operations of the Commission.

(7) Evaulation forms. At the mediated settlement conference, the mediator shall distribute a mediator evaluation form approved by the Dispute Resolution Commission. The mediator shall distribute one copy per party with additional copies distributed upon request. The evaluation is intended for purpose of self-improvement and the mediator shall review returned evaluation forms. (Adopted effective October 16, 2001; amended November 21, 2002.)

Rule 7. Compensation of the mediator and sanctions.

A. By agreement. When the mediator is selected by agreement of the parties, compensation shall be as agreed upon between the parties and the mediator.

B. By Court order. When the mediator is appointed by the Court, the parties shall compensate the mediator for mediation services at the rate of $125 per hour. The parties shall also pay to the mediator a one-time, per case administrative fee of $125, which accrues upon appointment and shall be paid if the case settles prior to the mediated settlement conference or if the court approves the substitution of a mediator selected by the parties for a court appointed mediator.

C. Payment of compensation by parties. Unless otherwise agreed to by the parties or ordered by the Court, the mediator's fee shall be paid in equal shares by the parties. Payment shall be due and payable upon completion of the conference.

D. Inability to pay. No party found by the Court to be unable to pay a full share of a mediator's fee shall be required to pay a full share. Any party required to pay a share of a mediator fee pursuant to Rule 7.B. and C. may move the Court to pay according to the Court's determination of that party's ability to pay.

In ruling on such motions, the Judge may consider the income and assets of the movant and the outcome of the action. The Court shall enter an order granting or denying the party's motion. In so ordering, the Court may require that one or more shares be paid out of the marital estate.

Any mediator conducting a settlement conference pursuant to these rules shall accept as payment in full of a party's share of the mediator's fee that portion paid by or on behalf of the party pursuant to an order of the Court issued pursuant to this rule.

E. Postponement fees. As used herein, the term "postponement" shall mean rescheduling or not proceeding with a settlement conference once a date for the settlement conference has been scheduled by the mediator. After a settlement conference has been scheduled for a specific date, a party may not postpone the conference without good cause. A conference may be postponed only after notice to all parties of the reason for the postponement, payment to the mediator of a postponement fee as provided below or as agreed when the mediator is selected, and consent of the mediator and the opposing attorney.

In cases in which the court appoints the mediator, if a settlement conference is postponed without good cause within seven (7) business days of the scheduled date, the fee shall be $125. If the settlement conference is postponed without good cause within three (3) business days of the scheduled date, the fee shall be $250. Postponement fees shall be paid by the party requesting the postponement unless agreed to by the parties. Postponement fees are in addition to the one-time, per case administrative fee provided for in Rule 7.B.

F. Sanctions for failure to pay mediator's fee. Willful failure of a party to make timely payment of that party's share of the mediator's fee (whether the one time, per case administrative fee, the hourly fee for mediation services, or any postponement fee) or willful failure of a party contending indigent status or the inability to pay his or her full share of the fee to promptly move the Court for a determination of indigency or the inability to pay a full share, shall constitute contempt of court and may result, following notice, in a hearing and the imposition of any and all lawful sanctions by the court. (Adopted effective October 16, 2001; amended November 21, 2002.)

DRC COMMENTS TO RULE 7

DRC Comment to Rule 7.B. — Court-appointed mediators may not be compensated for travel time, mileage, or any other out-of-pocket expenses associated with a court-ordered mediation.

DRC Comment to Rule 7.C. — If a party is found by the Court to have failed to attend a family financial settlement conference without good cause, then the Court may require that party to pay the mediator's fee and related expenses.

DRC Comment to Rule 7.E. — Though FFS Rule 7.E. provides that mediators "shall" assess the postponement fee, it is understood there may be rare situations where the circumstances occasioning a request for a postponement are beyond the control of the parties, for example, an illness, serious accident, unexpected and unavoidable trial conflict. When the party or parties take steps to notify the mediator as soon as possible in such circumstances, the mediator, may, in his or her discretion, waive the postponement fee.

Non-essential requests for postponements work a hardship on parties and mediators and serve only to inject delay into a process and program designed to expedite litigation. As such, it is expected that mediators will assess a postponement fee in all instances where a request does not appear to be absolutely warranted. Moreover, mediators are encouraged not to agree to postponements in instances where, in their judgment, the mediation could be held as scheduled.

DRC Comment to Rules 7.F. — If the Family Financial Settlement Program is to be successful, it is essential that mediators, both party-selected and court-appointed, be compensated for their services. FFS Rule 7.F. is intended to give the court express authority to enforce payment of fees owed both court-appointed and party-selected mediators. In instances where the mediator is party-selected, the court may enforce fees which exceed the caps set forth in 7.B. (hourly fee and administrative fee) and 7.E. (postponement/cancellation fee) or which provide for payment of services or expenses not provided for in Rule 7 but agreed to among the parties, for example, payment for travel time or mileage.

Rule 8. Mediator certification and decertification.

The Dispute Resolution Commission may receive and approve applications for certification of persons to be appointed as family financial mediators. For certification, a person must have complied with the requirements in each of the following sections.

Any person who is or has been disqualified by a professional licensing authority of any state for misconduct shall be ineligible to be certified under this Rule.

Certification of mediators who have been certified as family financial mediators by the Dispute Resolution Commission prior to the adoption of these Rules may not be revoked or not renewed solely because they do not meet the experience and training requirements in Rule 8. (Adopted effective October 16, 2001; amended November 21, 2002.)

Rule 9. Certification of mediation training programs.

A. Certified training programs for mediators certified pursuant to Rule 8.A.2.(c) shall consist of a minimum of forty hours of instruction. The curriculum of such programs shall include the subjects in each of the following sections.

(1) Conflict resolution and mediation theory.

(2) Mediation process and techniques, including the process and techniques typical of family and divorce mediation.

(3) Communication and information gathering skills.

C. A training program must be certified by the Dispute Resolution Commission before attendance at such program may be used for compliance with Rule 8.A. Certification need not be given in advance of attendance.

Training programs attended prior to the promulgation of these rules or attended in other states or approved by the Association for Conflict Resolution (ACR) with requirements equivalent to those in effect for the Academy of Family Mediators immediately prior to its merger with other organizations to become the Association for Conflict Resolution may be approved by the Dispute Resolution Commission if they are in substantial compliance with the standards set forth in this rule. The Dispute Resolution Commission may require attendees of an ACR approved program to demonstrate compliance with the requirements of Rule 9.A.(5) and 9.A.(8). either in the ACR approved training or in some other acceptable course.

D. To complete certification, a training program shall pay all administrative fees established by the Administrative Office of the Courts in consultation with the Dispute Resolution Commission. (Adopted effective October 16, 2001; amended November 21, 2002.)

Rule 10. Other settlement procedures.

A. Order authorizing other settlement procedures. Upon receipt of a motion by the parties seeking authorization to utilize a settlement procedure in lieu of a mediated settlement conference, the Court may order the use of those procedures listed in Rule 10.B. unless the Court finds: that the parties did not agree upon the procedure to be utilized, the neutral to conduct it, or the neutral's compensation; or that the procedure selected is not appropriate for the case or the parties. Judicial settlement conferences may be ordered only if permitted by local rule.

B. Other settlement procedures authorized by these rules. In addition to mediated settlement conferences, the following settlement procedures are authorized by these Rules:

(1) Neutral Evaluation (Rule 11), in which a neutral offers an advisory evaluation of the case following summary presentations by each party.

(2) Judicial Settlement Conference (Rule 12), in which a District Court Judge assists the parties in reaching their own settlement, if allowed by local rules.

(3) Other Settlement Procedures described and authorized by local rule pursuant to Rule 13.

The parties may agree to use arbitration under the Family Law Arbitration Act (G.S. 50-41 et seq) which shall constitute good cause for the court to dispense with settlement procedures authorized by these rules (Rule 1.C.6).

C. General rules applicable to other settlement procedures.

(1) When proceeding is conducted. The neutral shall schedule the conference and conduct it no later than 150 days from the issuance of the Court's order or no later than the deadline for completion set out in the Court's order, unless extended by the Court. The neutral shall make an effort to schedule the conference at a time that is convenient with all participants. In the absence of agreement, the neutral shall select a date and time for the conference. Deadlines for completion of the conference shall be strictly observed by the neutral unless changed by written order of the Court.

(2) Extensions of time. A party or a neutral may request the Court to extend the deadlines for completion of the settlement procedure. A request for an extension shall state the reasons the extension is sought and shall be served by the moving party upon the other parties and the neutral. The Court may grant the extension and enter an order setting a new deadline for completion of the settlement procedure. Said order shall be delivered to all parties and the neutral by the person who sought the extension.

(3) Where procedure is conducted. Settlement proceedings shall be held in any location agreeable to the parties. If the parties cannot agree to a location, the neutral shall be responsible for reserving a neutral place and making arrangements for the conference and for giving timely notice of the time and location of the conference to all attorneys and pro se parties.

(4) No delay of other proceedings. Settlement proceedings shall not be cause for delay of other proceedings in the case, including but not limited to the conduct or completion of discovery, the filing or hearing of motions, or the trial of the case, except by order of the Court.

(5) Inadmissibility of settlement proceedings. Evidence of statements made and conduct occurring in a settlement proceeding conducted under this section shall not be subject to discovery and shall be inadmissible in any proceeding in the action or other actions on the same claim, except in proceedings for sanctions or proceedings to enforce a settlement of the action. No settlement agreement reached at a settlement proceeding conducted pursuant to these Rules shall be enforceable unless it has been reduced to writing and signed by the parties and in all other respects complies with the requirements of Chapter 50 of the General Statutes. However, no evidence otherwise discoverable shall be inadmissible merely because it is presented or discussed in a settlement proceeding.

No mediator, or other neutral conducting a settlement proceeding under this section, shall be compelled to testify or produce evidence concerning statements made and conduct occurring in a mediated settlement conference or other settlement procedure in any civil proceeding for any purpose, including proceedings to enforce a settlement of the action, except to attest to the signing of any of these agreements, and except proceedings for sanctions under this section, disciplinary hearings before the State Bar or any agency established to enforce standards of conduct for mediators, and proceedings to enforce laws concerning juvenile or elder abuse.

(6) No record made. There shall be no stenographic or other record made of any proceedings under these Rules.

(7) Ex parte communication prohibited. Unless all parties agree otherwise, there shall be no ex parte communication prior to the conclusion of the proceeding between the neutral and any counsel or party on any matter related to the proceeding except with regard to administrative matters.

(8) Duties of the parties.

(a) Attendance. All parties and attorneys shall attend other settlement procedures authorized by Rule 10 and ordered by the Court.

(b) Finalizing agreement. If agreement is reached during the proceeding, the essential terms of the agreement shall be reduced to writing as a summary memorandum unless the parties have reduced their agreement to writing, signed it and in all other respects have complied with the requirements of Chapter 50 of the General Statutes. The parties and their counsel shall use the summary memorandum as a guide to drafting such agreements and orders as may be required to give legal effect to the its terms. Within 30 days of the proceeding, all final agreements and other dispositive documents shall be executed by the parties and notarized, and judgments or voluntary dismissals shall be filed with the Court by such persons as the parties or the Court shall designate.

(c) Payment of neutral's fee. The parties shall pay the neutral's fee as provided by Rule 10.C.(12), except that no payment shall be required or paid for a judicial settlement conference.

(9) Sanctions for failure to attend other settlement procedures. If any person required to attend a settlement proceeding fails to attend without good cause, the Court may impose upon that person any appropriate monetary sanction including, but not limited to, the payment of fines, attorneys fees, neutral fees, expenses and loss of earnings incurred by persons attending the conference.

A party to the action, or the Court on its own motion, seeking sanctions against a party or attorney, shall do so in a written motion stating the grounds for the motion and the relief sought. Said motion shall be served upon all parties and on any person against whom sanctions are being sought. If the Court imposes sanctions, it shall do so, after notice and a hearing, in a written order, making findings of fact supported by substantial evidence and conclusions of law.

(10) Selection of neutrals in other settlement procedures.

Selection by agreement. The parties may select any person whom they believe can assist them with the settlement of their case to serve as a neutral in any settlement procedure authorized by these rules, except for judicial settlement conferences.

Notice of such selection shall be given to the Court and to the neutral through the filing of a motion to authorize the use of other settlement procedures at the scheduling conference or the court appearance when settlement procedures are considered by the Court. The notice shall be on an AOC form as set out in Rule 2 herein. Such notice shall state the name, address and telephone number of the neutral selected; state the rate of compensation of the neutral; and state that the neutral and opposing counsel have agreed upon the selection and compensation.

If the parties are unable to select a neutral by agreement, then the Court shall deny the motion for authorization to use another settlement procedure and the court shall order the parties to attend a mediated settlement conference.

(11) Disqualification of neutrals. Any party may move a Court of the district in which an action is pending for an order disqualifying the neutral; and, for good cause, such order shall be entered. Cause shall exist, but is not limited to circumstances where, if the selected neutral has violated any standard of conduct of the State Bar or any standard of conduct for neutrals that may be adopted by the Supreme Court.

(12) Compensation of neutrals. A neutral's compensation shall be paid in an amount agreed to among the parties and the neutral. Time spent reviewing materials in preparation for the neutral evaluation, conducting the proceeding, and making and reporting the award shall be compensable time. The parties shall not compensate a settlement judge.

(13) Authority and duties of neutrals.

(a) Authority of neutrals.

(i) Control of proceeding. The neutral shall at all times be in control of the proceeding and the procedures to be followed.

(ii) Scheduling the proceeding. The neutral shall make a good faith effort to schedule the proceeding at a time that is convenient with the participants, attorneys and neutral. In the absence of agreement, the neutral shall select the date and time for the proceeding. Deadlines for completion of the conference shall be strictly observed by the neutral unless changed by written order of the Court.

(b) Duties of neutrals.

(i) The neutral shall define and describe the following at the beginning of the proceeding:

(a) The process of the proceeding;

(b) The differences between the proceeding and other forms of conflict resolution;

(c) The costs of the proceeding;

(d) The inadmissibility of conduct and statements as provided by G.S. 7A-38.1(1) and Rule 10.C.(6) herein; and

(e) The duties and responsibilities of the neutral and the participants;

(ii) Disclosure. The neutral has a duty to be impartial and to advise all participants of any circumstance bearing on possible bias, prejudice or partiality.

(iii) Reporting results of the proceeding. The neutral shall report the result of the proceeding to the Court in writing within ten (10) days in accordance with the provisions of Rules 11, 12 and 13 herein on an AOC form. The Administrative Office of the Courts, in consultation with the Dispute Resolution Commission, may require the neutral to provide statistical data for evaluation of other settlement procedures.

(iv) Scheduling and holding the proceeding. It is the duty of the neutral to schedule the proceeding and conduct it prior to the completion deadline set out in the Court's order. Deadlines for completion of the proceeding shall be strictly observed by the neutral unless said time limit is changed by a written order of the Court. (Adopted effective October 16, 2001.)

Rule 11. Rules for neutral evaluation.

A. Nature of neutral evaluation. Neutral evaluation is an informal, abbreviated presentation of facts and issues by the parties to an evaluator at an early stage of the case. The neutral evaluator is responsible for evaluating the strengths and weaknesses of the case, providing a candid assessment of the merits of the case, settlement value, and a dollar value or range of potential awards if the case proceeds to trial. The evaluator is also responsible for identifying areas of agreement and disagreement and suggesting necessary and appropriate discovery.

B. When conference is to be held. As a guiding principle, the neutral evaluation conference should be held at an early stage of the case, after the time for the filing of answers has expired but in advance of the expiration of the discovery period.

C. Pre-conference submissions. No later than twenty (20) days prior to the date established for the neutral evaluation conference to begin, each party shall furnish the evaluator with written information about the case, and shall at the same time certify to the evaluator that they served a copy of such summary on all other parties to the case. The information provided to the evaluator and the other parties hereunder shall be a summary of the significant facts and issues in the party's case, and shall have attached to it copies of any documents supporting the parties' summary. Information provided to the evaluator and to the other parties pursuant to this paragraph shall not be filed with the Court.

(d) Replies to pre-conference submissions. No later than ten (10) days prior to the date established for the neutral evaluation conference to begin, any party may, but is not required to, send additional written information to the evaluator responding to the submission of an opposing party. The response furnished to the evaluator shall be served on all other parties and the party sending such response shall certify such service to the evaluator, but such response shall not be filed with the Court.

E. Conference procedure. Prior to a neutral evaluation conference, the evaluator, if he or she deems it necessary, may request additional written information from any party. At the conference, the evaluator may address questions to the parties and give them an opportunity to complete their summaries with a brief oral statement.

F. Modification of procedure. Subject to approval of the evaluator, the parties may agree to modify the procedures required by these rules for neutral evaluation.

G. Evaluator's duties.

(1) Evaluator's opening statement. At the beginning of the conference the evaluator shall define and describe the following points to the parties in addition to those matters set out in Rule 10.C.(2)(b):

(a) The facts that the neutral evaluation conference is not a trial, the evaluator is not a judge, the evaluator's opinions are not binding on any party, and the parties retain their right to trial if they do not reach a settlement.

(b) The fact that any settlement reached will be only by mutual consent of the parties.

(2) Oral report to parties by evaluator. In addition to the written report to the Court required under these rules, at the conclusion of the neutral evaluation conference the evaluator shall issue an oral report to the parties advising them of his or her opinions of the case. Such opinion shall include a candid assessment of the merits of the case, estimated settlement value, and the strengths and weaknesses of each party's claims if the case proceeds to trial. The oral report shall also contain a suggested settlement or disposition of the case and the reasons therefor. The evaluator shall not reduce his or her oral report to writing and shall not inform the Court thereof.

(3) Report of evaluator to court. Within ten (10) days after the completion of the neutral evaluation conference, the evaluator shall file a written report with the Court using an AOC form, stating when and where the conference was held, the names of those persons who attended the conference, whether or not an agreement was reached by the parties, and the name of the person designated to file judgments or dismissals concluding the action.

H. Evaluator's authority to assist negotiations. If all parties at the neutral evaluation conference request and agree, the evaluator may assist the parties in settlement discussions. If the parties do not reach a settlement during such discussions, however, the evaluator shall complete the neutral evaluation conference and make his or her written report to the Court as if such settlement discussions had not occurred. If the parties reach agreement at the conference, they shall reduce their agreement to writing as required by Rule 10.C.(8)(b). (Adopted effective October 16, 2001.)

Rule 12. Judicial settlement conference.

A. Settlement judge. A judicial settlement conference shall be conducted by a District Court Judge who shall be selected by the Chief District Court Judge. Unless specifically approved by the Chief District Court Judge, the District Court Judge who presides over the judicial settlement conference shall not be assigned to try the action if it proceeds to trial.

B. Conducting the conference. The form and manner of conducting the conference shall be in the discretion of the settlement judge. The settlement judge may not impose a settlement on the parties but will assist the parties in reaching a resolution of all claims.

C. Confidential nature of the conference. Judicial settlement conferences shall be conducted in private. No stenographic or other record may be made of the conference. Persons other than the parties and their counsel may attend only with the consent of all parties. The settlement judge will not communicate with anyone the communications made during the conference, except that the judge may report that a settlement was reached and, with the parties' consent, the terms of that settlement.

D. Report of judge. Within ten (10) days after the completion of the judicial settlement conference, the settlement judge shall file a written report with the Court using an AOC form, stating when and where the conference was held, the names of those persons who attended the conference, whether or not an agreement was reached by the parties, and the name of the person designated to file judgments or dismissals concluding the action. (Adopted effective October 16, 2001.)

Rule 13. Local rule making.

The Chief District Court Judge of any district conducting settlement procedures under these Rules is authorized to publish local rules, not inconsistent with these Rules and G.S. 7A-38.4, implementing settlement procedures in that district. (Adopted effective October 16, 2001.)

Rule 14. Definitions.

(A) The word, Court, shall mean a judge of the District Court in the district in which an action is pending who has administrative responsibility for the action as an assigned or presiding judge, or said judge's designee, such as a clerk, trial court administrator, case management assistant, judicial assistant, and trial court coordinator.

(B) The phrase, AOC forms, shall refer to forms prepared by, printed, and distributed by the Administrative Office of the Courts to implement these Rules or forms approved by local rule which contain at least the same information as those prepared by AOC. Proposals for the creation or modification of such forms may be initiated by the Dispute Resolution Commission.

(C) The term, Family Financial Case, shall refer to any civil action in district court in which a claim for equitable distribution, child support, alimony, or post separation support is made, or in which there are claims arising out of contracts between the parties under G.S. 50-20(d), 52-10, 52-10.1 or 52B. (Adopted effective October 16, 2001.)

Rule 15. Time limits.

Any time limit provided for by these rules may be waived or extended for good cause shown. Time shall be counted pursuant to the Rules of Civil Procedure. (Adopted effective October 16, 2001.)

STANDARDS OF PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT FOR MEDIATORS

Adopted June 24, 1999; Amended effective August 16, 2001.

Preamble

Rule

I. Competency: A mediator shall maintain professional competency in mediation skills and, where the mediator lacks the skills necessary for a particular case, shall decline to serve or withdraw from serving.

II. Impartiality: A mediator shall, in word and action, maintain impartiality toward the parties and on the issues in dispute.

III. Confidentiality: A mediator shall, subject to exceptions set forth below, maintain the confidentiality of all information obtained within the mediation process.

IV. Consent: A mediator shall make reasonable efforts to ensure that each party understands the mediation process, the role of the mediator, and the partys options within the process.

V. Self Determination: A mediator shall respect and encourage self-determination by the parties in their decision whether, and on what terms, to resolve their dispute, and shall refrain from being directive and judgmental regarding the issues in dispute and options for settlement.

VI. Separation of Mediation from Legal and Other Professional Advice: A mediator shall limit himself solely to the role of mediator, and shall not give legal or other professional advice during the mediation.

VII. Conflicts of Interest: A mediator shall not allow any personal interest to interfere with the primary obligation to impartially serve the parties to the dispute.

VIII. Protecting the Integrity of the Mediation Process: A mediator shall encourage mutual respect between the parties, and shall take reasonable steps, subject to the principle of self-determination, to limit abuses of the mediation process.

Index follows Rules.

PREAMBLE

These standards are intended to instill and promote public confidence in the mediation process and to be a guide to mediator conduct. As with other forms of dispute resolution, mediation must be built on public understanding and confidence. Persons serving as mediators are responsible to the parties, the public, and the courts to conduct themselves in a manner which will merit that confidence. These standards apply to all mediators who participate in mediated settlement conferences pursuant to NCGS 7A-38.1, NCGS 7A-38.3, or NCGS 7A-38.4 in the State of North Carolina or who are certified to do so.

Mediation is a process in which an impartial person, a mediator, works with disputing parties to help them explore settlement, reconciliation, and understanding among them. In mediation, the primary responsibility for the resolution of a dispute rests with the parties.

The mediator's role is to facilitate communication and recognition among the parties and to encourage and assist the parties in deciding how and on what terms to resolve the issues in dispute. Among other things, a mediator assists the parties in identifying issues, reducing obstacles to communication, and maximizing the exploration of alternatives. A mediator does not render decisions on the issues in dispute.

Rule I. Competency: A mediator shall maintain professional competency in mediation skills and, where the mediator lacks the skills necessary for a particular case, shall decline to serve or withdraw from serving.

A. A mediator's most important qualification is the mediator's competence in procedural aspects of facilitating the resolution of disputes rather than the mediator's familiarity with technical knowledge relating to the subject of the dispute. Therefore a mediator shall obtain necessary skills and substantive training appropriate to the mediator's areas of practice and upgrade those skills on an ongoing basis.

B. If a mediator determines that a lack of technical knowledge impairs or is likely to impair the mediator's effectiveness, the mediator shall notify the parties and withdraw if requested by any party.

C. Beyond disclosure under the preceding paragraph, a mediator is obligated to exercise his judgment whether his skills or expertise are sufficient to the demands of the case and, if they are not, to decline from serving or to withdraw. (Adopted June 24, 1999, effective October 1, 1999.)

Editor's note. — The order adopting the above rules provided that the Standards of Professional Conduct for Superior Court Mediators adopted by the Court on December 30, 1998, should remain in effect until October 1, 1999.

Rule II. Impartiality: A mediator shall, in word and action, maintain impartiality toward the parties and on the issues in dispute.

A. Impartiality means absence of prejudice or bias in word and action. In addition, it means a commitment to aid all parties, as opposed to a single party, in exploring the possibilities for resolution.

B. As early as practical and no later than the beginning of the first session, the mediator shall make full disclosure of any known relationships with the parties or their counsel that may affect or give the appearance of affecting the mediator's impartiality.

C. The mediator shall decline to serve or shall withdraw from serving if:

(1) a party objects to his serving on grounds of lack of impartiality or

(2) the mediator determines he cannot serve impartially. (Adopted June 24, 1999, effective October 1, 1999.)

Rule III. Confidentiality: A mediator shall, subject to exceptions set forth below, maintain the confidentiality of all information obtained within the mediation process.

A. A mediator shall not disclose, directly or indirectly, to any nonparty, any information communicated to the mediator by a party within the mediation process.

B. A mediator shall not disclose, directly or indirectly, to any party to the mediation, information communicated to the mediator in confidence by any other party, unless that party gives permission to do so. A mediator may encourage a party to permit disclosure, but absent such permission, the mediator shall not disclose.

C. The confidentiality provisions set forth in A. and B. above notwithstanding, a mediator has discretion to report otherwise confidential information to a party, nonparty, or law enforcement personnel in the following circumstances:

(1) the mediator is under a statutory duty to report the confidential information, see, for example N.C. Gen. Stat. § 7A-38.1 and § 7A-38.4 which provide for an exception to confidentiality when the mediator has reason to believe that a child or elder has been or may be abused.

(2) a party to the mediation has communicated to the mediator a threat of serious bodily harm or death to be inflicted on any person, and the mediator has reason to believe the party has the intent and ability to act on the threat.

(3) a party to the mediation has communicated to the mediator a threat of significant damage to real or personal property and the mediator has reason to believe the party has the intent and ability to act on the threat.

(4) a party's conduct during the mediation results in direct bodily injury or death to a person.

D. Nothing in this standard prohibits the use of information obtained in a mediation for instructional purposes, or for the purpose of evaluating or monitoring the performance of a mediator, mediation organization, or dispute resolution program, so long as the parties or the specific circumstances of the parties' controversy are not identified or identifiable. (Adopted June 24, 1999, effective October 1, 1999; Amended effective August 16, 2001.)

Rule IV. Consent: A mediator shall make reasonable efforts to ensure that each party understands the mediation process, the role of the mediator, and the partys options within the process.

A. A mediator shall discuss with the participants the rules and procedures pertaining to the mediation process and shall inform the parties of such matters as applicable rules require. A mediator shall also inform the parties of the following:

(1) that mediation is private;

(2) that mediation is informal;

(3) that mediation is confidential to the extent provided by law;

(4) that mediation is voluntary, meaning that the parties do not have to negotiate during the process nor make or accept any offer at any time;

(5) the mediator's role; and

(6) what fees, if any, will be charged by the mediator for his services.

B. A mediator shall not exert undue pressure on a participant, whether to participate in mediation or to accept a settlement; nevertheless, a mediator may and shall encourage parties to consider both the benefits of participation and settlement and the costs of withdrawal and impasse.

C. Where a party appears to be acting under undue influence, or without fully comprehending the process, issues, or options for settlement, a mediator shall explore these matters with the party and assist the party in making freely chosen and informed decisions.

D. If after exploration the mediator concludes that a party is acting under undue influence or is unable to fully comprehend the process, issues or options for settlement, the mediator shall discontinue the mediation.

E. In appropriate circumstances, a mediator shall encourage the parties to seek legal, financial, tax or other professional advice before, during or after the mediation process. A mediator shall explain generally to pro se parties that there may be risks in proceeding without independent counsel or other professional advisors. (Adopted June 24, 1999, effective October 1, 1999.)

Rule V. Self Determination: A mediator shall respect and encourage self-determination by the parties in their decision whether, and on what terms, to resolve their dispute, and shall refrain from being directive and judgmental regarding the issues in dispute and options for settlement.

A. A mediator is obligated to leave to the parties full responsibility for deciding whether and on what terms to resolve their dispute. He may assist them in making informed and thoughtful decisions, but shall not impose his judgment for that of the parties concerning any aspect of the mediation.

B. Subject to Section A. above and Standard VI. below, a mediator may raise questions for the parties to consider regarding the acceptability, sufficiency, and feasibility, for all sides, of proposed options for settlement—including their impact on third parties. Furthermore, a mediator may make suggestions for the parties' consideration. However at no time shall a mediator make a decision for the parties, or express an opinion about or advise for or against any proposal under consideration.

C. Subject to Standard IV. E. above, if a party to a mediation declines to consult an independent counsel or expert after the mediator has raised this option, the mediator shall permit the mediation to go forward according to the parties' wishes.

D. If, in the mediator's judgment, the integrity of the process has been compromised by, for example, inability or unwillingness of a party to participate meaningfully, gross inequality of bargaining power or ability, gross unfairness resulting from non-disclosure or fraud by a participant, or other circumstance likely to lead to a grossly unjust result, the mediator shall inform the parties. The mediator may choose to discontinue the mediation in such circumstances but shall not violate the obligation of confidentiality. (Adopted June 24, 1999, effective October 1, 1999.)

Rule VI. Separation of Mediation from Legal and Other Professional Advice: A mediator shall limit himself solely to the role of mediator, and shall not give legal or other professional advice during the mediation.

A mediator may, in areas where he is qualified by training and experience, raise questions regarding the information presented by the parties in the mediation session. However, the mediator shall not provide legal or other professional advice whether in response to statements or questions by the parties or otherwise. (Adopted June 24, 1999, effective October 1, 1999.)

Rule VII. Conflicts of Interest: A mediator shall not allow any personal interest to interfere with the primary obligation to impartially serve the parties to the dispute.

A. The mediator shall place the interests of the parties above the interests of any court or agency which has referred the case, if such interests are in conflict.

B. Where a party is represented or advised by a professional advocate or counselor, the mediator shall place the interests of the party over his own interest in maintaining cordial relations with the professional, if such interests are in conflict.

C. A mediator who is a lawyer or other professional shall not advise or represent either of the parties in future matters concerning the subject of the dispute.

D. A mediator shall not charge a contingent fee or a fee based on the outcome of the mediation.

E. A mediator shall not use information obtained during a mediation for personal gain or advantage.

F. A mediator shall not knowingly contract for mediation services which cannot be delivered or completed as directed by a court or in a timely manner.

G. A mediator shall not prolong a mediation for the purpose of charging a higher fee.

H. A mediator shall not give or receive any commission, rebate, or other monetary or non-monetary form of consideration from a party or representative of a party in return for referral of clients for mediation services. (Adopted June 24, 1999, effective October 1, 1999.)

Rule VIII. Protecting the Integrity of the Mediation Process: A mediator shall encourage mutual respect between the parties, and shall take reasonable steps, subject to the principle of self-determination, to limit abuses of the mediation process.

A. A mediator shall make reasonable efforts to ensure a balanced discussion and to prevent manipulation or intimidation by either party and to ensure that each party understands and respects the concerns and position of the other even if they cannot agree.

B. When a mediator discovers an intentional abuse of the process, such as nondisclosure of material information or fraud, the mediator shall encourage the abusing party to alter the conduct in question. The mediator is not obligated to reveal the conduct to the other party, (and subject to Standard V. D. above) nor to discontinue the mediation, but may discontinue without violating the obligation of confidentiality. (Adopted June 24, 1999, effective October 1, 1999.)

2. Exemption from G.S. 7A-38.1.
3. Selection of mediator.
4. The prelitigation farm mediation.
5. Authority and duties of the mediator.

10. Certification of mediation training programs.

Index follows Rules.

Rule 1. Submission of dispute to prelitigation farm nuisance mediation.

A. Mediation shall be initiated by the filing of a Request for Prelitigation Mediation of Farm Nuisance Dispute (Request) with the clerk of superior court in a county in which the action may be brought. The Request shall be on a form prescribed by the Administrative Office of the Courts and be available through the clerk of superior court. The party filing the Request shall mail a copy of the Request by certified mail, return receipt requested, to each party to the dispute.

B. The clerk of superior court shall accept the Request and shall file it in a miscellaneous file under the name of the requesting party.

Rule 2. Exemption from G.S. 7A-38.1.

A dispute mediated pursuant to G.S. 7A-38.3, shall be exempt from an order referring the dispute to a mediated settlement conference entered pursuant to G.S. 7A-38.1.

Rule 3. Selection of mediator.

A. Time period for selection. The parties to the dispute shall have 21 days from the date of the filing of the Request to select a mediator to conduct their mediation and to file Notice of Selection of Certified Mediator by Agreement.

B. Selection of certified mediator by agreement. The Clerk shall provide each party to the dispute with a list of certified mediators who have expressed a willingness to mediate farm nuisance disputes in the judicial district encompassing the county in which the request was filed. If the parties are able to agree on a mediator from that list to conduct their mediation, the party who filed the Request shall notify the clerk by filing with the clerk a Notice of Selection of Certified Mediator by Agreement. Such notice shall state the name, address and telephone number of the certified mediator selected; state the rate of compensation to be paid the mediator; and state that the mediator and the parties to the dispute have agreed on the selection and the rate of compensation. The notice shall be on a form prepared and distributed by the Administrative Office of the Courts and available through the clerk in the county in which the Request was filed.

C. Nomination of non-certified mediator by agreement. The parties may by agreement select a mediator who is not certified and whose name does not appear on the list of certified mediators available through the clerk but who, in the opinion of the parties, is otherwise qualified by training or experience to mediate the dispute. If the parties agree on a non-certified mediator, the party who filed the Request shall file with the clerk a Nomination of Non-Certified Mediator. Such Nomination shall state the name, address, and telephone number of the non-certified mediator selected; state the training, experience or other qualifications of the mediator; state the rate of compensation of the mediator; and state that the mediator and the parties to the dispute have agreed upon the selection and rate of compensation.

The senior resident superior court judge shall rule on the said nomination without a hearing, shall approve or disapprove the parties' nomination and shall notify the parties of his or her decision. The nomination and the court's approval or disapproval shall be on a form prepared and distributed by the Administrative Office of the Courts and available through the clerk of superior court in the county where the Request was filed.

D. Court appointment of mediator. If the parties to the dispute cannot agree on selection of a mediator, the party who filed the Request shall file with the clerk a Motion for Court Appointment of Mediator and the senior resident superior court judge shall appoint the mediator. The Motion shall be filed with the clerk within 21 days of the date of the filing of the Request. The motion shall be on a form prepared and distributed by the Administrative Office of the Courts. The motion shall state whether any party prefers a certified attorney mediator, and if so, the senior resident superior court judge shall appoint a certified attorney mediator. The motion may state that all parties prefer a certified, non-attorney mediator, and if so, the senior resident judge shall appoint a certified non-attorney mediator if one is on the list. If no preference is expressed, the senior resident superior court judge may appoint a certified attorney mediator or a certified non-attorney mediator.

E. Mediator information directory. To assist parties in learning more about the qualifications and experience of certified mediators, the clerk of superior court in the county in which the Request was filed shall make available to the disputing parties a central directory of information on all certified mediators who wish to mediate cases in that county, including those who wish to mediate prelitigation farm nuisance disputes. The Dispute Resolution Commission shall be responsible for distributing and updating the directory.

Rule 4. The prelitigation farm mediation.

A. When mediation is to be completed. The mediation shall be completed within 60 days of the Notice of Selection of Certified Mediator by Agreement or the date of the order appointing a mediator to conduct the mediation.

B. Extensions. A party may file a motion with the clerk seeking to extend the 60 day period set forth in subpart A above. Such request shall state the reasons the extension is sought and explain why the mediation cannot be completed within 60 days of the mediator's appointment. The senior resident superior court judge may grant the motion by entering a written order establishing a new date for completion of the mediation.

C. Where the conference is to be held. Unless all parties and the mediator agree otherwise, the mediation shall be held in the courthouse or other public or community building in the county where the request was filed. The mediator shall be responsible for reserving a place and making arrangements for the mediation and for giving timely notice of the date, time and location of the mediation to all parties named in the Request or their attorneys.

D. Recesses. The mediator may recess the mediation at any time and may set a time for reconvening, except that such time shall fall within a sixty day period from the date of the order appointing the mediator. No further notification is required for persons present at the recessed mediation session.

E. Duties of parties, attorneys and other participants. Rule 4 of the Rules Implementing Mediated Settlement Conferences in Superior Court Civil Actions is hereby incorporated by reference.

F. Sanctions for failure to attend. Rule 5 of the Rules Implementing Mediated Settlement Conferences in Superior Court Civil Actions is hereby incorporated by reference.

Rule 5. Authority and duties of the mediator.

A. Authority of mediator.

(1) Control of mediation. The mediator shall at all times be in control of the mediation and the procedures to be followed.

(2) Private consultation. The mediator may communicate privately with any participant or counsel prior to and during the mediation. The fact that private communications have occurred with a participant shall be disclosed to all other participants at the beginning of the mediation.

(3) Scheduling the conference. The mediator shall make a good faith effort to schedule the conference at a time that is convenient for the participants, attorneys and mediator. In the absence of agreement, the mediator shall select the date for the conference.

B. Duties of mediator.

(1) The mediator shall define and describe the following at the beginning of the mediation:

(a) The process of mediation;

(b) The differences between mediation and other forms of conflict resolution;

(c) The costs of mediation;

(d) The fact that the mediation is not a trial, the mediator is not a judge and that the parties may pursue their dispute in court if mediation is not successful and they so choose.

(e) The circumstances under which the mediator may meet and communicate privately with any of the parties or with any other person;

(f) Whether or under what conditions communications with the mediator will be held in confidence during the conference;

(g) The inadmissibility of conduct and statements as provided by G.S. 7A-38.1(l);

(h) The duties and responsibilities of the mediator and the participants; and

(i) The fact that any agreement reached will be reached by mutual consent.

(2) Disclosure. The mediator has a duty to be impartial and to advise all participants of any circumstance bearing on possible bias, prejudice or partiality.

(3) Declaring impasse. It is the duty of the mediator to determine timely that an impasse exists and that the mediation should end.

(4) Scheduling and holding the conference. It is the duty of the mediator to schedule the mediation and to conduct it within the time frame established by Rule 4 above. Rule 4 shall be strictly observed by the mediator unless an extension has been granted in writing by the senior resident superior court judge.

Rule 6. Compensation of the mediator.

A. By agreement. When the mediator is stipulated to by the parties, compensation shall be as agreed upon between the parties and the mediator, except that no administrative fees or fees for services shall be assessed any party if all parties waive mediation prior to the occurrence of an initial mediation meeting.

B. By court order. When the mediator is appointed by the court, the parties shall compensate the mediator for mediation services at the rate of $125.00 per hour. The parties shall also pay to the mediator a one time, per case administrative fee of $125.00, except that no administrative fees or fees for services shall be assessed any party if all parties waive mediation prior to the occurrence of an initial mediation meeting.

C. Indigent cases. No party found to be indigent by the court for the purposes of these rules shall be required to pay a mediator fee. Any mediator conducting a settlement conference pursuant to these rules shall waive the payment of fees from parties found by the court to be indigent. Any party may move the senior resident superior court judge for a finding of indigency and to be relieved of that party's obligation to pay a share of the mediator's fee.

Said motion shall be heard subsequent to the completion of the conference or, if the parties do not settle their cases, subsequent to the trial of the action. In ruling upon such motions, the judge shall apply the criteria enumerated in G.S. 1-110(a), but shall take into consideration the outcome of the action and whether a judgment was rendered in the movant's favor. The court shall enter an order granting or denying the party's request.

D. Postponement Fee. As used herein, the term "postponement" shall mean reschedule or not proceed with a settlement conference once a date for the settlement conference has been agreed upon and scheduled by the parties and the mediator. After a settlement conference has been scheduled for a specific date, a party may not unilaterally postpone the conference. A conference may be postponed only after notice to all parties of the reason for the postponement, payment of a postponement fee to the mediator, and consent of the mediator and the opposing attorney. If a mediation is postponed within seven business (7) days of the scheduled date, the fee shall be $125. If the settlement conference is postponed within three (3) business days of the scheduled date, the fee shall be $250. Postponement fees shall be paid by the party requesting the postponement unless otherwise agreed to between the parties. Postponement fees are in addition to the one time, per case administrative fee provided for in Rule 6.B.

E. Payment of compensation by parties. Unless otherwise agreed to by the parties or ordered by the court, the mediator's fee shall be paid in equal shares by the parties. For purposes of this rule, multiple parties shall be considered one party when they are represented by the same counsel. Parties obligated to pay a share of the fees shall pay them equally. Payment shall be due upon completion of the mediation.

F. Sanctions for failure to pay mediator's fee. Willful failure of a party to make timely payment of that party's share of the mediator's fee (whether the one time, per case, administrative fee, the hourly fee for mediation services, or any postponement fee) or willful failure of a party contending indigent status to promptly move the Senior Resident Superior Court Judge for a finding of indigency, shall constitute contempt of court and may result, following notice, in a hearing and the imposition of any and all lawful sanctions by a Resident or Presiding Superior Court Judge. (Amended effective July 15, 1996; Amended effective September 1, 2000.)

DRC Comments to Rule 6

DRC Comment to Rule 6.B.

Court-appointed mediators may not be compensated for travel time, mileage, or any other out-of-pocket expenses associated with a court-ordered mediation.

DRC Comment to Rule 6.D.

Though Rule 6.D. provides that mediators "shall" assess the postponement fee, it is understood there may be rare situations where the circumstances occasioning a request for a postponement are beyond the control of the parties, for example, an illness, serious accident, unexpected and unavailable trial conflict. When the party or parties take steps to notify the mediator as soon as possible in such circumstances, the mediator, may, in his or her discretion, waive the postponement fee.

Non-essential requests for postponements work a hardship on parties and mediators and serve only to inject delay into a process and program designed to expedite litigation. As such, it is expected that mediators will assess a postponement fee in all instances where a request does not appear to be absolutely warranted. Moreover, mediators are encouraged not to agree to postponements in instances where, in their judgment, the mediation could be held as scheduled.

DRC Comment to Rule 6.E.

If a party is found by a Senior Resident Superior Court Judge to have failed to attend a mediated settlement conference without good cause, then the Court may require that party to pay the mediator's fee and related expenses.

DRC Comment to Rule 6.F.

If the Mediated Settlement Conference Program is to be successful, it is essential that mediators, both party-selected and court-appointed, be compensated for their services. MSC Rule 6.E. is intended to give the court express authority to enforce payment of fees owed both court-appointed and party-selected mediators. In instances where the mediator is party-selected, the court may enforce fees which exceed the caps set forth in 6.B. (hourly fee and administrative fee) and 6.D. (postponement/cancellation fee) or which provide for payment of services or expenses not provided for in Rule 6 but agreed to among the parties, for example, payment for travel time or mileage.

Rule 7. Waiver of mediation.

All parties to a farm nuisance dispute may waive mediation by informing the mediator of their waiver in writing. The Waiver of Prelitigation Mediation in Farm Nuisance Dispute shall be on form prescribed by the Administrative Office of the Courts and available through the clerk. The party who requested mediation shall file the waiver with the clerk and mail a copy to the mediator and all parties named in the Request.

Editor's note. — It appears that the word "form" in the second sentence should either read "forms" or should read "a form" or "the form".

Rule 8. Mediator's certification that mediation concluded.

A. Contents of certification. Following the conclusion of mediation or the receipt of a waiver of mediation signed by all parties to the farm nuisance dispute, the mediator shall prepare a Mediator's Certification in Prelitigation Farm Nuisance Dispute on a form prescribed by the Administrative Office of the Courts. If a mediation was held, the certification shall state the date on which the mediation was concluded and report the general results. If a mediation was not held, the certification shall state why the mediation was not held and identify any parties named in the Request who failed, without good cause, to attend or participate in mediation or shall state that all parties waived mediation in writing pursuant to Rule 7 above.

B. Deadline for filing mediator's certification. The mediator shall file the completed certification with the clerk within seven days of the completion of the mediation, the failure of the mediation to be held or the receipt of a signed waiver of mediation. The mediator shall serve a copy of the certification on each of the parties named in the request.

Rule 9. Certification and decertification of mediators of prelitigation farm nuisance disputes.

Mediators certified to conduct prelitigation mediation of farm disputes shall be subject to all rules and regulations regarding certification, conduct, discipline and decertification applicable to mediators serving the Mediated Settlement Conferences Program and any such additional rules and regulations as adopted by the Dispute Resolution Commission and applicable to mediators of farm nuisance disputes.

Rule 10. Certification of mediation training programs.

The Dispute Resolution Commission may specify a curriculum for a farm mediation training program and may set qualifications for trainers.

NORTH CAROLINA RULES OF APPELLATE PROCEDURE

Adopted June 13, 1975, with amendments received through May 1, 2003.

These rules were promulgated by the Court under the rule-making authority conferred by Article IV, § 13(2) of the Constitution of North Carolina. They are effective with respect to all appeals taken from orders and judgments of the Superior Courts, the District Courts, the North Carolina Industrial Commission, the North Carolina Utilities Commission and the Commissioner of Insurance of North Carolina in which notice of appeal was given on and after July 1, 1975. As to such appeals, these rules supersede the Rules of Practice in the Supreme Court of North Carolina, 254 N.C. 783 (1961), as amended; the Supplementary Rules of the Supreme Court, 271 N.C. 744 (1967), as amended; and the Rules of Practice in the Court of Appeals of North Carolina, 1 N.C. App. 632 (1968), as amended. With respect to all appeals in which notice of appeal was given prior to July 1, 1975, the rules of court and statutes then controlling appellate procedure are continued in force as the Rules of Practice of the Courts of the Appellate Division until final disposition of the appeals.

An Appendix of Tables and Forms prepared by the Drafting Committee, as revised, is published with the rules for its possible helpfulness to the profession in the early stages of experience with these rules. Although authorized to be published for this purpose, it is not an authoritative source on parity with the rules.

ARTICLE I. APPLICABILITY OF RULES

Rule 1. Scope of rules: Trial tribunal defined.

(a) Scope of rules. These rules govern procedure in all appeals from the courts of the trial division to the courts of the appellate division; in appeals in civil and criminal cases from the Court of Appeals to the Supreme Court; in direct appeals from administrative agencies, boards, and commissions to the appellate division; and in applications to the courts of the appellate division for writs and other relief which the courts or judges thereof are empowered to give.

(b) Rules do not affect jurisdiction. These rules shall not be construed to extend or limit the jurisdiction of the courts of the appellate division as that is established by law.

(c) Definition of trial tribunal. As used in these rules, the term "trial tribunal" includes the superior courts, the district courts, and any administrative agencies, boards, or commissions from which appeals lie directly to the appellate division. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended November 27, 1984 — 1(a), (c) —; effective February 1, 1985.)

CASE NOTES

I. In General.
II. Decisions Under Prior Law.

I. IN GENERAL.

Mandatory. — The North Carolina Rules of Appellate Procedure are mandatory, and for violation of the rules an appeal is subject to dismissal. State v. Gillespie, 31 N.C. App. 520, 230 S.E.2d 154 (1976), cert. denied, 291 N.C. 713, 232 S.E.2d 205 (1977); Duke Power Co. v. Flinchem, 59 N.C. App. 349, 296 S.E.2d 804 (1982); Williams v. East Coast Sales, Inc., 59 N.C. App. 700, 298 S.E.2d 80 (1982); Fortis Corp. v. Northeast Forest Prods., 68 N.C. App. 752, 315 S.E.2d 537 (1984); In re Searle, 74 N.C. App. 61, 327 S.E.2d 315 (1985), aff'd, 82 N.C. App. 273, 346 S.E.2d 511 (1986).

The North Carolina Rules of Appellate Procedure are mandatory. Ledwell v. County of Randolph, 31 N.C. App. 522, 229 S.E.2d 836 (1976); State v. Motsinger, 31 N.C. App. 594, 230 S.E.2d 205 (1976), cert. denied, 291 N.C. 714, 232 S.E.2d 202 (1977); In re Allen, 31 N.C.

App. 597, 230 S.E.2d 423 (1976); State v. Lesley, 33 N.C. App. 237, 234 S.E.2d 476 (1977); White v. Lawrence, 33 N.C. App. 631, 236 S.E.2d 30 (1977); State v. Puckett, 54 N.C. App. 576, 284 S.E.2d 326 (1981).

The Rules of Appellate Procedure are mandatory and violations thereof subject an appeal to dismissal. Onslow County v. Moore, 127 N.C. App. 546, 491 S.E.2d 670 (1997), rev'd on other grounds, 347 N.C. 672, 500 S.E.2d 88 (1998).

The rules of this court, governing appeals, are mandatory and not directory. They may not be disregarded or set at naught (1) by act of the legislature, (2) by order of the judge of the superior court, (3) by consent of litigants or counsel. The court has not only found it necessary to adopt them, but equally necessary to enforce them and to enforce them uniformly. State v. Fennell, 307 N.C. 258, 297 S.E.2d 393 (1982).

Quoted in Byrd v. Alexander, 32 N.C. App. 782, 233 S.E.2d 654 (1977); State v. Johnson, 38 N.C. App. 111, 247 S.E.2d 286 (1978); State v. Oxendine, 43 N.C. App. 391, 258 S.E.2d 810 (1979); Winston-Salem Joint Venture v. City of Winston-Salem, 65 N.C. App. 532, 310 S.E.2d 58 (1983).

App. 664, 504 S.E.2d 296 (1998); N.C. State Bar v. Rudisill, — N.C. App. —, 583 S.E.2d 413, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1527 (2003).

II. DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW.

Editor's note. — The cases cited below were decided under former Rules 1 and 4, Rules of Practice in the Supreme Court of North Carolina.

The rules of the Supreme Court are mandatory, not directory. Cooper v. Board of Comm'rs, 184 N.C. 615, 113 S.E. 569 (1922); Washington County v. Norfolk S. Land Co., 222 N.C. 637, 24 S.E.2d 338 (1943); Warshaw v. Warshaw, 236 N.C. 754, 73 S.E.2d 900 (1952); Balint v. Grayson, 256 N.C. 490, 124 S.E.2d 364 (1962); Lewis v. Parker, 268 N.C. 436, 150 S.E.2d 729 (1966); In re Will of Adams, 268 N.C. 565, 151 S.E.2d 59 (1966).

The rules of practice in the Supreme Court are mandatory and will be enforced. Williams v. Boulerice, 269 N.C. 499, 153 S.E.2d 95 (1967); State v. Baldwin, 276 N.C. 690, 174 S.E.2d 526 (1970).

The rules of the Supreme Court have been dictated by experience and stem from a desire to expedite business. They are mandatory and will be enforced. State v. Blackwell, 276 N.C. 714, 174 S.E.2d 534, cert. denied, 400 U.S. 946, 91 S. Ct. 253, 27 L. Ed. 2d 252 (1970).

The impression seems to prevail to some extent that the rules of practice prescribed by the Supreme Court are merely directory — that they may be ignored, disregarded, and suspended almost as of course. This is a serious mistake. The Supreme Court has ample authority to make them. They are deemed essential to the protection of the rights of litigants and the due administration of justice. They have force, and the Supreme Court will certainly see that they have effect and are duly observed whenever they properly apply. Cooper v. Board of Comm'rs, 184 N.C. 615, 113 S.E. 569 (1922).

Exclusive Power to Make Rules. — The Supreme Court is given, by N.C. Const., Art. IV, § 13(2), exclusive power to make its own rules of practice, without legislative authority to interfere, and in case of conflict the rules made by the Supreme Court will be observed. Cooper v. Board of Comm'rs, 184 N.C. 615, 113 S.E. 569 (1922).

The General Assembly can enact no rules of practice and procedure for the Supreme Court. Cooper v. Board of Comm'rs, 184 N.C. 615, 113 S.E. 569 (1922).

Dismissal of Appeal for Noncompliance with Rules. — Ordinarily motions to dismiss appeals will be allowed, upon a failure to comply with the rules of the Supreme Court, without discussing the merits of the case. Davis v. Wall, 142 N.C. 450, 55 S.E. 350 (1906).

Rule 2. Suspension of rules.

To prevent manifest injustice to a party, or to expedite decision in the public interest, either court of the appellate division may, except as otherwise expressly provided by these rules, suspend or vary the requirements or provisions of any of these rules in a case pending before it upon application of a party or upon its own initiative, and may order proceedings in accordance with its directions. (Adopted June 13, 1975.)

CASE NOTES

The Rules of Appellate Procedure are mandatory and failure to follow the rules subjects an appeal to dismissal. Wiseman v. Wiseman, 68 N.C. App. 252, 314 S.E.2d 566 (1984).

Consideration of Constitutional Questions Not Properly Raised Below. — While the Supreme Court will generally refrain from deciding constitutional questions which are not raised or passed upon in the trial court or properly presented in the Court of Appeals, the court may pass upon constitutional questions not properly raised below in the exercise of its supervisory jurisdiction. State v. Elam, 302 N.C. 157, 273 S.E.2d 661 (1981).

Although defendant's conditional cross-appeal had not been properly preserved for appellate review, in the interests of judicial economy the Supreme Court may elect pursuant to this rule to consider the merits of defendant's arguments. Wall v. Stout, 310 N.C. 184, 311 S.E.2d 571 (1984).

But the Court May Suspend Requirements Pursuant to This Section. — The court elected to suspend the requirement for the clerk's date stamp, pursuant to its discretionary authority accorded by N.C. R. App. P., Rule 2 where neither party objected to the absence of the stamp. State v. Jarman, 140 N.C. App. 198, 535 S.E.2d 875, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 1103 (2000).

Residual Power to Consider Important Issues. — On rare occasions, when issues of importance which are frequently presented to state agencies and the courts require a decision in the public interest, the Supreme Court will exercise its inherent residual power or its authority under this rule and address those issues, even though they are not properly raised on appeal. This residual power to suspend or vary operation of the court's published rules does not depend on express reservation by the court in its body of rules, but is included in the rules as a reminder to counsel that the power exists and may be drawn upon where the justice of doing so or the injustice of failing to do so appears manifest to the court. Blumenthal v. Lynch, 315 N.C. 571, 340 S.E.2d 358 (1986).

This rule relates to the residual power of appellate courts to consider, in exceptional circumstances, significant issues of importance in the public interest, or to prevent injustice that appears manifest to the court and only in such instances. Steingress v. Steingress, 350 N.C. 64, 511 S.E.2d 298 (1999).

Discretion of Appellate Court. — Although defendant did not properly preserve for appeal either issue on which he relied, the Court of Appeals may hear appeals in its discretion under this rule. State v. Petty, 100 N.C. App. 465, 397 S.E.2d 337 (1990).

Although defendant's assignments of error set out in the record on appeal did not conform to Appellate Rule 10(c), pursuant to the court's discretionary power in this Rule, they elected to review the merits of defendants' appeal. Fletcher v. Dana Corp., 119 N.C. App. 491, 459 S.E.2d 31 (1995), cert. denied, 342 N.C. 191, 463 S.E.2d 235 (1995).

Although the appellant's failure to comply with appellate rules may have subjected his appeal to dismissal, the appellate court exercised its discretion to consider the merits of the appeal. North Carolina Farm Bur. Mut. Ins. Co. v. Allen, 146 N.C. App. 539, 553 S.E.2d 420, 2001 N.C. App. LEXIS 988 (2001).

Where corporation failed to argue the dismissal of its counterclaim or any other assignments of error in its brief, the appellate court deemed the corporation's assignments of error abandoned; however, since the appellate court had the power to suspend the rules of appellate procedure, it chose to address the corporation's claim to the extent implicated in the creditor's cross-appeal. LexisNexis v. TRaviSHan Corp., 155 N.C. App. 205, 573 S.E.2d 547, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1635 (2002).

Although the trial court did not have the authority to extend the time for plaintiffs to file the record on appeal by 45 days, defendants failed to object to the extension at the time and did not contest the extension in their objections to the proposed record on 18 January 2002; in light of the intervening death of the trial judge and the timely filing of the record according to the order, appellate court exercised its discretion to hear the case under Rule 2 of the North Carolina Rules of Appellate Procedure in the interests of justice. Lancaster v. Maple St. Homeowners Ass'n, 156 N.C. App. 429, 577 S.E.2d 365, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 194 (2003), cert. denied, 357 N.C. 251, 582 S.E.2d 272 (2003).

While a defendant was not entitled to plain error review because he did not object to a restitution ordered and did not assert plain error in his assignment of error in violation of N.C.R. App. P. 10(c)(4), because the issue raised important questions concerning the trial court's authority to order restitution in a criminal case, the appellate court addressed his contentions in its discretion under N.C. R. App. P. 2. State v. Wilson, — N.C. App. —, 580 S.E.2d 386, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1045 (2003).

Section Used to Extend Provisions of N.C.R.A.P., Rule 38. — The court used this provision to vary the requirements of N.C.R.A.P., Rule 38 so as to allow an appeal by the decedent's attorney where the plaintiff died before she was entitled to an appeal. Brown v.

Brown, 353 N.C. 220, 539 S.E.2d 621, 2000 N.C. LEXIS 904 (2000).

Lack of Jurisdiction. — Without proper notice of appeal, the appellate court acquires no jurisdiction and neither the court nor the parties may waive the jurisdictional requirements even for good cause shown under Rule 2. Bromhal v. Stott, 116 N.C. App. 250, 447 S.E.2d 481 (1994), cert. denied, 339 N.C. 609, 454 S.E.2d 246, aff'd, 341 N.C. 702, 462 S.E.2d 219 (1995).

Court of Appeals of North Carolina lacked jurisdiction to hear the State Bar of North Carolina's appeal of a grant of summary judgment to an attorney in a disciplinary proceeding because G.S. 84-28(h) provided no appeal from a final order that did not impose discipline and in the instant case, no discipline had been imposed; further, certiorari was inappropriate because the case did not fall within the rubric of N.C. R. App. P. 21(a)(1) and the court declined to suspend the requirement of Rule 21(a)(1) using N.C. R. App. P. 2. N.C. State Bar v. Rudisill, — N.C. App. —, 583 S.E.2d 413, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1527 (2003).

The court could not suspend the rules pursuant to this section in order to accommodate the Attorney General's petition challenging the grant of class action attorneys' fees. Bailey v. North Carolina Dep't of Revenue, 353 N.C. 142, 540 S.E.2d 313, 2000 N.C. LEXIS 896 (2000).

Consideration of Issue Not Raised in Dissent. — Under G.S. 7A-30(2), only the issue raised in the dissent is properly before the Supreme Court for review. N.C.R.A.P., Rule 16 defines the permissible scope of review in such cases. Nevertheless, additional issues which arise frequently in the administration of estates and must often be determined by the Department of Revenue would be considered under the court's residual power or authority under this rule. Blumenthal v. Lynch, 315 N.C. 571, 340 S.E.2d 358 (1986).

Consideration of Matter Court's Prerogative. — Although defendant made no assignment of error regarding whether the trial court should have awarded attorney's fees but sought to address that question summarily in his brief, the court of appeals choose to deal with the question in accordance with its prerogative under this rule. Forsyth Mun. ABC Bd. v. Folds, 117 N.C. App. 232, 450 S.E.2d 498 (1994).

McKoy Errors in Sentencing Under G.S. 15A-2000. — At least for all trials conducted after State v. Kirkley, 308 N.C. 196, 302 S.E.2d 144 (1983), and before Mills v. Maryland, 486 U.S. 367, 108 S. Ct. 1860, 100 L. Ed. 2d 384 (1988), the Supreme Court will decline to require that a McKoy v. North Carolina, 494 U.S. 433, 110 S. Ct. 1227, 108 L. Ed. 2d 369 (1990), error be reviewed under the plain error standard when the defendant failed to object at trial to the error, and will instead apply this rule. State v. Sanderson, 327 N.C. 397, 394 S.E.2d 803 (1990).

Erroneous Assumption by Trial Court and Appellant. — Where plaintiff's contract claim was dismissed because the trial court erroneously assumed, as did plaintiff, that plaintiff was barred by the statute of frauds from recovering on that claim, but plaintiff failed to properly preserve this error for appellate review, the supreme court would consider the issue pursuant to this rule. Potter v. Homestead Preservation Ass'n, 330 N.C. 569, 412 S.E.2d 1 (1992).

Although the appellant failed to identify various exceptions upon which its assignments of errors were based, as required by N.C.R.A.P., Rule 28(b)(5), the court deemed it appropriate, pursuant to this rule, to dispose of the appeal on the merits. State Employee's Credit Union, Inc. v. Gentry, 75 N.C. App. 260, 330 S.E.2d 645 (1985).

Although defendant did not identify the record page on which each exception appeared as required under N.C.R.A.P., Rules 10(c) and 28(b)(5), these omissions were not so egregious as to invoke dismissal. Symons Corp. v. Insurance Co. of N. Am., 94 N.C. App. 541, 380 S.E.2d 550 (1989).

Although defendant failed to include the exact words "plain error" in his brief, he succeeded in presenting and arguing the issue fully and in establishing conclusively fundamental error meeting the standard of plain error; therefore, the court considered defendant's contention under a plain error analysis. State v. Gregory, 342 N.C. 580, 467 S.E.2d 28 (1996).

The Court of Appeals would review the merits of the state's appeal, even though it failed to set forth the legal basis on which the trial court allegedly erred in dismissing criminal charges, as the assignment informed the defendants of the issues to be raised and thus allowed them to protect their interests in assessing the sufficiency of the proposed record on appeal. State v. Baggett, 133 N.C. App. 47, 514 S.E.2d 536 (1999).

Acceptance of Brief in Spite of Purported Settlement. — Where in spite of the fact that appellee and estate purported to have settled their differences, and in spite of the fact that appellee was no longer represented by attorneys, such attorneys filed a brief opposing appellant, titled "Appellee's Brief," appellate court would use this rule to treat this brief as an amicus brief because of the extraordinary procedural posture of the case. In re Estate of Tucci, 104 N.C. App. 142, 408 S.E.2d 859 (1991), cert. denied, 331 N.C. 749, 417 S.E.2d 236 (1992).

Review in Spite of Improper Hybrid Appeal. — Where defendant's attorney improperly appealed by presenting argument on a single assignment of error and also requested that the court conduct a "full examination of the record on appeal for possible prejudicial error," the court exercised its discretion and elected to consider defendant's pro se brief pursuant to this section. State v. Grady, 136 N.C. App. 394, 524 S.E.2d 75, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 12 (2000).

Where plaintiff in workers' compensation case, proceeding in forma pauperis, failed to present any assignments of error within the record, and neither the exceptions nor assignments of error which plaintiff relied on were set forth at the conclusion of the record on appeal, the Court of Appeals, in order to prevent any manifest injustice to plaintiff, would nonetheless review the merits of his appeal. Swindell v. Davis Boat Works, Inc., 78 N.C. App. 393, 337 S.E.2d 592 (1985), appeal dismissed and cert. denied, 316 N.C. 385, 342 S.E.2d 908 (1986).

Consideration of Judgment as to Attorneys' Fees Despite Failure to Present and Argue Issue. — Plaintiff's failure to present and argue in its brief to the Court of Appeals the propriety of the trial court's judgment as to attorney fees precluded plaintiff from obtaining relief on this point in the Court of Appeals as a matter of right; however, the Court of Appeals, in the exercise of its general supervisory powers under G.S. 7A-32(c) or pursuant to this rule, could consider on its own initiative the question of the attorneys' fees award and give relief as a matter of appellate grace. Stillwell Enters., Inc. v. Interstate Equip. Co., 300 N.C. 286, 266 S.E.2d 812 (1980).

The trial court's failure to instruct the jury that it could not use the same evidence to support more than one aggravating circumstance did not rise to the level of plain error. State v. Wilkinson, 344 N.C. 198, 474 S.E.2d 375 (1996).

Where denial of Rule 60(b) motion was in the nature of an interlocutory order because plaintiff's voluntary dismissal resulted in there being no action pending, and defendants would not suffer the loss of a substantial right absent an appeal, in the court's discretion pursuant to Rules 2 and 21 the appeal was treated as a writ of certiorari. Troy v. Tucker, 126 N.C. App. 213, 484 S.E.2d 98 (1997).

Extension of Time to Serve Proposed Record on Appeal. — Suspension of the Rules of Appellate Procedure to allow plaintiff's appeal was not warranted, where the plaintiffs failed to serve their proposed record on appeal until 44 days after an extension granted by the trial court, and such service also was 36 days after the Court of Appeals had denied plaintiffs' motion to extend the time for service. Webb v. McKeel, 132 N.C. App. 816, 513 S.E.2d 596 (1999).

Applied in Triplett v. Triplett, 38 N.C. App. 364, 248 S.E.2d 69 (1978); In re Greene, 297 N.C. 305, 255 S.E.2d 142 (1979); State v. Samuels, 298 N.C. 783, 260 S.E.2d 427 (1979); State v. Adams, 298 N.C. 802, 260 S.E.2d 431 (1979); Brown v. Boney, 41 N.C. App. 636, 255 S.E.2d 784 (1979); Econo-Travel Motor Hotel Corp. v. Foreman's, Inc., 44 N.C. ARTICLE II. APPEALS FROM JUDGMENTS AND ORDERS OF SUPERIOR COURTS AND DISTRICT COURTS

Rule 3. Appeal in civil cases — How and when taken.

(a) Filing the notice of appeal. Any party entitled by law to appeal from a judgment or order of a superior or district court rendered in a civil action or special proceeding may take appeal by filing notice of appeal with the clerk of superior court and serving copies thereof upon all other parties within the time prescribed by subdivision (c) of this rule.

(b) Special provisions. Appeals in the following types of cases shall be taken in the time and manner set out in the General Statutes section noted:

(1) Termination of parental rights, G.S. 7B-113.

(2) Juvenile matters, G.S. 7B-1001.

(c) Time for taking appeal. In civil actions and special proceedings, a party must file and serve a notice of appeal:

(1) within 30 days after entry of judgment if the party has been served with a copy of the judgment within the three-day period prescribed by Rule 58 of the Rules of Civil Procedure; or

(2) within 30 days after service upon the party of a copy of the judgment if service was not made within that three-day period; provided that

(3) if a timely motion is made by any party for relief under Rules 50(b), 52(b) or 59 of the Rules of Civil Procedure, the 30-day period for taking appeal is tolled as to all parties until entry of an order disposing of the motion and then runs as to each praty from the date of entry of the order or its untimely service upon the party, as provided in subsections (1) and (2) of this subdivision (c).

In computing the time for filing a notice of appeal, the provision for additional time after service by mail of N.C.R. App. 27(b) and N.C.R. Civ. P. 6(e) shall not apply.

If timely notice of appeal is filed and served by a party, any other party may file and serve a notice of appeal within 10 days after the first notice of appeal was served on such party.

(d) Content of notice of appeal. The notice of appeal required to be filed and served by subdivision (a) of this rule shall specify the party or parties taking the appeal; shall designate the judgment or order from which appeal is taken and the court to which appeal is taken; and shall be signed by counsel of record for the party or parties taking the appeal, or by any such party not represented by counsel of record.

(e) Service of notice of appeal. Service of copies of the notice of appeal may be made as provided in Rule 26 of these rules. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended April 14, 1976; Amended December 8, 1988 — 3(a), (b), (c), (d) — effective for all judgments of the trial tribunal entered on or after July 1, 1989; Amended June 8, 1989 — 3(b) — effective for all judgments of the trial tribunal entered on or after July 1, 1989; Amended July 28, 1994 — 3(c) — effective October 1, 1994; Amended March 6, 1997 — 3(c) — effective upon adoption March 6, 1997; Amended October 18, 2001 — 3(c) — effective October 31, 2001; Amended May 1, 2003 — 3(b).)

CASE NOTES

I. In General.
II. Decisions Under Prior Law.

I. IN GENERAL.

Construction with Other Rules. — Construing Rules 3, 27(c) and 21(a)(1) together, the court concluded that Rule 21(a)(1) gives an appellate court the authority to review the merits of an appeal by certiorari even if the party has failed to file notice of appeal in a timely manner. Anderson v. Hollifield, 345 N.C. 480, 480 S.E.2d 661 (1997).

Subsection (a) is almost identical to G.S. 1-279(a). Giannitrapani v. Duke Univ., 30 N.C. App. 667, 228 S.E.2d 46 (1976).

This rule is jurisdictional, and if the requirements of this rule are not complied with, the appeal must be dismissed. Currin-Dillehay Bldg. Supply, Inc. v. Frazier, 100 N.C. App. 188, 394 S.E.2d 683, appeal dismissed and cert. denied, 327 N.C. 633, 399 S.E.2d 326 (1990).

This rule, except as qualified by statute, is jurisdictional and cannot be waived. Johnson & Laughlin, Inc. v. Hostetler, 101 N.C. App. 543, 400 S.E.2d 80 (1991); Foreman v. Sholl, 113 N.C. App. 282, 439 S.E.2d 169 (1994), appeal dismissed, 339 N.C. 593, 453 S.E.2d 162 (1995).

The provisions of this Rule are jurisdictional, and failure to follow the requirements require dismissal of an appeal. Abels v. Renfro Corp., 126 N.C. App. 800, 486 S.E.2d 735 (1997).

Oral notice of appeal to the trial court is insufficient to confer jurisdiction on the Court of Appeals, since the requirements of this rule are jurisdictional. Melvin v. St. Louis, 132 N.C. App. 42, 510 S.E.2d 177, 1999 N.C. App. LEXIS 7 (1999), cert. denied, 350 N.C. 309, 534 S.E.2d 594 (1999).

The provisions of G.S. 1-279 and this rule are jurisdictional, and unless these statutes are complied with, the appellate court acquires no jurisdiction of the appeal and it must be dismissed. Giannitrapani v. Duke Univ., 30 N.C. App. 667, 228 S.E.2d 46 (1976); First Union Nat'l Bank v. King, 63 N.C. App. 757, 306 S.E.2d 508 (1983); Surratt v. Newton, 99 N.C. App. 396, 393 S.E.2d 554 (1990).

The requirement of timely filing and service of notice of appeal is jurisdictional, and unless the requirements of both G.S. 1-279 and this rule and N.C.R.A.P., Rule 26 are met, the appeal must be dismissed. Smith v. Smith, 43 N.C. App. 338, 258 S.E.2d 833 (1979), cert. denied, 299 N.C. 122, 262 S.E.2d 6 (1980).

Failure to give timely notice of appeal in compliance with G.S. 1-279 and this rule, is jurisdictional, and an untimely attempt to appeal must be dismissed. Booth v. Utica Mut. Ins. Co., 308 N.C. 187, 301 S.E.2d 98 (1983); Landin Ltd. v. Sharon Luggage, Ltd., 78 N.C. App. 558, 337 S.E.2d 685 (1985); L. Harvey & Son Co. v. Shivar, 83 N.C. App. 673, 351 S.E.2d 335 (1987).

G.S. 1-279 and this rule require both filing and service of notice of appeal within 10 (now 30) days after entry of judgment. Giannitrapani v. Duke Univ., 30 N.C. App. 667, 228 S.E.2d 46 (1976).

Where the appeal is taken more than 10 (now 30) days after the "entry" of judgment and the time within which the appeal can be taken is not otherwise tolled as provided in this rule and in G.S. 1-279, the appellate court obtains no jurisdiction in the matter and the appeal must be dismissed. Cochrane v. Sea Gate, Inc., 42 N.C. App. 375, 256 S.E.2d 504 (1979).

Rule set the time at thirty days from entry of judgment, or within thirty days of the judgment's service where service was not perfected within three days from entry of judgment as required by G.S. 1A-1, N.C. R. Civ. P. 58, for filing and serving a notice of appeal; and failure to serve the notice of appeal at or before the time of filing was not a jurisdictional requirement that automatically required dismissal. Henlajon, Inc. v. Branch Hwys., Inc., 149 N.C. App. 329, 560 S.E.2d 598, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 187 (2002).

This rule affords no avenue of appeal to either entities or persons who are nonparties to a civil action. Bailey v. North Carolina Dep't of Revenue, 353 N.C. 142, 540 S.E.2d 313, 2000 N.C. LEXIS 896 (2000).

The Court of Appeals is without authority to entertain appeal of a case which lacks entry of judgment. Abels v. Renfro Corp., 126 N.C. App. 800, 486 S.E.2d 735 (1997).

Announcing of the court's decision in open court constitutes "entry" for purposes of determining when notice of appeal must be filed, even if the formal written order is not written until a later date, since G.S. 1A-1, Rule 58, provides that the rendering of judgment in open court constitutes entry of judgment for purposes of those rules. In re Moore, 306 N.C. 394, 293 S.E.2d 127 (1982), appeal dismissed, 459 U.S. 1139, 103 S. Ct. 776, 74 L. Ed. 2d 987 (1983).

For purposes of determining when notice of appeal must be given, the court's announcement of its decision in open court constitutes entry of judgment even if a formal written order is not filed until a later date. Brooks v. Gooden, 69 N.C. App. 701, 318 S.E.2d 348 (1984).

Rendition of judgment occurs when the court announces its decision in open court. Darcy v. Osborne, 101 N.C. App. 546, 400 S.E.2d 95 (1991).

Announcement of judgment in open court merely constitutes "rendering" of judgment, not entry of judgment. Abels v. Renfro Corp., 126 N.C. App. 800, 486 S.E.2d 735 (1997).

Notation as Entry of Judgment. — Where judgment was rendered in open court, and nothing in the record suggested that it was necessary for the trial judge to direct notations in the minutes or that the case was governed by paragraph two of G.S. 1A-1, Rule 58, where the jury verdict clearly awarded a sum certain for $50,000.00, providing the parties with oral notice of judgment, and where the clerk made the notation "jury verdict" in the official minutes of court at such time, such notation did not constitute entry of judgment. Use of the word "such" in Rule 58 imports the recording of sufficient detail regarding the judgment to give notice of its essential character and content. Reed v. Abrahamson, 331 N.C. 249, 415 S.E.2d 549 (1992).

Stipulation Did Not Supplant Subsection (d) Requirements. — Parties' stipulation to a notice of appeal could not supplant subsection (d) requirements to confer jurisdiction on the reviewing court. Von Ramm v. Von Ramm, 99 N.C. App. 153, 392 S.E.2d 422 (1990).

Extension Did Not Apply. — The 10-day extension provided by this rule did not apply, where plaintiff filed her motion for appeal of the denial of her motion for sanctions within 10 days of the defendant's appeal of the denial of his motion for sanctions, but more than 30 days after denial of her motion, since the two motions were independent of each other. Rice v. Danas, Inc., 132 N.C. App. 736, 514 S.E.2d 97 (1999).

Subsection (d) Requirements Fairly Inferred. — Notices of appeal would be considered to be appeals from the original order of the Utilities Commission, even though joint appellants' notices stated that they were appealing from denial of their petition for reconsideration, a non-appealable order, where it could be fairly inferred that they intended to appeal from the original orders and the appellee was not misled. State ex rel. Utilities Comm'n v. MCI Telecommunications Corp., 132 N.C. App. 625, 514 S.E.2d 276 (1999).

Extended Response Time Only for Other Parties to Same Appeal. — This rule merely contemplates an additional, extended time period for a response only from other parties to that same appeal. Surratt v. Newton, 99 N.C. App. 396, 393 S.E.2d 554 (1990).

Where Oral Motions Considered, Plaintiffs Not Entitled to Make Later Written Motions to Toll Period for Filing Appeal. — Plaintiffs who entered their written notice of appeal within 10 days after the entry of a June 6 order denying their April 22 written motions for judgment notwithstanding the verdict and for a new trial were not entitled to make these written motions or to a hearing on these motions, because they had previously made oral motions for judgment notwithstanding the verdict and for a new trial in open court on April 14, 1988, and were afforded an opportunity to be heard, which they declined. Their G.S. 1A-1, Rule 50(b) and Rule 59 motions having been denied in open court at that time, plaintiffs were not entitled to file written motions requesting the same relief and thereby toll the period for filing written notice of appeal. Since their June 13, 1988 written notice of appeal was not filed within 10 days of entry of judgment, which by the terms of the judgment was April 14, 1988, their appeal was untimely. Middleton v. Middleton, 98 N.C. App. 217, 390 S.E.2d 453, cert. denied, 327 N.C. 637, 399 S.E.2d 123 (1990).

Withdrawal of G.S. 1A-1, Rule 59 motion did not entitle defendants to 10 days from their withdrawal to file notice of appeal from judgment; to hold otherwise would thwart the tolling provision of section (c) of this rule, and circumvent G.S. 1A-1, Rule 58, i.e., to give all interested parties a definite fixed time of a judicial determination that they can point to as the time of entry of judgment. Landin Ltd. v. Sharon Luggage, Ltd., 78 N.C. App. 558, 337 S.E.2d 685 (1985).

Motion under G.S. 1A-1, Rule 59 to amend judgment, filed 10 days after judgment by defendant, tolled the time for filing and serving a cross-notice of appeal until entry of an order on the motion pursuant to section (c) of this rule. However, where defendants later withdrew their Rule 59 motion, the 10 (now 30) day time limit to give notice of appeal under section (c) was not tolled, because there was never a judicial determination on defendants' motion. Landin Ltd. v. Sharon Luggage, Ltd., 78 N.C. App. 558, 337 S.E.2d 685 (1985).

Appeal may be taken by giving oral notice of appeal at trial, but an appeal so taken is by its nature limited to the issues dealt with in the judgment announced and cannot apply to subsequent written orders determining other issues in the same case. Brooks v. Gooden, 69 N.C. App. 701, 318 S.E.2d 348 (1984).

An appellant must appeal from each part of the judgment or order appealed from which appellant desires the appellate court to consider in order for the appellate court to be vested with jurisdiction to determine such matters. Smith v. Independent Life Ins. Co., 43 N.C. App. 269, 258 S.E.2d 864 (1979).

However, where defendants' G.S. 1A-1, Rule 12(b)(6) defense was converted and merged automatically into their G.S. 1A-1, Rule 56 motion, plaintiff's failure to mention specifically in her notice of appeal that portion of the trial court's order sustaining defendant's defense under Rule 12(b)(6) did not deprive the Court of Appeals of jurisdiction to hear plaintiff's appeal. Smith v. Independent Life Ins. Co., 43 N.C. App. 269, 258 S.E.2d 864 (1979).

Failure to Appeal Underlying Judgment. — Notice of appeal from denial of a motion to set aside a judgment which does not also specifically appeal the underlying judgment does not properly present the underlying judgment for appellate review. Von Ramm v. Von Ramm, 99 N.C. App. 153, 392 S.E.2d 422 (1990).

Subsection (c) of this rule tolls the time for giving notice of appeal when a timely motion for new trial has been made. Seafare Corp. v. Trenor Corp., 88 N.C. App. 404, 363 S.E.2d 643, cert. denied, 322 N.C. 113, 367 S.E.2d 917 (1988).

Notice of appeal which covered only judgments dismissing appellants' complaints and enjoining them from violating an ordinance did not give the Court of Appeals jurisdiction to consider the denial of their motions to dismiss and to amend replies. Onslow County v. Moore, 129 N.C. App. 376, 499 S.E.2d 780 (1998).

Filing a JNOV motion tolls running of the time for appeal of a judgment which has been entered. Abels v. Renfro Corp., 126 N.C. App. 800, 486 S.E.2d 735 (1997).

Only a "party aggrieved" may appeal from an order or judgment of the trial division. An aggrieved party is one whose rights have been directly and injuriously affected by the action of the court. Culton v. Culton, 327 N.C. 624, 398 S.E.2d 323 (1990).

"Aggrieved Party" Entitled to Appeal; Nonmovant Status Irrelevant. — Where the jury announced its verdict in open court, it "rendered judgment" according to subsection (a) of this rule and G.S. 1A-1, Rule 58, and oral notice of appeal was a proper procedure. As a party against whom the jury rendered the verdict, plaintiff was an "aggrieved party" who was entitled by law to orally appeal from the judgment, and its nonmovant status was irrelevant. Stimpson Hosiery Mills, Inc. v. Pam Trading Corp., 98 N.C. App. 543, 392 S.E.2d 128, cert. denied, 327 N.C. 144, 393 S.E.2d 909 (1990).

Letter to Clerk Not Written Notice of Appeal. — In an action challenging a divorce judgment where the defendant wrote a letter to the clerk of the court explaining her reasons for not attending the divorce proceedings and requesting that the judgment decreeing the divorce be set aside, the letter was not a written notice of appeal of a divorce judgment showing that the defendant sought a review by the Court of Appeals but was a G.S. 1A-1, Rule 59 motion for a new trial, and the trial court had no authority to cause an appeal to be entered for the defendant absent her request. Williford v. Williford, 51 N.C. App. 150, 275 S.E.2d 216 (1981).

Improper Appeal Criticized, But Acceptable Where Actual Notice Was Had. — While notice of appeal of a judgment rendered out of session was required by section (b) of this rule to be filed with the clerk and served on the other parties, steps taken by appellant in an attempt to perfect its appeal were minimally acceptable where the respondents were in fact put on actual notice of applicant's intent to appeal from any adverse decision where applicant stated in open court that it would appeal if it lost, and the applicant in open court requested that the proposed judgment to be submitted by respondents contain appeal entries so that applicant's notice of appeal would be perfected if the court should sign the proposed judgment; this procedure should not be repeated, however, as this rule clearly states the proper procedures to be strictly followed. In re Broad & Gales Creek Community Ass'n, 300

When Time Begins to Run. — The rendering of judgment establishes the point from which a party may appeal under this rule, and the entry of judgment marks the beginning of the period during which a party must file written notice of appeal. Stachlowski v. Stach, 328 N.C. 276, 401 S.E.2d 638 (1991).

Time for Appeals in Juvenile Matters. — N.C. R. App. P. 3(b) provides that the time to take appeals in juvenile matters is governed by G.S. 7A-666, and appeals in termination of parental rights cases are governed by G.S. 7A-289.34, but both referenced sections have been repealed and replaced by other provisions, and appeals in child custody cases are now governed by G.S. 7B-1001, and appeals in termination of parental rights cases are governed by G.S. 7B-1113. In re Padgett, 156 N.C. App. 644, 577 S.E.2d 337, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 324 (2003).

Though clerk's notation in minutes of court is ordinarily date from which time for notice of appeal under subsection (c) of this rule runs, where the trial judge directed that the date of entry of the court's written order and not the earlier date of the hearing was the date of entry for purposes of appeal, the clerk should not have noted an entry of judgment on the date of the hearing. Kahan v. Longiotti, 45 N.C. App. 367, 263 S.E.2d 345 (1980), overruled on other grounds, Love v. Moore, 305 N.C. 575, 291 S.E.2d 141 (1982).

When Notice of Appeal Is Timely. — Notice of appeal is timely if filed after judgment is rendered in court, and before the expiration of the 30-day period after judgment is entered. The date of rendition and the date of entry are therefore critical to a determination of whether an appeal is timely. Darcy v. Osborne, 101 N.C. App. 546, 400 S.E.2d 95 (1991).

Notice of appeal must be served on the opposing party either before the notice is filed or on the same day the notice is filed. Shaw v. Hudson, 49 N.C. App. 457, 271 S.E.2d 560 (1980).

In calculating whether notice of appeal is timely given, the 10th (now 30th) day is not considered if it is a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday. In such case, the 10 (now 30) day period runs at the end of the next day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday. Hardy v. Floyd, 70 N.C. App. 608, 320 S.E.2d 320 (1984).

Notice Held Timely. — Notice of appeal filed on July 5, 1983, was timely, where the 10th day fell on Sunday, July 3, 1983, and the next day, July 4, 1983, was a legal holiday. Hardy v. Floyd, 70 N.C. App. 608, 320 S.E.2d 320 (1984).

Defendant's notice of appeal of a personal injury verdict was held timely despite defendant's initial failure to properly file a notice of appeal with the Clerk of Superior Court within 30 days from the date of the judgnment as required by N.C.R. App. P. 3(a); although defendant had initially improperly filed the notice of appeal with the Court of Appeals and did not correct the error by properly filing with the Clerk of Superior Court until after the 30-day deadline had passed, plaintiff's failure to fully comply with the service requirements of Rule 58 of the North Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure (G.S. 1A-1, Rule 58) by timely filing a certificate of service tolled the running of the time for filing and serving a notice of appeal pursuant to N.C.R. App. P. 3. Davis v. Kelly, 147 N.C. App. 102, 554 S.E.2d 402, 2001 N.C. App. LEXIS 1072 (2001).

Tolling of Time for Appeal. — In order for the exception to the 30-day requirement under this rule to have any effect, when a party makes a motion enumerated in the rule, the opposing party's time for appeal is tolled. If the motion is withdrawn, the opposing party has 30 days from the withdrawal to file an appeal. Landingham Plumbing & Heating of N.C., Inc. v. Funnell, 102 N.C. App. 814, 403 S.E.2d 604 (1991).

Time for Filing Not Tolled by Motion for Attorney Fees. — The defendant's motion for attorney fees, which was filed several days after judgment on the verdict, was a separate proceeding that did not toll the time in which the plaintiff had to give notice of appeal, and thus, plaintiff's appeal was untimely, where it was filed more than a year after entry of judgment. Rice v. Danas, Inc., 132 N.C. App. 736, 514 S.E.2d 97 (1999).

Applicability of Tolling Provision to Second Motion Under G.S. 1A-1-59. — The plaintiff's appeal was timely filed under the tolling provision of this rule, where the plaintiff filed a timely second motion asserting four additional grounds for a new trial after the first motion was orally denied at the end of a medical malpractice trial, and the plaintiff's appeal was filed within 30 days of the date the court entered an order ruling on the second motion. Sherrod v. Nash Gen. Hosp., 348 N.C. 526, 500 S.E.2d 708 (1998).

Tolling Provisions Not Applicable. — Plaintiff who filed her motion for a new trial before the entry of the judgment was not entitled to benefit from the tolling provisions of this rule; plaintiff's oral motions were not relevant to the issue of whether her notice of appeal was timely filed. Stevens v. Guzman, 140 N.C. App. 780, 538 S.E.2d 590, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 1273 (2000), cert. granted, 353 N.C. 397, 547 S.E.2d 437 (2001), review dismissed, 354 N.C. 214, 552 S.E.2d 140 (2001).

Notice of Appeal Insufficient. — Notice of appeal, even when liberally construed, was not sufficient to give the court jurisdiction to review order denying plaintiffs' Rule 59 motion and instead presented for review only the underlying judgment entered in accordance with the verdict. Chee v. Estes, 117 N.C. App. 450, 451 S.E.2d 349 (1994).

In plaintiff grading company's action for breach or contract and to enforce a lien, where the company's arguments on appeal all related to an order which granted defendant church's summary judgment motion, but the company only gave notice of appeal as to a later order which denied the company's motion for a new trial or for relief from judgment, the arguments pertaining to the earlier order for summary judgment were not properly before the appellate court and the appeal was dismissed. Atchley Grading Co. v. W. Cabarrus Church, 148 N.C. App. 211, 557 S.E.2d 188, 2001 N.C. App. LEXIS 1286 (2001).

Appellate court did not consider the cross-appellant's appeal because the court did not acquire jurisdiction of the appeal since the notice of appeal was insufficient; the notice of appeal only stated that cross-appellant was appealing from the trial court's grant of a summary judgment, and did not indicate whether the cross-appellant wished to appeal from the trial court's denial of his request for special instructions or a peremptory instruction. Monin v. Peerless Ins. Co., — N.C. App. —, 583 S.E.2d 393, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1522 (2003).

Failure to Give Notice of Appeal. — Where, in notice of appeal, defendant designated only the order denying the motion for JNOV, but did not give notice of appeal from the judgment itself, the notice of appeal failed to properly present the underlying judgment for the court's review. Boger v. Gatton, 123 N.C. App. 635, 473 S.E.2d 672 (1996).

Motion to Appeal in Forma Pauperis. — The late filing of appeal entries had no bearing on the question of the requirement that a motion to appeal in forma pauperis be made within 10 (now 30) days after the expiration of the session at which judgment is rendered; appeal entries are simply a convenient means of providing a record entry of the fact that an appeal has been taken, and do not constitute the taking of the appeal itself. In re Caldwell, 75 N.C. App. 299, 330 S.E.2d 513 (1985).

Review of Intermediate Order. — On appeal of resale of land being foreclosed, Court of Appeals was not barred from considering validity of order withdrawing an upset bid and directing a resale of the foreclosed property, merely because the appellants did not appeal from it within the time required by this rule, as G.S. 1-278 permits the Court, incident to an appeal from a final judgment or order, to review intermediate orders "involving the merits and necessarily affecting the judgment," and the order striking the upset bid and requiring a resale was such an order. In re Allan & Warmbold Constr. Co., 88 N.C. App. 693, 364 S.E.2d 723, cert. denied, 322 N.C. 480, 370 S.E.2d 222 (1988).

II. DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW.

Editor's note. — The cases cited below were decided under former Rule 5, Rules of Practice in the Supreme Court of North Carolina.

Docketing Rules Mandatory. — The rule of the Supreme Court requiring the docketing of the appeal within a certain time is mandatory. State v. Farmer, 188 N.C. 243, 124 S.E. 562 (1924); State ex rel. Mills v. National Sur. Co., 192 N.C. 52, 133 S.E. 172 (1926); Pruitt v. Wood, 199 N.C. 788, 156 S.E. 126 (1930).

The rules of the Supreme Court regulating appeals are mandatory. And must be equally observed, or the case will be dismissed. Womble v. Moncure Mill & Gin Co., 194 N.C. 577, 140 S.E. 230 (1927); Covington v. Hanes Hosiery Mills Co., 195 N.C. 478, 142 S.E. 705 (1928); Pentuff v. Park, 195 N.C. 609, 143 S.E. 139 (1928).

The rules may not be disregarded by the legislature, the judge of a superior court, or by litigants or counsel. The Supreme Court has found it necessary to enforce them uniformly. Pentuff v. Park, 195 N.C. 609, 143 S.E. 139 (1928); State v. Walker, 245 N.C. 658, 97 S.E.2d 219 (1957), cert. denied, 356 U.S. 946, 78 S. Ct. 793, 2 L. Ed. 2d 821 (1958).

This rule regulating the time within which appeals must be docketed in the Supreme Court is mandatory and cannot be abrogated by consent or otherwise. Jones v. Jones, 232 N.C. 518, 61 S.E.2d 335 (1950).

When case is not docketed within time prescribed by this rule and no application for writ of certiorari is made, appeal will be dismissed, the rules of practice in the Supreme Court being mandatory and not directory. State v. Presnell, 226 N.C. 160, 36 S.E.2d 927 (1946).

And Dismissal Results Where Agreement of Parties Prohibits Compliance Therewith. — Where the parties agree upon an extension of time for service of case on appeal that will not permit the docketing of the appeal in the Supreme Court in time to be heard according to the procedure in such instances, they knowingly put it beyond their power to comply with the mandatory provisions of this rule, and the case will be dismissed in the Supreme Court when these requirements have not been complied with by the appellant. Pruitt v. Wood, 199 N.C. 788, 156 S.E. 126 (1930).

This rule may not be varied, under agreement with the solicitor or opposing counsel to extend time to the appellant later than that allowed; and when these requirements for any reason cannot be complied with, the appellant must docket the record proper in the Supreme Court, and apply to the court for a certiorari. State v. Trull, 169 N.C. 363, 85 S.E. 133 (1915).

Legislature Cannot Change Rule. — The power of the legislature to permit an extension of the time for settling the case on appeal does not permit it to impinge upon the rule of the Supreme Court requiring the docketing thereof within a prescribed time. State v. Butner, 185 N.C. 731, 117 S.E. 163 (1923).

Nor Can Rule Be Changed by Parties or Trial Judge. — The rules of the Supreme Court regulating the time of docketing appeals are uniformly enforced by the court, without authority to the judges or parties to the action to change them by agreement or otherwise. Rose v. Rocky Mount, 184 N.C. 609, 113 S.E.

506 (1922); Finch v. Commissioners of Nash County, 190 N.C. 154, 129 S.E. 195 (1925); Stone v. Ledbetter, 191 N.C. 777, 133 S.E. 162 (1926).

Failure to Docket. — The motion for a certiorari in the Supreme Court by appellant who has failed to docket his case in time under the requirements of this rule may be allowed, in the discretion of the court, upon the docketing of the record proper and the showing as required for merit and want of laches. State v. Taylor, 194 N.C. 738, 140 S.E. 728 (1927).

Failure to Docket Entire Record. — Though the court, without appellant's fault, fails to settle the case, appellant must within the time allowed by this rule docket all of the record proper, or so much thereof as he can obtain, and file an affidavit as to why the entire record cannot be docketed; otherwise the appeal will be dismissed. Caudle v. Morris, 158 N.C. 594, 74 S.E. 98, modified and aff'd, 160 N.C. 168, 76 S.E. 17 (1912).

Extension of Time Granted for Settling Case on Appeal. — When by consent of the appellant, or by order of the judge, such a long extension of time is granted for settling a case on appeal as to put it beyond the power of appellant to have the case ready for hearing, as required by the rules, the appellant runs the risk of losing his right of appeal. In such instances, unless the appellant gets his appeal docketed in time, as required by the rules of the court, notwithstanding the time allowed, or dockets the record proper and moves for a writ of certiorari, the right of appeal will be lost. State v. Walker, 245 N.C. 658, 97 S.E.2d 219 (1957), cert. denied, 356 U.S. 946, 78 S. Ct. 793, 2 L. Ed. 2d 821 (1958).

Neglect of Counsel. — The negligence of counsel sending up, docketing, and printing the transcript is that of the client. Truelove v. Norris, 152 N.C. 755, 67 S.E. 487 (1910); Howard v. Speight, 180 N.C. 653, 104 S.E. 35 (1920). See also Carroll v. Victory Mfg. Co., 180 N.C. 660, 104 S.E. 528, aff'd, 180 N.C. 366, 104 S.E. 895 (1920); Kerr v. Drake, 182 N.C. 764, 108 S.E. 393 (1921).

Agreements of Counsel. — The requirement of this rule will be enforced uniformly regardless of an agreement to the contrary that the attorneys for the parties may have made in any particular case. State v. Farmer, 188 N.C. 243, 124 S.E. 562 (1924).

Pending Negotiations for Compromise of Action. — The fact that, on an appeal, negotiations for compromise were pending, is no excuse for failure to docket the appeal. British & Am. Mtg. Co. v. Long, 116 N.C. 77, 20 S.E. 964 (1895).

Filing of Original Papers by Appellant. — Where the appellant fails to file a transcript of the record, but attempts to file the original papers from the trial court, his motion for reinstatement after dismissal of appeal will be denied for laches. Lindsey v. Supreme Lodge of Knights of Honor, 172 N.C. 818, 90 S.E. 1013 (1916).

Transcript Mailed in Reasonable Time. — Where the transcript of a record is deposited in the post office in ample time to reach the Supreme Court within the time required by this rule, but by some delay in the mails does not reach its destination until after the time has expired, the excuse is reasonable, and the appeal will not be dismissed. Walker v. Scott, 104 N.C. 481, 10 S.E. 523 (1889).

Fees Must Be Paid Before Transcript Docketed. — The clerk of the Supreme Court is not required to docket a transcript of an appeal before appellant has paid him the required fee therefor. Dunn v. Clerk's Office, 176 N.C. 50, 96 S.E. 738 (1918). But see. West v. Reynolds, 94 N.C. 333 (1886). See G.S. 6-33 and notes thereto.

Failure to Pay Costs. — Where a transcript is not sent up in time by reason of the appellant's failure, when notified, to pay costs of the transcript, as he is bound to do, the appellee may move to docket and dismiss the appeal. Bailey v. Brown, 105 N.C. 127, 10 S.E. 1054 (1890).

Delay of Clerk. — Failure to docket the transcript on appeal within the time required by this rule cannot be excused by delay of the clerk, in which case appellant should docket the title of the case with affidavit as to the cause of delay. Carroll v. Victory Mfg. Co., 180 N.C. 660, 104 S.E. 528, aff'd, 180 N.C. 366, 104 S.E. 895 (1920).

It is no sufficient excuse for the appellant's failure to docket his appeal under this rule that the case was delayed in being settled and that the clerk was too busy with a term of court to make out the transcript. Hewitt v. Beck, 152 N.C. 757, 67 S.E. 586 (1910).

The mere fact that appellant tendered payment to the superior court clerk of his fees for transcript on appeal, and the clerk said he would send up the transcript without payment is no sufficient legal excuse for the failure to docket under this rule. Truelove v. Norris, 152 N.C. 755, 67 S.E. 487 (1910).

Case Not Settled. — It is no excuse for failure to docket the appeal that the case was not settled by the judge until too late to docket the case at the proper term, it being appellant's duty to docket the record proper and ask for a writ of certiorari to perfect the transcript. Pittman v. Kimberly, 92 N.C. 562 (1885); State v. Telfair, 139 N.C. 555, 51 S.E. 911 (1905); Kerr v. Drake, 182 N.C. 764, 108 S.E. 393 (1921).

Renewing of Withdrawn Appeal. — A party to an action has a right to renew his appeal after having once withdrawn it, provided he does so within the time prescribed by the statutes and rules for perfecting appeals.

State v. Chastain, 104 N.C. 900, 10 S.E. 519 (1889).

Case Is Dismissed If Moot Question Presented. — Where on appeal it appears that an election sought to be enjoined has already been held, the appeal presents only a moot question, and will be dismissed. Rousseau v. Bullis, 201 N.C. 12, 158 S.E. 553 (1931).

Rule 4. Appeal in criminal cases — How and when taken.

(a) Manner and time. Any party entitled by law to appeal from a judgment or order of a superior or district court rendered in a criminal action may take appeal by

(1) giving oral notice of appeal at trial, or

(2) filing notice of appeal with the clerk of superior court and serving copies thereof upon all adverse parties within 14 days after entry of the judgment or order or within 14 days after a ruling on a motion for appropriate relief made during the 14-day period following entry of the judgment or order. Appeals from district court to superior court are governed by G.S. 15A-1431 and -1432.

(b) Content of notice of appeal. The notice of appeal required to be filed and served by subdivision (a)(2) of this rule shall specify the party or parties taking the appeal; shall designate the judgment or order from which appeal is taken and the court to which appeal is taken; and shall be signed by counsel of record for the party or parties taking the appeal, or by any such party not represented by counsel of record.

(c) Service of notice of appeal. Service of copies of the notice of appeal may be made as provided in Rule 26 of these rules.

(d) To which appellate court addressed. An appeal of right from a judgment of a superior court by any person who has been convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to death shall be filed in the Supreme Court. In all other criminal cases, appeal shall be filed in the Court of Appeals. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended October 4, 1978 — 4(a)(2) — effective January 1, 1979; July 13, 1982 — 4(d); Amended September 3, 1987 — 4(d) — effective for all judgments of the superior court entered on or after July 24, 1987; Amended December 8, 1988 — 4(a) — effective for all judgments of the trial tribunal entered on or after July 1, 1989; Amended June 8, 1989 — 4(a) — December 8, 1988 amendment rescinded prior to effective date; Amended October 18, 2001 — 4(a)(2), (d) (subsection (d) amended to conform with G.S. 7A-27) — effective October 31, 2001; Amended May 1, 2003 — 4(a)(2).)

Editor's note. — An amendment to Rule 4(a) adopted December 8, 1988, to become effective for judgments of the trial division entered on or after July 1, 1989, was rescinded by order of the Supreme Court dated June 8, 1989.

CASE NOTES

I. In General.
II. Decisions Under Prior Law.

I. IN GENERAL.

Basis for Appeal. — Reliance upon a substantial rights analysis as the basis for appellate review appears contrary to the plain and unambiguous language of the statutes governing criminal appeals. State v. Shoff, 118 N.C. App. 724, 456 S.E.2d 875, appeal dismissed, 340 N.C. 572, 460 S.E.2d 328 (1995), aff'd, 342 N.C. 638, 466 S.E.2d 277 (1996).

Requirement Where Appellate Review of Criminal Convictions Provided. — While the State has no duty to provide for appellate review of criminal convictions, when it does, it must assure indigent defendants an adequate opportunity to present their claims. Galloway v. Stephenson, 510 F. Supp. 840 (M.D.N.C. 1981).

Time Limitations. — A defendant is required to give oral notice of appeal at trial or file a written notice of appeal within 14 days after entry of the judgment in order to preserve his right of appeal under N.C. R. App. P. 4(a). State v. Jones, — N.C. App. —, 581 S.E.2d 103, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1178 (2003).

Applied in Gaunt v. Pittaway, 135 N.C. App. 442, 520 S.E.2d 603, 1999 N.C. App. LEXIS 1147 (1999); Faulconer v. Wysong & Miles Co., 155 N.C. App. 598, 574 S.E.2d 688, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1572 (2002).

II. DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW.

Editor's note. — The cases cited below were decided under former Rules 5 and 6, Rules of Practice in the Supreme Court of North Carolina.

Case Subject to Dismissal on Motion or by Court Ex Mero Motu. — The defendant not having docketed his case on appeal within the time prescribed by this rule, nor having docketed the record proper and moved for a writ of certiorari before the expiration of time allowed docketing criminal appeals, the case is subject to dismissal either upon motion of the Attorney General or ex mero motu by the court. State v. Walker, 245 N.C. 658, 97 S.E.2d 219 (1957), cert. denied, 356 U.S. 946, 78 S. Ct. 793, 2 L. Ed. 2d 821 (1958).

Appeal Abandoned Where Defendant Breaks Jail. — When the defendant in a criminal action appeals to the Supreme Court, but, pending appeal, breaks jail and flees the jurisdiction of the court, this is an abandonment of the appeal; and, upon motion of the Attorney General, the appeal will be dismissed, or case continued, or judgment affirmed, in the discretion of the court. State v. Keebler, 145 N.C. 560, 59 S.E. 872 (1907).

Rule 5. Joinder of parties on appeal.

(a) Appellants. If two or more parties are entitled to appeal from a judgment, order, or other determination and their interests are such as to make their joinder in appeal practicable, they may give a joint oral notice of appeal or file and serve a joint notice of appeal in accordance with Rules 3 and 4; or they may join in appeal after timely taking of separate appeals by filing notice of joinder in the office of the clerk of superior court and serving copies thereof upon all other parties.

(b) Appellees. Two or more appellees whose interests are such as to make their joinder on appeal practicable may, by filing notice of joinder in the office of the clerk of superior court and serving copies thereof upon all other parties, so join.

(c) Procedure after joinder. After joinder, the parties proceed as a single appellant or appellee. Filing and service of papers by and upon joint appellants or appellees is as provided by Rule 26(e). (Adopted June 13, 1975.)

CASE NOTES

Applied in Board of Transp. v. Terminal Whse. Corp., 300 N.C. 700, 268 S.E.2d 180 (1980).

Rule 6. Security for costs on appeal.

(a) In regular course. Except in pauper appeals an appellant in a civil action must provide adequate security for the costs of appeal in accordance with the provisions of G.S. 1-285 and 1-286.

(b) In forma pauperis appeals. An appellant in a civil action may be allowed to prosecute an appeal in forma pauperis without providing security for costs in accordance with the provisions of G.S. 1-288.

(c) Filed with record on appeal. When security for costs is required, the appellant shall file with the record on appeal a certified copy of the appeal bond or a cash deposit made in lieu of bond.

(d) Dismissal for failure to file or defect in security. For failure of the appellant to provide security as required by subdivision (a) or to file evidence thereof as required by subdivision (c), or for a substantial defect or irregularity in any security provided, the appeal may on motion of an appellee be dismissed by the appellate court where docketed, unless for good cause shown the court permits the security to be provided or the filing to be made out of time, or the defect or irregularity to be corrected. A motion to dismiss on these grounds shall be made and determined in accordance with Rule 37 of these rules. When the motion to dismiss is made on the grounds of a defect or irregularity, the appellant may as a matter of right correct the defect or irregularity by filing a proper bond or making proper deposit with the clerk of the appellate court within 10 days after service of the motion upon him or before the case is called for argument, whichever first occurs.

(e) No security for costs in criminal appeals. Pursuant to G.S. 15A-1449, no security for costs is required upon appeal of criminal cases to the appellate division. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended November 27, 1984 — 6(e) — effective February 1, 1985; Amended July 26, 1990 — 6(c) — effective October 1, 1990.)

CASE NOTES

Secured Performance Bond Not Prerequisite to Appeal. — An appeal must be dismissed when a party does not provide the appeal bond ordered by the trial judge. However, posting a "secured performance bond" is not a condition precedent to appeal under statute or appellate rules. Armstrong v. Armstrong, 85 N.C. App. 93, 354 S.E.2d 350 (1987), rev'd on other grounds, 322 N.C. 396, 368 S.E.2d 595 (1988).

Rule 7. Preparation of the transcript; Court reporter's duties.

(a) Ordering the transcript.

(1) Civil cases. Within 14 days after filing the notice of appeal the appellant shall arrange for the transcription of the proceedings or of such parts of the proceedings not already on file, as the appellant deems necessary, in accordance with these rules, and shall provide the following information in writing: a designation of the parts of the proceedings to be transcribed; the name and address of the court reporter or other neutral person designated to prepare the transcript; and, where portions of the proceedings have been designated to be transcribed, a statement of the issues the appellant intends to raise on appeal. The appellant shall file the written documentation of this transcript arrangement with the clerk of the trial tribunal, and serve a copy of it upon all other parties of record, and upon the person designated to prepare the transcript. If the appellant intends to urge on appeal that a finding or conclusion of the trial court is unsupported by the evidence or is contrary to the evidence, the appellant shall file with the record on appeal a transcript of all evidence relevant to such finding or conclusion. If an appellee deems a transcript of other parts of the proceedings to be necessary, the appellee, within 14 days after the service of the written documentation of the appellant, shall arrange for the transcription of any additional parts of the proceedings or such parts of the proceedings not already on file, in accordance with these rules. The appellee shall file with the clerk of the trial tribunal, and serve on all other parties of record, written documentation of the additional parts of the proceedings to be transcribed; and the name and address of the court reporter or other neutral person designated to prepare the transcript.

In civil cases and special proceedings where there is an order establishing the indigency of a party entitled to appointed appellate counsel, the ordering of the transcript shall be as in criminal cases where there is an order establishing the indigency of the defendant as set forth in Rule 7(a)(2).

(2) Criminal cases. In criminal cases where there is no order establishing the indigency of the defendant for the appeal, the defendant shall arrange for the transcription of the proceedings as in civil cases.

Where there is an order establishing the indigency of the defendant, unless the trial judge's appeal entries specify or the parties stipulate that parts of the proceedings need not be transcribed, the clerk of the trial tribunal shall order a transcript of the proceedings by serving the following documents upon either the court reporter(s) or neutral person designated to prepare the transcript: a copy of the appeal entries signed by the judge; a copy of the trial court's order establishing indigency for the appeal; and a statement setting out the number of copies of the transcript required and the name, address and telephone number of appellant's counsel. The clerk shall make an entry of record reflecting the date these documents were served upon the court reporter(s) or transcriptionist.

(b) Production and delivery of transcript.

(1) In civil cases: from the date the requesting party serves the written documentation of the transcript arrangement on the person designated to prepare the transcript, that person shall have 60 days to prepare and deliver the transcript.

In criminal cases where there is no order establishing the indigency of the defendant for the appeal: from the date the requesting party serves the written documentation of the transcript arrangement upon the person designated to prepare the transcript, that person shall have 60 days to produce and deliver the transcript in non-capital cases and 120 days to produce and deliver the transcript in capitally tried cases.

In criminal cases where there is an order establishing the indigency of the defendant for the appeal: from the date the clerk of the trial court serves the order upon the person designated to prepare the transcript, that person shall have 60 days to procure and deliver the transcript in non-capital cases and 120 days to produce and deliver the transcript in capitally tried cases.

The transcript format shall comply with Appendix B of these Rules.

Except in capitally tried criminal cases which result in the imposition of a sentence of death, (t)he trial tribunal, in its discretion, and for good cause shown by the appellant may extend the time to produce the transcript for an additional 30 days. Any subsequent motions for additional time required to produce the transcript may only be made to the appellate court to which appeal has been taken. All motions for extension of time to produce the transcript in capitally tried cases resulting in the imposition of a sentence of death, shall be made directly to the Supreme Court by the appellant. Where the clerk's order of transcript is accompanied by the trial court's order establishing the indigency of the appellant and directing the transcript to be prepared at State expense, the time for production of the transcript commences seven days after the filing of the clerk's order of transcript.

(2) The court reporter, or person designated to prepare the transcript, shall deliver the completed transcript to the parties, as ordered, within the time provided by this rule, unless an extension of time has been granted under Rule 7(b)(1) or Rule 27(c). The court reporter or transcriptionist shall certify to the clerk of the trial tribunal that the parties' copies have been so delivered, and shall send a copy of such certification to the appellate court to which the appeal is taken. The appealing party shall retain custody of the original transcript and shall transmit the original transcript to the appellate court upon settlement of the record on appeal.

(3) The neutral person designated to prepare the transcript shall not be a relative or employee or attorney or counsel of any of the parties, or a relative or employee of such attorney or counsel, or be financially interested in the action unless the parties agree otherwise by stipulation. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Repealed July 1, 1978 (See note following Rule 17); Re-adopted December 8, 1988 — effective for all judgments of the trial tribunal entered on or after July 1, 1989; Amended June 8, 1989 — effective for all judgments of the trial tribunal entered on or after July 1, 1989; Amended July 26, 1990 — 7(a)(1), (a)(2), and (b)(1) — effective October 1, 1990; Amended November 21, 1997 — effective February 1, 1998; Amended April 14, 1999 — 7(b)(1), para. 5; Amended October 18, 2001 — 7(b)(1), para. 4 — effective October 31, 2001; Amended August 15, 2002 — 7(a)(1), para. 2.)

Editor's note. — A former version of Rule 7 was repealed by amendment effective July 1, 1978, adopted June 19, 1978.

The order repealing this rule provided:

"Repeal of Rule 7 and limiting Rule 17's application to civil cases are to conform the Rules of Appellate Procedure to Chap. 711, 1977 Session Laws, particularly that portion of Chap. 711 codified as G.S. 15A-1449 which provides, 'In criminal cases no security for costs is required upon appeal to the appellate division.' Section 33 of Chap. 711 repealed, among other statutes, G.S. 15-180 and 15-181 upon which Rule 7 was based. Chap. 711 becomes effective 1 July 1978. While G.S. 15A-1449, strictly construed, does not apply to cost bonds in appeals from or petitions for further review of decisions of the Court of Appeals, the Supreme Court believes the legislature intended to eliminate the giving of security for costs in criminal cases on appeal or on petition to the Supreme Court from the Court of Appeals. The Court has, therefore, amended Rule 17 to comply with what it believes to be the legislative intent in this area.

"The appellate courts, pursuant to Rules 12, 13, and 15, will continue to collect advance deposits fixed by the clerks to cover the costs of reproducing the record on appeal and briefs.

"Rather than renumber the Rules, the Court has determined to reserve Rule 7 for future use."

CASE NOTES

Submission of Transcript to Court of Appeals. — In the interests of judicial economy and a timely resolution of appeals and in the absence of a rule from the Supreme Court requiring a written transcript in cases that are appealed to the Court of Appeals, appellants are encouraged to submit, from the outset, a written transcript of the entire proceedings. Shillington v. K-Mart Corp., 102 N.C. App. 187, 402 S.E.2d 155 (1991).

Under N.C. R. App. P. 7 and N.C. R. App. P. 9(a)(1)(e), without the transcript, the appellate court was unable to review a mother's argument that the trial court erred in making findings of fact that were unsupported by the evidence. Hicks v. Alford, 156 N.C. App. 384, 576 S.E.2d 410, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 129 (2003).

Submission of Videotapes. — Videotapes, four in number, were submitted to the Court of Appeals as part of the record on appeal. No written transcript accompanied the briefs and record, except for selected excerpts of some of the testimony included as appendices in the parties' briefs. Although there may be many substantial benefits in videotaping trial proceedings under the rules to govern the use of video court reporting system during the test/evaluation period, done by order of the Supreme Court in conference on February 3, 1988, the use of videotapes for appellate review greatly frustrates effective review of the trial proceedings, especially in cases where questions of sufficiency of the evidence are determinative. Shillington v. K-Mart Corp., 102 N.C. App. 187, 402 S.E.2d 155 (1991).

Delivery Within 60-Day Period. — Rule 11(a) provides that the time in which the record of a case on appeal must be filed runs from the date of the court reporter's certification of delivery of the transcript and if the court reporter fails to certify that the transcript has been delivered within the 60-day period permitted by section (b) of this Rule, the 35-day period within which an appellant must serve the proposed record on appeal does not begin to run until the court reporter does certify delivery of the transcript; therefore, since the court reporter had not certified delivery of her portion of the transcript prior to the hearing on plaintiff's motion to dismiss the appeal, the defendant's 35-day period to serve the record on appeal never began to run. Lockert v. Lockert, 116 N.C. App. 73, 446 S.E.2d 606 (1994), cert. granted in part and denied in part, writ of supersedeas allowed, 338 N.C. 311, 450 S.E.2d 487 (1994).

Plaintiff's letter to the court reporter within the 10-day deadline set forth in this Rule constituted "substantial compliance" with the requirement of a contract between the litigant and the court reporter. Anuforo v. Dennie, 119 N.C. App. 359, 458 S.E.2d 523 (1995).

Court reporter's notation that plaintiff "ordered" transcript, coupled with her certification the transcript was "mailed," indicating, however erroneously, that the transcript was prepared and delivered within 60 days, constituted excusable neglect justifying relief from the trial court's order dismissing plaintiff's appeal for the failure of counsel to seek an extension of time for production of the transcript under subdivision 7(b)(1). Anuforo v. Dennie, 119 N.C. App. 359, 458 S.E.2d 523 (1995).

Substantial Compliance. — Defendant's actions in conferring with the Clerk of Superior Court and the Administrative Office of the Courts, purchasing copies of audio tapes, employing a transcriptionist, and obtaining a transcript of proceeding within sixty days of the defendant's notice of appeal constituted "substantial compliance" with this Rule. Pollock v. Parnell, 126 N.C. App. 358, 484 S.E.2d 864 (1997).

Appellant substantially complied with the requirements of N.C. R. App. P. 7 that he file a written arrangement for transcription of the record within 14 days of his notice of appeal and that he file the transcript within 74 days of his notice, when he immediately requested copies of the audiotapes of the trial court proceedings, upon filing his notice of appeal, and was in contact with a transcriptionist, and filed his contract with the transcriptionist as soon as he received copies of the audiotapes, but did not file the contract within 14 days nor the transcript within 74 days, due to a substantial delay in providing him with copies of the audiotapes. Spencer v. Spencer, 156 N.C. App. 1, 575 S.E.2d 780, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 30 (2003).

Trial court's denial of appellee's motion to dismiss an appeal 36 days after the notice of appeal was filed, under N.C. R. App. P. 11, for a failure to settle the record in accordance with N.C. R. App. P. 9 within 35 days of the notice, was proper because the appellant substantially complied with the requirements of N.C. R. App. P. 7 regarding filing a transcript of the trial court proceedings. Spencer v. Spencer, 156 N.C. App. 1, 575 S.E.2d 780, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 30 (2003).

Statement of Grounds. — The mere recitation of the rule number relied upon by the movant is not a statement of the grounds within the meaning of subdivision 7(b)(1) Smith v. Johnson, 125 N.C. App. 603, 481 S.E.2d 415 (1997), cert. denied, 346 N.C. 283, 487 S.E.2d 554 (1997).

Basis of Motion Required. — A motion, to satisfy the requirements of subdivision (b)(1), must supply information revealing the basis of the motion. Smith v. Johnson, 125 N.C. App. 603, 481 S.E.2d 415 (1997), cert. denied, 346 N.C. 283, 487 S.E.2d 554 (1997).

Costs Assessed on Attorney. — Because this rule was violated, in that a timely written request for the transcript was not made, the cost of appeal was assessed on upon plaintiffs' attorney personally, pursuant to Rule 35. Thompson v. Town of Warsaw, 120 N.C. App. 471, 462 S.E.2d 691 (1995).

Motion to Extend Time. — All motions made to extend time, except for motions to extend the time for service of the proposed record on appeal under N.C.R. App. P. 27(c)(1), and motions to extend the time to produce the transcript under subdivision (b)(1) of this rule, must be made to the court to which appeal has been taken. Onslow County v. Moore, 127 N.C. App. 546, 491 S.E.2d 670 (1997), rev'd on other grounds, 347 N.C. 672, 500 S.E.2d 88 (1998).

The defendant's motion to dismiss plaintiff's appeal was properly denied where the court reporter failed to deliver a copy of the completed transcript until long after the expiration of the 60-day period allowed by this rule. However, the better practice is for appellant to request an extension of time from the appropriate court, setting forth the reasons for the reporter's delay in delivering the transcript and the probable date of delivery, an initial application for an extension of time being made to the trial court and subsequent motions for extensions of time to produce the transcript being made only to the appellate court to which appeal has been taken. Harvey v. Stokes, 137 N.C. App. 119, 527 S.E.2d 336, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 264 (2000).

Dismissal for Failure to Comply. — Where the trial court's purported extension of time to file the records on appeal was ineffective, and where the records on appeal were not filed within the times mandated by the Rules of Appellate Procedure, each parties' appeals were dismissed for failure to comply with the rules. Onslow County v. Moore, 127 N.C. App. 546, 491 S.E.2d 670 (1997), rev'd on other grounds, 347 N.C. 672, 500 S.E.2d 88 (1998).

The defendant's appeal was dismissed, where he failed to supervise his appeal in an auto accident case and to request an extension of time, even though an extension became necessary for the court reporter's completion and delivery of the transcript within the time limits of this rule. Chamberlain v. Thames, 130 N.C. App. 324, 502 S.E.2d 631 (1998).

Applied in Ferguson v. Williams, 101 N.C. App. 265, 399 S.E.2d 389 (1991).

Rule 8. Stay pending appeal.

(a) Stay in civil cases. When appeal is taken in a civil action from a judgment, order, or other determination of a trial court, stay of execution or enforcement thereof pending disposition of the appeal must ordinarily first be sought by the deposit of security with the clerk of the superior court in those cases for which provision is made by law for the entry of stays upon deposit of adequate security, or by application to the trial court for a stay order in all other cases. After a stay order or entry has been denied or vacated by a trial court, an appellant may apply to the appropriate appellate court for a writ of supersedeas in accordance with Rule 23. In any appeal which is allowed by law to be taken from an agency to the appellate division, application for the writ of supersedeas may be made to the appellate court in the first instance. Application for the writ of supersedeas may similarly be made to the appellate court in the first instance when extraordinary circumstances make it impracticable to obtain a stay by deposit of security or by application to the trial court for a stay order.

(b) Stay in criminal cases. When a defendant has given notice of appeal, those portions of criminal sentences which impose fines or costs are automatically stayed pursuant to the provisions of G.S. 15A-1451. Stays of imprisonment or of the execution of death sentences must be pursued under G.S. 15A-536 or Appellate Rule 23, Writ of Supersedeas. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended November 27, 1984 — 8(b), effective February 1, 1985; Amended March 6, 1997 — 8(a), effective July 1, 1997.)

l. a statement, where appropriate, that the record of proceedings was made with an electronic recording device.

h. assignments of error to the actions of the superior court, set out in the manner provided in Rule 10.

(3) Composition of the record in criminal actions. The record on appeal in criminal actions shall contain:

a. an index of the contents of the record, which shall appear as the first page thereof;

f. where error is assigned to the giving or omission of instructions to the jury, a transcript of the entire charge given;

g. copies of the verdict and of the judgment, order, or other determination from which appeal is taken; and in capitally tried cases, a copy of the jury verdict sheet for sentencing, showing the aggravating and mitigating circumstances submitted and found or not found;

h. a copy of the notice of appeal or an appropriate entry or statement showing appeal taken orally; of all orders establishing time limits relative to the perfecting of the appeal; of any order finding defendant indigent for the purposes of the appeal and assigning counsel; and of any agreement, notice of approval, or order settling the record on appeal and settling the verbatim transcript of proceedings, if one is to be filed pursuant to Rule 9(c)(2);

i. copies of all other papers filed and statements of all other proceedings had in the trial courts which are necessary for an understanding of all errors assigned, unless they appear in the verbatim transcript of proceedings which is being filed with the record pursuant to Rule 9(c)(2);

j. assignments of error set out in the manner provided in Rule 10; and

k. a statement, where appropriate, that the record of proceedings was made with an electronic recording device.

(b) Form of record; Amendments. The record on appeal shall be in the format prescribed by Rule 26(g) and the appendixes to these rules.

(1) Order of arrangement. The items constituting the record on appeal should be arranged, so far as practicable, in the order in which they occurred or were filed in the trial tribunal.

(2) Inclusion of unnecessary matter; Penalty. It shall be the duty of counsel for all parties to an appeal to avoid including in the record on appeal matter not necessary for an understanding of the errors assigned. The cost of including such matter may be charged as costs to the party or counsel who caused or permitted its inclusion.

(3) Filing dates and signatures on papers. Every pleading, motion, affidavit, or other paper included in the record on appeal shall show the date on which it was filed and, if verified, the date of verification and the person who verified. Every judgment, order, or other determination shall show the date on which it was entered. The typed or printed name of the person signing a paper shall be entered immediately below the signature.

(4) Pagination; Counsel identified. The pages of the record on appeal shall be numbered consecutively, be referred to as "record pages" and be cited as "(R p____)." Pages of the verbatim transcript of proceedings filed under Rule 9(c)(2) shall be referred to as "transcript pages" and cited as "(T p____)." At the end of the record on appeal shall appear the names, office addresses, and telephone numbers of counsel of record for all parties to the appeal.

(5) Additions and amendments to record on appeal. On motion of any party or on its own initiative, the appellate court may order additional portions of a trial court record or transcript sent up and added to the record on appeal. On motion of any party the appellate court may order any portion of the record on appeal or transcript amended to correct error shown as to form or content. Prior to the filing of the record on appeal in the appellate court, such motions may be made by any party to the trial tribunal.

(c) Presentation of testimonial evidence and other proceedings. Testimonial evidence, voir dire, and other trial proceedings necessary to be presented for review by the appellate court may be included either in the record on appeal in the form specified in Rule 9(c)(1) or by designating the verbatim transcript of proceedings of the trial tribunal as provided in Rule 9(c)(2) and (c)(3). Where error is assigned to the giving or omission of instructions to the jury, a transcript of the entire charge given shall be included in the record on appeal.

(1) When testimonial evidence narrated — How set out in record. Where error is assigned with respect to the admission or exclusion of evidence, the question and answer form shall be utilized in setting out the pertinent questions and answers. Other testimonial evidence required to be included in the record on appeal by Rule 9(a) shall be set out in narrative form except where such form might not fairly reflect the true sense of the evidence received, in which case it may be set out in question and answer form. Counsel are expected to seek that form or combination of forms best calculated under the circumstances to present the true sense of the required testimonial evidence concisely and at a minimum of expense to the litigants. To this end, counsel may object to particular narration that it does not accurately reflect the true sense of testimony received; or to particular question and answer portions that the testimony might with no substantial loss in accuracy be summarized in narrative form at substantially less expense. When a judge or referee is required to settle the record on appeal under Rule 11(c) and there is dispute as to the form, he shall settle the form in the course of his general settlement of the record on appeal.

(2) Designation that verbatim transcript of proceedings in trial tribunal will be used. Appellant may designate in the record that the testimonial evidence will be presented in the verbatim transcript of the evidence in the trial tribunal in lieu of narrating the evidence as permitted by Rule 9(c)(1). Appellant may also designate that the verbatim transcript will be used to present voir dire or other trial proceedings where those proceedings are the basis for one or more assignments of error and where a verbatim transcript of those proceedings has been made. Any such designation shall refer to the page numbers of the transcript being designated. Appellant need not designate all of the verbatim transcript which has been made, provided that when the verbatim transcript is designated to show the testimonial evidence, so much of the testimonial evidence must be designated as is necessary for an understanding of all errors assigned. When appellant has narrated the evidence and trial proceedings under Rule 9(c)(1), the appellee may designate the verbatim transcript as a proposed alternative record on appeal.

(3) Verbatim transcript of proceedings — Settlement, filing, copies, briefs. Whenever a verbatim transcript is designated to be used pursuant to Rule 9(c)(2):

a. it shall be settled, together with the record on appeal, according to the procedures established by Rule 11;

b. appellant shall cause the settled, verbatim transcript to be filed, contemporaneously with the record on appeal, with the clerk of the appellate court in which the appeal is docketed;

c. in criminal appeals, the district attorney, upon settlement of the record, shall forward one copy of the settled transcript to the Attorney General of North Carolina; and

d. the briefs of the parties must comport with the requirements of Rule 28 regarding complete statement of the facts of the case and regarding appendixes to the briefs.

(4) Presentation of discovery materials. Discovery materials offered into evidence at trial shall be brought forward, if relevant, as other evidence. In all instances where discovery materials are considered by the trial tribunal, other than as evidence offered at trial, the following procedures for presenting those materials to the appellate court shall be used: Depositions shall be treated as testimonial evidence and shall be presented by narration or by transcript of the deposition in the manner prescribed by this Rule 9(c). Other discovery materials, including interrogatories and answers, requests for admission, responses to requests, motions to produce, and the like, pertinent to questions raised on appeal, may be set out in the record on appeal or may be sent up as documentary exhibits in accordance with Rule 9(d)(2).

(5) Electronic Recordings. When a narrative or transcript has been prepared from an electronic recording, the parties shall not file a copy of the electronic recording with the appellate division except at the direction or with the approval of the appellate court.

(d) Models, diagrams, and exhibits of material.

(1) Exhibits. Maps, plats, diagrams and other documentary exhibits filed as portions of or attachments to items required to be included in the record on appeal shall be included as part of such items in the record on appeal. Where such exhibits are not necessary to an understanding of the errors assigned, they may by agreement of counsel or by order of the trial court upon motion be excluded from the record on appeal.

(2) Transmitting exhibits. Three legible copies of each documentary exhibit offered in evidence and required for understanding of errors assigned shall be filed in the appellate court; the original documentary exhibit need not be filed with the appellate court. When an original non-documentary exhibit has been settled as a necessary part of the record on appeal, any party may within 10 days after settlement of the record on appeal in writing request the clerk of superior court to transmit the exhibit directly to the clerk of the appellate court. The clerk shall thereupon promptly identify and transmit the exhibit as directed by the party. Upon receipt of the exhibit, the clerk of the appellate court shall make prompt written acknowledgment thereof to the transmitting clerk and the exhibit shall be included as part of the records in the appellate court. Portions of the record on appeal in either appellate court which are not suitable for reproduction may be designated by the Clerk of the Supreme Court to be exhibits. Counsel may then be required to submit three additional copies of those designated materials.

(3) Removal of exhibits from appellate court. All models, diagrams, and exhibits of material placed in the custody of the Clerk of the appellate court must be taken away by the parties within 90 days after the mandate of the Court has issued or the case has otherwise been closed by withdrawal, dismissal, or other order of the Court, unless notified otherwise by the Clerk. When this is not done, the Clerk shall notify counsel to remove the articles forthwith; and if they are not removed within a reasonable time after such notice, the Clerk shall destroy them, or make such other disposition of them as to him may seem best. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended June 10, 1981 — 9(c)(1) — applicable to all appeals docketed on or after October 1, 1981; Amended January 12, 1982 — 9(c)(1) — applicable to all appeals docketed after March 15, 1982; Amended November 27, 1984 — applicable to all appeals in which the notice of appeal is filed on or after February 1, 1985; Amended December 8, 1988 — 9(a), (c) — effective for all judgments of the trial tribunal entered on or after July 1, 1989; Amended June 8, 1989 — 9(a) — effective for all judgments of the trial tribunal entered on or after July 1, 1989; Amended July 26, 1990 — 9(a)(3)h and 9(d)(2) — effective October 1, 1990; Amended March 6, 1997 — 9(b)(5) — effective upon adoption March 6, 1997; Amended November 21, 1997 — 9(a)(1)(j)((1), 9(a)(3)(i)-(k), 9(c)(5) — effective February 1, 1998; Amended October 18, 2001 — 9(d)(2) — effective October 31, 2001.)

I. IN GENERAL.

The Rules of Appellate Procedure are mandatory and failure to follow the rules subjects an appeal to dismissal. Wiseman v. Wiseman, 68 N.C. App. 252, 314 S.E.2d 566 (1984).

Where defendant's violations of N.C.R.A.P., Rules 9(b)(1) and (c)(1) and 28(b)(5) precluded the possibility of effective appellate review of the questions presented, its appeal would be dismissed. Fortis Corp. v. Northeast Forest Prods., 68 N.C. App. 752, 315 S.E.2d 537 (1984).

Compliance Universally Mandatory. — Since appellate rules apply to everyone, the court would dismiss the appeal of pro se defendant who failed to comply with N.C.R.A.P., Rules 9(a)(1)(c), 9(a)(1)(k), 9(b)(3), 10(c)(1), 12(a), and 28(b)(5). Bledsoe v. County of Wilkes, 135 N.C. App. 124, 519 S.E.2d 316 (1999).

But the Court May Suspend Requirements Pursuant to N.C.R.A.P., Rule 2. — The court elected to suspend the requirement for the clerk's date stamp, pursuant to its discretionary authority accorded by N.C. R. App. P. Rule 2, where neither party objected to the absence of the stamp. State v. Jarman, 140 N.C. App. 198, 535 S.E.2d 875, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 1103 (2000).

Substantial Compliance. — Trial court's denial of appellee's motion to dismiss an appeal 36 days after the notice of appeal was filed, under N.C. R. App. P. 11, for a failure to settle the record in accordance with N.C. R. App. P. 9 within 35 days of the notice, was proper because the appellant substantially complied with the requirements of N.C. R. App. P. 7 regarding filing a transcript of the trial court proceedings. Spencer v. Spencer, 156 N.C. App. 1, 575 S.E.2d 780, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 30 (2003).

An appellate court cannot assume or speculate that there was prejudicial error, when none appears on the record before it. State v. Moore, 75 N.C. App. 543, 331 S.E.2d 251, cert. denied, 315 N.C. 188, 337 S.E.2d 862 (1985).

The defendant appellant has the duty to see that the record on appeal is properly made up. State v. McCain, 39 N.C. App. 213, 249 S.E.2d 812 (1978); Tucker v. General Tel. Co., 50 N.C. App. 112, 272 S.E.2d 911 (1980); West v. G.D. Reddick, Inc., 48 N.C. App. 135, 268 S.E.2d 235 (1980), rev'd on other grounds, 302 N.C. 201, 274 S.E.2d 221 (1981); State v. Milby, 302 N.C. 137, 273 S.E.2d 716 (1981).

It is the appellant's duty and responsibility to see that the record is in proper form and complete. State v. Alston, 307 N.C. 321, 298 S.E.2d 631 (1983).

The defendants' numerous, flagrant violations of the Rules of Appellate Procedure warranted dismissal of the appeal, where the defendants did not provide a listing of assignments of error, they included as appendices to their brief certain documents that were excluded by an earlier order, they failed to include other required material, and they used incorrect point type and spacing. Duke Univ. v. Bishop, 131 N.C. App. 545, 507 S.E.2d 904 (1998).

This rule contemplates that all charging documents must be copied and presented verbatim in the record on appeal. Mere references to such documents in the trial transcript could not suffice for verbatim copies of the documents themselves, nor could such references substitute for such copies when the copies were missing from the record. State v. Petersilie, 334 N.C. 169, 432 S.E.2d 832 (1993).

The appellant's failure to settle the record on appeal was sufficient reason to dismiss the appeal. Seigel v. Patel, 132 N.C. App. 783, 513 S.E.2d 602 (1999).

Failure to Settle Record. — Appeal would be dismissed where appellants failed to settle the record on appeal prior to filing with the Court of Appeals. Higgins v. Town of China Grove, 102 N.C. App. 570, 402 S.E.2d 885 (1991).

Where the defendant failed to cooperate with the trial court to provide the appellate court with a reconstructed record of the state's closing argument, which the trial court had failed to record, the appellate court was precluded from reviewing the defendant's argument that the state made improper remarks and referred to matters outside the trial record. State v. Moore, 75 N.C. App. 543, 331 S.E.2d 251, cert. denied, 315 N.C. 188, 337 S.E.2d 862 (1985).

Where appellant failed to include portions of the record dealing with whether a suit against an employee of the Board of Education should have been allowed to proceed despite the Board's governmental and official immunity defenses, the appellate court would not engage in speculation as to the employee's status, and affirmed the trial court's directed verdict for employee. Pharr v. Worley, 125 N.C. App. 136, 479 S.E.2d 32 (1996).

Defendant's objection to trial court's finding of factors in aggravation was dismissed for failure to include Form AOC-CR-303, Felony Judgment Findings of Factors in Aggravation and Mitigation of Punishment, in the record on appeal. State v. Weary, 124 N.C. App. 754, 479 S.E.2d 28 (1996).

Matters discussed in the brief outside the record ordinarily will not be considered since the record certified to the court imports verity and the court is bound by it. State v. Hedrick, 289 N.C. 232, 221 S.E.2d 350 (1976).

Appellant's brief is not a part of the record on appeal. West v. G.D. Reddick, Inc., 48 N.C. App. 135, 268 S.E.2d 235 (1980), rev'd on other grounds, 302 N.C. 201, 274 S.E.2d 221 (1981).

Objection When Ruling Made. — Errors based on rulings made during the trial must ordinarily be called to the attention of the court by an objection taken when the ruling is made. State v. Hedrick, 289 N.C. 232, 221 S.E.2d 350 (1976).

Jurisdiction of the Supreme Court on appeal is limited to questions of law or legal inference, which, ordinarily, must be presented by objections duly entered and exceptions duly taken to the rulings of the lower court. State v. Hedrick, 289 N.C. 232, 221 S.E.2d 350 (1976).

Waiver of Objections. — Where plaintiffs failed to object at trial to the failure of defendant to state specific grounds for its motion for a directed verdict, plaintiffs could not raise such objection on appeal. Waters v. North Carolina Phosphate Corp., 50 N.C. App. 252, 273 S.E.2d 517, cert. denied, 302 N.C. 402, 279 S.E.2d 357 (1981).

A judgment is a necessary part of the record on appeal of a criminal action. State v. Gilliam, 33 N.C. App. 490, 235 S.E.2d 421 (1977).

The Appellate Court will dismiss an appeal if the judgment or order does not appear in the record on appeal. Abels v. Renfro Corp., 126 N.C. App. 800, 486 S.E.2d 735 (1997).

Where the charge to the jury is not included in the record on appeal, it is presumed that the jury was properly instructed as to the law arising upon the evidence as required by G.S. 1-180 (now repealed). State v. Hedrick, 289 N.C. 232, 221 S.E.2d 350 (1976).

A reviewing court will not consider alleged errors in selected portions of a charge when the entire charge is not before it. State v. Harrell, 50 N.C. App. 531, 274 S.E.2d 353 (1981); State v. Taylor, 61 N.C. App. 589, 300 S.E.2d 890 (1983).

Where the appellant's narrative summary of the evidence was insufficient to permit the appellate court to determine whether competent evidence supported certain findings of fact, the court would presume that it did. In re Botsford, 75 N.C. App. 72, 330 S.E.2d 23 (1985).

Where Record on Appeal Does Not Include Transcript. — Under N.C. R. App. P. 7 and N.C. R. App. P. 9(a)(1)(e), without the transcript, the appellate court was unable to review a mother's argument that the trial court erred in making findings of fact that were unsupported by the evidence. Hicks v. Alford, 156 N.C. App. 384, 576 S.E.2d 410, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 129 (2003).

Where the record did not include a transcript containing the defendants' objection and where the defendants failed to make a timely motion to ensure that witness testimony supporting their theory of the case be made available to the jury, the defendants failed to carry their burden of demonstrating that prejudice resulted from the jury's erroneous receipt, in spite of defendants' objections, during deliberations of an unredacted copy of the police report. Nunnery v. Baucom, 135 N.C. App. 556, 521 S.E.2d 479, 1999 N.C. App. LEXIS 1176 (1999).

Where record on appeal did not indicate that the trial court considered plaintiff's motions, as required by this rule, the court could not review plaintiff's assignment of error pursuant to N.C.R.A.P. Rule 10(b)(1). Buckingham v. Buckingham, 134 N.C. App. 82, 516 S.E.2d 869, 1999 N.C. App. LEXIS 657 (1999), cert. denied, 351 N.C. 100, 540 S.E.2d 353 (1999).

Where the record on appeal contains two conflicting narratives of the evidence, the appeal should be dismissed for failure to bring forward a "settled" record as required under this rule and N.C.R.A.P., Rule 11; however, where defendant did not assert that the trial court's findings quoted were unsupported by sufficient evidence at the custody hearing below, but instead asserted the trial court's conclusions were erroneous or were not supported by the findings actually made, under these limited circumstances, a narrative of evidence or a verbatim transcript was not necessary to understand defendant's assignment of error; therefore, the appellate court addressed the merits of his assignments of error. Napowsa v. Langston, 95 N.C. App. 14, 381 S.E.2d 882, cert. denied, 325 N.C. 709, 388 S.E.2d 460 (1989).

Subsection (c) provides an alternative to narrating evidence into the record; that is, the filing of a complete stenographic transcript with the clerk of the court in which the appeal is docketed. Whichever method is chosen (N.C.R.A.P., Rule 9 or Rule 28), the result must be the same: to-wit, to provide the reviewing court with all the information necessary to understand each question presented. State v. Edmonds, 308 N.C. 362, 302 S.E.2d 223 (1983).

Narration of the evidence as specified in subsection (c) is mandatory. — Britt v. Allen, 291 N.C. 630, 231 S.E.2d 607 (1977), decided prior to the 1981 amendment which added the third paragraph of subsection (c)(1).

N.C.R.A.P., Rule 28(b)(4) serves the same function as subdivision 9(c)(1) of this rule serves with respect to records filed wherein the evidence is narrated; it assures that the court will have before it the evidence necessary to answer the questions presented, and that such evidence is in a condensed and readily available form. State v. Briley, 59 N.C. App. 335, 296 S.E.2d 501 (1982).

N.C.R.A.P., Rule 28(b)(4) Must Be Followed When Stenographic Transcript Used. — It is imperative that defendants using the stenographic transcript alternative allowed by subdivision (c)(1) of this rule carefully follow the requirements of N.C.R.A.P., Rule 28(b)(4) in order that appellate courts not be left the time-consuming and burdensome task of searching through the transcript for the pertinent pages. The omission of the pertinent transcript pages requires that the transcript be circulated among all the judges on the panel, requiring each of them to go through this time-consuming and burdensome task and is grounds for dismissal of the appeal. State v. Wilson, 58 N.C. App. 818, 294 S.E.2d 780, 1982 N.C. App. LEXIS 2840 (1982), cert. denied, 342 S.E.2d 907 (1986).

Appendix as Part of Record. — In an action regarding the termination of state employment, an appendix to the employee's brief was stricken because it violated N.C. R. App. P. 9 and 28, as it was not part of the record, nor agreed on by the parties to be part of the record, nor submitted pursuant to a motion to amend the record. Woodburn v. N.C. State Univ., 156 N.C. App. 549, 577 S.E.2d 154, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 305 (2003).

When Appendix Required. — An appendix is not contemplated for each question that requires a verbatim reproduction of a part of the transcript in order to understand that question. Instead, subdivision (b)(4) of N.C.R.A.P., Rule 28 is designed to ensure that verbatim reproductions appear either in the brief itself or in an appendix to the brief. The appendix method should be employed when the question presented requires long verbatim reproductions of the transcript. Placing such reproductions in an appendix serves the dual purpose of providing the reviewing court with all the information necessary in order to make an informed determination while preserving the clarity and directness of the argument. State v. Edmonds, 308 N.C. 362, 302 S.E.2d 223 (1983).

N.C.R.A.P., Rule 28 only requires the inclusion of the portions of the transcript necessary to understand, not decide, the question. Any other interpretation would require many appellants, especially those who question the sufficiency of the evidence, to include a verbatim copy of the entire transcript in the appendix to the brief. This interpretation should not encourage appellants to use less than due diligence in following the rules. Indeed, it is usually the safer and wiser course to do more than meet the minimum requirements. State v. Nickerson, 308 N.C. 376, 302 S.E.2d 221 (1983).

Although a complete stenographic transcript contains all the evidence in a case, it is too time consuming and too burdensome a task to expect each member of the reviewing court to search through pages of the transcript in order to find those passages necessary to the understanding of each question presented. Therefore, it is imperative that whenever a stenographic transcript is used in lieu of narrating the evidence into the record, all relevant portions of the transcript must be reproduced in either the brief or its appendix. State v. Edmonds, 308 N.C. 362, 302 S.E.2d 223 (1983).

Items Arranged Chronologically. — Each item in the record on appeal should be arranged chronologically, in the same order in which it occurred at trial. State v. Easter, 51 N.C. App. 190, 275 S.E.2d 861, cert. denied and appeal dismissed, 303 N.C. 183, 280 S.E.2d 455 (1981).

Subdivision (a)(3)(ix) was broadly worded so as to include any proceeding in any court which would be material to the consideration of the case on appeal. If there is a question as to the relevancy of the proceedings from other courts, the parties may settle the dispute according to the procedures provided in N.C.R.A.P., Rule 11. The trial judge properly ordered the inclusion of the voir dire of a previous trial into the record. State v. Cumber, 32 N.C. App. 329, 232 S.E.2d 291, cert. denied, 292 N.C. 642, 235 S.E.2d 63 (1977).

Counsel's failure to timely file the record on appeal in a criminal prosecution amounted to inadequate assistance of counsel, and the loss of one's only direct appeal because of counsel's neglect constitutes a serious deprivation. Galloway v. Stephenson, 510 F. Supp. 840 (M.D.N.C. 1981).

Counsel Taxed with Costs for Filing Redundant Records. — Because counsel representing one codefendant and counsel representing the other defendants filed two records instead of one and because they included unnecessary material in each of the records filed, each counsel will be personally taxed with a portion of the costs. State v. Bryson, 30 N.C. App. 71, 226 S.E.2d 392, cert. denied, 290 N.C. 664, 228 S.E.2d 455 (1976).

By appealing the three cases consolidated below separately, counsel has prepared and caused to be printed two redundant records on appeal; these records on appeal constitute matter not necessary for an understanding of the errors assigned. There has been no showing of compelling circumstances to justify the filing of three records on appeal instead of one. Consequently, counsel will be personally taxed with costs. State v. McKenzie, 30 N.C. App. 64, 226 S.E.2d 385, cert. denied, 291 N.C. 177, 229 S.E.2d 691 (1976).

Because of the filing of an unnecessary record on appeal and because unnecessary matter was included in the records filed, counsel for defendants will be personally taxed with a portion of the costs. State v. Ashe, 30 N.C. App. 74, 226 S.E.2d 398, cert. denied, 290 N.C. 664, 228 S.E.2d 455 (1976).

Record in Improper Form. — Where appellants' record was not in proper form for appeal, appellants' counsel was personally taxed with the costs of printing the memoranda of law filed in the trial court and unnecessarily included in the record on appeal. Smallwood v. Eason, 123 N.C. App. 661, 474 S.E.2d 411 (1996), rev'd on other grounds, 346 N.C. 171, 484 S.E.2d 526 (1997).

It is improper procedure for counsel to file three separate records on appeal from a trial at which the three cases were consolidated. Aside from the question of the unnecessary expenses, the filing of three separate records on appeal creates the undue burden on the appellate courts of having to read three when one would have sufficed. State v. McKenzie, 30 N.C. App. 64, 226 S.E.2d 385, cert. denied, 291 N.C. 177, 229 S.E.2d 691 (1976).

Minutes Are Not Substitute for Copy of Judgment. — The "minutes" of the trial court in a criminal action included in the record on appeal are not a substitute for a copy of the judgment. State v. Gilliam, 33 N.C. App. 490, 235 S.E.2d 421 (1977).

When the court has ordered consolidation of cases or charges for trial, counsel cannot, of his own enterprise, sever the cases or charges and appeal each separately in the absence of a showing of compelling circumstances. State v. McKenzie, 30 N.C. App. 64, 226 S.E.2d 385, cert. denied, 291 N.C. 177, 229 S.E.2d 691 (1976).

Omission of Jury Instructions. — Errors assigned to jury instructions not considered on appeal where defendant failed to include a transcript of the entire jury charge in the record. State v. Deese, 127 N.C. App. 536, 491 S.E.2d 682 (1997).

Omission of Exhibits. — Where Board of Education failed to include certain exhibits presented to the trial court in the record on appeal, the court could not consider those portions of the exhibits not included in the record. Ronald G. Hinson Elec., Inc. v. Union County Bd. of Educ., 125 N.C. App. 373, 481 S.E.2d 326 (1997).

Omission of Necessary Part of Record. — When a necessary part of the record on appeal of a criminal action has been omitted, the appeal will be dismissed. State v. Gilliam, 33 N.C. App. 490, 235 S.E.2d 421 (1977).

Where record was, at best, a haphazard arrangement of pleadings, orders and parts of prior records on appeal, spanning an almost ten-year period of litigation, the appeal would be dismissed for violation of subdivision (b)(1) of this rule. Lowder v. All Star Mills, Inc., 91 N.C. App. 621, 372 S.E.2d 739 (1988), cert. denied, 324 N.C. 113, 377 S.E.2d 234 (1989).

Weapon Added to Record on Appeal. — Where the court admitted the weapon (a box cutter) itself into evidence, while a verbal description supplemental to introduction of the weapon would have been preferable, its omission was not fatal; pursuant to subsection (b)(5) of this rule, the appellate court would order the box cutter sent up and added to the record on appeal. State v. Wiggins, 78 N.C. App. 405, 337 S.E.2d 198 (1985).

Trial Court's Ruling Presumed Correct. — Where the defendant failed to include in the appeal record a copy of an investigative report that he contended was work product, and the record showed that the trial court reviewed the report, weighed its contents, and considered the appropriate evidentiary rule, the appellate court was required to presume that the trial court properly ordered the defendant to produce the report. State v. Reaves, 132 N.C. App. 615, 513 S.E.2d 562 (1999).

Court of appeals rejected the contention by petitioner nurse aide that the respondent North Carolina Department of Health and Human Services, Division of Facility Services, erred in making a certain finding that was allegedly not made by the administrative law judge in the case and that the superior court, therefore, erred in affirming that finding, because the nurse aide violated N.C. R. App. P. 9(a)(2) by failing to include the administrative law judges's recommended decision in the record on appeal; since the record showed that the superior court reviewed the official record and weighed its contents in affirming the department's determination, the court of appeals would not assume error where none appeared in the record. Allen v. N.C. Dep't of Health & Human Servs., 155 N.C. App. 77, 573 S.E.2d 565, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1634 (2002).

Record Silent as to Jurisdiction of Lower Court. — When the record is silent and the appellate court is unable to determine whether the court below had jurisdiction, the appeal should be dismissed. State v. Felmet, 302 N.C. 173, 273 S.E.2d 708 (1981).

When the record shows a lack of jurisdiction in the lower court, the appropriate action on the part of the appellate court is to arrest judgment or vacate any order entered without authority. State v. Felmet, 302 N.C. 173, 273 S.E.2d 708 (1981).

Court's violation of G.S. 7A-198 did not relieve appellant of her burden of complying with paragraph (a)(1)(v) of this rule and showing prejudicial error. Miller v. Miller, 92 N.C. App. 351, 374 S.E.2d 467 (1988).

Motion to Amend Record. — After the case has been docketed in the appellate court, the proper method to request amendment of the record, when the inclusion of a document has not been addressed by a trial court order settling the record on appeal, is to make a motion in the appellate court to amend the record under subdivision (b)(5). Horton v. New South Ins. Co., 122 N.C. App. 265, 468 S.E.2d 856, 1996 N.C. App. LEXIS 240 (1996), cert. denied, 472 S.E.2d 8 (1996).

A motion to correct or amend a judgment in order to make it speak the truth is properly made to the appellate court rather than the trial court once the record on appeal has been filed with the appellate court. State v. Dixon, 139 N.C. App. 332, 533 S.E.2d 297, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 892 (2000).

Motion to Amend Record Should Be Supported with Explanation. — Defendant ex-wife's bare assertion that portions of certain depositions should be added to the record as "necessary to an understanding of the errors assigned" was insufficient to support her motion to amend, because she provided no explanation as to why they were necessary or why they were not included in the record, given that they were included in the first Record on Appeal. Robinson, Bradshaw & Hinson, P.A. v. Smith, 139 N.C. App. 1, 532 S.E.2d 815, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 812 (2000).

Motion to Amend Denied. — Motion for leave to amend the record on appeal to include material relating to a superseding indictment was denied where the records in question originated after the trial court's order to compel was entered and after notice of appeal was given. Staton v. Brame, 136 N.C. App. 170, 523 S.E.2d 424, 1999 N.C. App. LEXIS 1303 (1999).

Improper Documents in Appendix. — It is improper for a party to attach a document not in the record and not permitted under Rule 28 of the Rules of Appellate Procedure in an appendix to its brief. Horton v. New South Ins. Co., 122 N.C. App. 265, 468 S.E.2d 856, 1996 N.C. App. LEXIS 240 (1996), cert. denied, 472 S.E.2d 8 (1996).

Noncompliance Resulting in Sanctions Against Plaintiff's Attorneys. — Given plaintiff's attorneys' willful disobedience of the trial court's explicit order and their substantial noncompliance with Rules 9, 28, and 37, the court imposed sanctions against plaintiff's attorneys in the form of costs associated with the appeal. Coiner v. Cales, 135 N.C. App. 343, 520 S.E.2d 61 (1999).

Record on Appeal Held Incomplete. — Where appellant father failed to produce a transcript of trial testimony as a part of the record on appeal, the appellate court presumed that the findings of the trial court were supported by competent evidence; the trial court's determination of the father's child support obligation was affirmed where the trial court followed the Child Support Guidelines in computing the father's income and his obligation, and there was no indication that the father imputed income to him. Guilford County ex rel. Armwood v. Council, — N.C. App. —, — S.E.2d —, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 2092 (May 21, 2002).

Record on an appeal from a judgment in favor of a city in a declaratory judgment action filed by two landowners, who sought a declaration that the city did not have authority to condemn their property, was incomplete because the landowners did not provide a transcript from which the reviewing court could consider their contention that the trial court improperly denied one of them the chance to orally rebut affidavits presented by the city. Tucker v. City of Kannapolis, — N.C. App. —, 582 S.E.2d 697, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1442 (2003).

II. DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW.

A. In General.

Editor's note. — The cases cited below were decided under former Rules 19 and 20, Rules of Practice in the Supreme Court of North Carolina, and under former Rule 19, Rules of Practice in the Court of Appeals of North Carolina.

The purpose of this rule which requires that each assignment of error itself disclose with particularity the specific matters alleged as error without requiring "a voyage of discovery" through an often voluminous record, is twofold: (1) To enable the members of the Supreme Court, in their preargument examination of the record, to ascertain the questions involved in the appeal and thus to obtain maximum benefits from the arguments; (2) to reduce the possibility that an error in the trial below will escape detection. State v. Douglas, 268 N.C. 267, 150 S.E.2d 412 (1966).

The primary purpose of this rule is to save the time of the Supreme Court in reviewing the evidence and to reduce printing costs. Keller v. Security Mills of Greensboro, Inc., 260 N.C. 571, 133 S.E.2d 222 (1963).

Rules Mandatory. — This rule and the rule relating to assignments of error and exceptions, are mandatory. Pamlico County v. Davis, 249 N.C. 648, 107 S.E.2d 306 (1959); Darden v. Bone, 254 N.C. 599, 119 S.E.2d 634 (1961); Kleinfeldt v. Shoney's of Charlotte, Inc., 257 N.C. 791, 127 S.E.2d 573 (1962); Jim Walter Corp. v. Gilliam, 260 N.C. 211, 132 S.E.2d 313 (1963).

This rule is mandatory, and failure to comply limits the appeal to errors presented by the record proper, and in the absence of such error, the appeal will be dismissed. Laughinghouse v. Farm Bureau Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 239 N.C. 678, 80 S.E.2d 457 (1954); State v. McNeill, 239 N.C. 679, 80 S.E.2d 680 (1954); Whiteside v. Ralston Purina Co., 242 N.C. 591, 89 S.E.2d 159 (1955); State v. Griffin, 246 N.C. 680, 100 S.E.2d 49 (1957); State v. Womack, 251 N.C. 342, 111 S.E.2d 332 (1959); Standard Amusement Co. v. Tarkington, 251 N.C. 461, 111 S.E.2d 538 (1959).

And this rule may not be waived by the parties. Huie v. Templeton, 246 N.C. 86, 97 S.E.2d 455 (1957); State v. Griffin, 246 N.C. 680, 100 S.E.2d 49 (1957).

The appellate court is bound by the contents of the record on appeal. State v. Hickman, 2 N.C. App. 627, 163 S.E.2d 632 (1968).

The record on appeal imports verity. State v. Hickman, 2 N.C. App. 627, 163 S.E.2d 632 (1968).

The omission of the essential parts of a transcript, as required by this rule, is fatal to the appeal. Allen v. Allen, 235 N.C. 554, 70 S.E.2d 505 (1952).

Impertinent Matter Stricken. — Where "impertinent" matter is introduced into the pleadings, it is, according to the course of the Supreme Court, to be stricken out at the expense of the party introducing it. Powell v. Cobb, 56 N.C. 1 (1856).

No matter is impertinent, however scandalous it may be, or however much it may tend to degrade, provided it bears upon the point about which the parties are at issue. Powell v. Cobb, 56 N.C. 1 (1856).

Exceptions not filed in the record are deemed abandoned. Cline v. Cline, 6 N.C. App. 523, 170 S.E.2d 645 (1969).

Record Too Incomplete to Present Constitutional Question. — The Supreme Court will not anticipate questions of constitutional law in advance of the necessity of deciding them, nor will it give advisory opinions on such questions, and where the record in a case on appeal is so incomplete that it may not be determined that the constitutionality of a statute is squarely presented, the questions will not be decided. J.O. Plott Co. v. H.K. Ferguson Constr. Co., 198 N.C. 782, 153 S.E. 396 (1930).

When Party May Amend Pleadings. — The Supreme Court on appeal may allow a party to amend so as to make his pleadings conform to the stipulations of the parties and the theory upon which the case was tried in the lower court, but the Supreme Court will not allow an amendment which would not make the record conform to the facts developed on the trial but would present matter relating to a theory different from that upon which the trial court proceeded. Kayler v. Gallimore, 269 N.C. 405, 152 S.E.2d 518 (1967).

The Supreme Court may in its discretion allow plaintiff to amend his complaint so that the pleadings conform to the proof where it appears that the defendant was not taken by surprise by such proof and that he failed to object to the admission thereof. Anderson v. Carter, 272 N.C. 426, 158 S.E.2d 607 (1968).

Motion to Reinstate Appeal. — A motion to reinstate a case on appeal that has been dismissed on appellee's motion, for nonconformity with the rules of the court requiring the record to be indexed, and to show the appellant's exceptions under proper assignments of error in accordance with the manner specified, will be denied, when the granting of the motion would not cure the defects. Redding v. Dunn, 185 N.C. 311, 117 S.E. 26 (1923).

Jurisdiction of Trial Court Should Appear. — In order to sustain an appeal to the Supreme Court it is essential that the jurisdiction of the trial court should be made to appear. State v. Patterson, 222 N.C. 179, 22 S.E.2d 267 (1942).

Where the record fails to disclose jurisdiction in the court below, the Supreme Court acquires no jurisdiction by appeal, and the appeal must be dismissed. State v. Banks, 241 N.C. 572, 86 S.E.2d 76 (1955).

Submission of Controversy Without Action. — Upon appeal from judgment entered in a submission of controversy without action, the agreed facts with the required affidavits are necessary parts of the record proper. Consolidated Realty Corp. v. Koon, 215 N.C. 459, 2 S.E.2d 360 (1939).

Where two separate actions which cannot be joined in the same action are tried together for convenience but not consolidated by the trial court into one action, separate appeals should be taken and separate records filed by the respective applicants, and this rule is not applicable. Osborne v. Canton, 219 N.C. 139, 13 S.E.2d 265 (1941).

Supreme Court May Decide Merits Where Rules Not Followed. — The Supreme Court, in the exercise of its supervisory jurisdiction, may decide questions on the merits even though the procedure prescribed by the rules of practice as necessary to present such questions has not been followed. Eastern Steel Prods. Corp. v. Chestnutt, 252 N.C. 269, 113 S.E.2d 587 (1960).

Although case on appeal was not prepared in accordance with this rule the appeal was allowed, as a dismissal would have been a denial of justice. Messick v. City of Hickory, 211 N.C. 531, 191 S.E. 43 (1937).

Appeal in Forma Pauperis. — That the action is in forma pauperis, does not excuse the appellant in sending up the transcribed stenographer's notes in a voluminous record. Skipper v. Kingsdale Lumber Co., 158 N.C. 322, 74 S.E. 342 (1912).

B. Assignment of Error.

Assignment of Error Necessary. — Appellee's motion to dismiss the appeal will be allowed when the record contains no assignment of error. Hobbs v. Hobbs, 218 N.C. 468, 11 S.E.2d 311 (1940).

Where the record contains no assignments of error, this is ground for dismissal for failure to comply with this rule. Eastern Steel Prods. Corp. v. Chestnutt, 252 N.C. 269, 113 S.E.2d 587 (1960); Williams v. Denning, 260 N.C. 540, 133 S.E.2d 148 (1963).

This rule and Rule 10 require that asserted error must be based on an appropriate exception, and must be properly assigned. Lewis v. Parker, 268 N.C. 436, 150 S.E.2d 729 (1966).

Exceptions Not Set Out Deemed Abandoned. — This rule provides that all exceptions not set out are deemed abandoned. State v. Biggerstaff, 226 N.C. 603, 39 S.E.2d 619 (1946).

Exceptions not brought forward as separate assignments of error and not discussed in the brief are deemed abandoned. Keith v. Wilder, 241 N.C. 672, 86 S.E.2d 444 (1955).

Effect of Absence of Assignments of Error. — Where the record and brief contain no assignments of error as required by this rule, only the face of the record proper is presented for review. Bumgarner & Bowman Bldg., Inc. v. Hollar, 7 N.C. App. 14, 171 S.E.2d 60 (1969).

A sole assignment of error to the signing of a judgment presents the face of the record proper for review, but review is limited to the question of whether error of law appears on the face of the record, which includes whether the facts found or admitted support the judgment, and whether the judgment is regular in form. In re Morrison, 6 N.C. App. 47, 169 S.E.2d 228 (1969).

Assignment of error must be based upon an exception duly taken, in apt time, during the trial and preserved as required by this rule and Rule 10. State v. Strickland, 254 N.C. 658, 119 S.E.2d 781 (1961).

This rule and Rule 10 require that asserted error must be based on an appropriate exception, and must be properly assigned. These rules of practice in the Supreme Court are mandatory and will be enforced. State v. Benton, 276 N.C. 641, 174 S.E.2d 793 (1970).

An assignment of error is worthless unless it is based upon an exception duly taken in apt time during the trial and preserved as required by this rule and Rule 10. Knutton v. Cofield, 273 N.C. 355, 160 S.E.2d 29 (1968).

Or Judgment Below Will Be Sustained. — Where the case on appeal contains no assignments of error as required by this rule, unless error appears on the face of the record proper, or the issues are insufficient to support the judgment entered, the judgment will be sustained. Anson Bank & Trust Co. v. Henry, 267 N.C. 253, 148 S.E.2d 7 (1966).

In the absence of assignments of error in the record or brief, the judgment below will be sustained in the absence of error appearing on the face of the record proper. State v. Williams, 268 N.C. 295, 150 S.E.2d 447 (1966).

Assignments of error to the charge should quote the portion of the charge to which appellant objects, and assignments based on failure to charge should set out appellant's contention as to what the court should have charged. State v. Kirby, 276 N.C. 123, 171 S.E.2d 416 (1970).

An assignment of error relating to restrictions placed on cross-examination does not comply with this rule and Rule 10 if it does not contain any question put to any witness on cross-examination. State v. Kirby, 276 N.C. 123, 171 S.E.2d 416 (1970).

The questions arising on an appeal are those defined by appropriate exceptions taken by the appellant in the superior court. Sprinkle v. City of Reidsville, 235 N.C. 140, 69 S.E.2d 179 (1952).

Not Sufficient to Show Exceptions in Record. — This rule is not complied with by showing in the record the various exceptions numbered, but on different pages, when there is no assignment of errors at the end of the case, either before or after the judge's signature; and the appeal will be dismissed. Jones v. Atlantic Coast Line R.R., 153 N.C. 419, 69 S.E. 427 (1910). See State v. Biggerstaff, 226 N.C. 603, 39 S.E.2d 619 (1946).

This rule and Rule 10 require an assignment of error to show specifically what question is intended to be presented for consideration without the necessity of going beyond the assignment of error itself. A mere reference in the assignment of error to the record page where the asserted error may be discovered is not sufficient. Lewis v. Parker, 268 N.C. 436, 150 S.E.2d 729 (1966); In re Will of Adams, 268 N.C. 565, 151 S.E.2d 59 (1966); State v. Benton, 276 N.C. 641, 174 S.E.2d 793 (1970).

Assignments Not Supported by Exceptions Therein Noted Will Not Be Considered. — Assignments of error not supported by exceptions therein noted cannot be considered. The Supreme Court will not search through a record in an effort to determine whether or not it contains an exception or exceptions that will sustain the assignments. State v. Worley, 246 N.C. 202, 97 S.E.2d 837 (1957).

The Supreme Court will not consider assignments not based on specific exceptions and which do not comply with its rules. Darden v. Bone, 254 N.C. 599, 119 S.E.2d 634 (1961); Vance v. Hampton, 256 N.C. 557, 124 S.E.2d 527 (1962); Corns v. Nickelston, 257 N.C. 277, 125 S.E.2d 588 (1962).

Reason for Requiring Designation of Exceptions. — The reason which requires appellant in the case on appeal to assign or designate the exceptions on which he will rely is apparent. Appellee is entitled to know which of the exceptions taken appellant intends to rely on, so that there may be included in the record such parts as may be necessary to show that there was in fact no error. Conrad v. Conrad, 252 N.C. 412, 113 S.E.2d 912 (1960).

What the Supreme Court requires is that exceptions which are presented to the court for decision shall be stated clearly and intelligibly by the assignment of error, and not by referring to the record, and therewith there shall be set out so much of the evidence or other matter of circumstance as shall be necessary to present clearly the matter to be debated. In this way the scope of inquiry is narrowed to the identical points which the appellant thinks are material and essential, and the court is not sent scurrying through the entire record to find the matters complained of. Darden v. Bone, 254 N.C.

599, 119 S.E.2d 634 (1961); Pratt v. Bishop, 257 N.C. 486, 126 S.E.2d 597 (1962).

Where the exceptions appear in the record only under the assignments of error, they are ineffectual, since the rules require that assignments of error be based upon exceptions previously noted, and the rules are mandatory and will be enforced ex mero motu. Bulman v. Southern Baptist Convention, 248 N.C. 392, 103 S.E.2d 487 (1958).

Purported exceptions appearing nowhere except in the assignments of error will not be considered on appeal. Vance v. Hampton, 256 N.C. 557, 124 S.E.2d 527 (1962).

Assignments Must Point Out the Error Relied upon. — Purported assignments of error will not be considered by the court where they do not throw the slightest light on the questions the court is asked to pass upon. State v. Reel, 254 N.C. 778, 119 S.E.2d 876 (1961).

The error relied upon should be definitely and clearly presented, and the court should not be compelled to go beyond the assignment itself to learn what the question is. Allen v. Allen, 244 N.C. 446, 94 S.E.2d 325 (1956); State v. Mills, 244 N.C. 487, 94 S.E.2d 324 (1956); Tillis v. Calvine Cotton Mills, Inc., 244 N.C. 587, 94 S.E.2d 600 (1956); Armstrong v. Howard, 244 N.C. 598, 94 S.E.2d 594 (1956); Nichols v. McFarland, 249 N.C. 125, 105 S.E.2d 294 (1958); Phillips v. North Carolina R.R., 257 N.C. 239, 125 S.E.2d 603 (1962); Pratt v. Bishop, 257 N.C. 486, 126 S.E.2d 597 (1962); State v. Mohrmann, 265 N.C. 594, 144 S.E.2d 645 (1965); State v. Oliver, 268 N.C. 280, 150 S.E.2d 445 (1966).

This rule and Rule 10 require the assignment of error to show what question is intended to be presented for consideration without the necessity of paging through the record to find the asserted error. A mere reference in the assignment of error to the record page where the asserted error may be discovered is not sufficient. Hunt v. Davis, 248 N.C. 69, 102 S.E.2d 405 (1958); Douglas v. W.C. Mallison & Son, 265 N.C. 362, 144 S.E.2d 138 (1965).

This rule and Rule 10 require an assignment of error to state clearly and intelligently what question is intended to be presented without the necessity of the court going beyond the assignment of error itself "on a voyage of discovery" through the record to find the asserted error and the precise question involved. Kleinfeldt v. Shoney's of Charlotte, Inc., 257 N.C. 791, 127 S.E.2d 573 (1962).

Assignments of error do not comply with the requirements of this rule and are insufficient where they do not present the errors relied upon without the necessity of going beyond the assignments themselves to learn what the questions are, and the particular portions of the charge objected to are not specifically set out. Hill v. Logan, 262 N.C. 488, 137 S.E.2d 822 (1964).

Assignments of error, when properly prepared, pinpoint the controversy. State v. Douglas, 268 N.C. 267, 150 S.E.2d 412 (1966).

An assignment of error to the admission or exclusion of evidence must include so much of that testimony as will enable the Supreme Court to understand the question sought to be presented without the necessity of going beyond the assignment itself. Grimes v. Home Credit Co., 271 N.C. 608, 157 S.E.2d 213 (1967).

The assignment must be so specific that the court is given some real aid and a voyage of discovery through an often voluminous record not rendered necessary. State v. Kirby, 276 N.C. 123, 171 S.E.2d 416 (1970).

Assignments of error which are insufficient to present the errors relied upon without the necessity of going beyond the assignments themselves to learn what the questions are do not comply with this rule. Jones v. Saunders, 257 N.C. 118, 125 S.E.2d 350 (1962); Long v. Honeycutt, 268 N.C. 33, 149 S.E.2d 579 (1966); Nationwide Homes of Raleigh, N.C., Inc. v. First-Citizens Bank & Trust Co., 267 N.C. 528, 148 S.E.2d 693 (1966); State v. Foster, 268 N.C. 480, 151 S.E.2d 62 (1966); State v. Kirby, 276 N.C. 123, 171 S.E.2d 416 (1970); State v. Henderson, 276 N.C. 430, 173 S.E.2d 291 (1970).

A mere reference in the assignment of error to the page of the record where the asserted error may be discovered is not a compliance with this rule. Zopfi v. City of Wilmington, 273 N.C. 430, 160 S.E.2d 325 (1968); State v. Kirby, 276 N.C. 123, 171 S.E.2d 416 (1970).

Lack of Definiteness. — Where the charge covered 36 pages of the record, and all except 15 lines were made the subject of the 72 exceptions taken, and some of the exceptions related to two or more pages of the charge, the exceptions did not point up with the definiteness required by this rule. State v. Stevens, 244 N.C. 40, 92 S.E.2d 409 (1956).

The exceptions which are bona fide shall be stated clearly and intelligibly by the assignment of errors and not by referring to the record, and therewith shall be set out so much of the evidence or of the charge or other matter or circumstance as shall be necessary to present clearly the matter to be debated. State v. Kirby, 276 N.C. 123, 171 S.E.2d 416 (1970).

Appeal Itself Treated as Exception to Judgment. — Where the exceptions are not grouped, the assignments of error will not be considered, but the appeal itself will be treated as an exception to the judgment. Ellis v. Atlantic Coast Line R.R., 241 N.C. 747, 86 S.E.2d 406 (1955).

When Only One Exception Taken. — An appeal will not be dismissed for noncompliance with this rule, requiring all the exceptions relied on to be set out immediately after the statement of the case on appeal, where the appellee was not prejudiced; there being only one exception taken, and that being stated in the record, though improperly. Wall v. Holloman, 156 N.C. 275, 72 S.E. 369 (1911).

When Error Plainly Apparent. — Where the exceptions are separately stated and numbered, but are not brought together at the end of the case, a motion by the appellee to affirm will be denied if the error intended to be assigned is plainly apparent. Hicks v. Kenan, 139 N.C. 337, 51 S.E. 941 (1905).

When Only Correctness of Judgment Questioned. — When the appeal calls in question only the correctness of the judgment, no summary of exceptions is required because it is error on the face of the record. Wilson v. Beaufort County Lumber Co., 131 N.C. 163, 42 S.E. 565 (1902); Ullery v. Guthrie, 148 N.C. 417, 62 S.E. 552 (1908).

Discretion of Supreme Court to Dispose of Case. — Where the exceptions are separately numbered and only one of them is necessary to be considered in disposing of the appeal, the Supreme Court in its discretion may dispose of the case on its merits notwithstanding failure of appellant to separately assign the exceptions as error. Aydlett v. Keim, 232 N.C. 367, 61 S.E.2d 109 (1950).

While not in strict compliance with this rule, plaintiff's assignments of error are specific and definite. Since the rules of the Supreme Court are made for the court's convenience and in dispatch of its appellate jurisdiction, the Supreme Court will consider appellant's assignment of error. Gardner v. City of Reidsville, 269 N.C. 581, 153 S.E.2d 139 (1967).

An exception "to each conclusion of law embodied in the judgment" is a broadside exception and does not comply with this rule and G.S. 1-186. Jamison v. City of Charlotte, 239 N.C. 682, 80 S.E.2d 904 (1954).

An assignment of error which attempts to present several questions of law is broadside and ineffective. State v. Blackwell, 276 N.C. 714, 174 S.E.2d 534, cert. denied, 400 U.S. 946, 91 S. Ct. 253, 27 L. Ed. 2d 252 (1970).

Exception Held Ineffectual. — An exception to the charge on the ground that it "did not give the contentions of the plaintiffs with equal dignity with those of defendant" was ineffectual as a broadside exception in that it failed to point out any particular contention or series of contentions given or omitted by the court as the basis for the exception. Poniros v. Nello L. Teer Co., 236 N.C. 145, 72 S.E.2d 9 (1952).

An assignment of error that the court failed to declare and explain the law applicable to the facts in the case, without pointing out what matters appellant contends were omitted, is a broadside exception. Lewis v. Parker, 268 N.C. 436, 150 S.E.2d 729 (1966).

C. Composition of Record.

Requirements of Rule Strictly Adhered to. — The requirement that errors relied on be assigned in the record, and that the exceptions relied on shall be grouped, numbered, and set out immediately after the statement of the case on appeal, must be strictly adhered to, except when the appeal is on the ground the judgment was not justified by the facts found or admitted, or that the court did not have jurisdiction. Sigman v. Southern R.R., 135 N.C. 181, 47 S.E. 420 (1904); Pegram v. Hester, 152 N.C. 765, 68 S.E. 8 (1910).

The record on appeal should consist of a plain, accurate, and concise statement of what the record shows occurred in the trial court, compiled and presented in the order prescribed and pursuant to this rule. State v. Hickman, 2 N.C. App. 627, 163 S.E.2d 632 (1968).

The pages of the record in an appeal in forma pauperis must be numbered. Pearce v. Hewitt, 261 N.C. 408, 134 S.E.2d 662 (1964).

The absence of the complaint from the record makes it necessary to dismiss the appeal. Williams v. Asheville Contracting Co., 259 N.C. 232, 130 S.E.2d 340 (1963).

Filing Date of Every Document Required. — This rule requires, inter alia, that the filing date of every pleading, motion, affidavit or other document in the transcript on appeal shall appear. Oliver v. Williams, 266 N.C. 601, 146 S.E.2d 648 (1966).

Causes of Action Must Be Separately Stated. — Where plaintiff brings suit on two causes of action, each must be separately stated. Bannister & Sons v. Williams, 261 N.C. 586, 135 S.E.2d 572 (1964).

Where two or more cases are consolidated and tried together as one case and there are two or more appeals arising from the action, ordinarily only one copy of the record and the proceedings of the trial in the trial tribunal should be filed in the Court of Appeals. State v. Tyler, 4 N.C. App. 682, 167 S.E.2d 509 (1969).

Referring to Prior Paragraphs by Number Insufficient. — A party may not bring forward allegations contained in prior paragraphs of the pleading by referring to such paragraphs by number and stating that pleader repleads them. Guy v. Baer, 234 N.C. 276, 67 S.E.2d 47 (1951); Wrenn v. Graham, 236 N.C. 719, 74 S.E.2d 232 (1952).

Stenographer's Notes. — The stenographer's notes will be of valuable aid to refresh his memory, but the stenographer does not displace the judge in any of his functions. State v. Allen, 4 N.C. App. 612, 167 S.E.2d 505 (1969).

Stenographer's notes are not the compelling and supreme authority as to what transpired during the trial. The judge in charging the jury, always tells them that their recollection, and not that of the court itself, must govern them as to what was the testimony of the witnesses. And in settling the cases on appeal the first authority is that of counsel themselves in agreeing as to what occurred at the trial as to the evidence, as to the charge, and otherwise, and when they do not agree the judge must settle what really occurred. State v. Allen, 4 N.C. App. 612, 167 S.E.2d 505 (1969).

Stenographic notes will be of great weight with the judge, but are not conclusive if he has reason to believe there was error or mistake. The stenographer cannot take the place of the judge who is alone authorized and empowered by the Constitution to try the cause, and who alone if counsel disagree can settle for the court what occurred during the trial. State v. Allen, 4 N.C. App. 612, 167 S.E.2d 505 (1969).

Stenographer's Notes Insufficient. — When the appellant has set out in the case on appeal the transcribed stenographer's notes of the trial, he fails to prepare a concise statement of the case as required by this rule, and his appeal will be dismissed, when upon examination no error is found in the record proper. Buckner v. South & W. Ry., 157 N.C. 443, 73 S.E. 137 (1911); Skipper v. Kingsdale Lumber Co., 158 N.C. 322, 74 S.E. 342 (1912).

Only one copy of the stenographic transcript is required to be filed. Bryant v. Snyder, 3 N.C. App. 65, 164 S.E.2d 35 (1968).

A statement of case on appeal is not an essential part of the record on appeal. Moss v. Southern Ry., 2 N.C. App. 50, 162 S.E.2d 633 (1968).

A brief is not a part of the record on appeal. Civil Serv. Bd. v. Page, 2 N.C. App. 34, 162 S.E.2d 644 (1968); Tractor & Auto Supply Co. v. Fayetteville Tractor & Equip. Co., 2 N.C. App. 531, 163 S.E.2d 510 (1968).

Order of Proceedings and Documents. — The record does not comply with this rule where the proceedings are not set forth therein in the order of time in which they occurred and are not arranged so as to follow each other in the order in which they were filed, and the documents included in the record do not plainly show the date on which they were filed. Garner v. State, 8 N.C. App. 109, 174 S.E.2d 92 (1970).

Proceedings Not Set Forth in Order of Time. — Where the transcript does not set forth the proceedings in the order of time in which they occur, and the record shows no error warranting an order for a new trial, the appeal will be dismissed on motion. Hobbs v. Cashwell, 158 N.C. 597, 74 S.E. 23 (1912).

An index of exhibits solely by the alphabetical designation of such exhibits does not comply with this rule of practice. Millwood v. Firestone Cotton Mills, 215 N.C. 519, 2 S.E.2d 560 (1939).

Failure to Index. — Appeals will be dismissed where no index is sent up in the record and printed and no marginal references prepared. Sigman v. Southern R.R., 135 N.C. 181, 47 S.E. 420 (1904). See also Alexander v. Alexander, 120 N.C. 472, 27 S.E. 121 (1897); Pretzfelder v. Merchants Ins. Co., 123 N.C. 164, 31 S.E. 470 (1898).

Pleadings, Issues and Judgment Part of Record. — The rules of practice in the Supreme Court require among other things that the pleadings, issues and judgment shall be a part of the record proper, and this appeal, the record not including the summons or complaint, and the court, consequently, not being informed as to the nature of the action, is dismissed. Waters v. Waters, 199 N.C. 667, 155 S.E. 564 (1930). See Goodman v. Goodman, 208 N.C. 416, 181 S.E. 328 (1935); Washington County v. Norfolk S. Land Co., 222 N.C. 637, 24 S.E.2d 338 (1943).

The pleadings are an essential part of the record in order that the Supreme Court may be advised as to the nature of the action or proceeding. Allen v. Allen, 235 N.C. 554, 70 S.E.2d 505 (1952).

The pleadings are a necessary part of the record proper upon appeal, and where the pleadings are omitted from the record, the appeal must be dismissed. State v. Ravensford Lumber Co., 207 N.C. 47, 175 S.E. 713 (1934); Griffin v. Barnes, 242 N.C. 306, 87 S.E.2d 560 (1955).

Where the pleadings and the referee's report have been omitted from the record, the appeal must be dismissed as not conforming to this rule. Payne v. Brown, 205 N.C. 785, 172 S.E. 348 (1934).

Verified Answer Attached to Motion to Set Aside Default Judgment. — On appeal from an order setting aside a default judgment upon the court's finding of surprise and a meritorious defense, the verified answer of defendant, which was attached to and made a part of the motion to set aside the judgment, is a necessary part of the record proper, and on failure to send it up the appeal will be dismissed, since in the absence of the answer it cannot be determined whether the finding of a meritorious defense was supported by evidence. Mooneyham v. Mooneyham, 249 N.C. 641, 107 S.E.2d 66 (1959).

Copy of Judgment Omitted. — Where on appeal no printed copy of the judgment accompanies the record, the appeal will be dismissed under this rule. Wiley v. Bessemer City Mining Co., 117 N.C. 489, 23 S.E. 448 (1895).

Dismissal of Appeal. — The case on appeal to the Supreme Court will be dismissed when the transcript does not conform to the rules of court regulating appeals. Bridgers v. Griffin, 195 N.C. 862, 142 S.E. 221 (1928); In re Anderson, 251 N.C. 176, 110 S.E.2d 832 (1959).

Under this rule the complaint is a necessary part of the record proper, and when it is not contained therein, the case on appeal will be dismissed. Schwarberg v. Howard, 197 N.C. 126, 147 S.E. 741 (1929); J.O. Plott Co. v. H.K. Ferguson Constr. Co., 198 N.C. 782, 153 S.E. 396 (1930); Thrush v. Thrush, 245 N.C. 63, 94 S.E.2d 897 (1956); Williams v. Asheville Contracting Co., 259 N.C. 232, 130 S.E.2d 340 (1963).

Where on appeal the record contains only a synopsis of the complaint, the appeal will be dismissed. J.O. Plott Co. v. H.K. Ferguson Constr. Co., 198 N.C. 782, 153 S.E. 396 (1930).

Where the record does not show either the organization of the court below or the authority of the special judge who signed the judgment, nor disclose that the judgment was entered at term, the appeal is dismissible under this rule. Vail v. Stone, 222 N.C. 431, 23 S.E.2d 329 (1942).

D. Criminal Actions.

Essential Parts of Transcript in Criminal Cases. — On appeal in criminal cases, the indictment or warrant and plea on which the case is tried, the verdict and the judgment appealed from are essential parts of the transcript. State v. Jenkins, 234 N.C. 112, 66 S.E.2d 819 (1952); State v. Stubbs, 265 N.C. 420, 144 S.E.2d 262 (1965), aff'd, 266 N.C. 295, 145 S.E.2d 899 (1966).

Where indictments relating to one offense against several defendants are properly consolidated for trial, only one record should be filed on the appeals of defendants. State v. Jackson, 226 N.C. 760, 40 S.E.2d 417 (1946).

Where two defendants are jointly tried for the same offense upon a joint indictment, only a single transcript should be docketed upon their respective appeals. State v. Frazier, 268 N.C. 249, 150 S.E.2d 431 (1966).

Case Decided on False Record. — Where a criminal case is decided in the Supreme Court on a record afterwards found to be false, it will be restored to the docket and a certiorari issued to correct the record. State v. Marsh, 134 N.C. 184, 47 S.E. 6 (1903).

In Capital Case. — Where defendant's exceptions are not brought forward and grouped as required by this rule, the appeal will be dismissed, but where defendant has been convicted of a capital crime this will be done only after an inspection of the record proper and the exceptions fail to disclose prejudicial error. State v. Thompson, 224 N.C. 661, 32 S.E.2d 24 (1944); State v. West, 229 N.C. 416, 50 S.E.2d 3 (1948).

E. Evidence.

Assignments of error as to the admission of evidence shall state with particularity the alleged incompetent evidence, and not require a search through the record to find the challenged evidence. Bridges v. Graham, 246 N.C. 371, 98 S.E.2d 492 (1957).

Failure to State Evidence in Narrative Form. — An appeal is dismissed for failure of the defendants to state the evidence in narrative form. State v. Benfield, 8 N.C. App. 103, 174 S.E.2d 57 (1970).

Record Not Containing Evidence. — When the evidence adduced at the trial is not contained in the record, the appeal must be dismissed in the absence of error appearing upon the face of the record. State v. Benfield, 8 N.C. App. 103, 174 S.E.2d 57 (1970).

Insufficient Statement of Evidence. — Where it is impossible for the court to determine from whom the evidence was being elicited, who was examining the witnesses, whether there was cross-examination, the purpose for which the witnesses were being examined, and exactly what the evidence was, the recital, rather than being a narration of the evidence, is a recitation of the events surrounding the arrest of the defendants. State v. Benfield, 8 N.C. App. 103, 174 S.E.2d 57 (1970).

Exclusion of Evidence. — Assignment of error relating to the exclusion of evidence did not comply with this rule in that appellant did not incorporate therein the excluded evidence and thus disclose the alleged error. Rural Plumbing & Heating, Inc. v. H.C. Jones Constr. Co., 268 N.C. 23, 149 S.E.2d 625 (1966).

The assignments of error should set forth, within itself, the question asked, the objection, the ruling on the objection, and what the witness would have answered if he had been permitted to testify. Douglas v. W.C. Mallison & Son, 265 N.C. 362, 144 S.E.2d 138 (1965).

Where the record fails to show what the witness would have testified had he been permitted to answer questions objected to, the exclusion of such testimony is not shown to be prejudicial. This rule applies as well to questions asked on cross-examination. State v. Kirby, 276 N.C. 123, 171 S.E.2d 416 (1970).

An assignment of error, unsupported by exception, that the court erred in finding that the evidence was insufficient to sustain appellant's motion, is a broadside exception and ineffectual because of noncompliance with this rule and Rule 10. Columbus County v. Thompson, 249 N.C. 607, 107 S.E.2d 302 (1959).

An assignment of error that the court failed to declare the law arising on the evidence, is a broadside exception and ineffectual. Chalmers v. Womack, 269 N.C. 433, 152 S.E.2d 505 (1967).

When the evidence adduced at the trial is not contained in the record, the appeal must be dismissed in the absence of error appearing upon the face of the record. State v. Prince, 270 N.C. 769, 154 S.E.2d 897 (1967); State v.

Benfield, 8 N.C. App. 103, 174 S.E.2d 57 (1970).

Requirements Cannot Be Waived. — The requirements of the rule of the Supreme Court, that the evidence must appear in the case on appeal in narrative form, cannot be waived by the parties. Buckner v. South & W. Ry., 157 N.C. 443, 73 S.E. 137 (1911); First Nat'l Bank v. Fries, 162 N.C. 516, 77 S.E. 678 (1913); State v. McNeill, 239 N.C. 679, 80 S.E.2d 680 (1954); Standard Amusement Co. v. Tarkington, 251 N.C. 461, 111 S.E.2d 538 (1959).

Effect of Failure to Comply. — Where the appellant has failed to make a concise statement of the evidence according to the rules of practice, but gives the entire evidence in the form of questions to and answers of witnesses, taken from the stenographer's notes, the appeal will be dismissed and the judgment affirmed upon motion of the appellee. Casey v. East Carolina Ry., 198 N.C. 432, 152 S.E. 38 (1930); Rhoades v. City of Asheville, 220 N.C. 443, 17 S.E.2d 500 (1941).

An appeal will not be dismissed under this rule, unless the narration of the evidence is fatally defective. Keller v. Security Mills of Greensboro, Inc., 260 N.C. 571, 133 S.E.2d 222 (1963).

Where the evidence in the case on appeal is set out entirely in questions and answers instead of in narrative form as required by this rule, the Supreme Court considers only errors presented by the record proper. Anson Bank & Trust Co. v. Henry, 267 N.C. 253, 148 S.E.2d 7 (1966).

Objection to Noncompliance Presented by Counter-Case or Exceptions to Case. — Objection that appellant, instead of reducing the testimony to narrative form as required by this rule, merely gave conclusions as to the meaning of the testimony should ordinarily be presented by counter-case or exceptions to the case on appeal. Keller v. Security Mills of Greensboro, Inc., 260 N.C. 571, 133 S.E.2d 222 (1963).

Filing Copies of Plat. — Where a plat is referred to in the pleadings and evidence, and is necessary to the understanding of an appeal, the same number of copies of the plat must be filed as is required of the printed record and briefs, or the judgment below will be affirmed or appeal dismissed. Stephens v. McDonald, 132 N.C. 135, 43 S.E. 592 (1903).

This is also true of an exhibit made part of the case on appeal. Fleming v. McPhail, 121 N.C. 183, 28 S.E. 258 (1897); Hicks v. Royal, 122 N.C. 405, 29 S.E. 413 (1898).

But where the map or plat is irrelevant its exclusion will not be held error. Fulwood v. Fulwood, 161 N.C. 601, 77 S.E. 763 (1913).

Rule 10. Assigning error on appeal.

(a) Function in limiting scope of review. Except as otherwise provided herein, the scope of review on appeal is confined to a consideration of those assignments of error set out in the record on appeal in accordance with this Rule 10. Provided, that upon any appeal duly taken from a final judgment any party to the appeal may present for review, by properly making them the basis of assignments of error, the questions whether the judgment is supported by the verdict or by the findings of fact and conclusions of law, whether the court had jurisdiction of the subject matter, and whether a criminal charge is sufficient in law.

(b) Preserving questions for appellate review.

(1) General. In order to preserve a question for appellate review, a party must have presented to the trial court a timely request, objection or motion, stating the specific grounds for the ruling the party desired the court to make if the specific grounds were not apparent from the context. It is also necessary for the complaining party to obtain a ruling upon the party's request, objection or motion. Any such question which was properly preserved for review by action of counsel taken during the course of proceedings in the trial tribunal by objection noted or which by rule or law was deemed preserved or taken without any such action, may be made the basis of an assignment of error in the record on appeal.

(2) Jury instructions; findings and conclusions of judge. A party may not assign as error any portion of the jury charge or omission therefrom unless he objects thereto before the jury retires to consider its verdict, stating distinctly that to which he objects and the grounds of his objection; provided, that opportunity was given to the party to make the objection out of the hearing of the jury, and, on request of any party, out of the presence of the jury.

(3) Sufficiency of the evidence. A defendant in a criminal case may not assign as error the insufficiency of the evidence to prove the crime charged unless he moves to dismiss the action, or for judgment as in case of nonsuit, at trial. If a defendant makes such a motion after the State has presented all its evidence and has rested its case and that motion is denied and the defendant then introduces evidence, his motion for dismissal or judgment in case of nonsuit made at the close of State's evidence is waived. Such a waiver precludes the defendant from urging the denial of such motion as a ground for appeal.

A defendant may make a motion to dismiss the action or judgment as in case of nonsuit at the conclusion of all the evidence, irrespective of whether he made an earlier such motion. If the motion at the close of all the evidence is denied, the defendant may urge as ground for appeal the denial of his motion made at the conclusion of all the evidence. However, if a defendant fails to move to dismiss the action or for judgment as in case of nonsuit at the close of all the evidence, he may not challenge on appeal the sufficiency of the evidence to prove the crime charged.

If a defendant's motion to dismiss the action or for judgment as in case of nonsuit is allowed, or shall be sustained on appeal, it shall have the force and effect of a verdict of "not guilty" as to such defendant.

(c) Assignments of error.

(1) Form; Record references. A listing of the assignments of error upon which an appeal is predicated shall be stated at the conclusion of the record on appeal, in short form without argument, and shall be separately numbered. Each assignment of error shall, so far as practicable, be confined to a single issue of law; and shall state plainly, concisely and without argumentation the legal basis upon which error is assigned. An assignment of error is sufficient if it directs the attention of the appellate court to the particular error about which the question is made, with clear and specific record or transcript references. Questions made as to several issues or findings relating to one ground of recovery or defense may be combined in one assignment of error, if separate record or transcript references are made.

(2) Jury instructions. Where a question concerns instructions given to the jury, the party shall identify the specific portion of the jury charge in question by setting it within brackets or by any other clear means of reference in the record on appeal. A question of the failure to give particular instructions to the jury, or to make a particular finding of fact or conclusion of law which finding or conclusion was not specifically requested of the trial judge, shall identify the omitted instruction, finding or conclusion by setting out its substance in the record on appeal immediately following the instructions given, or findings or conclusions made.

(3) Sufficiency of evidence. In civil cases, questions that the evidence is legally or factually insufficient to support a particular issue or finding, and challenges directed against any conclusions of law of the trial court based upon such issues or findings, may be combined under a single assignment of error raising both contentions if the record references and the argument under the point sufficiently direct the court's attention to the nature of the question made regarding each such issue or finding or legal conclusion based thereon.

(4) Assigning plain error. In criminal cases, a question which was not preserved by objection noted at trial and which is not deemed preserved by rule or law without any such action, nevertheless may be made the basis of an assignment of error where the judicial action questioned is specifically and distinctly contended to amount to plain error.

(d) Cross-assignments of error by appellee. Without taking an appeal an appellee may cross-assign as error any action or omission of the trial court which was properly preserved for appellate review and which deprived the appellee of an alternative basis in law for supporting the judgment, order, or other determination from which appeal has been taken. Portions of the record or transcript of proceedings necessary to an understanding of such cross-assignments of error may be included in the record on appeal by agreement of the parties under Rule 11(a), may be included by the appellee in a proposed alternative record on appeal under Rule 11(b), or may be designated for inclusion in the verbatim transcript of proceedings, if one is filed under Rule 9(c)(2). I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's note. — Many of the cases below were decided prior to the amendment effective July 1, 1989, deleting references to exceptions.

Purpose of Rule. — N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(1) is directed to matters which occur at trial and upon which the trial court must be given an opportunity to rule in order to preserve the question for appeal; the purpose of the rule is to require a party to call the court's attention to a matter upon which he or she wants a ruling before he or she can assign error to the matter on appeal. State v. Hargett, — N.C. App. —, 577 S.E.2d 703, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 383 (2003).

Rules of Appellate Procedure are mandatory and failure to follow the rules subjects an appeal to dismissal. Marsico v. Adams, 47 N.C. App. 196, 266 S.E.2d 696 (1980); Wiseman v. Wiseman, 68 N.C. App. 252, 314 S.E.2d 566 (1984).

When a conflict arises between a subsection of G.S. 15A-1446 and this rule, the rule should control. State v. O'Neal, 77 N.C. App. 600, 335 S.E.2d 920 (1985).

To the extent that G.S. 15A-1446(d)(5) is inconsistent with subdivision (b)(3) of this rule, the statute must fail. State v. Stocks, 319 N.C. 437, 355 S.E.2d 492 (1987); State v. Spaugh, 321 N.C. 550, 364 S.E.2d 368 (1988).

Discretionary Review Allowed Under N.C.R.A.P., Rule 2 Even Though Issue Not Preserved for Appeal. — Defendant did not properly preserve for appeal either issue on which he now relies. However, court of appeals may hear appeals in its discretion under N.C.R.A.P., Rule 2. State v. Petty, 100 N.C. App. 465, 397 S.E.2d 337 (1990).

Appellate court in its discretion reviewed the issue of whether the mother in a termination of parental rights case received proper notice of the scheduling of her termination hearing where the mother raised the issue for the first time on appeal. In re Mitchell, 148 N.C. App. 483, 559 S.E.2d 237, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 43 (2002).

Court of appeals review of administrative agency's decision is governed by the Administrative Procedure Act, G.S. 150B-1, et seq., and court may reverse or modify agency's decision only if it violates one of five statutory grounds. Court will determine if agency's findings, inferences, conclusions, or decisions are affected by error of law or unsupported by substantial evidence admissible under G.S. 150B-29(a), G.S. 150B-30, or G.S. 150B-31 in view of entire record as submitted. North Carolina Dep't of Cor. v. Hodge, 99 N.C. App. 602, 394 S.E.2d 285 (1990).

This rule functions as an important vehicle to ensure that errors are not "built into" the record, thereby causing unnecessary appellate review. State v. Oliver, 309 N.C. 326, 307 S.E.2d 304 (1983); State v. Ayers, 92 N.C. App. 364, 374 S.E.2d 428 (1988).

A party may not, after trial and judgment, comb through the transcript of the proceedings and randomly insert an exception notation in disregard of the mandates of section (b) of this rule. State v. Oliver, 309 N.C. 326, 307 S.E.2d 304 (1983).

Purpose to Allow Appellee to Assess Sufficiency of Record. — One purpose of this rule is to identify for the appellee's benefit all the errors possible to be urged on appeal so that the appellee may properly assess the sufficiency of the proposed record on appeal to protect his position. State v. Baggett, 133 N.C. App. 47, 514 S.E.2d 536 (1999).

Party may waive statutory or constitutional provisions by express consent or conduct inconsistent with a purpose to insist upon it. As a corollary to this rule, in order for an appellant to assert such right on appeal, the issue must have been presented to the trial court. State v. Horner, 310 N.C. 274, 311 S.E.2d 281 (1984).

The scope of review on appeal is limited to those issues presented by assignment of error in the record on appeal. Koufman v. Koufman, 330 N.C. 93, 408 S.E.2d 729 (1991).

Use of Statements Precludes Objection. — Defendant waived any objection as to use of a witnesses' prior statements by using them extensively himself on cross-examination, and by failing to object to the use of the statements to refresh the witnesses' memory. State v. Demery, 113 N.C. App. 58, 437 S.E.2d 704 (1993).

Recordation of Trial. — In district court, where there are no official court reporters, a party seeking recordation of a hearing or trial must request a reporter or mechanical recordation; failure to make such a request prevents the issue from being raised on appeal. Holterman v. Holterman, 127 N.C. App. 109, 488 S.E.2d 265 (1997).

Applied in State v. McMorris, 290 N.C. 286, 225 S.E.2d 553 (1976); State v. Tolley, 290 N.C. 349, 226 S.E.2d 353 (1976); State v. Irick, 291 N.C. 480, 231 S.E.2d 833 (1977); State v. II. LIMITING SCOPE OF REVIEW.

A. Generally.

Scope Confined to Assignments of Error Set Out in Record. — Although G.S. 15A-1444(a1) permits a defendant to appeal the issue of whether his sentence is supported by evidence introduced at the trial and sentencing hearing, the scope of appellate review is confined to a consideration of those assignments of error set out in the record on appeal. N.C. R. App. P. 10(a). State v. Smith, — N.C. App. —, 584 S.E.2d 830, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1767 (2003).

Generally, review by court of appeals is limited by properly presented assignments of error and exceptions. North Carolina Dep't of Cor. v. Hodge, 99 N.C. App. 602, 394 S.E.2d 285 (1990).

Question Must Be Presented on Appeal. — The proviso to subsection (a) allows review of the questions, without exceptions or assignments of error, which were reviewed under the old rules by the appeal itself or an exception to the judgment (such as the legal sufficiency of the indictment, subject matter jurisdiction, the plea, the jury verdict and the judgment) but this proviso does not negate the requirement of N.C.R.A.P., Rule 28 question must be presented and argued in the brief in order to obtain appellate review of it. State v. Brothers, 33 N.C. App. 233, 234 S.E.2d 652, cert. denied, 293 N.C. 160, 236 S.E.2d 704 (1977).

A defendant may properly present on appeal the questions in subsection (a) of this rule without taking any exceptions or making any assignments of error in the record and may properly present for review the denial of his motion for nonsuit under G.S. 15-173 without making any exception in the record. However, in both these situations, the defendant must still bring those questions forward in his brief, argue them and cite authorities in support of his arguments. Failure to do so means that those questions are not properly presented for review. State v. Samuels, 298 N.C. 783, 260 S.E.2d 427 (1979).

Appellate review depends on specific exceptions and proper assignments of error presented in the record on appeal. Wade v. Wade, 72 N.C. App. 372, 325 S.E.2d 260, cert. denied, 313 N.C. 612, 330 S.E.2d 616 (1985).

Under N.C. R. App. P. 10(a), the appellate court's scope of review on appeal is confined to a consideration of those assignments of error set out in the record on appeal in accordance with Rule 10. In re Baker, — N.C. App. —, 581 S.E.2d 144, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1194 (2003).

Grounds for Obstruction and Error Must Be the Same. — Although defendant objected to instructions, he did not object on the ground upon which he asserted error, and he did not preserve the alleged error for appellate review. State v. Francis, 341 N.C. 156, 459 S.E.2d 269 (1995).

Presenting Different Theory on Appeal Than That Argued at Trial. — Defendant's conviction of murder was affirmed where, inter alia, defendant waived an assignment of error because defendant impermissibly presented a different theory on appeal than argued at trial. State v. Holliman, 155 N.C. App. 120, 573 S.E.2d 682, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1591 (2002).

B. Issues Not Requiring Objection or Motion.

Findings and Conclusions of Law May Be Challenged for First Time in Brief. — This rule provides that notwithstanding the absence of exceptions, an appeal duly taken from a final judgment may present for review, if properly raised in the brief, the question of whether the judgment is supported by the findings of fact and conclusions of law. Anderson Chevrolet/Olds, Inc. v. Higgins, 57 N.C. App. 650, 292 S.E.2d 159 (1982).

Exceptions or specific assignments of error are not required where the question is whether summary judgment was properly granted. The appeal from the judgment is itself an exception thereto. Vernon, Vernon, Wooten, Brown & Andrews v. Miller, 73 N.C. App. 295, 326 S.E.2d 316 (1985).

Section (a) of this rule does not require a party against whom summary judgment has been entered to place exceptions and assignments of error into the record on appeal. Ellis v. Williams, 319 N.C. 413, 355 S.E.2d 479 (1987).

Although the enumeration of findings of fact and conclusions of law is technically unnecessary and generally inadvisable in summary judgment cases, summary judgment, by definition, is always based on two underlying questions of law: (1) Whether there is a genuine issue of material fact and (2) whether the moving party is entitled to judgment. On appeal, review of summary judgment is necessarily limited to whether the trial court's conclusions as to these questions of law were correct ones. Thus, notice of appeal adequately apprises the opposing party and the appellate court of the limited issues to be reviewed. Ellis v. Williams, 319 N.C. 413, 355 S.E.2d 479 (1987).

An appeal from entry of summary judgment presents the question of whether the judgment is supported by the conclusions of law, and therefore constitutes an exception to the general requirement of section (a) of this rule that assignments of error must appear in the record. Burton v. NCNB Nat'l Bank, 85 N.C. App. 702, 355 S.E.2d 800 (1987).

Or Where Questions of Jurisdiction or Sufficiency of Criminal Charge Are Raised. — Under this rule, upon appeal, any party may present for review, by properly raising the issue in the brief, the questions of whether the court had jurisdiction of the subject matter, and whether a criminal charge is sufficient in law. This is true, notwithstanding the absence of exceptions or assignments of error in the record on appeal. State v. Beaver, 291 N.C. 137, 229 S.E.2d 179 (1976).

Under section (a) any party may present for review, by properly raising the issue in his brief, the questions of whether the court had jurisdiction of the subject matter and whether a criminal charge is sufficient in law. This rule applies even when no motion is made to quash. State v. Jones, 36 N.C. App. 263, 243 S.E.2d 827 (1978).

Failure to object at trial ordinarily waives the right to assert error on appeal. However, the sufficiency of a criminal charge may be challenged without any exceptions or assignment of error having been made. State v. Wortham, 80 N.C. App. 54, 341 S.E.2d 76 (1986), rev'd in part on other grounds, 318 N.C. 669, 351 S.E.2d 294 (1987).

Whether assault on a female is charged as a lesser included offense by an indictment charging attempted rape questions the sufficiency of the indictment. Accordingly, the issue may be raised on appeal, even in the absence of timely objection at trial. State v. Wortham, 80 N.C. App. 54, 341 S.E.2d 76 (1986), rev'd in part on other grounds, 318 N.C. 669, 351 S.E.2d 294 (1987).

Subject Matter Jurisdiction. — Notwithstanding the absence of exceptions properly set out in the record on appeal, a party may present for review the question of subject matter jurisdiction by raising the issue in his brief. Carter v. North Carolina State Bd. of Registration, 86 N.C. App. 308, 357 S.E.2d 705 (1987).

When a prospective employee alleged her injury during a pre-employment interview was covered under the North Carolina Workers' Compensation Act, G.S. 97-1 et seq., and, therefore, the North Carolina Industrial Commission had exclusive jurisdiction over her claim, this was a question of subject matter jurisdiction; even though not listed as an assignment of error in the record on her appeal from the trial court, pursuant to N.C. R. App. P. 10(c)(1), the claim had to be considered by the appellate court because it was a question of jurisdiction, which could be raised at any time. Huntley v. Howard Lisk Co., 154 N.C. App. 698, 573 S.E.2d 233, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1528 (2002), cert. denied, 357 N.C. 62, 579 S.E.2d 389 (2003).

Whether one has standing to obtain judicial review of administrative decisions is a question of subject matter jurisdiction which, notwithstanding the absence of exceptions or assignments of error in the record on appeal, a party may present for review by properly raising the issue in his brief. In re Wheeler, 85 N.C. App. 150, 354 S.E.2d 374 (1987).

When a trial court acts contrary to a statutory mandate and a defendant is prejudiced thereby, the right to appeal the court's action is preserved, notwithstanding defendant's failure to object at trial. State v. Ashe, 314 N.C. 28, 331 S.E.2d 652 (1985); Herell v. Taylor, 97 N.C. App. 57, 387 S.E.2d 230 (1990).

III. PRESERVING QUESTIONS FOR APPEAL.

A. Generally.

When a party fails to raise an appealable issue, the appellate court will generally not raise it for that party. Harris v. Harris, 307 N.C. 684, 300 S.E.2d 369 (1983).

Only exceptions noted in the record and made the basis for assignments of error will be considered on appeal. State v. Kidd, 60 N.C. App. 140, 298 S.E.2d 406 (1982), cert. denied, 307 N.C. 700, 301 S.E.2d 393 (1983).

A party must, prior to arguing an alleged error in his brief, (a) alert the appellate court that no action was taken by counsel at the trial level, and (b) establish his right to review by asserting in what manner the exception is preserved by rule or law or, when applicable, how the error amounted to a plain error or defect affecting a substantial right which may be noticed although not brought to the attention of the trial court. State v. Oliver, 309 N.C. 326, 307 S.E.2d 304 (1983).

Where defendant failed to specifically and distinctly allege that the trial court's instruction amounted to plain error, defendant waived any appellate review. State v. Hamilton, 338 N.C. 193, 449 S.E.2d 402 (1994).

Employee failed in an appeal of the lower court's approval of an agency decision stating that the employee's refusal to report to work after the expiration of family and medical leave was a voluntary resignation without notice; the employee did not argue two subject matter jurisdiction issues which defeated the claim. Shackleford-Moten v. Lenoir County Dep't of Soc. Servs., 155 N.C. App. 568, 573 S.E.2d 767, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1630 (2002).

In order to preserve a question for appellate review, a party must have presented the trial court with a timely request, objection or motion, stating the specific grounds for the ruling sought if the specific grounds are not apparent. State v. Eason, 328 N.C. 409, 402 S.E.2d 809 (1991).

N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(1) requires an objection at trial for preservation of an issue on appeal; the North Carolina Supreme Court has held that an error at sentencing is not considered an error at trial for the purpose of Rule 10(b)(1). State v. Hargett, — N.C. App. —, 577 S.E.2d 703, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 383 (2003).

Failure to Raise Issue in Trial Court. — Defendant against whom a default judgment was entered was not allowed to argue on appeal that the summons used for service by publication was ineffective due to more than 30 days elapsing since its issuance, as defendant did not raise the issue in the trial court. Creasman v. Creasman, 152 N.C. App. 119, 566 S.E.2d 725, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 856 (2002).

Motion to dismiss a city's appeal of the denial of its motion for judgment on the pleadings because the motion restated the allegations of a previously denied motion to dismiss was denied because the issue was not presented to the trial court. Lovelace v. City of Shelby, 153 N.C. App. 378, 570 S.E.2d 136, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1175 (2002), cert. denied, 356 N.C. 437, 572 S.E.2d 785 (2002).

Objections on an appeal by a boyfriend of a married woman, who was sued by the woman's husband for alienation of affection and criminal conversation, that the trial court erred in allowing consideration of the husband's lost income and benefits were not properly preserved for review under N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(1), where his objection at trial that the evidence was speculative, improperly documented, and was impermissible hearsay, was not on the same issue raised on appeal as to the impropriety of such evidence on the issue of damages; similarly unpreserved was the boyfriend's claim on appeal that the evidence on damages was improperly admitted as too speculative and uncertain, where his objection at trial was on grounds of hearsay and unavailability. Oddo v. Presser, — N.C. App. —, 581 S.E.2d 123, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1196 (2003).

Failure to Move for Dismissal. — Juvenile was precluded from raising the issue of sufficiency of the evidence of second-degree sexual offense on appeal where he failed to move for a dismissal at the close of the evidence. In re Clapp, 137 N.C. App. 14, 526 S.E.2d 689, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 252 (2000).

Failure to Move for Change of Venue. — Where defendant failed to move for a change of venue or a special venire due to alleged prejudicial pretrial publicity in defendant's capital murder case, the matter was not preserved for appellate review under N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(1). State v. Walters, 357 N.C. 68, — S.E.2d —, 2003 N.C. LEXIS 570 (2003).

Burden of Establishing Right to Review Where Not Raised at Trial. — Where no action was taken by counsel during the course of the proceedings, the burden is on the party alleging error to establish its right to review; that is, that an exception, "by rule or law was deemed preserved or taken without any such action," or that the alleged error constitutes plain error. State v. Oliver, 309 N.C. 326, 307 S.E.2d 304 (1983).

When a defendant contends that an exception, in the words of subdivision (b)(1) of this rule, "by rule or law was deemed preserved or taken without" objection made at trial, he has the burden of establishing his right to appellate review by showing that the exception was preserved by rule or law or that the error alleged constitutes plain error. In so doing, he must alert the appellate court to the fact that no action was taken by counsel at trial and then establish his right to review by asserting the manner in which the exception was preserved or how the error may be noticed although not brought to the attention of the trial court. State v. Gardner, 315 N.C. 444, 340 S.E.2d 701 (1986).

Failure to Except Precludes Review. — The general rule is that where no objection or exception is made at trial to the allegedly improperly admitted evidence, the appellant may not challenge the item for the first time on appeal. State v. Jordan, 49 N.C. App. 561, 272 S.E.2d 405 (1980).

The appellate court will not consider arguments based upon issues which were not presented or adjudicated by the trial tribunal and the lack of an exception or assignment of error addressed to the issue attempted to be raised is a fatal defect. State v. Smith, 50 N.C. App. 188, 272 S.E.2d 621 (1980).

In an action for breach of contract, plaintiff waived its objection to the trial court's framing of an issue submitted to the jury since plaintiff did not object to that issue at trial nor did it request a different issue. Burke County Pub. Sch. Bd. of Educ. v. Juno Constr. Corp., 50 N.C. App. 238, 273 S.E.2d 504, cert. withdrawn as improvidently granted, 304 N.C. 187, 282 S.E.2d 778 (1981).

In plaintiff's action for divorce from bed and board on the ground that defendant had rendered such indignities as to make her life burdensome, defendant could not complain on appeal that the issue of plaintiff's indignities offered to defendant should have been submitted to the jury, since defendant never demanded submission of the issue at trial. Vandiver v. Vandiver, 50 N.C. App. 319, 274 S.E.2d 243, cert. denied, 302 N.C. 634, 280 S.E.2d 449 (1981).

The plaintiffs, who did not object at trial to the submission of the contributory negligence issue to the jury, could not complain on appeal. Kirk v. R. Stanford Webb Agency, Inc., 75 N.C. App. 148, 330 S.E.2d 262, cert. denied, 314 N.C. 541, 335 S.E.2d 18 (1985).

Where the trial judge improperly excluded evidence because he viewed it as parol evidence varying the terms of an express contract, but plaintiff assigned no error to the ruling, it could not be reached on appeal. Catoe v. Helms Constr. & Concrete Co., 91 N.C. App. 492, 372 S.E.2d 331 (1988).

Where State neither objected nor excepted to defendant's oral motion to suppress, and instead the district attorney stated that he was prepared to go forward with a hearing so that he could show why the statements made by defendant were admissible, objection and exception would not be deemed to have been made by operation of law, and the State was precluded from arguing on appeal that defendant's motion was untimely or improper. State v. Seagle, 96 N.C. App. 318, 385 S.E.2d 532 (1989).

Where defendant assigned error to the trial judge's ruling allowing six questions/exchanges on cross-examination, but only four of them were objected to on appeal, the remaining two questions were waived, as they were not properly preserved on appeal. State v. Gallagher, 101 N.C. App. 208, 398 S.E.2d 491 (1990).

Plaintiff's argument was dismissed where plaintiff did not raise the issues in the court below. Pharr v. Worley, 125 N.C. App. 136, 479 S.E.2d 32 (1996).

The defendant waived his right to raise on appeal the trial court's failure to ensure the presence of a defense witness, where after hearing the trial court's statements concerning the absence of the witness, the defense did not request a recess, move for a continuance, or request the issuance of a material witness order. State v. Smith, 130 N.C. App. 71, 502 S.E.2d 390 (1998).

Defendant insurer's claim that the trial court erroneously credited the $ 50,000 paid by an insurance company solely to another UIM insurer instead of allowing the two UIM insurance companies to share the credit pro rata, based on its determination that the other UIM policy was "primary" and the defendant's UIM policy was "excess," was not preserved, and therefore, not reviewable, in that the defendant did not specifically assign error to the foregoing portion of the trial court's judgment. Dutch v. Harleysville Mut. Ins. Co., 139 N.C. App. 602, 534 S.E.2d 262, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 976 (2000).

Defendant failed to preserve for review under N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(1) the issue of whether the trial court improperly admitted hearsay testimony without conducting a voir dire examination of the declarant, because defendant did not present the trial court with a timely request or motion. State v. Carter, 153 N.C. App. 756, 570 S.E.2d 772, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1272 (2002).

Defendant's allegation that the trial court refused to allow him to approach the bench to inform the court that a plea agreement had been arrived at would not be considered on appeal because defendant made no objection to proceeding with trial; therefore, the defendant failed to properly preserve his argument for appeal, under N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(1). State v. Williams, 154 N.C. App. 466, 572 S.E.2d 213, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1439 (2002).

In contract action, employee waived appellate review of his argument that a referee erred by not making specific findings of fact and conclusions of law, under N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(1), by not excepting to the referee's report on this ground or objecting at the hearing. Gaynor v. Melvin, 155 N.C. App. 618, 573 S.E.2d 763, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1586 (2002).

Where the motorist did not object to the trial court's ruling on the injured person's motion for attorney's fees prior to ruling on the injured person's initial motion for a new trial, the motorist failed to preserve this issue for appellate review. Phillips v. Brackett, 156 N.C. App. 76, 575 S.E.2d 805, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 27 (2003).

Defendant's contention, that two statutes used to impose the probationary condition that defendant not violate the rules and regulations of the Department of Correction even though defendant was housed in a county detention facility, violated defendant's constitutional rights could not be reviewed on appeal as defendant had not raised the claim in the trial court that defendant's constitutional rights were violated; thus, the appellate court could not consider that contention for the first time on appeal. State v. Payne, 156 N.C. App. 687, 577 S.E.2d 166, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 192 (2003).

Failure to Cross-Assign Error. — Because the appellee failed to cross-assign error to the trial court's failure to render judgment on alternative grounds, the appellee did not properly preserve for appellate review those alternative grounds; the additional arguments raised in appellee's brief, if sustained, would provide an alternative basis for upholding the trial court's determination that a premarital agreement was invalid and unenforceable. Harllee v. Harllee, 151 N.C. App. 40, 565 S.E.2d 678, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 687 (2002).

Capital Cases. — In every case where a death sentence has been pronounced, it is the practice of the Supreme Court to carefully review the entire record to determine if prejudicial error appears. State v. Warren, 289 N.C. 551, 223 S.E.2d 317 (1976).

The general rule that exceptions to improper remarks of counsel during argument must be taken before verdict has been modified so that it does not apply to death cases where the argument of counsel is so prejudicial to defendant that the prejudicial effect of such argument could not have been removed from the jurors' minds by any instruction the trial judge might have given. State v. Alford, 289 N.C. 372, 222 S.E.2d 222, vacated in part on other grounds, Carter v. North Carolina, 429 U.S. 809, 97 S. Ct. 46, 50 L. Ed. 2d 69 (1976).

If, after careful review of the entire record in capital cases error does appear, even though not assigned by defendant, the Supreme Court will take cognizance of the error ex mero motu. State v. Warren, 289 N.C. 551, 223 S.E.2d 317 (1976).

If, upon an examination of the record for the ascertainment of reversible error in capital cases, error is found, it then becomes the duty of the Supreme Court upon its own motion to recognize and act upon the error so found. State v. Warren, 289 N.C. 551, 223 S.E.2d 317 (1976).

Defendant who assigned error to the submission of an aggravating circumstance to the jury preserved his exception by objecting to it on several occasions, thus defendant could appeal pursuant to subdivision (b)(1). State v. Bunning, 338 N.C. 483, 450 S.E.2d 462 (1994).

In a prosecution for murder the trial court erred in allowing the defendant a new trial on the basis that the retroactivity of the Mullaney rule (see Hankerson v. North Carolina, 432 U.S. 233, 97 S. Ct. 2339, 53 L. Ed. 2d 306 (1977)) was applicable, where the defendant-appellant did not object or assign as error on appeal the instructions of the trial court to the jury requiring the defendant to prove the absence of malice or that he acted in self-defense in order to reduce the alleged crime of murder in the second degree to voluntary manslaughter. State v. Watson, 37 N.C. App. 399, 246 S.E.2d 25, appeal dismissed, 295 N.C. 652, 257 S.E.2d 434 (1978).

Purpose of provision in subdivision (b)(1) of this rule that an exception shall be set out immediately following the record of judicial action to which it is addressed is to make appellate review more effective by narrowing the scope of inquiry to, and providing a visible reference point in the record for, the particular judicial action which the appellant assigns as error. State v. Hall, 85 N.C. App. 447, 355 S.E.2d 250, cert. denied, 320 N.C. 515, 358 S.E.2d 525 (1987).

Failure to object to the introduction of evidence is a waiver of the right to do so, and its admission, even if incompetent, is not a proper basis for appeal. State v. Lucas, 302 N.C. 342, 275 S.E.2d 433 (1981).

Where no action was taken by counsel during the course of the proceedings, the burden is on the party alleging error to establish its right to review, that is, that an exception, by rule or law was deemed preserved or taken without any such action, or that the alleged error constitutes plain error. State v. Gardner, 68 N.C. App. 515, 316 S.E.2d 131 (1984), aff'd, 315 N.C. 444, 340 S.E.2d 701 (1986).

Where defendant failed to object to the district attorney's summary of the evidence offered upon his guilty plea, he waived his right to appeal any possible error regarding this evidence. State v. Mullican, 95 N.C. App. 27, 381 S.E.2d 847 (1989), aff'd, 329 N.C. 683, 406 S.E.2d 854 (1991).

Party believing the methodology used by an expert witness in valuing property at issue is not valid or, if valid, is not properly applied to the facts at issue, has an obligation to object to its admission; if a timely objection is not lodged at trial, it cannot be argued on appeal that the trial court erred in relying on this evidence in determining the value of the asset at issue. Walter v. Walter, 149 N.C. App. 723, 561 S.E.2d 571, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 290 (2002).

Because defense counsel only made general objections to the prosecutor's questions when defendant was cross-examined during his trial for first degree murder and failed to state specific grounds for his objections, defendant's claims that the prosecutor improperly questioned him about prior bad acts and his juvenile convictions were not preserved for review; furthermore, the appellate court held that the trial court did not commit plain error by allowing the prosecutor to ask defendant about his juvenile convictions. State v. Perkins, 154 N.C. App. 148, 571 S.E.2d 645, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1403 (2002).

Failure to Object to Testimony. — By failing to object to State's questioning of pathologist regarding fecal matter found in victim's vagina, defendant waived this assignment of error. State v. McNeil, 350 N.C. 657, 518 S.E.2d 486, 1999 N.C. LEXIS 880 (1999), cert. denied, 529 U.S. 1024, 120 S. Ct. 1432, 146 L. Ed. 2d 321 (2000).

Failure to object at trial to plaintiff's counsel's statement as to dollar amount of actual and projected medical costs resulted in a failure to preserve the issue for appeal, under N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(1). Floyd v. McGill, 156 N.C. App. 29, 575 S.E.2d 789, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 35 (2003), cert. denied, 357 N.C. 163, 580 S.E.2d 364 (2003).

Where a land owner failed to object to testimony at trial, he waived his right to appellate review of the trial court's denial of a motion in limine under N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(1). City of Wilson v. Hawley, 156 N.C. App. 609, 577 S.E.2d 161, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 193 (2003).

Failure to Object to Cross-Examination. — Trial court properly allowed cross-examination of defendant about certain prior bad acts pursuant to G.S. 8C-1, N.C. R. Evid. 404(b), as defense counsel did not object as required by N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(1), and defendant failed to prove plain error. State v. Walters, — N.C. —, — S.E.2d —, 2003 N.C. LEXIS 425 (May 2, 2003).

Failure to Object to Admission of Defendant's Police Statement. — Where defendant conceded that he was provided with a copy of his statement that he gave the police during the discovery process, which he reviewed at that time, and where defendant allowed this statement to be published to the jury without objection, and did not argue the admission to be plain error, he could not say it was error to publish the statement at trial without first redacting any mention of his prior charges contained within the statement. State v.

Patterson, 149 N.C. App. 354, 561 S.E.2d 321, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 215 (2002).

Failure to Object to Specific Fact-Finding of Industrial Commission. — Where the Industrial Commission weighed the evidence and determined the credibility of the witnesses before it and made findings of fact as to its award of temporary disability to an employee who had fallen at his workplace, such satisfied the fact-finding of G.S. 97-85; the finding that the employee suffered a back injury within G.S. 97-2(6) was presumed to be correct on appeal, pursuant to N.C. R. App. P. 10(b) where the employer did not preserve that issue for review by separately contesting each particular finding of fact. Johnson v. Herbie's Place, — N.C. App. —, 579 S.E.2d 110, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 640 (2003), cert. denied, — N.C. —, 585 S.E.2d 760 (2003).

Untimely Objection. — Where, at the time of defendant's objection to the admission of the envelope's contents, plaintiff had previously been permitted to testify about them without objection, defendant's objection was not raised in a timely manner. Main St. Shops, Inc. v. Esquire Collections, Ltd., 115 N.C. App. 510, 445 S.E.2d 420 (1994).

Evidence Incompetent by Statute. — Failure of the trial judge to exclude evidence rendered incompetent by statute is reversible error, whether objection is interposed and exception noted or not. State v. McCall, 289 N.C. 570, 223 S.E.2d 334 (1976).

Another exception to the waiver rule implicit in subsection (b) is the admission of evidence contrary to a statute which precludes its admission in furtherance of some public policy of the State. In this instance failure to object to the evidence does not waive one's right to have the error considered on appeal. State v. Strickland, 290 N.C. 169, 225 S.E.2d 531 (1976).

Motion in Limine by Itself Is Insufficient to Preserve Issue. — Where defendants filed a pre-trial motion in limine to exclude all references to insurance matters but failed to object to individual questions regarding insurance, they had not preserved their objection to the testimony. Nunnery v. Baucom, 135 N.C. App. 556, 521 S.E.2d 479, 1999 N.C. App. LEXIS 1176 (1999).

Matters Underlying a Motion in Limine. — It is not sufficient to simply file a pretrial motion in limine to exclude evidence which the trial judge has not heard; to preserve for appeal matters underlying a motion in limine, the movant must make at least general objection when the evidence is offered at trial. Beaver v. Hampton, 106 N.C. App. 172, 416 S.E.2d 8 (1992), rev'd on other grounds, 333 N.C. 455, 427 S.E.2d 317 (1993).

Hearsay. — Although the Court of Appeals disapproves of the admission of hearsay statements three or four times removed from the original declarant under the guise of corroborating the corroborative witness, a defendant must object on that ground, giving the trial court the opportunity to correct any perceived error, in order to preserve the question for appellate review. State v. Petty, 132 N.C. App. 453, 512 S.E.2d 428 (1999).

Discretion of Trial Judge. — A motion to strike out testimony, to which no objection was aptly made, is addressed to the discretion of the trial judge, and his ruling in the exercise of such discretion, unless abuse of that discretion appears, is not subject to review on appeal. State v. Hensley, 29 N.C. App. 8, 222 S.E.2d 716, cert. denied, 290 N.C. 95, 225 S.E.2d 325 (1976).

Discretion of Appellate Court. — Although defendant did not properly preserve for appeal either issue on which he was relying, the Court of Appeals may hear appeals in its discretion under N.C.R.A.P., Rule 2. State v. Petty, 100 N.C. App. 465, 397 S.E.2d 337 (1990).

An objection to testimony not taken in apt time is waived. State v. Hensley, 29 N.C. App. 8, 222 S.E.2d 716, cert. denied, 290 N.C. 95, 225 S.E.2d 325 (1976).

Exceptions to improper remarks of counsel during argument to the jury, like those to the admission of incompetent evidence, must be made in apt time or else be lost. State v. Alford, 289 N.C. 372, 222 S.E.2d 222, vacated in part on other grounds, Carter v. North Carolina, 429 U.S. 809, 97 S. Ct. 46, 50 L. Ed. 2d 69 (1976).

Jurisdiction of the Supreme Court on appeal is limited to questions of law or legal inference, which, ordinarily, must be presented by objections duly entered and exceptions duly taken to the rulings of the lower court. State v. Hedrick, 289 N.C. 232, 221 S.E.2d 350 (1976).

Errors based on rulings made during the trial must ordinarily be called to the attention of the court by an objection taken when the ruling is made. State v. Hedrick, 289 N.C. 232, 221 S.E.2d 350 (1976).

Ordinarily, exceptions to improper remarks of counsel during argument must be taken before verdict. State v. Alford, 289 N.C. 372, 222 S.E.2d 222, vacated in part on other grounds, Carter v. North Carolina, 429 U.S. 809, 97 S. Ct. 46, 50 L. Ed. 2d 69 (1976).

While, ordinarily, failure to object in apt time to incompetent testimony will be regarded as a waiver of objection, and its admission not assignable as error, this rule is subject to an exception where the introduction or use of the evidence is forbidden by statute. State v. McCall, 289 N.C. 570, 223 S.E.2d 334 (1976).

When there is no objection to an offer of evidence or a motion to strike after its admission, any objection or exception is lost. Unless objection is made at the proper time, it is waived. State v. Isom, 52 N.C. App. 331, 278

Failure to make contemporaneous objection to the jury charge prevents the court from recalling the jury to correct allegedly prejudicial errors; such failure constitutes a waiver of the right to challenge the instructions on appeal. Lee v. Keck, 68 N.C. App. 320, 315 S.E.2d 323, cert. denied, 311 N.C. 401, 319 S.E.2d 271 (1984).

Defendant neither moved for recess nor objected to trial court's decision to proceed when his witnesses had not appeared after fifty minutes. Thus, defendant cannot argue on appeal for first time that trial court erred by proceeding to jury without testimony by such witnesses. State v. Williams, 100 N.C. App. 567, 397 S.E.2d 364 (1990), appeal dismissed, 328 N.C. 576, 403 S.E.2d 520 (1991).

Except where the error complained of is so prejudicial that even upon timely objection no purported curative instruction could possibly remove the prejudicial effect, counsel's failure to make timely objection will not waive defendant's right to object under subsection (b). State v. Strickland, 290 N.C. 169, 225 S.E.2d 531 (1976).

Or Where Error Violates Defendant's Constitutional Rights. — Where the error violates defendant's right to a trial by a jury of twelve, defendant's failure to object is not fatal to his right to raise the question on appeal. State v. Ashe, 314 N.C. 28, 331 S.E.2d 652 (1985).

Where defendant failed to object to trial court's termination of first trial by a declaration of mistrial, defendant was not entitled by reason of former jeopardy to dismissal of charge against him; defendant was given notice and opportunity to object before mistrial was declared. State v. Sanders, 122 N.C. App. 691, 471 S.E.2d 641 (1996).

Where record on appeal did not indicate that the trial court considered plaintiff's motions, as required by N.C.R.A.P. Rule 9, the court could not review plaintiff's assignment of error pursuant to subdivision (b)(1) of this rule. Buckingham v. Buckingham, 134 N.C. App. 82, 516 S.E.2d 869, 1999 N.C. App. LEXIS 657 (1999), cert. denied, 351 N.C. 100, 540 S.E.2d 353 (1999).

Court Transcript. — While defendant's brief contained references to the court transcript, none of the referenced pages specifically indicated that defendant had moved to set aside the verdict, and the court would not review on appeal. State v. Nobles, 350 N.C. 483, 515 S.E.2d 885 (1999).

Review Limited to Plain Error. — Where defendant failed to object to jury instruction at trial, Supreme Court's review of alleged error was limited on appeal to review for plain error. State v. Black, 328 N.C. 191, 400 S.E.2d 398 (1991).

Where a defendant did not object to instruction at trial, any defect in the instruction must rise to the level of plain error for defendant to be entitled to relief on appeal. State v. Terry, 329 N.C. 191, 404 S.E.2d 658 (1991).

Appellate review was limited to plain error review where defendant made no objection or exception to evidence presented and admitted at trial. State v. McNair, 146 N.C. App. 674, 554 S.E.2d 665, 2001 N.C. App. LEXIS 1061 (2001).

When defendant's motion in limine did not preserve his objection, for purposes of appeal, to certain evidence to which he did not object at trial on the same basis as the objection he asserted on appeal, the appellate court's review of his objection was limited to plain error, under N.C. R. App. P. 10(c)(4). State v. McClary, — N.C. App. —, 577 S.E.2d 690, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 378 (2003).

Exception to Default Judgment. — Defendant's exception to judgment, entered in open court, permitted him to challenge on appeal whether a default judgment could be based upon plaintiff's complaint. Hunter v. Spaulding, 97 N.C. App. 372, 388 S.E.2d 630 (1990).

When a defendant presents evidence at trial, he waives his right on appeal to assert the trial court's error in denying the motion to dismiss at the close of the state's evidence. State v. Davis, 101 N.C. App. 409, 399 S.E.2d 371 (1991).

An unrepresented party is not relieved of the duty to object to evidence in order to preserve the issue for appeal. Seafare Corp. v. Trenor Corp., 88 N.C. App. 404, 363 S.E.2d 643, cert. denied, 322 N.C. 113, 367 S.E.2d 917 (1988).

Where a statement contains both corrobative and noncorroborative evidence, the defendant must object specifically to the inadmissible portions. State v. Demery, 113 N.C. App. 58, 437 S.E.2d 704 (1993).

Withdrawal of Challenged Questions. — Where a defendant withdraws challenged questions, the court's ruling on those questions is not preserved for review. State v. Larrimore, 340 N.C. 119, 456 S.E.2d 789 (1995).

Loss of Right to Challenge Search Warrant. — Defendant's assignment of error asserting that search warrant was deficient under G.S. 15A-244(3) in failing to meet the requirements of G.S. 15A-245(b) and was prohibited under Article I, Section 20 of the North Carolina Constitution was dismissed as not properly before the Court pursuant to subsection (c) of this rule. State v. Washington, 134 N.C. App. 479, 518 S.E.2d 14 (1999).

Substantial Compliance Sufficient for Preservation of Error. — Where at the charge conference, plaintiff specifically objected to the submission to the jury of the issue of the doctrine of sudden emergency, and later objected to the content of sudden emergency charge, and plaintiff specifically referenced this portion of the transcript within his brief and included a copy of the trial court's instruction on the sudden emergency doctrine, plaintiff substantially complied with the rules of Appellate Procedure and therefore adequately preserved to question for appellate review. Holbrook v. Henley, 118 N.C. App. 151, 454 S.E.2d 676 (1995).

Although the defendant did not raise his double jeopardy argument using those exact words at his trail, the substance of the argument was sufficiently presented and, more importantly, addressed by the trial court in finalizing its instructions to the jury; accordingly, the appellate court considered the merits of the defendant's double jeopardy argument on appeal. State v. Ezell, — N.C. App. —, 582 S.E.2d 679, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1418 (2003).

Issue Not Preserved. — Defendant argued that cautionary instruction was error, as it drew particular attention to prosecutor's improper question; however, before the judge gave the second instruction, defense counsel did not object and defendant failed to preserve the issue for appellate review. State v. Ballew, 113 N.C. App. 674, 440 S.E.2d 565 (1994), aff'd, 339 N.C. 733, 453 S.E.2d 865 (1995).

The defendant failed to preserve his claim that a prospective juror should have been excused for cause in his capital murder trial, where he argued on appeal that a police officer should have been excused because he had heard about the case during his employment as a police officer and because the officer said that he would find a police officer to be a more credible witness simply due to his status as an officer, but he did not make these arguments at trial, arguing there that the officer should be dismissed because he was seen talking to a deputy sheriff during a break. State v. Hoffman, 349 N.C. 167, 505 S.E.2d 80 (1998), cert. denied, 526 U.S. 1053, 119 S. Ct. 1362, 143 L. Ed. 2d 522 (1999).

Defendant failed to preserve his objection to testimony by a child sexual abuse expert that he contended was contradictory rather than corroborative, where he did not object on the ground that it was outside the scope of corroborative testimony, but merely requested the trial court to instruct the jury that the evidence was offered for only corroborative purposes. State v. Petty, 132 N.C. App. 453, 512 S.E.2d 428 (1999).

In his appellate brief, plaintiff argued issues of negligence versus intent, policy coverage and defendant's duty to defend the insured in the prior proceeding; however, plaintiff did not preserve the right to argue these issues on appeal where he neither moved the trial court for a directed verdict or judgment notwithstanding the verdict, nor did he give notice of appeal from the jury verdict. Pate v. State Farm Fire & Cas. Co., 136 N.C. App. 836, 526 S.E.2d 497, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 153 (2000).

Where defendant did not move for a mistrial, the failure of the trial court to grant a mistrial was not an error that was properly preserved for appellate review. State v. Patterson, 149 N.C. App. 354, 561 S.E.2d 321, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 215 (2002).

By simply relying on the words "plain error" in a footnote as the extent of defendant's argument, defendant failed to argue plain error and thereby waived appellate review. State v. Wiley, 355 N.C. 592, 565 S.E.2d 22, 2002 N.C. LEXIS 552 (2002).

Outdoor advertising companies who were appealing the revocations of their permits for certain outdoor advertising signs did not show that they would be required to violate certain state statutes, such as G.S. 136-89.56, prohibiting commercial enterprises on certain highways, or G.S. 136.89.58, prohibiting standing vehicles on the right-of-way of certain highways, to measure the height of those signs, nor was this argument raised before the trial court, as required by N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(1). Capital Outdoor, Inc. v. Tolson, — N.C. App. —, 582 S.E.2d 717, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1417 (2003).

No Objection to Proceedings Pro Se Before Industrial Commission. — The issue of whether the Industrial Commission erred in allowing the claimant to proceed pro se with her appeal after her counsel withdrew was not preserved for appeal, where claimant assented to her counsel's withdrawal, fully participated in the hearing before the Commission, and never objected to counsel's withdrawal or proceeding pro se. Porter v. Fieldcrest Cannon, Inc., 133 N.C. App. 23, 514 S.E.2d 517 (1999).

Where defendant lodged no objection on the record, court refused to allow defendant to bootstrap his unpreserved argument regarding submission of punitive damages to the jury onto his challenge to the court's allowance of plaintiff's motion to amend. Shore v. Farmer, 133 N.C. App. 350, 515 S.E.2d 495 (1999), rev'd on other grounds, 351 N.C. 166, 522 S.E.2d 73 (1999).

On appeal from adverse name change decision, the appellate court declined to address petitioner's constitutionally-based assignments of error because the record failed to show that she raised them before the clerk or the superior court. In re Crawford, 134 N.C. App. 137, 517 S.E.2d 161 (1999).

Where defendant failed to address the increased sentence received after his lower consolidated sentence was declared illegal, never addressed the constitutionality (double jeopardy or due process concerns) of the resentencing, and argued only that the offenses should have been consolidated, he failed to preserve those issues for review. State v. Branch, 134 N.C. App. 637, 518 S.E.2d 213 (1999).

Defendant abandoned the issue of whether the aggravating factor of damage causing great monetary loss could be applied to the offense of conspiracy, by not stating it in his assignments of error. State v. Hughes, 136 N.C. App. 92, 524 S.E.2d 63, 1999 N.C. App. LEXIS 1302 (1999).

Illustrative Cases. — The court could not address the defendants' claim that the trial court erred in instructing the jury that violation of an OSHA regulation is negligence per se, and in admitting OSHA citations into evidence along with expert testimony regarding the OSHA violations, because they were not properly raised in the trial court. Wolfe v. Wilmington Shipyard, Inc., 135 N.C. App. 661, 522 S.E.2d 306, 1999 N.C. App. LEXIS 1243 (1999).

Trial court properly declined to strike ex mero motu four jurors that were empaneled prior to a claim that defendant was incompetent to aid in jury selection; defendant did not move to strike the jurors at trial, and the issue was not properly preserved for appellate review pursuant to N.C.R. App. P. 10(b)(1), and while defendant requested plain error review of the issue, the plain error doctrine was limited to errors in jury instructions and the admission of evidence, N.C.R. App. P. 10(c)(4), and further, it was not clear from the record that defendant was not competent on when the jurors were selected. State v. Wolfe, — N.C. App. —, 577 S.E.2d 655, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 373 (2003).

Trial court, at most, committed harmless error in admitting the prior statement of a witness to police regarding defendant shooting at him and the appellate court could not review the issue of whether the jury was properly charged regarding the limited purpose for which it was to consider that evidence, as defendant only raised a general objection to the admission of the prior statement, did not request a limiting instruction, and did not state the specific ground on which he objected to admission of that evidence; as a result, the issue was waived for appellate review. State v. Maddox, — N.C. App. —, 583 S.E.2d 601, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1438 (2003).

Car purchasers failed to preserve for review of a question regarding the notification of potential members of a lawsuit class after the purchasers withdrew their motion for class certification and as such, the appellate court declined to review the alleged error. Alexander v. DaimlerChrysler Corp., — N.C. App. —, 582 S.E.2d 57, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1220 (2003).

Although the mother and father objected to the social worker's opinion that sexual abuse of at least one of their children had occurred, they did not object to the doctor's testimony that she had diagnosed the older daughter as having been sexually abused, and, thus, the mother and father could not challenge on appeal the admission of the doctor's testimony. In re Morales, — N.C. App. —, 583 S.E.2d 692, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1518 (2003).

The purpose of subdivision 10(b)(2) is to encourage the parties to inform the trial court of errors in its instructions so that it can correct the instructions to cure any potential errors before the jury deliberates on the case and thereby eliminate the need for a new trial. State v. Allen, 339 N.C. 545, 453 S.E.2d 150 (1995), overruled on other grounds, State v. Gaines, 345 N.C. 647, 483 S.E.2d 396 (1997).

B. Jury Instructions; Findings and Conclusions of Judge.

The purpose of subdivision (b)(2) of this rule is to encourage the parties to inform the trial court of errors in its instructions so that it can correct the instructions and cure any potential errors before the jury deliberates on the case and thereby eliminate the need for a new trial. Indeed, even when the "plain error" rule is applied, it is the rare case in which an improper instruction will justify reversal of a criminal conviction when no objection has been made in the trial court. State v. Odom, 307 N.C. 655, 300 S.E.2d 375 (1983); State v. Sigmon, 74 N.C. App. 479, 328 S.E.2d 843 (1985).

The purpose of subdivision (b)(2) of this rule appears to be to provide the trial court an opportunity to correct any obvious defects and thereby eliminate the need for an appeal and a new proceeding. Implicit in this rule is also an obligation on a party to object to erroneous findings made by the trial court. State v. Bradley, 91 N.C. App. 559, 373 S.E.2d 130 (1988), cert. denied, 324 N.C. 114, 377 S.E.2d 238 (1989).

Subdivision (b)(2) of this rule and Rule 21 of the Rules of Practice for the Superior and District Courts were designed to prevent unnecessary new trials caused by errors in instructions that the court could have corrected if brought to its attention at the proper time. This policy is met when a request to alter an instruction has been submitted and the trial judge has considered and refused the request. In most instances, it is obvious that further objection at the close of the instructions would be unavailing. Wall v. Stout, 310 N.C. 184, 311 S.E.2d 571 (1984); Mills v. New River Wood Corp., 77 N.C. App. 576, 335 S.E.2d 759 (1985).

Subdivision (b)(2) Mandatory. — Subdivision (b)(2) of this rule, requiring objection to the charge before the jury retires, is mandatory and not merely directory. State v. Fennell, 307 N.C. 258, 297 S.E.2d 393 (1982); State v. Sigmon, 74 N.C. App. 479, 328 S.E.2d 843 (1985); Mills v. New River Wood Corp., 77 N.C.

App. 576, 335 S.E.2d 759 (1985); State v. Ayers, 92 N.C. App. 364, 374 S.E.2d 428 (1988).

G.S. 15A-1446(d)(13) Abrogated by Subdivision (b)(2). — By enacting subdivision (b)(2) of this rule, the Supreme Court has by preemption abrogated G.S. 15A-1446(d)(13). State v. Bennett, 59 N.C. App. 418, 297 S.E.2d 138 (1982), modified on other grounds, 308 N.C. 530, 302 S.E.2d 786 (1983).

Insofar as the provisions of G.S. 15A-1446(d)(5) allow a party to raise arguments regarding the sufficiency of the evidence to support a finding of fact at sentencing, it is inconsistent with the spirit and purpose of subdivision (b)(2), and statutes which are in conflict with the Rules of Appellate Procedure are ineffective. State v. Bradley, 91 N.C. App. 559, 373 S.E.2d 130 (1988), cert. denied, 324 N.C. 114, 377 S.E.2d 238 (1989).

Construction of Subdivision (b)(2) with G.S. 15A-1231. — Subdivision (b)(2) of this rule and G.S. 15A-1231 are in conflict. Subdivision (b)(2) of this rule, however, is a rule of appellate practice and procedure, promulgated by the Supreme Court pursuant to its exclusive authority under N.C. Const., Art. IV, § 13(2). Therefore, to the extent that G.S. 15A-1231 is inconsistent with subdivision (b)(2) of this rule, the statute must fail. State v. Bennett, 308 N.C. 530, 302 S.E.2d 786 (1983).

F.R.Civ.P., Rule 51, contains language almost identical to subdivision (b)(2) of this rule. Under F.R.Civ.P., Rule 51, no party may assign as error the giving or the failure to give an instruction unless he objects thereto before the jury retires to consider its verdict. Wall v. Stout, 310 N.C. 184, 311 S.E.2d 571 (1984).

A motion for a new trial made under G.S. 1A-1, Rule 59 is a substitute for the obligation of counsel to timely object to the jury instructions. Hanna v. Brady, 73 N.C. App. 521, 327 S.E.2d 22, cert. denied, 313 N.C. 600, 332 S.E.2d 179 (1985).

Objections Required by Subdivision (b)(2). — Pursuant to subdivision (b)(2) of this rule, in order to preserve a right to appeal a party must object to the jury charge, or any omission therefrom, before the jury retires. The rule also explicitly requires a party to object to the failure of the trial court to make necessary findings and conclusions in order to advance these issues on appeal. State v. Bradley, 91 N.C. App. 559, 373 S.E.2d 130 (1988), cert. denied, 324 N.C. 114, 377 S.E.2d 238 (1989).

Where jury was erroneously instructed that it could award prejudgment interest on damages under G.S. 24-5 the court declined to disturb the judgment because defendant did not object to the instruction as required by subdivision (b)(2) of this Rule and the jury awarded no interest. Estate of Smith ex rel. Smith v. Underwood, 127 N.C. App. 1, 487 S.E.2d 807 (1997), cert. denied, 347 N.C. 398, 494 S.E.2d 410 (1997).

Where a woman's former boyfriend, who was being sued by the woman's husband for alienation of affections and criminal conversation, objected to jury instructions as to evidence of a recorded telephone conversation with respect to the husband's alienation of affections claim, such did not constitute a proper objection to the standard of review contained in that instruction; accordingly, the error was waived on review pursuant to the boyfriend's failure to properly object in compliance with N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(2). Oddo v. Presser, — N.C. App. —, 581 S.E.2d 123, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1196 (2003).

Subdivision (b)(2) of this rule has no application once the jury has begun its deliberations. City of Winston-Salem v. Hege, 61 N.C. App. 339, 300 S.E.2d 589 (1983).

This rule requires that a party object to the jury charge before the jury retires to consider its verdict. Failure to do so waives any such objection. State v. Horner, 310 N.C. 274, 311 S.E.2d 281 (1984).

Objection Must Be Specific to Item Reviewed. — Where defendant objected only to the trial court's reading of the first sentence of the jury instruction and his objection was not directed to the circumstances under which the jury could find a statutory aggravating circumstance, defendant waived appellate review of this assignment of error. State v. McNeil, 350 N.C. 657, 518 S.E.2d 486, 1999 N.C. LEXIS 880 (1999), cert. denied, 529 U.S. 1024, 120 S. Ct. 1432, 146 L. Ed. 2d 321 (2000).

High Degree of Specificity Required Under Subdivision (b)(2). — Defendant, who failed to object to an intervening negligence instruction as omitting reference to foreseeability, did not preserve that issue for review, although he had made a general objection to the instruction. Burchette v. Lynch, 139 N.C. App. 756, 535 S.E.2d 77, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 1025 (2000).

Where defense counsel submitted written request for particular instructions prior to the jury arguments, which the court denied, defendant was not required by either subdivision (b)(2) of this rule or Rule 21 of the General Rules of Practice for the Superior and District Courts to repeat his objection to the jury instructions, after the fact, in order to properly preserve his exception for appellate review. State v. Smith, 311 N.C. 287, 316 S.E.2d 73 (1984).

Failure to Sign Written Instructions Did Not Prevent Issue Preservation. — A written request for jury instructions was sufficient to preserve plaintiff's objection to the instructions on appeal although it was not signed by plaintiff's counsel as required by G.S. 1A-1, Rule 51(b). Kinsey v. Spann, 139 N.C. App. 370, 533 S.E.2d 487, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 904 (2000).

Failure to Object to Proposed Jury Instructions on Punitive Damages Precludes Appellate Review. — Where a boyfriend was sued by a husband for alienation of his wife's affections and criminal conversation, the boyfriend's argument that the trial court did not provide the jury with any standards for the assessment of punitive damages and that the omission violated his rights to due process and equal protection under the United States Constitution and similar rights under the North Carolina Constitution, complied with neither N.C. R. App. P. 28(b)(6) nor N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(1), and the assignment of error was overruled. Nunn v. Allen, 154 N.C. App. 523, 574 S.E.2d 35, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1522 (2002), cert. denied, 356 N.C. 675, 577 S.E.2d 630 (2003).

Failure to Except to Jury Instructions. — Defendant waived his right to assign error to certain instructions on appeal where, at trial, before the judge had completed his final instructions to the jury, the judge called the attorneys to the bench and inquired whether either attorney had any further requests, additions, or corrections regarding the instructions to the jury and both attorneys responded negatively, since defense counsel had the opportunity to make an objection out of the hearing of the jury but made no objection at trial. State v. Norfleet, 65 N.C. App. 355, 309 S.E.2d 260 (1983).

Defendants, who failed to object to certain instructions at trial, were barred from raising them on appeal. Lowder v. All Star Mills, Inc., 75 N.C. App. 233, 330 S.E.2d 649, cert. denied, 314 N.C. 541, 335 S.E.2d 19 (1985); Martin v. Hare, 78 N.C. App. 358, 337 S.E.2d 632 (1985).

It was conclusively presumed that the jury instructions, not objected to by the defendant, conformed to the issues submitted and were without legal error. Dailey v. Integon Gen. Ins. Corp., 75 N.C. App. 387, 331 S.E.2d 148, cert. denied, 314 N.C. 664, 336 S.E.2d 399 (1985).

Where a defendant failed to object to an instruction, this rule barred her from assigning error to this portion of the judge's instruction. Penley v. Penley, 314 N.C. 1, 332 S.E.2d 51 (1985).

Failure to object to the instructions given constitutes a waiver of the right to challenge the instructions on appeal. Chastain v. Wall, 78 N.C. App. 350, 337 S.E.2d 150 (1985), cert. denied, 316 N.C. 375, 342 S.E.2d 891 (1986).

Where defendant failed to object before the jury retired to that portion of the judge's instructions to the jury to which he took exception, although the court gave him opportunities to object, the assignment of error lacked a properly preserved exception and had no merit. State v. Powell, 91 N.C. App. 441, 371 S.E.2d 724 (1988), cert. denied, 324 N.C. 116, 377 S.E.2d 243 (1989).

Where plaintiff failed to except and cross-assign error to the failure of the trial judge to submit any issue relating to the liability of corporate defendant, that portion of the lower court's judgment taxing attorney's fees and expenses against the corporate defendant for unwarranted refusal to settle the case was not properly before the Court of Appeals. Taylor v. Foy, 91 N.C. App. 82, 370 S.E.2d 442 (1988), aff'd in part, 324 N.C. 331, 377 S.E.2d 745 (1989).

A party to a trial may not assign as error any portion of the jury charge unless it was objected to at trial prior to the jury retiring to deliberate. In such cases defendant is entitled to relief only if he can show that the instructions complained of constitute "plain error." State v. Cummings, 326 N.C. 298, 389 S.E.2d 66 (1990).

Where defendant pled gross contributory negligence as a defense in his answer but made no request that the court give such an instruction at either of the two charge conferences or when given the opportunity to object to the jury instructions before the jury retired to consider its verdict, defendant waived the objection that the trial court erred in failing to instruct the jury on gross contributory negligence. Berrier v. Thrift, 107 N.C. App. 356, 420 S.E.2d 206 (1992), cert. denied, 333 N.C. 254, 424 S.E.2d 918 (1993).

Defendant failed to object to trial court's denial of his request for a punitive damages charge and accordingly could not contest the issue on appeal. Powell v. Omli, 110 N.C. App. 336, 429 S.E.2d 774, cert. denied, 334 N.C. 621, 435 S.E.2d 338 (1993).

Where the defendant claimed the trial court erred in its instructions on lack of mental capacity as a factor tending to negate the specific intent required for first-degree murder but the defendant did not object to the instructions, the assignment of error was barred. State v. Barton, 335 N.C. 696, 441 S.E.2d 295 (1994).

Although plaintiff urged the court to dismiss assignments of error for failure to contemporaneously object to the trial court's instruction, the policy of Rule 10(b)(2) is met when a request to alter an instruction has been submitted to the trial court at the charge conference. Roberts v. Young, 120 N.C. App. 720, 464 S.E.2d 78 (1995).

Because defendant's tender of modified jury instructions prior to voir dire was not sufficient to constitute a request for Conner instructions during the questioning of two jurors, he waived his right to assert that trial court improperly denied his request for instructions to disregard parole-related considerations in determining his sentence. State v. McNeil, 350 N.C. 657, 518 S.E.2d 486, 1999 N.C. LEXIS 880 (1999), cert.

denied, 529 U.S. 1024, 120 S. Ct. 1432, 146 L. Ed. 2d 321 (2000).

Plaintiff waived all objections to a trial court's jury instructions because a timely objection was not made at trial, as required by N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(2). Alford v. Lowery, 154 N.C. App. 486, 573 S.E.2d 543, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1459 (2002).

Same — Law Changed Hours Before Charge. — Although plaintiffs did not object to jury instructions, it was not error for the trial court to grant a new trial on the grounds that the jury had been erroneously charged, where both court and counsel were understandably unaware that the law had changed only hours before the jury was charged. Any objections lodged by the plaintiffs would have been unavailing where the trial judge instructed the jury in accordance with what to him was still established law. Hunnicutt v. Griffin, 76 N.C. App. 259, 332 S.E.2d 525, cert. denied, 314 N.C. 665, 336 S.E.2d 400 (1985).

A request for an instruction at the charge conference is sufficient compliance with this rule to warrant the Supreme Court's full review on appeal, where the requested instruction is subsequently promised but not given, notwithstanding any failure to bring the error to the trial judge's attention at the end of the instructions. State v. Ross, 322 N.C. 261, 367 S.E.2d 889 (1988).

Although the defendant's counsel did not object to the jury charge when it was given, his earlier request for the alibi instruction at the charge conference was sufficient under subdivision (b)(2) of this rule to warrant the court's full review on appeal. State v. Hood, 332 N.C. 611, 422 S.E.2d 679 (1992), cert. denied, 507 U.S. 1055, 113 S. Ct. 1955, 123 L.Ed.2d 659 (1993).

Instructions on Self-Defense. — Subdivision (b)(2) of this rule does not alter the rule of State v. Brown, 300 N.C. 41, 265 S.E.2d 191 (1980), holding that where competent evidence is presented, the trial judge must give self-defense and "no duty to retreat" instructions even absent a specific request. However, it operates to preclude a defendant from assigning as error on appeal a trial judge's failure to so instruct unless defendant preserves the error by making a timely objection at trial. State v. Morgan, 315 N.C. 626, 340 S.E.2d 84 (1986).

The necessity for identifying the instruction objected to has long been the established practice in North Carolina. The new rules merely clarify the requirement. State v. Snyder, 31 N.C. App. 745, 230 S.E.2d 599 (1976), cert. denied, 292 N.C. 268, 233 S.E.2d 395 (1977).

Where the exceptions supporting the assignment of error as to the jury charge refer the court to every transcript page of the jury charge, and defendant fails to clearly identify the objectional portions by setting them within brackets or by any other clear means of reference, the alleged error in the jury charge is not present for consideration on appeal. Henderson v. Traditional Log Homes, Inc., 70 N.C. App. 303, 319 S.E.2d 290, cert. denied, 312 N.C. 622, 323 S.E.2d 923 (1984).

And Substance of Inadequacy Must Be Supplied. — Subdivision (b)(2) of this rule means that when an appellant excepts to the inadequacy of the court's instruction on a particular point, in contrast to the court's failure to give any charge on the subject, appellant must set out the substance of the inadequacy, that is, substantially supply the omission which he contends rendered the charge insufficient. State v. Freeman, 295 N.C. 210, 244 S.E.2d 680 (1978).

The review of the evidence and the statement of the parties' contentions are a "portion of the jury charge" and come within the purview of subdivision (b)(2) of this rule. Green Hi-Win Farm, Inc. v. Neal, 83 N.C. App. 201, 349 S.E.2d 614 (1986), cert. denied, 319 N.C. 104, 353 S.E.2d 109 (1987).

Preservation of Jury Instruction Objections for Review Prior to 1981 Amendment. — See Cole v. Stevenson, 620 F.2d 1055 (4th Cir.), cert. denied, 449 U.S. 1004, 101 S. Ct. 545, 66 L. Ed. 2d 301 (1980), rehearing denied, 449 U.S. 1119, 101 S. Ct. 932, 66 L. Ed. 2d 848 (1981).

Error Preserved. — Under N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(2), defendant preserved the argument that the trial court improperly refused to instruct the jury on the defense of voluntary intoxication; defense counsel stated before the trial court its desire to bring forward the defense's exception that the trial court did not instruct on intoxication. State v. Keitt, 153 N.C. App. 671, 571 S.E.2d 35, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1248 (2002), aff'd, 357 N.C. 155, 579 S.E.2d 250 (2003).

Error Not Preserved. — Where the State made a general request for an instruction on aiding and abetting, and defense counsel did not object and did not make a specific request as to the form of the instruction the trial court was never made aware of specific instruction sought by the parties. Thus, because defense counsel did not object to the instructions the court decided to give, the court never had the opportunity to cure any perceived errors in the instructions and the question was not preserved for appeal. State v. Allen, 339 N.C. 545, 453 S.E.2d 150 (1995), overruled on other grounds, State v. Gaines, 345 N.C. 647, 483 S.E.2d 396 (1997).

Failure to Object to Special Interrogatories in Judgment Notwithstanding the Verdict. — Defendant who failed to assert an issue involving special interrogatories in his motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, consequently, failed to preserve the issue for appellate review under N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(2). Compton v. Kirby, — N.C. App. —, 577 S.E.2d 905, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 369 (2003).

Failure to Object to Trial Court's Lack of Written Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law. — Under N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(2), defendant waived any claim that the trial court failed to make findings of fact and conclusions of law regarding whether he had been denied his right to communicate with counsel, family, and friends, by not making a timely objection or requesting that the trial court reduce its findings and conclusions to writing. State v. Rasmussen, — N.C. App. —, 582 S.E.2d 44, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1219 (2003).

Failure to Except to Findings of Fact. — When no exceptions are made to the findings of fact, they are presumed to be supported by competent evidence and are binding on appeal. Anderson Chevrolet/Olds, Inc. v. Higgins, 57 N.C. App. 650, 292 S.E.2d 159 (1982).

Failure to object to disputed charge during the opportunity provided results in failure to properly preserve the assignment of error for appeal, as required by this rule. State v. Morris, 60 N.C. App. 750, 300 S.E.2d 46 (1983).

When no exceptions are made to separate findings of fact, they are presumed to be supported by competent evidence. State v. Perry, 316 N.C. 87, 340 S.E.2d 450 (1986).

Assignments of error not supported by exceptions duly noted in the record or transcript as required by this rule presented no question for review. Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. v. Southeast Airmotive, Inc., 91 N.C. App. 417, 371 S.E.2d 768 (1988), cert. denied, 323 N.C. 706, 377 S.E.2d 230 (1989).

Failure to Except to Consideration of Nonstatutory Factors. — Defendant failed to object at the sentencing hearing to the trial court's consideration of the nonstatutory aggravating factor that defendant had the intent to kill when he assaulted the victims; his right to appellate review on the issue was, therefore, waived. State v. Degree, 110 N.C. App. 638, 430 S.E.2d 491 (1993).

Issue Preserved in Spite of Failure to Record Objection. — Where there was no dispute that defendant's counsel objected to plaintiff's motion to amend complaint to include an issue of punitive damages, this rule did not bar defendant from challenging the trial court's instruction to the jury and the submission of the issue of punitive damages, even though the objection was not recorded. Shore v. Farmer, 351 N.C. 166, 522 S.E.2d 73 (1999).

C. Sufficiency of Evidence.

Construction with Other Law. — Conflict between G.S. 15A-1446(d)(5), allowing insufficiency of the evidence to be raised on appellate review even though no objection was raised at trial, and N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(3), providing that a defendant could not assign as error the insufficiency of the evidence unless he moved to dismiss the case at trial, was resolved in favor of the Rule. State v. Davis, — N.C. App. —, — S.E.2d —, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1193 (Aug. 6, 2002), cert. denied, 356 N.C. 170, 568 S.E.2d 623 (2002).

By introducing evidence, defendant waived his motion to dismiss at the close of the state's evidence. State v. Elliott, 69 N.C. App. 89, 316 S.E.2d 632, appeal dismissed and cert. denied, 311 N.C. 765, 321 S.E.2d 148 (1984).

Necessity of Motion to Dismiss. — Although G.S. 15A-1446(d)(5) provides that questions of insufficiency of the evidence may be the subject of appellate review, even when no objection or motion has been made at trial, subdivision (b)(3) of this rule, which controls, provides that a defendant who fails to make a motion to dismiss at the close of all of the evidence may not attack on appeal the sufficiency of the evidence at trial. State v. Spaugh, 321 N.C. 550, 364 S.E.2d 368 (1988).

The defendant waived appellate review of the issue that insufficient evidence of vaginal penetration was presented, where the defendant moved to dismiss the first degree rape charge at the close of the state's case for insufficient evidence, but the trial court denied that motion, and the defendant did not renew his motion to dismiss at the close of all evidence. State v. Hinnant, 131 N.C. App. 591, 508 S.E.2d 537 (1998).

Since the juvenile did not file a motion to dismiss the juvenile petition filed against her alleging that she knowingly possessed marijuana, she was not entitled to challenge on appeal the sufficiency of the evidence to prove the crime charged because N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(3) prevented her from doing so. In re Hartsock, — N.C. App. —, 580 S.E.2d 395, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1043 (2003).

Or Judgment as in Case of Nonsuit. — Although G.S. 15A-1446(d)(5) allows a defendant to appeal on insufficiency of evidence grounds, notwithstanding the fact that no objection, exception or motion was made at trial, such statute is negated by subdivision (b)(3) of this rule, which states that a defendant may not assign as error the insufficiency of the evidence to prove the crime charged unless he moves to dismiss the action, or for judgment as in case of nonsuit at trial. State v. Jordan, 321 N.C. 714, 365 S.E.2d 617 (1988).

Having failed to preserve a record of any motion for directed verdict at the close of all evidence, defendant waived his right to assign error to either the trial judge's purported ruling on that motion or the ruling on the motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict. Jansen v. Collins, 92 N.C. App. 516, 374 S.E.2d 641 (1988).

Defendants' motion for a new trial did not meet the requirements of G.S. 1A-1, Rule 7(b)(1) where defendants merely stated that they were entitled to a new trial under G.S. 1A-1, Rule 59(a)(5), (a)(7) and (a)(8), but did not state any specific basis for granting a new trial. Meehan v. Cable, 135 N.C. App. 715, 523 S.E.2d 419, 1999 N.C. App. LEXIS 1373 (1999).

IV. ASSIGNMENTS OF ERROR.

A. Form; Record References.

Compliance Universally Mandatory. — Since appellate rules apply to everyone, the court would dismiss the appeal of pro se defendant who failed to comply with N.C.R.A.P., Rules 9(a)(1)(c), 9(a)(1)(k), 9(b)(3), 10(c)(1), 12(a), and 28(b)(5). Bledsoe v. County of Wilkes, 135 N.C. App. 124, 519 S.E.2d 316 (1999).

Assignments of error are now mandatory to perfect an appeal. Shook v. County of Buncombe, 125 N.C. App. 284, 480 S.E.2d 706 (1997).

Failure to assign error to court's conclusion regarding forum non conveniens constituted an acceptance and a waiver of the right to challenge said conclusion as unsupported by the facts. Fran's Pecans, Inc. v. Greene, 134 N.C. App. 110, 516 S.E.2d 647 (1999).

Where plaintiff failed to assign any error whatsoever in the record on appeal as required by subsection (a) and subdivision (c)(1), the omission was fatal to the appeal. Shook v. County of Buncombe, 125 N.C. App. 284, 480 S.E.2d 706 (1997).

Exceptions appearing only under purported assignments of error, and not duly noted in the record as required by this rule, are ineffective. State v. White, 82 N.C. App. 358, 346 S.E.2d 243 (1986), cert. denied, 323 N.C. 179, 373 S.E.2d 124 (1988), the court nevertheless exercising its discretion to consider the errors assigned.

Party may not, after trial and judgment, comb through transcript of proceedings and randomly insert exception notation in disregard of the mandates of subsection (b) of this rule. State v. Gardner, 68 N.C. App. 515, 316 S.E.2d 131 (1984), aff'd, 315 N.C. 444, 340 S.E.2d 701 (1986).

Under the "silent record" rule, the appellate court will presume that the court applied the proper evidentiary standard. Lawing v. Lawing, 81 N.C. App. 159, 344 S.E.2d 100 (1986).

Failure to Address Deficiency in Record. — The court would not rule on the plaintiff's contention that the final judgment reflected an "oversight or omission regarding the proper designation of defendant," where the portion of the court's denial of a new trial mentioning this rule was been marked out and where the plaintiff did not address this fact or seek to have the record properly made up. Collins v. St. George Physical Therapy, 141 N.C. App. 82, 539 S.E.2d 356, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 1286 (2000).

Although defendant did not identify record page on which each exception appeared as required under subsection (c) of this rule and N.C.R.A.P., Rule 28(b)(5), these omissions were not so egregious as to invoke dismissal. Symons Corp. v. Insurance Co. of N. Am., 94 N.C. App. 541, 380 S.E.2d 550 (1989).

Where defendant made an assignment of error to the denial of his motion to suppress without making a reference to his inculpatory statement, the legal basis of his argument, and making reference to the record, but did provide general references to the transcript of the hearing, he had not complied with subdivision (c) of this rule, but the court would address his argument in its discretion in the interest of justice. State v. Benjamin, 124 N.C. App. 734, 478 S.E.2d 651 (1996).

Listing of Exceptions. — This rule requires that all assignments of error should be followed by a listing of the exceptions on which they are based, and that these exceptions should be identified by the pages of the record at which they appear; exceptions not listed properly should be deemed abandoned. Peoples Serv. Drug Stores, Inc. v. Mayfair, 50 N.C. App. 442, 274 S.E.2d 365 (1981).

Numbering of Exceptions. — Where the defendant numbered two assignments of error as assignment "sixty" and briefed only one of them, the court could not review the other. State v. Cummings, 352 N.C. 600, 536 S.E.2d 36, 2000 N.C. LEXIS 753 (2000), cert denied, 532 U.S. 997, 121 S. Ct. 1660, 149 L. Ed. 2d 641 (2001).

Record for Review of Sustained Objection. — When an objection to a specific question asked on cross-examination is sustained, the answer the witness would have given must be made part of the record or the propriety of the objection will not be considered on appeal. State v. Price, 301 N.C. 437, 272 S.E.2d 103 (1980); State v. Wilhite, 58 N.C. App. 654, 294 S.E.2d 396, appeal dismissed and cert. denied, 307 N.C. 129, 297 S.E.2d 403 (1982), rev'd on other grounds, 308 N.C. 798, 303 S.E.2d 788 (1983), cert. denied, 322 N.C. 485, 370 S.E.2d 236 (1988).

Writing in a numbered exception next to a finding of fact or conclusion of law does not raise a legal issue as to its validity; to raise a legal issue on appeal as to the validity of a finding of fact or conclusion of law, in addition to making an exception, it is also necessary to state by an assignment of error why the finding or conclusion is claimed to be erroneous. Alexvale Furn., Inc. v. Alexander & Alexander, 93 N.C. App. 478, 378 S.E.2d 436, cert. denied, 325 N.C. 228, 381 S.E.2d 783 (1989).

The trial court's findings of fact are deemed to be supported by competent evidence and are conclusive on appeal where defendant does not bring forth in the record any of the testimony or evidence in the case. Bethea v. Bethea, 43 N.C. App. 372, 258 S.E.2d 796 (1979), cert. denied, 299 N.C. 119, 261 S.E.2d 922 (1980).

Matters discussed in the brief outside the record ordinarily will not be considered since the record certified to the court imports verity and the court is bound by it. State v. Hedrick, 289 N.C. 232, 221 S.E.2d 350 (1976).

Review Limited to Theories and Constitutional Questions Presented Below. — The theory upon which a case is tried in the lower court must control in constructing the record and determining the validity of the exceptions. Further, a constitutional question which is not raised and passed upon in the trial court will not ordinarily be considered on appeal. State v. Cooke, 306 N.C. 132, 291 S.E.2d 618 (1982).

One assignment of error is enough to raise one question of law under subsection (c) of this rule and N.C.R.A.P., Rule 28(b), even when it questions the correctness of many rulings of the trial court. Pate v. Thomas, 89 N.C. App. 312, 365 S.E.2d 704, cert. denied, 322 N.C. 482, 370 S.E.2d 227 (1988).

Exceptions Deemed Abandoned by Failure to State Grounds. — Where plaintiff assigned as error certain admissions and exclusions of evidence and the denial of her motion to set aside the jury verdict, without stating the grounds upon which the errors were assigned as required by the rules and demonstrated by examples in Appendix C, plaintiff's exceptions upon which assignments of error were based would be deemed abandoned. Kimmel v. Brett, 92 N.C. App. 331, 374 S.E.2d 435 (1988).

Although defendant's assignments of error set out in the record on appeal did not conform to subsection (c), pursuant to the court's discretionary power in Appellate Rule 2, they elected to review the merits of defendants' appeal. Fletcher v. Dana Corp., 119 N.C. App. 491, 459 S.E.2d 31 (1995), cert. denied, 342 N.C. 191, 463 S.E.2d 235 (1995).

Assignment of Error Held Sufficient. — Assignment of error stating that the trial judge erred in his utilization of a 1946 conviction, opinion statements by police officers and other improper factors in determining aggravating factors during the sentencing of the defendant was sufficient to state the basis upon which error was assigned, although more detail would have been helpful. State v. Perry, 316 N.C. 87, 340 S.E.2d 450 (1986).

Plaintiff's appeal, which stated three separate errors in one assignment, failed to state the statutory authority exceeded, the procedure violated and the error of law committed, and failed to provide "clear and specific record or transcript references" relating to each alleged error, violated the Rules of Appellate Procedure, and would be dismissed. Bowen v. North Carolina Dep't of Health & Human Servs., 135 N.C. App. 122, 519 S.E.2d 60 (1999).

In a negligence action against an air carrier, an assignment of error which stated that the trial court erred in not allowing plaintiff's expert witness to testify as to her opinion that the pilot had not suffered any physical incapacitation, while allowing defendant's witnesses to testify as to their opinion that the pilot had suffered some form of incapacitation, was argumentative and not concisely stated, thus violating this rule. Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. v. Southeast Airmotive, Inc., 91 N.C. App. 417, 371 S.E.2d 768 (1988), cert. denied, 323 N.C. 706, 377 S.E.2d 230 (1989).

Assignments of Error Held Insufficient. — Plaintiff's purported assignments of error violated the provisions of subsection (c)(1). Bustle v. Rice, 116 N.C. App. 658, 449 S.E.2d 10 (1994).

Assignment of error regarding jury instruction overruled where the record did not reflect whether the plaintiff made a timely objection to the instruction on the doctrine of sudden emergency. McNeil v. Hicks, 119 N.C. App. 579, 459 S.E.2d 47 (1995).

The defendants' numerous, flagrant violations of the Rules of Appellate Procedure warranted dismissal of the appeal, where the defendants did not provide a listing of assignments of error, they included as appendices to their brief certain documents that were excluded by an earlier order, they failed to include other required material, and they used incorrect point type and spacing. Duke Univ. v. Bishop, 131 N.C. App. 545, 507 S.E.2d 904 (1998).

Appellants' assignment of error contending three separate and distinct errors in a single assignment of error violated the provisions of N.C. R. App. P. 10(c)(1) subjecting their appeal to dismissal. Anthony v. City of Shelby, 152 N.C. App. 144, 567 S.E.2d 222, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 904 (2002).

Since the mother and father did not assign as error the argument that the two social workers' testimony was inadmissible hearsay and should not have been admitted, that issue was not properly preserved for review; such errors had to be set out in the record on appeal. In re Morales, — N.C. App. —, 583 S.E.2d 692, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1518 (2003).

Basis upon Which Error Assigned Insufficient. — Where plaintiff stated that the court "erred to plaintiff's prejudice," this was not a sufficient basis upon which to assign error.

Kimmel v. Brett, 92 N.C. App. 331, 374 S.E.2d 435 (1988).

Where no assignment of error corresponded to the issue presented, the matter was not properly presented for consideration by the Supreme Court. State v. Thomas, 332 N.C. 544, 423 S.E.2d 75 (1992).

In a sexual abuse prosecution, defendant's argument that the trial court improperly admitted victim testimony under G.S. 8C-1, N.C. R. Evid. 404(b) without making specific findings of fact as to "sufficient similarity" and "remoteness in time" could not be considered, under N.C. R. App. P. 10(a), because this was not made the basis of any assignment of error in the record. State v. Wade, 155 N.C. App. 1, 573 S.E.2d 643, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1606 (2002).

Where plaintiff in workers' compensation case, proceeding in forma pauperis, failed to present any assignments of error within the record, and neither the exceptions nor the assignments of error which plaintiff relied on were set forth at the conclusion of the record on appeal, the Court of Appeals, in order to prevent any manifest injustice to plaintiff, would nonetheless review the merits of his appeal. Swindell v. Davis Boat Works, Inc., 78 N.C. App. 393, 337 S.E.2d 592 (1985), cert. denied and appeal dismissed, 316 N.C. 385, 342 S.E.2d 908 (1986).

Where appellants failed to assign error in the record to the trial court's decision to permit the jury to read a deposition, the appellate court would not address that argument, under N.C. R. App. P. 10(a). Floyd v. McGill, 156 N.C. App. 29, 575 S.E.2d 789, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 35 (2003), cert. denied, 357 N.C. 163, 580 S.E.2d 364 (2003).

B. Jury Instructions.

Where the charge to the jury is not included in the record on appeal, it is presumed that the jury was properly instructed as to the law arising upon the evidence as required by statute. State v. Hedrick, 289 N.C. 232, 221 S.E.2d 350 (1976).

Waiver by Failure to Present Question on Appeal. — Where the defendant in a murder prosecution did not assign as error on direct appeal the failure of the trial judge in his instructions to place the burden of proving the absence of heat of passion or the absence of self-defense on the State, he waived his right to complain about such errors in post-conviction review. State v. Watson, 37 N.C. App. 399, 246 S.E.2d 25, appeal dismissed, 295 N.C. 652, 257 S.E.2d 434 (1978).

Where trial judge's refusal to give requested instruction did not deprive defendants of an alternative basis in law for the verdict in their favor, the appellate court would not decide it. Segrest v. Gillette, 96 N.C. App. 435, 386 S.E.2d 88 (1989), rev'd on other grounds, 331 N.C 97, 414 S.E.2d 334 (1992).

Failure to Except Forecloses State Appeal and Federal Habeas Corpus. — Petitioner's failure to comply with valid state procedural requirements, in that he failed to except to the "presumption of malice" instruction and the alleged burden-shifting instructions in his assignments of error as required by this rule, and failed to otherwise raise the issue in his appeal, foreclosed both direct and collateral attack in the North Carolina courts, and was an adequate and separate state ground for denying federal habeas corpus relief on those claims. Watson v. North Carolina, 509 F. Supp. 850 (E.D.N.C. 1981).

Peremptory Instructions. — Where the record revealed that after an alternate juror was released, the court asked counsel for the State and counsel for defendant if they had any objections to the jury instructions as given and neither attorney objected, the issue of peremptory instructions was not properly preserved by defendant for review. State v. Pavone, 104 N.C. App. 442, 410 S.E.2d 1 (1991).

Allegedly Erroneous View of the Law. — Trial court did not commit prejudicial error by presenting an allegedly erroneous view of the law regarding breach of fiduciary duty in its instruction to the jury by basing the instruction on a North Carolina case rather than on several Georgia cases cited in plaintiffs' brief, because there was no substantial difference between the Georgia and North Carolina cases regarding the treatment of minority stockholders in a close corporation. Powell v. Omli, 110 N.C. App. 336, 429 S.E.2d 774, cert denied, 334 N.C. 621, 435 S.E.2d 338 (1993).

Failure to Instruct at Defendants Request Not Error. — Where record reflected that at the conference on instructions, defendant specifically requested the trial court not to submit the offense of non-felonious breaking or entering as a lesser included offense, he was barred by subsection (b)(2) from assigning as error the failure of the trial court to instruct the jury on the lesser included offense. State v. Robinson, 115 N.C. App. 358, 444 S.E.2d 475, cert. denied, 337 N.C. 697, 448 S.E.2d 538 (1994).

Failure to Demonstrate Prejudice. — Where the record did not include a transcript containing defendants' objection and where defendants failed to make a timely motion to ensure that witness testimony supporting their theory of the case be made available to the jury, defendants' failed to carry their burden of demonstrating that prejudice resulted from the jury's erroneous receipt, in spite of defendants' objections, during deliberations of an unredacted copy of the police report. Nunnery v.

Baucom, 135 N.C. App. 556, 521 S.E.2d 479, 1999 N.C. App. LEXIS 1176 (1999).

C. Sufficiency of Evidence.

Failure to Renew Motion at Close of Evidence. — Defendant's conviction and sentence on a charge of first-degree murder pursuant to G.S. 14-17 was upheld; defendant's argument that the trial court erred in denying his motion to dismiss for insufficient evidence pursuant to G.S. 15A-954 was waived because defendant failed to renew his motion at the close of all the evidence as required by N.C. R. App. P. 10(c)(3), the trial court properly excluded the victim's uncommunicated threats to defendant into evidence, because defendant failed to put on evidence of self-defense as was required to admit such evidence pursuant to G.S. 8C-1, N.C. R. Evid. 803(3), and defendant did not suffer any prejudice pursuant to G.S. 15A-1443(a) because defendant testified to substantially the same evidence that was contained in the uncommunicated threat. State v. Messick, — N.C. App. —, 585 S.E.2d 392, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1493 (2003).

Waiver of Right to Challenge Sufficiency of Evidence as to Particular Findings. — On appeal from a judgment containing findings of fact and conclusions of law, the appellant must except and assign error separately to each finding or conclusion that he or she contends is not supported by the evidence, then state which assignments support which questions in the brief. Failure to do so will result in waiver of the right to challenge the sufficiency of the evidence to support particular findings of fact. Concrete Serv. Corp. v. Investors Group, Inc., 79 N.C. App. 678, 340 S.E.2d 755, cert. denied, 317 N.C. 333, 346 S.E.2d 137 (1986).

The assignment of error must clearly disclose the question presented. A single assignment generally challenging the sufficiency of the evidence to support numerous findings of fact is broadside and ineffective. Wade v. Wade, 72 N.C. App. 372, 325 S.E.2d 260, cert. denied, 313 N.C. 612, 330 S.E.2d 616 (1985).

A broadside exception presents these questions only: (1) Do the facts found support the judgment, and (2) does error of law appear on the face of the record. Mayhew Elec. Co. v. Carras, 29 N.C. App. 105, 223 S.E.2d 536 (1976).

A broadside exception does not bring up for review the sufficiency of the evidence to support any particular finding of fact. Mayhew Elec. Co. v. Carras, 29 N.C. App. 105, 223 S.E.2d 536 (1976).

Appeal Reduced to Broadside Attack. — Where defendant properly excepted to a large number of the court's findings of fact and the resulting conclusions of law, and correctly assigned error individually to each excepted finding and conclusion, but then, rather than direct the Court of Appeals to the particular findings he challenged, he instead argued the general denial of his Rule 41(b) motion, he thereby reduced his appeal relative to the sufficiency of the evidence to a single broadside attack. Therefore the only question presented was whether the findings of fact supported the conclusions of law and whether the conclusions supported the judgment. Concrete Serv. Corp. v. Investors Group, Inc., 79 N.C. App. 678, 340 S.E.2d 755, cert. denied, 317 N.C. 333, 346 S.E.2d 137 (1986).

Assignment of only the granting of defendant's motion for summary judgment as error was a broadside assignment, since it did not state any specific basis for the alleged error, as this rule requires, and the only questions it raised were whether the facts found by the court supported the judgment and whether any error of law appeared on the face of the record. Pamlico Properties, IV v. Seg Anstalt Co., 89 N.C. App. 323, 365 S.E.2d 686 (1988).

Assigning error to the signing of a judgment presents only the question of whether an error of law appears on the face of the record, which includes whether the facts found or admitted support the judgment and whether the judgment is regular in form. Green ex rel. Green v. Maness, 69 N.C. App. 403, 316 S.E.2d 911, cert. denied, 312 N.C. 622, 323 S.E.2d 922 (1984).

Respondent was precluded from challenging the sufficiency of the evidence where he moved to dismiss the juvenile petitions at the close of the State's evidence, but went on to present evidence and failed to renew his motion at the close of all evidence. In re Davis, 345 N.C. App. 749, 483 S.E.2d 440 (1997).

Meaning of "Plain Error". — The term "plain error" does not simply mean obvious or apparent error. State v. Odom, 307 N.C. 655, 300 S.E.2d 375 (1983).

In deciding whether a defect in the jury instruction constitutes "plain error," the appellate court must examine the entire record and determine if the instructional error had a probable impact on the jury's finding of guilt. State v. Odom, 307 N.C. 655, 300 S.E.2d 375 (1983); State v. Tucker, 317 N.C. 532, 346 S.E.2d 417 (1986).

The adoption of the "plain error" rule to allow for review of some assignments of error normally barred by waiver rules such as subdivision (b)(2) of this rule does not mean that every failure to give a proper instruction mandates reversal regardless of the defendant's failure to object at trial. To hold so would negate subdivision (b)(2) of this rule which is not the intent or purpose of the "plain error" rule. State v. Odom, 307 N.C. 655, 300 S.E.2d 375 (1983).

The "plain error" rule permits review of a very narrow range of errors notwithstanding a defendant's failure to object at trial to the jury charge. State v. Moore, 311 N.C. 442, 319 S.E.2d 150 (1984).

Even Though Such Errors Were Not Brought to Attention of Court. — The "plain error" rule, adopted in State v. Odom, 307 N.C. 655, 300 S.E.2d 375 (1983) as an exception to subdivision (b)(2) of this rule, provides that plain errors or defects affecting substantial rights may be noticed although they were not brought to the attention of the court. State v. Lilley, 78 N.C. App. 100, 337 S.E.2d 89 (1985), cert. denied as to additional issues, 316 N.C. 199, 341 S.E.2d 582, aff'd, 318 N.C. 390, 348 S.E.2d 788 (1986).

The plain error rule waives subdivision (b)(2) of this rule and allows review of fundamental errors or defects in jury instructions affecting substantial rights which were not brought to the attention of the trial court. State v. Rathbone, 78 N.C. App. 58, 336 S.E.2d 702 (1985), cert. denied, 316 N.C. 200, 341 S.E.2d 582 (1986).

To mitigate the potential harshness of subdivision (b)(2) of this rule, the plain error rule allows the appellate court to cure errors or defects affecting substantial rights which were not brought to the attention of the court below. This rule, however, is always to be applied cautiously and only in the exceptional case where the claimed error is a fundamental error. State v. Oliver, 73 N.C. App. 118, 325 S.E.2d 682, cert. denied, 313 N.C. 513, 329 S.E.2d 401 (1985).

Plain error must fall within these areas: (1) A fundamental error, meaning something so basic, so prejudicial, so lacking in its elements that justice cannot be done; or (2) a grave error, which must amount to a denial of a fundamental right of the accused; or (3) an error which has resulted in a miscarriage of justice; or (4) an error that denies appellant a fair trial; or (5) an error that seriously affects the fairness, integrity or public reputation of judicial proceedings; or (6) where it can be fairly said that the instructional mistake had a probable impact on the jury's finding that the defendant was guilty. State v. Reilly, 71 N.C. App. 1, 321 S.E.2d 564 (1984), aff'd, 313 N.C. 499, 329 S.E.2d 381 (1985).

The plain error rule is not available in civil cases. Alston v. Monk, 92 N.C. App. 59, 373 S.E.2d 463 (1988), cert. denied, 324 N.C. 246, 378 S.E.2d 420 (1989).

Plain Error Rule May Allow Relief Without Objection. — On rare occasions the "plain error" rule may allow a party relief even though no objection was made. Before relief will be granted under the "plain error" rule, however, the appellate court must be convinced that absent the error the jury probably would have reached a different verdict. In other words, the appellate court must determine that the error in question "tilted the scales" and caused the jury to reach its verdict convicting the defendant. State v. Hartman, 90 N.C. App. 379, 368 S.E.2d 396 (1988).

The plain error rule is always to be applied cautiously and only in the exceptional case where, after reviewing the entire record, it can be said the claimed error is a fundamental error, something so basic, so prejudicial, so lacking in its elements that justice cannot have been done, or where the error is grave error which amounts to a denial of a fundamental right of the accused, or the error has resulted in a miscarriage of justice or in the denial to appellant of a fair trial or where the error is such as to seriously affect the fairness, integrity or public reputation of judicial proceedings or where it can be fairly said the instructional mistake had a probable impact on the jury's finding that the defendant was guilty. State v. Odom, 307 N.C. 655, 300 S.E.2d 375 (1983); State v. Gardner, 68 N.C. App. 515, 316 S.E.2d 131 (1984), aff'd, 315 N.C. 444, 340 S.E.2d 701 (1986); State v. Moore, 311 N.C. 442, 319 S.E.2d 150 (1984); State v. McCoy, 320 N.C. 581, 359 S.E.2d 764 (1987).

The plain error rule will be applied only in exceptional circumstances where the error was sufficiently fundamental and prejudicial to amount to a miscarriage of justice or the denial of a fair trial, or where it can fairly be said that the instructional mistake had a probable impact on the jury's finding that the defendant was guilty. State v. Harris, 315 N.C. 556, 340 S.E.2d 383 (1986).

The plain error rule applies only in truly exceptional cases. Before deciding that an error by the trial court amounts to "plain error," the appellate court must be convinced that absent the error the jury probably would have reached a different verdict. In other words, the appellate court must determine that the error in question "tilted the scales" and caused the jury to reach its verdict convicting the defendant. State v. Riddle, 316 N.C. 152, 340 S.E.2d 75 (1986); State v. Walker, 316 N.C. 33, 340 S.E.2d 80 (1986); State v. Morgan, 315 N.C. 626, 340 S.E.2d 84 (1986); State v. Tucker, 317 N.C. 532, 346 S.E.2d 417 (1986).

Before deciding that an error by the trial court amounts to "plain error," the appellate court must be convinced that absent the error the jury probably would have reached a different verdict. State v. Torain, 316 N.C. 111, 340 S.E.2d 465, cert. denied, 479 U.S. 836, 107 S. Ct. 133, 93 L. Ed. 2d 77 (1986); State v. Gardner, 315 N.C. 444, 340 S.E.2d 701 (1986).

The "plain error" rule is only applied in exceptional cases. State v. Sams, 317 N.C. 230, 345 S.E.2d 179 (1986).

In order for the Supreme Court to grant a new trial under the "plain error" exception to subdivision (b)(2) of this rule, a judge's charge must be so fundamentally flawed that it can be fairly said that the mistake probably had an impact on the defendant's conviction. State v. Wrenn, 316 N.C. 141, 340 S.E.2d 443 (1986).

In order to consider an assignment of error under the plain error rule, an appellate court must determine that the alleged error tilted the scales and caused the jury to reach its verdict convicting the defendant. State v. Dixon, 321 N.C. 111, 361 S.E.2d 562 (1987).

Before granting a new trial to a defendant under the plain error rule, the appellate court must be convinced that absent the alleged error, a jury probably would have reached a different verdict. State v. Robinson, 330 N.C. 1, 409 S.E.2d 288 (1991).

The test for "plain error" places a much heavier burden upon defendant than that imposed by G.S. 15A-1443 upon defendants who have preserved their rights by timely objection. This is so in part at least because the defendant could have prevented any error by making a timely objection. State v. Gardner, 315 N.C. 444, 340 S.E.2d 701 (1986); State v. Walker, 316 N.C. 33, 340 S.E.2d 80 (1986); State v. Morgan, 315 N.C. 626, 340 S.E.2d 84 (1986).

Where a defendant fails to assert plain error in his assignments of error he has waived even plain error review. State v. Moore, 132 N.C. App. 197, 511 S.E.2d 22 (1999).

Failure to Adequately Allege Plain Error. — Trial court did not err by denying defendant's challenge for cause of a prospective juror, because G.S. 15A-1214(h) provided that in order for a defendant to seek reversal of the case on appeal on the ground that the judge refused to allow a challenge made for cause, the defendant must have exhausted all peremptory challenges, and defendant did not exhaust all of her peremptory challenges, and failed to adequately support a claim of plain error; therefore the issue could not be considered per the requirements of N.C. R. App. P. 10(c)(4). State v. Walters, — N.C. —, — S.E.2d —, 2003 N.C. LEXIS 425 (May 2, 2003).

Waiver of Plain Error Argument. — Under N.C. R. App. P. 10(c)(4), when defendant's objection to certain evidence was not preserved for appeal, he was also not entitled to plain error review because he did not "specifically and distinctly" allege plain error in his assignments of error. State v. McClary, — N.C. App. —, 577 S.E.2d 690, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 378 (2003).

While a defendant was not entitled to plain error review because he did not object to a restitution ordered and did not assert plain error in his assignment of error in violation of N.C.R. App. P. 10(c)(4), because the issue raised important questions concerning the trial court's authority to order restitution in a criminal case, the appellate court addressed his contentions in its discretion under N.C. R. App. P. 2. State v. Wilson, — N.C. App. —, 580 S.E.2d 386, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1045 (2003).

Defendant waived the argument that the trial court erred when it failed to provide the jury with a written copy of the jury instructions, as defendant did not object to the alleged error, and although defendant, in an assignment of error, argued pursuant to N.C. R. App. P. 10(c)(4) that the error was plain error, defendant did not argue in defendant's brief that the instructions amounted to plain error pursuant to N.C. R. App. P. 28(a). State v. Scercy, — N.C. App. —, 583 S.E.2d 339, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1499 (2003).

Plain error in the context of jury instructions occurs when the instructional mistake had a probable impact on the jury's finding that defendant was guilty. If this occurred, such a plain error would deprive defendant of his fundamental right to a fair trial. State v. Grainger, 78 N.C. App. 123, 337 S.E.2d 77 (1985), cert. denied, 316 N.C. 198, 341 S.E.2d 572 (1986).

The plain error rule does not negate subdivision (b)(2) of this rule, and rarely will an improper instruction which was not objected to at trial justify reversal. State v. Rathbone, 78 N.C. App. 58, 336 S.E.2d 702 (1985), cert. denied, 316 N.C. 200, 341 S.E.2d 582 (1986).

Even after the adoption of the "plain error" rule, it is the rare case in which an improper instruction will justify reversal of a criminal conviction when no objection has been made in the trial court. State v. Lilley, 78 N.C. App. 100, 337 S.E.2d 89 (1985), cert. denied as to additional issues, 316 N.C. 199, 341 S.E.2d 582 aff'd, 318 N.C. 390, 348 S.E.2d 788 (1986).

It is the rare case in which an improper instruction will justify reversal of a criminal conviction when no objection has been made in the trial court. State v. Morgan, 315 N.C. 626, 340 S.E.2d 84 (1986).

A prerequisite to the court engaging in a "plain error" analysis is the determination that the instruction complained of constitutes "error" at all. State v. Torain, 316 N.C. 111, 340 S.E.2d 465, cert. denied, 479 U.S. 836, 107 S. Ct. 133, 93 L. Ed. 2d 77 (1986).

To obtain relief under the "plain error" rule, defendant must show both that a particular instruction was error and that this error had a probable impact on the jury's finding of guilt. State v. Sams, 317 N.C. 230, 345 S.E.2d 179 (1986); State v. Dillard, 90 N.C. App. 318, 368 S.E.2d 442 (1988).

Even when the "plain error" rule is applied, an improper instruction will rarely justify reversal of a criminal conviction when no objection was made in the trial court. State v. Blue, 115 N.C. App. 108, 443 S.E.2d 748 (1994).

There was no plain error in the trial judge instructing the jury that a box cutter was a deadly weapon based on the victim's testimony that the defendant attempted to cut the victim's face with a box cutter so the victim covered his face with his hands, sustaining six cuts on his hands which required eight stitches; additionally, the box cutter the defendant used was observed by the trial judge and the jury. State v. Adams, 156 N.C. App. 318, 576 S.E.2d 377, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 102 (2003), cert. denied, 357 N.C. 166, 580 S.E.2d 698 (2003).

Review of Instructions to Determine If Plain Error Was Committed. — Where instructions were not objected to before the jury retired, as required by subdivision (b)(2) of this rule, court would review them only for the limited purpose of determining whether "plain error" was committed. State v. Tabron, 78 N.C. App. 424, 337 S.E.2d 186 (1985).

Appellate review was limited to plain error because the defendant failed to object to the jury instructions. State v. Morgan, 156 N.C. App. 523, 577 S.E.2d 380, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 187 (2003), cert. denied, 357 N.C. 254, 583 S.E.2d 43 (2003).

Plain Error Shown. — The failure of the trial court to include an instruction on either simple assault or assault inflicting serious injury, where jury was instructed on the offense of assault with a deadly weapon, was plain error entitling defendant to a new trial. State v. Bell, 87 N.C. App. 626, 362 S.E.2d 288 (1987).

Plain Error Not Shown. — Where the trial judge's initial instruction created the mistaken impression that to convict defendant of murder, defendant himself must have actually done the shooting, and to convict defendant of attempted armed robbery, defendant had to have been holding the gun, and only the next morning did the judge correctly instruct the jury as to the elements of the crimes under a theory of acting in concert, the initial instruction was in fact favorable to defendant, and the plain error rule would not be applied thereto. State v. Harris, 315 N.C. 556, 340 S.E.2d 383 (1986).

While defendant's constitutional rights were violated when the prosecutor cross-examined him concerning his silence after he was arrested and advised of his constitutional rights, given the peculiar facts of the case, such error did not cause the jury to reach a different verdict than it would have reached otherwise. Therefore, the defendant did not carry his burden of showing "plain error." State v. Walker, 316 N.C. 33, 340 S.E.2d 80 (1986), indicating, however, that such prosecutorial tactics may often amount to "plain error" and require a new trial.

Although it was error for the trial court not to instruct the jury as to defendant's right to stand his ground if it believed his testimony and found that he was not the aggressor, where this error was not properly preserved for review by reason of defendant's failure to comply with subdivision (b)(2) of this rule, upon review of the record as a whole, such error did not constitute "plain error." State v. Morgan, 315 N.C. 626, 340 S.E.2d 84 (1986).

In prosecution for assault with a deadly weapon inflicting serious injury, while the trial court should have included an instruction that defendant had no duty to retreat in his own home, the failure to give such an instruction did not constitute "plain error" under the circumstances. State v. Lilley, 318 N.C. 390, 348 S.E.2d 788 (1986).

In light of the fact that the trial court (1) repeatedly instructed the jury that they had to find that the defendant acted with malice in order to find him guilty of second degree murder, and (2) instructed the jury that if the State failed to prove the defendant acted with malice, then defendant could be guilty of no more than voluntary manslaughter, the court's misstatement that second degree murder was killing without malice in the final mandate did not constitute plain error. State v. Jones, 83 N.C. App. 593, 351 S.E.2d 122 (1986), cert. denied, 319 N.C. 461, 356 S.E.2d 9 (1987).

Judge's failure to give instruction on accident in a murder prosecution was error; however, where defendant's testimony was contradicted by State's witness, defendant was impeached by his prior inconsistent statements and his past criminal activity, and defendant's story completely lacked the ring of truth, no plain error was found. State v. Loftin, 322 N.C. 375, 368 S.E.2d 613 (1988).

Where instruction given in first degree rape case was essentially the pattern jury instruction in N.C.P.I.—Crim. 101.36, there was no error, under the "plain error" doctrine or otherwise. State v. Ayers, 92 N.C. App. 364, 374 S.E.2d 428 (1988).

Where the only issue before the jury was whether a shooting was accidental or intentional, judge's remark at end of instruction that "of course, pointing a gun at a person is not lawful conduct," did not affect the proceeding so that without the statement the verdict would have been different; therefore, there was no plain error. State v. Kinney, 92 N.C. App. 671, 375 S.E.2d 692 (1989).

Erroneous admission of hearsay did not constitute plain error such as would warrant granting defendant a new trial, where there was sufficient other competent evidence by which the jury could have reached its verdict. State v. Petty, 100 N.C. App. 465, 397 S.E.2d 337 (1990).

The court did not commit plain error in instructing the venire on accomplice testimony during voir dire. State v. Gibbs, 335 N.C. 1, 436 S.E.2d 321 (1993), cert. denied, 512 U.S. 1246, 114 S. Ct. 2767, 129 L. Ed. 2d 881 (1994).

Defendant's contention that the trial court erred in failing to exclude testimony prejudicially tainted by homosexual innuendo was without merit. State v. Robinson, 336 N.C. 78, 443 S.E.2d 306 (1994), cert. denied, 513 U.S. 1089, 115 S.Ct. 750, 130 L.Ed. 2d 650 (1995).

Testimony that defendant had beaten witness and had stolen things from her and her children, and that she was afraid to leave him because there would be trouble when he found her, was relevant to prove that witness' fear of defendant was the reason she waited as long as she did before coming forward to tell of the crime charged, and it was not plain error to admit the testimony. State v. Lamb, 342 N.C. 151, 463 S.E.2d 189 (1995).

Admission of statements by a capital murder defendant's former co-employees was not plain error, where the statements were made shortly after a shooting spree at the business from which he recently had been fired, all to the effect that the speakers thought that the defendant would return for revenge, but it could not be said that the statements tainted the results at trial. State v. Davis, 349 N.C. 1, 506 S.E.2d 455 (1998), cert. denied, 526 U.S. 1161, 119 S. Ct. 2053, 144 L. Ed. 2d 219 (1999).

Trial court did not commit plain error in its charge to the jury for robbery with a firearm and attempted armed robbery, because restatement on acting in concert clarified any confusion. State v. Hasty, 133 N.C. App. 563, 516 S.E.2d 428 (1999).

Defendant failed to show that the prosecutor's statements to the jurors at voir dire, in the context of the entire record, rose to the level of plain error such that a different result probably would have been reached but for the prosecutor's statements, or that the prosecutor's statements constituted error so fundamental as to result in a miscarriage of justice or denial of a fair trial. State v. Anderson, 355 N.C. 136, 558 S.E.2d 87, 2002 N.C. LEXIS 14 (2002).

Defendant was not prejudiced by the procedural calendaring device of dismissal with leave as the procedure was intended not to suspend or hamper prosecution of the case, but rather to facilitate its continuance during a period of time when the defendant was absent. Accordingly, arraigning the defendant, who was fully aware of the charges against him, though the charges had been dismissed with leave and had not yet been reinstated, did not amount to the denial of a fair trial; therefore, there was no plain error in the trial court's decision to permit the defendant to be tried on charges that had been dismissed with leave at the time of the arraignment. State v. Bell, 156 N.C. App. 350, 576 S.E.2d 695, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 111 (2003).

It was the rare case in which an improper instruction will justify reversal of a criminal conviction when no objection has been made in the trial court; where defendant failed to object to the trial court's instruction on the elements of attempted second-degree rape, the instruction was reviewed for plain error, but was not found to have been improper despite defendant's contention that the instruction was flawed because it (1) failed to define penetration, and (2) failed to adequately explain the intent to commit intercourse. State v. Farmer, — N.C. App. —, 582 S.E.2d 352, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1230 (2003).

While the State's statements regarding acting in concert were incorrect, the error did not rise to the level of plain error; the State's representation of the law while questioning the witness misstated the law by representing that mere presence at the scene of the crime and knowledge thereof was sufficient to find defendant guilty. State v. Poag, — N.C. App. —, 583 S.E.2d 661, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1504 (2003).

Defendant failed to demonstrate that instructing the jury on acting in concert constituted plain error; the evidence in the record tended to show that defendant traveled to the store with three friends and suggested that they rob the store, defendant entered the store and shot the owners, took money from the cash register, and left the scene in the vehicle along with the others. State v. Poag, — N.C. App. —, 583 S.E.2d 661, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1504 (2003).

Trial court did not commit plain error in permitting the store-owner's wife to identify defendant at trial; the evidence showed that the wife had personal knowledge of defendant stemming from her perception of him gained during the robbery, and her perception of defendant during the robbery was sufficient to provide a basis for her in-court identification of defendant. State v. Poag, — N.C. App. —, 583 S.E.2d 661, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1504 (2003).

Where defendant did not object to the trial court's instructions or request any corrections or additional instructions at trial, the appellate court only reviewed the instructions for plain error; since the weight of the marijuana was not an element of the offense of manufacture of marijuana, G.S. 90-95(a)(1), it was unnecessary to include any reference to weight in the applicable instruction. State v. Lemonds, — N.C. App. —, 584 S.E.2d 841, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1762 (2003).

The plain error doctrine was not applicable to statements made without objection, outside the presence of the jury, during witness voir dire. State v. Cummings, 352 N.C. 600, 536 S.E.2d 36, 2000 N.C. LEXIS 753 (2000), cert denied, 532 U.S. 997, 121 S. Ct. 1660, 149 L. Ed. 2d 641 (2001).

Plain error review was not appropriate where a party had failed to object to statements made by the other party during jury voir dire. State v. Cummings, 352 N.C. 600, 536 S.E.2d 36, 2000 N.C. LEXIS 753 (2000), cert denied, 532 U.S. 997, 121 S. Ct. 1660, 149 L. Ed. 2d 641 (2001).

Statement was inadmissible hearsay and therefore erroneously admitted, but did not constitute plain error such as would warrant granting defendant new trial, as there was sufficient other competent evidence by which jury could have reached its verdict. Court must be convinced that, absent error, jury probably would have reached different verdict. State v. Petty, 100 N.C. App. 465, 397 S.E.2d 337 (1990).

Admission of Testimony Not Plain Error. — The court's admission of state-proffered hearsay testimony during the sentencing proceeding as rebuttal to the hearsay evidence offered by defendant in support of the (f)(4) mitigating circumstance and a nonstatutory mitigating circumstance that defendant requested, i.e. based on his contentions that someone else pulled the trigger and that his role in the murders was relatively small, did not result in plain error where other evidence existed from which the jury could infer that he shot and killed the victims. State v. Lemons, 352 N.C. 87, 530 S.E.2d 542, 2000 N.C. LEXIS 431 (2000), cert. denied, 531 U.S. 1091, 121 S. Ct. 813, 148 L. Ed. 2d 698 (2001).

N.C.R.A.P., Rule 2, Rather Than Plain Error Rule, Applies to Certain Cases. — At least for all trials conducted after State v. Kirkley, 308 N.C. 196, 302 S.E.2d 144 (1983), overruled on other grounds, 322 N.C. 243, 367 S.E.2d 644 (1988) and before Mills v. Maryland, 486 U.S. 367, 108 S. Ct. 1860, 100 L. Ed. 2d 384 (1988), Supreme Court will decline to require that error under McKoy v. North Carolina, 494 U.S. 433, 110 S. Ct. 1227, 108 L. Ed. 2d 369 (1990), be reviewed under plain error standard when defendant failed to object at trial to error, and will instead apply N.C.R.A.P., Rule 2. State v. Sanderson, 327 N.C. 397, 394 S.E.2d 803 (1990).

The plain error doctrine was not extended to child custody cases. Raynor v. Odom, 124 N.C. App. 724, 478 S.E.2d 655 (1996).

No Cumulative Plain Error Review Available. — The court refused to apply the plain error doctrine on a cumulative basis where defendant was assigning error to unrelated admissions of evidence to which he did not object, and the trial court made no affirmative ruling on the admissibility of any of them. None of the errors complained of, individually, met the standard required by State v. Odom, 307 N.C. 655, 300 S.E.2d 375. State v. Holbrook, 137 N.C. App. 766, 529 S.E.2d 510, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 495 (2000).

For discussion of "plain error rule," see In re Will of Maynard, 64 N.C. App. 211, 307 S.E.2d 416 (1983), cert. denied, 310 N.C. 477, 312 S.E.2d 885 (1984).

V. CROSS-ASSIGNMENTS BY APPELLEE.

The purpose of cross-assignments of error is to allow review of actions or omissions by the trial court which deprive the appellee of an alternative basis in law for supporting the judgment, order, or other determination from which appeal is taken. St. Clair v. Rakestraw, 67 N.C. App. 602, 313 S.E.2d 228 (1984), aff'd in part and rev'd in part, 313 N.C. 171, 326 S.E.2d 19 (1985).

Purpose of Subsection (d). — Subsection (d) of this rule introduces a new procedure designed to protect appellees who have been deprived in the trial court of an alternative basis in law upon which their favorable judgment might be supported and who face the possibility that on appeal prejudicial error will be found in the ground upon which their judgment was actually based. Stevenson v. North Carolina Dep't of Ins., 45 N.C. App. 53, 262 S.E.2d 378 (1980); Carawan v. Tate, 304 N.C. 696, 286 S.E.2d 99 (1982).

List of Cross-Assignments Not Necessary on Appeal from Summary Judgment. — Just as appellant from entry of summary judgment is not required to list exceptions and assignments of error in the record on appeal, an appellee is not required to list cross-assignments of error on appeal from summary judgment. Cieszko v. Clark, 92 N.C. App. 290, 374 S.E.2d 456 (1988).

Issue Preserved by Cross-Assignment. — The plaintiff's cross-assignment of error on defendant's appeal preserved plaintiff's challenge to the trial court's decision to allow defendants to file a defense bond, where the decision possibly deprived the plaintiff of an alternative basis in law for supporting the judgment. Swan Quarter Farms, Inc. v. Spencer, 133 N.C. App. 106, 514 S.E.2d 735 (1999).

Failure to Make Cross-Assignment. — Employee's motion for fees and expenses on appeal was not properly raised as a cross-assignment of error; moreover, even if it had been properly raised, an appellate court declined in its discretion to issue such an order. Guerrero v. Brodie Contrs., Inc., — N.C. App. —, 582 S.E.2d 346, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1226 (2003).

Issue Not Preserved by Cross-Assignment. — Because plaintiff's cross-assignment of error did not present an alternative basis upon which to support the judgment, the question argued therein was not properly before the Court of Appeals; the proper method to have preserved this issue for review would have been a cross-appeal. Stanback v. Westchester Fire Ins. Co., 68 N.C. App. 107, 314 S.E.2d 775 (1984).

Where in her cross-assignments of error the defendant did not contend that the trial court's order deprived her of additional bases supporting the court's order, but rather, that certain portions of the order were erroneous, the proper means by which to raise such an attack would have been an independent appeal, rather than a cross-assignment of error, and defendant's cross-assignments of error were therefore overruled. Whedon v. Whedon, 68 N.C. App. 191, 314 S.E.2d 794 (1984), rev'd on other grounds, 313 N.C. 200, 328 S.E.2d 437 (1985).

Where defendants did not appeal from judgment, challenges thereto were not properly raised by cross-assignments of error, which under subsection (d) of this rule are reserved for errors which deprived the appellee of an alternative basis in law for supporting the judgment. W.H. Dail Plumbing, Inc. v. Roger Baker & Assocs., 78 N.C. App. 664, 338 S.E.2d 135, cert. denied, 316 N.C. 731, 345 S.E.2d 398 (1986).

In cross-assignment of error, plaintiffs did not present alternative basis in law for supporting judgment. Instead, plaintiffs contended that trial court erred in refusing to set aside jury verdicts as too small. Therefore, plaintiffs' contention is not properly before court on appeal. Proper method to have preserved issue for review would have been cross-appeal. Cox v. Robert C. Rhein Interest, Inc., 100 N.C. App. 584, 397 S.E.2d 358 (1990).

The petitioner's argument that the relief granted by the trial court was inadequate could not be made by cross-assignment of error under this rule but was required to be made by cross-appeal, since the argument did not relate to an alternative basis in law for supporting the judgment, order, or other determination from which the appeal was taken. Neal v. Fayetteville State Univ., 131 N.C. App. 377, 507 S.E.2d 574 (1998).

Where trial court's sole conclusion of law denying defendant's motion to compel arbitration was that no agreement to arbitrate existed and plaintiff had not cross-assigned error to the trial court's failure to find as an alternate basis for its decision that arbitration agreement was egregious and violative of her constitutional rights, the appellate court could not consider this issue on appeal. Howard v. Oakwood Homes Corp., 134 N.C. App. 116, 516 S.E.2d 879, 1999 N.C. App. LEXIS 671 (1999), cert. denied, 350 N.C. 832, 539 S.E.2d 288 (1999), cert. denied, 528 U.S. 1155, 120 S. Ct. 1161, 145 L. Ed. 2d 1072 (2000).

Judgment creditor's assignment of error contending that the trial court erred in refusing to dismiss an appeal was not properly before the appellate court under N.C. R. App. P. 10(d), because the judgment creditor did not present an alternative basis in law for supporting the order. State v. McCarn, 151 N.C. App. 742, 566 S.E.2d 751, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 868 (2002).

Cross-Assignments of Error Dismissed for Lack of Alternative Basis in Law. — Appellate court dismissed appellee's cross-assignments of error because one cross-assignment of error concerned claims that the trial court erred in its findings of fact and conclusions of law and the other cross-assignment of error concerned an evidentiary argument; accordingly, neither cross-assignment provided an alternate basis in law, and the proper method to have raised these issues would have been by cross-appeal. City of Charlotte v. Whippoorwill Lake, Inc., 150 N.C. App. 579, 563 S.E.2d 297, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 575 (2002).

Issues for Cross-Appeal Not Proper Cross-Assignments. — The cross-assignments of error made by defendant/realtors' board were rejected because the issues it attempted to raise, the dismissal of its "wrongful civil proceeding" claim and the denial of its request for attorney's fees, should have been raised by cross-appeal. Wilson Realty & Constr., Inc. v. Asheboro-Randolph Bd. of Realtors, Inc., 134 N.C. App. 468, 518 S.E.2d 28 (1999).

Plaintiff's attempt to argue that the Commission erred both in concluding that the defendant insurer's policy did not cover plaintiff's North Carolina injuries, and in failing to assess a 10% late payment penalty against the defendant pursuant to G.S. 97-18 failed, because he did not file a cross-appeal and because neither of his cross-assignments of error, if sustained, would provide an alternative basis for upholding the Commission's order and award. Harrison v. Tobacco Transp., Inc., 139 N.C. App. 561, 533 S.E.2d 871, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 996 (2000), cert. denied, 353 N.C. 263, 546 S.E.2d 96 (2000).

Failure to Cross-Appeal. — Where plaintiffs, in their cross-assignment of error, did not present an alternative basis in law for supporting judgment, but instead, contended that the trial court erred in refusing to set aside the jury verdict as too small, plaintiffs' contention was not properly before the court on appeal. The proper method to have preserved the issue for review would have been a cross-appeal. Cox v. Robert C. Rhein Interest, Inc., 100 N.C. App. 584, 397 S.E.2d 358 (1990).

Where neither of plaintiff/appellee's cross-assignments of error, if sustained, would provide an alternative basis for upholding the judgment, the plaintiff should have cross-appealed in order to properly present the alleged errors for appellate review. Mann Contractors v. Flair with Goldsmith Consultants-II, Inc., 135 N.C. App. 772, 522 S.E.2d 118, 1999 N.C. App. LEXIS 1244 (1999).

Failure to Cross-Appeal Lack of Conclusions. — Where trial court erroneously failed to render conclusions concerning all statutory grounds for review raised by the petition for review, petitioners' failure to cross-appeal any such error to the appellate court waived its consideration on appeal. In re Appeal from Civil Penalty Assessed for Violations of Sedimentation Pollution Control Act, 92 N.C. App. 1, 373 S.E.2d 572, rev'd on other grounds, 324 N.C. 373, 379 S.E.2d 30 (1989).

VI. DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW.

A. Exceptions.

Editor's note. — The cases cited below were decided under former Rule 21, Rules of Practice in the Supreme Court of North Carolina, and under former Rule 21, Rules of Practice in the Court of Appeals of North Carolina.

Rule Mandatory. — This rule is mandatory. Pamlico County v. Davis, 249 N.C. 648, 107 S.E.2d 306 (1959); Darden v. Bone, 254 N.C. 599, 119 S.E.2d 634 (1961); Kleinfeldt v. Shoney's of Charlotte, Inc., 257 N.C. 791, 127 S.E.2d 573 (1962); Jim Walter Corp. v. Gilliam, 260 N.C. 211, 132 S.E.2d 313 (1963); Lewis v. Parker, 268 N.C. 436, 150 S.E.2d 729 (1966); In re Will of Adams, 268 N.C. 565, 151 S.E.2d 59 (1966); State v. Benton, 276 N.C. 641, 174 S.E.2d 793 (1970).

Appeal Dismissed for Failure to Follow Rule. — The court will dismiss the appellant's case when he fails to assign error as required by this rule. Hobbs v. Cashwell, 158 N.C. 597, 74 S.E. 23 (1912); Maddillon Engine & Thresher Co. v. Thomas, 170 N.C. 680, 87 S.E. 327 (1915); In re Bailey, 180 N.C. 300, 103 S.E. 896 (1920).

The appellee's motion to dismiss the appeal because, (1) the exceptions are not "briefly and clearly stated and numbered," (2) the exceptions relied upon are not grouped and numbered immediately after the end of the case on appeal, (3) the index is not placed at the front of the record, will be allowed. Davis v. Wall, 142 N.C. 450, 55 S.E. 350 (1906). See also Jones v. Atlantic Coast Line R.R., 153 N.C. 419, 69 S.E. 427 (1910).

Rule Cannot Be Waived. — The rule requiring the assignment of error in the record on appeal is for the benefit of the court, and counsel cannot waive it. Southern Spruce Co. v. Hunnicutt, 166 N.C. 202, 81 S.E. 1079 (1914); Parrott v. Hardesty, 169 N.C. 667, 86 S.E. 582 (1915).

An Assignment of Error Alone Will Not Suffice. — Only an assignment of error bottomed on an exception duly entered in the record will serve to present a question of law for the Supreme Court to decide. State v. Williams, 235 N.C. 429, 70 S.E.2d 1 (1952); Darden v. Bone, 254 N.C. 599, 119 S.E.2d 634 (1961); Hicks v. Russell, 256 N.C. 34, 123 S.E.2d 214 (1961); Vance v. Hampton, 256 N.C. 557, 124 S.E.2d 527 (1962); Hines v. Frink, 257 N.C. 723, 127 S.E.2d 509 (1962).

An assignment of error must be based on an exception duly noted. — State v. Hitchcock, 4 N.C. App. 676, 167 S.E.2d 545 (1969).

Where the exceptions appear in the record only under the assignments of error, they are ineffectual, since the rules require that assignments of error be based upon exceptions previously noted, and the rules are mandatory and will be enforced ex mero motu. Bulman v. Southern Baptist Convention, 248 N.C. 392, 103 S.E.2d 487 (1958).

Assignments of error purporting to be supported by exceptions which appear nowhere in the record except in the purported assignments of error are ineffective and will not be considered on appeal. Cratch v. Taylor, 256 N.C. 462, 124 S.E.2d 124 (1962); Vance v. Hampton, 256 N.C. 557, 124 S.E.2d 527 (1962); Bost v. Citizens Nat'l Bank, 1 N.C. App. 470, 162 S.E.2d 158 (1968); Midgett v. Midgett, 5 N.C. App. 74, 168 S.E.2d 53 (1969).

An assignment of error must be based upon an exception duly taken, in apt time, during the trial and preserved as required by this rule and Rule 9. State v. Strickland, 254 N.C. 658, 119 S.E.2d 781 (1961); Knutton v. Cofield, 273 N.C. 355, 160 S.E.2d 29 (1968).

Court Will Not Consider Error Not Subject of Exception or Assignment. — The Court of Appeals will not consider an error in the charge and the evidence which has not been made the subject of an exception or assignment of error. State v. Moore, 6 N.C. App. 596, 170 S.E.2d 568 (1969).

Appellant Must Point Out Error by Exception. — It is the duty of an appellant who asserts prejudicial error to point out the asserted error by exception. State v. Rorie, 258 N.C. 162, 128 S.E.2d 229 (1962).

The exceptions which are bona fide shall be stated clearly and intelligibly by the assignment of errors and not by referring to the record, and therewith shall be set out so much of the evidence or of the charge or other matter or circumstance as shall be necessary to present clearly the matter to be debated. State v. Kirby, 276 N.C. 123, 171 S.E.2d 416 (1970).

Assignments of error not supported by exceptions present no question of law for the Supreme Court to decide. Corns v. Nickelston, 257 N.C. 277, 125 S.E.2d 588 (1962).

An exception which is not assigned as error is deemed abandoned. Balint v. Grayson, 256 N.C. 490, 124 S.E.2d 364 (1962).

Assignment of Error Must Be Clearly Stated. — Assignments of error must be clearly and intelligently stated so that the court will not have to look at exceptions therein referred to in order that they may be understood; for otherwise they will not be considered on appeal. Myrose v. Swain, 172 N.C. 223, 90 S.E. 118 (1916); State v. Burton, 256 N.C. 464, 124 S.E.2d 108 (1962); Balint v. Grayson, 256 N.C. 490, 124 S.E.2d 364 (1962); Jenks v. Morrison, 258 N.C. 96, 127 S.E.2d 895 (1962); Jones v. Saunders, 257 N.C. 118, 125 S.E.2d 350 (1962); Kleinfeldt v. Shoney's of Charlotte, Inc., 257 N.C. 791, 127 S.E.2d 573 (1962); State v. Wilson, 264 N.C. 373, 141 S.E.2d 801 (1965); State v. Mohrmann, 265 N.C. 594, 144 S.E.2d 645 (1965); Lewis v. Parker, 268 N.C. 436, 150 S.E.2d 729 (1966); In re Will of Adams, 268 N.C. 565, 151 S.E.2d 59 (1966); Williams v. Boulerice, 269 N.C. 499, 153 S.E.2d 95 (1967); State v. Coleman, 270 N.C. 357, 154 S.E.2d 485 (1967); State v. Kirby, 276 N.C. 123, 171 S.E.2d 416 (1970); State v. Benton, 276 N.C. 641, 174 S.E.2d 793 (1970).

What the Supreme Court requires is that exceptions which are presented to the court for decision shall be stated clearly and intelligibly by the assignment of error, and not be referring to the record, and therewith there shall be set out so much of the evidence or other matter of circumstance as shall be necessary to present clearly the matter to be debated. In this way the scope of inquiry is narrowed to the identical points which the appellant thinks are material and essential, and the court is not sent scurrying through the entire record to find the matters complained of. Darden v. Bone, 254 N.C. 599, 119 S.E.2d 634 (1961).

Rule 9 and this rule require that asserted error must be based on an appropriate exception, and must be properly assigned. Lewis v. Parker, 268 N.C. 436, 150 S.E.2d 729 (1966); State v. Benton, 276 N.C. 641, 174 S.E.2d 793 (1970).

Assignments of error to a charge which do not set forth the part of the charge challenged do not comply with the rules of practice in the Supreme Court. State v. Dixon, 256 N.C. 698, 124 S.E.2d 821 (1962); Samuel v. Evans, 264 N.C. 393, 141 S.E.2d 627 (1965); State v. Kirby, 276 N.C. 123, 171 S.E.2d 416 (1970); State v. Baldwin, 276 N.C. 690, 174 S.E.2d 526 (1970).

An exception must point out some specific part of the charge as erroneous. Jenkins v. Gaines, 272 N.C. 81, 157 S.E.2d 669 (1967).

Duty to Prepare Assignment of Error. — The preparation of the assignment of error is the work of the attorney for the appellant, and is not a part of the case on appeal, and its office is to group the exceptions noted in the case on appeal; and, if there is an assignment of error not supported by an exception, it will be disregarded. Worley v. Laurel River Logging Co., 157 N.C. 490, 73 S.E. 107 (1911); Allred v. Kirkman, 160 N.C. 392, 76 S.E. 244 (1912); McLeod v. Gooch, 162 N.C. 122, 78 S.E. 4 (1913).

An assignment of error must present a single question of law for consideration by the court. Hines v. Frink, 257 N.C. 723, 127 S.E.2d 509 (1962); State v. Wilson, 264 N.C. 373, 141 S.E.2d 801 (1965).

An assignment which attempts to raise several different questions is broadside. Hines v. Frink, 257 N.C. 723, 127 S.E.2d 509 (1962).

Broadside Exceptions Ineffectual. — An assignment of error, unsupported by exception, that the court erred in finding that the evidence was insufficient to sustain appellant's motion is a broadside exception and ineffectual because of noncompliance with Rule 9 and this rule. Columbus County v. Thompson, 249 N.C. 607, 107 S.E.2d 302 (1959); Hicks v. Russell, 256 N.C. 34, 123 S.E.2d 214 (1961); State v. Burell, 256 N.C. 288, 123 S.E.2d 795, cert. denied, 370 U.S. 961, 82 S. Ct. 1621, 8 L. Ed. 2d 827 (1962); Corns v. Nickelston, 257 N.C. 277, 125 S.E.2d 588 (1962).

An assignment of error that the court failed to declare and explain the law applicable to the facts in the case, without pointing out what matters appellant contends were omitted, is a broadside exception. Lewis v. Parker, 268 N.C. 436, 150 S.E.2d 729 (1966); State v. Baldwin, 276 N.C. 690, 174 S.E.2d 526 (1970).

And may not be aided by the assignment of error. — Hicks v. Russell, 256 N.C. 34, 123 S.E.2d 214 (1961).

Broadside Assignment of Error to Findings of Fact Improper. — Where plaintiff's assignment of error as to the judge's findings of fact was: "For that the judge of the superior court made certain findings of fact, which findings of fact are not supported by the evidence and which findings are contrary to the evidence," it was a broadside assignment of error, which failed to point out or designate in the assignment of error the particular rulings to which exceptions were taken, so that the Supreme Court could see the alleged error made by the judge. Putnam v. Triangle Publications, Inc., 245 N.C. 432, 96 S.E.2d 445 (1957).

Exceptions Too General. — Where the plaintiff files a large number of exceptions to the referee's report and the judge confirms or modifies certain portions of the report and sets aside others, an exception, "The plaintiff excepts to such rulings, adverse to it and appeals," is too general to be considered. Rutherford County Comm'rs v. Erwin, 140 N.C. 193, 52 S.E. 785 (1905).

Where there is a single assignment of error to several rulings of the trial court, and one of them is correct, the assignment must fail. Buie v. Kennedy, 164 N.C. 290, 80 S.E. 445 (1913).

An exception to a portion of a charge embracing a number of propositions is insufficient if any of the propositions are correct. Clifton v. Turner, 257 N.C. 92, 125 S.E.2d 339 (1962); Jenkins v. Gaines, 272 N.C. 81, 157 S.E.2d 669 (1967).

The questions arising on an appeal are those defined by appropriate exceptions taken by the appellant in the superior court. Sprinkle v. City of Reidsville, 235 N.C. 140, 69 S.E.2d 179 (1952).

The failure to except leaves nothing to review. State v. Rorie, 258 N.C. 162, 128 S.E.2d 229 (1962).

Scope of Review Where Assignments of Error to Findings of Fact Are Insufficient. — Where the assignments of error are insufficient to present the findings of fact for review, the appeal presents the questions whether the findings support the court's inferences and conclusions of law and judgment, and whether error appears on the face of the record. Putnam v. Triangle Publications, Inc., 245 N.C. 432, 96 S.E.2d 445 (1957).

When no exception has been taken to a finding of fact, such finding is presumed to be supported by competent evidence and is binding on appeal. Cratch v. Taylor, 256 N.C. 462, 124 S.E.2d 124 (1962).

Appeal Is to Judgment If No Exceptions Preserved. — In the absence of any exceptions, or when exceptions have not been preserved in accordance with the requirements of the rules, the appeal will be taken as an exception to the judgment. Cratch v. Taylor, 256 N.C. 462, 124 S.E.2d 124 (1962).

An appeal to the Supreme Court is itself an exception to the judgment or to any other matter of law appearing on the face of the record. Balint v. Grayson, 256 N.C. 490, 124 S.E.2d 364 (1962); State v. Hitchcock, 4 N.C. App. 676, 167 S.E.2d 545 (1969).

The only question raised by an exception to the judgment is whether error of law appears upon the face of the record. Vance v. Hampton, 256 N.C. 557, 124 S.E.2d 527 (1962).

Exceptions Must Be Set Out and Numbered. — Exceptions relied upon in the statement of the case must be set out and numbered. Barnette v. Woody, 242 N.C. 424, 88 S.E.2d 223 (1955).

Reference by Number Insufficient. — This rule must be complied with to have the appeal considered by the court; and where the assignments of error each simply refers to the exception of record by number, without giving the purport or text thereof, it is insufficient, and the judgment of the trial court will be affirmed. Porter v. American Cigar Box Lumber Co., 164 N.C. 396, 80 S.E. 443 (1913).

A statement purporting to be assignments of error appearing in the record just after the statement of the case on appeal, setting forth in general terms that the appellant excepted to the rulings of the court, as appeared in certain numbered exceptions of record taken on trial, such exceptions themselves not being sufficiently stated, in excluding evidence, and "to a judgment of nonsuit as noted in the forty-seventh exception," is not definite enough for the court to consider on appeal or to be referred to the clerk to be put in the prescribed shape therefor, and the appeal should be dismissed. Thompson v. Seaboard Air Line R.R., 147 N.C. 412, 61 S.E. 286 (1908).

It is entirely proper to group more than one exception under one assignment, when all the exceptions relate to a single question of law. State v. Wilson, 264 N.C. 373, 141 S.E.2d 801 (1965).

But If Exceptions Relate to Distinct Parts of Charge and Any Part Is Correct, Assignment Fails. — Where there is a single assignment of error based upon several exceptions to several distinct parts of the judge's charge, and one of the parts excepted to is correct, the assignment must fail. State v. Wilson, 264 N.C. 373, 141 S.E.2d 801 (1965).

Reference to Page. — Where the assignments of error are not comprehensive enough to give a clear idea to the court of the matters to be debated without examining the record, they will not be considered, as, "to the question and answer in the admission of the evidence" of a certain witness, "as contained in the exception 1 on page — of the record;" and the giving of proper page will not cure its insufficiency. Rogers v. Jones, 172 N.C. 156, 90 S.E. 117 (1916); Zopfi v. City of Wilmington, 273 N.C. 430, 160 S.E.2d 325 (1968); State v. Kirby, 276 N.C. 123, 171 S.E.2d 416 (1970).

Assignments Not Based on Exceptions Considered in Capital Case. — Assignments of error should be based upon exceptions briefly and clearly stated and numbered in the record, but in a capital case, wherein the life of defendant is at stake, assignments of error not so based nevertheless will be considered. State v. Herring, 226 N.C. 213, 37 S.E.2d 319 (1946).

Agreement of Counsel. — Where the record shows that the solicitor agreed that the statement of case on appeal, containing an exception to his argument to the jury and an assignment of error based thereon, should constitute the case on appeal, this is sufficient as an exceptive assignment of error even though defendant made no objection and took no exception at the time. State v. Hawley, 229 N.C. 167, 48 S.E.2d 35 (1948).

An exception to the signing of the judgment presents nothing for review except whether or not the court's conclusion of law is supported by the finding or findings of fact; such exception does not challenge the correctness of any findings of fact. Cratch v. Taylor, 256 N.C. 462, 124 S.E.2d 124 (1962).

Exception to Issues Submitted. — Where a cause was tried under one issue, without exception taken, the assignment of error that other issues should have been submitted is not in compliance with the rules of court regulating appeals. McNairy v. Norfolk & W.R.R., 172 N.C. 505, 90 S.E. 497 (1916).

Questions Discussed in Brief Only. — A question discussed in the brief but not presented by any exception or assignment of error cannot be considered. Coon v. Southern Ry., 171 N.C. 759, 88 S.E. 510 (1916); Needham v. Southern Ry., 171 N.C. 765, 88 S.E. 511 (1916).

When Complaint Does Not State Cause of Action. — A defendant, without filing exception on appeal from an adverse judgment, may move to dismiss the action on the ground that the complaint does not state a cause of action. Lloyd v. North Carolina R.R., 151 N.C. 536, 66 S.E. 604 (1909).

This is not true of an objection for misjoinder of cause of action. Wright v. Kinney, 123 N.C. 618, 31 S.E. 874 (1898).

B. Evidence.

Exceptions to Evidence. — The assignments of error on questions of evidence should set out the testimony so that their relevancy can be seen; and on the rulings of the court or some other matters occurring at the trial, the ruling itself or the attendant facts and circumstances should be so stated that their bearing on the controversy can be perceived to some extent in reading the assignments themselves. Thompson v. Seaboard Air Line R.R., 147 N.C. 412, 61 S.E. 286 (1908); Carter v. Reaves, 167 N.C. 131, 83 S.E. 248 (1914).

Where the record fails to show what the witness would have testified had he been permitted to answer questions objected to, the exclusion of such testimony is not shown to be prejudicial. This rule applies as well to questions asked on cross-examination. State v. Kirby, 276 N.C. 123, 171 S.E.2d 416 (1970).

Exception Not Considered Where No Objection or Request Made. — The failure of the court to restrict the admission of testimony competent for the purpose of corroboration is not error where defendant neither objects to the admission of the testimony nor requests that its admission be restricted. State v. Perry, 226 N.C. 530, 39 S.E.2d 460 (1946); Hatcher v. Clayton, 242 N.C. 450, 88 S.E.2d 104 (1955).

The admission of evidence generally and without qualification will not be held erroneous, even though the evidence is competent only for the purpose of corroboration, when at the time of its admission defendant does not request that its purpose be restricted. State v. Johnson, 218 N.C. 604, 12 S.E.2d 278 (1940).

When it is claimed that findings of fact made by the trial judge are not supported by the evidence, the exceptions and assignments of error in relation thereto must specifically and distinctly point out the alleged errors. Town of Burnsville v. Boone, 231 N.C. 577, 58 S.E.2d 351 (1950); Putnam v. Triangle Publications, Inc., 245 N.C. 432, 96 S.E.2d 445 (1957).

Failure to refer in the charge to the difference between substantive evidence and corroborative evidence and to define each of these terms is not ground for exception. State v. Lee, 248 N.C. 327, 103 S.E.2d 295 (1958).

An assignment of error relating to restrictions placed on cross-examination does not comply with this rule and Rule 9 if it does not contain any question put to any witness on cross-examination. State v. Kirby, 276 N.C. 123, 171 S.E.2d 416 (1970).

Evidence Competent for Some Purpose. — When evidence is competent for some purpose, its general admission is not reversible error unless the appellant asks at the time of the admission that it be restricted. Tise v. Town of Thomasville, 151 N.C. 281, 65 S.E. 1007 (1909).

A general objection to evidence cannot be sustained if the evidence is competent for any purpose. State v. Casper, 256 N.C. 99, 122 S.E.2d 805 (1961), cert. denied, 376 U.S. 927, 84 S. Ct. 691, 11 L. Ed. 2d 622 (1964).

Objecting Party to Request Restricted Consideration of Evidence. — When evidence competent for one purpose only and not for another is offered, it is incumbent upon the objecting party to request the court to restrict the consideration of the jury to that aspect of the evidence which is competent. State v. Williams, 272 N.C. 273, 158 S.E.2d 85 (1967); State v. Goodson, 273 N.C. 128, 159 S.E.2d 310 (1968).

Ordinarily, where evidence admissible for some purposes, but not for all, is admitted generally, its admission will not be held for error unless the appellant requested at the time of its admission that its purpose be restricted. State v. Corl, 250 N.C. 252, 108 S.E.2d 608 (1959).

When evidence competent for some purposes, but not for all, is admitted generally, unless appellant asks at the time of the admission that its purpose be restricted, or requests special instructions to that effect, the failure of the judge to so restrict it is not assignable for error. Hill v. Bean, 150 N.C. 436, 64 S.E. 212 (1909).

Where evidence, admissible only for the purpose of attacking the credibility of a witness, is admitted generally without objection, there is no error in the court's failure to so restrict its use. State v. McKinnon, 223 N.C. 160, 25 S.E.2d 606 (1943).

Where evidence competent for the purpose of corroboration is admitted generally, and defendant fails at the time of its admission to request that its purpose be restricted, his exception to the admission of the testimony cannot be sustained. State v. Walker, 226 N.C. 458, 38 S.E.2d 531 (1946); Humphries v. Queen City Coach Co., 228 N.C. 399, 45 S.E.2d 546 (1947).

Exception Not Considered. — A witness may testify to statements he had made to the defendant's agent when in corroboration of his testimony; and where the record states that it was confined to that purpose, or there was no request made that it be so confined, it will not be considered as reversible error on appeal. Whitehurst v. Padgett, 157 N.C. 424, 73 S.E. 240 (1911); Perry v. Branning Mfg. Co., 176 N.C. 68, 97 S.E. 162 (1918); Singleton v. Roebuck, 178 N.C. 201, 100 S.E. 313 (1919).

When the evidence is corroborative, the failure of the trial court to restrict it will not be considered on appeal unless the objecting party asks for an instruction to that effect. Chrisco v. Yow, 153 N.C. 434, 69 S.E. 422 (1910); Cooper v. Seaboard Air Line R.R., 163 N.C. 150, 79 S.E. 418 (1913).

Where several witnesses testified to certain facts which the trial judge at the time stated were competent only for the purpose of corroboration, and when charging the jury in reciting the testimony of one of these witnesses he repeated that it was to be considered only for the purpose of corroboration, but failed to do so in reciting the testimony of other witnesses, an exception to such omission cannot be sustained, in the absence of a request to charge that the same rule applied to all of the testimony of that class. Liles v. Fosburg Lumber Co., 142 N.C. 39, 54 S.E. 795 (1906).

Exceptions to Unanswered Questions. — Where exception is taken to the judge's exclusion of evidence upon the trial, it is upon appellant to show error, and when the exception is taken to unanswered questions, the substance of the answers must be made to appear on appeal, so that the Supreme Court may pass upon its competency. Wallace v. Barlow, 165 N.C. 676, 81 S.E. 924 (1914); Hamlet Ice Co. v. J.A. Jones Constr. Co., 194 N.C. 407, 139 S.E. 771 (1927).

Objection That Instruction Insufficient. — Where the declarations of a party to an action are admissible as to him alone, and the judge has so instructed the jury, an objection that the instruction was not sufficiently definite will not be sustained, unless there was a request to make it so, which was refused. Plemmons v. Murphey, 176 N.C. 671, 97 S.E. 648 (1918).

Unsupported Statements of Appellant. — A statement in the assignments of error, when there is nothing in the statement or record of the case on appeal to give it any support, is only the unsupported statement of the appellant of what had occurred, and hence the assignment of error depending thereon will not be considered on appeal. State v. Freeze, 170 N.C. 710, 86 S.E. 1000 (1915).

Where the charge of the court is not set out in the record on appeal, the presumption is in favor of its correctness, and that the appellant would otherwise have excepted, and especially so when it is stated that the judge charged the jury at length concerning the case. State v. Jones, 182 N.C. 781, 108 S.E. 376 (1921).

Rule 11. Settling the record on appeal.

(a) By agreement. Within 35 days after the reporter's or transcriptionist's certification of delivery of the transcript, if such was ordered (70 days in capitally tried cases), or 35 days after filing of the notice of appeal if no transcript was ordered, the parties may by agreement entered in the record on appeal settle a proposed record on appeal prepared by any party in accordance with Rule 9 as the record on appeal.

(b) By appellee's approval of appellant's proposed record on appeal. If the record on appeal is not settled by agreement under Rule 11(a), the appellant shall, within the same times provided, serve upon all other parties a proposed record on appeal constituted in accordance with the provisions of Rule 9. Within 21 days (35 days in capitally tried cases) after service of the proposed record on appeal upon him an appellee may serve upon all other parties a notice of approval of the proposed record on appeal, or objections, amendments, or a proposed alternative record on appeal in accordance with Rule 11(c). If all appellees within the times allowed them either serve notices of approval or fail to serve either notices of approval or objections, amendments, or proposed alternative records on appeal, appellant's proposed record on appeal thereupon constitutes the record on appeal.

(c) By judicial order or appellant's failure to request judicial settlement. Within 21 days (35 days in capitally tried cases) after service upon him of appellant's proposed record on appeal, an appellee may serve upon all other parties specific amendments or objections to the proposed record on appeal, or a proposed alternative record on appeal. Amendments or objections to the proposed record on appeal shall be set out in a separate paper.

If any appellee timely serves amendments, objections, or a proposed alternative record on appeal, the appellant or any other appellee, within 10 days after expiration of the time within which the appellee last served might have served, may in writing request the judge from whose judgment, order, or other determination appeal was taken to settle the record on appeal. A copy of the request, endorsed with a certificate showing service on the judge, shall be filed forthwith in the office of the clerk of the superior court, and served upon all other parties. Each party shall promptly provide to the judge a reference copy of the record items, amendments, or objections served by that party in the case. If only one appellee or only one set of appellees proceeding jointly have so served, and no other party makes timely request for judicial settlement, the record on appeal is thereupon settled in accordance with the appellee's objections, amendments or proposed alternative record on appeal. If more than one appellee proceeding separately have so served, failure of the appellant to make timely request for judicial settlement results in abandonment of the appeal as to those appellees, unless within the time allowed an appellee makes request in the same manner.

The judge shall send written notice to counsel for all parties setting a place and a time for a hearing to settle the record on appeal. The hearing shall be held not later than 15 days after service of the request for hearing upon the judge. The judge shall settle the record on appeal by order entered not more than 20 days after service of the request for hearing upon the judge. If requested, the judge shall return the record items submitted for reference during the judicial settlement process with the order settling the record on appeal.

Provided, that nothing herein shall prevent settlement of the record on appeal by agreement of the parties at any time within the times herein limited for settling the record by judicial order.

(d) Multiple appellants; single record on appeal. When there are multiple appellants (2 or more), whether proceeding separately or jointly, as parties aligned in interest, or as cross-appellants, there shall nevertheless be but one record on appeal, and the appellants shall attempt to agree to the procedure for constituting a proposed record on appeal. The assignments of error of the several appellants shall be set out separately in the single record on appeal and related to the several appellants by any clear means of reference. In the event multiple appellants cannot agree to the procedure for constituting a proposed record on appeal, the judge from whose judgment, order, or other determination the appeals are taken shall, on motion of any appellant with notice to all other appellants, enter an order settling the procedure, including the allocation of costs.

(e) [Reserved.]

(f) Extensions of time. The times provided in this rule for taking any action may be extended in accordance with the provisions of Rule 27(c). (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended November 27, 1984 — 11(a), (c), (e), and (f) — applicable to appeals in which the notice of appeal is filed on or after February 1, 1985; Amended December 8, 1988 — 11(a), (b), (c), (e), and (f) — effective for all judgments of the trial tribunal entered on or after July 1, 1989; Amended July 26, 1990 — 11(b), (c), (d) — effective October 1, 1990; Amended March 6, 1997 — 11(c) — effective upon adoption March 6, 1997; Amended November 21, 1997 — 11(a) — effective February 1, 1998.)

Note on the 1988 Amendment. — Paragraph (e) formerly contained the requirement that the settled record on appeal be certified by the clerk of the trial tribunal. The 27 November 1984 amendments deleted that step in the process. Under the present version of the rules, once the record is settled by the parties, by agreement or by judicial settlement, the appellant has 15 days to file the settled record with the appropriate appellate court.

CASE NOTES

Time Schedule. — The time schedule set out in this rule is designed to keep the process of perfecting an appeal to the appellate division flowing in an orderly manner. Counsel is not permitted to decide upon his own enterprise how long he will wait to take his next step in the appellate process. State v. Gillespie, 31 N.C. App. 520, 230 S.E.2d 154 (1976), cert. denied, 291 N.C. 713, 232 S.E.2d 205 (1977); Ledwell v. County of Randolph, 31 N.C. App. 522, 229 S.E.2d 836 (1976).

The time schedules set out in the rules are designed to keep the process of perfecting an appeal to the appellate division flowing in an orderly manner. Counsel is not permitted to decide upon his own enterprise how long he will wait to take his next step in the appellate process. There are generous provisions for extensions of time by the trial court if counsel can show good cause for extension. State v. Motsinger, 31 N.C. App. 594, 230 S.E.2d 205 (1976), cert. denied, 291 N.C. 714, 232 S.E.2d 202 (1977); In re Allen, 31 N.C. App. 597, 230 S.E.2d 423 (1976).

Trial Court Loses Jurisdiction to Settle the Record After Notice of Appeal. — While the recorded judgment did not reflect the judgment rendered by the trial court in open court, the trial court lacked jurisdiction to correct its judgment after defendant had given notice of appeal and the record on appeal had been filed with the appellate court. State v. Dixon, 139 N.C. App. 332, 533 S.E.2d 297, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 892 (2000).

Once the record on appeal has been filed with the appellate court, motion to correct or amend a judgment in order to make it speak the truth is properly made to the appellate court rather than the trial court. State v. Dixon, 139 N.C. App. 332, 533 S.E.2d 297, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 892 (2000).

The action of the trial judge in settling the record is final and will not be reviewed on appeal. State v. Johnson, 298 N.C. 355, 259 S.E.2d 752 (1979).

Appellant bears the burden of seeing that the record on appeal is properly settled and filed with the court. McLeod v. Faust, 92 N.C. App. 370, 374 S.E.2d 417 (1988).

Failure to Settle Record. — Appeal would be dismissed where appellants failed to settle the record on appeal prior to filing with the Court of Appeals. Higgins v. Town of China Grove, 102 N.C. App. 570, 402 S.E.2d 885 (1991).

Trial court's denial of appellee's motion to dismiss an appeal 36 days after the notice of appeal was filed, under N.C. R. App. P. 11, for a failure to settle the record in accordance with N.C. R. App. P. 9 within 35 days of the notice, was proper because the appellant substantially complied with the requirements of N.C. R. App. P. 7 regarding filing a transcript of the trial court proceedings. Spencer v. Spencer, 156 N.C. App. 1, 575 S.E.2d 780, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 30 (2003).

Failure to Respond to Defendants' Objections to Record Affected Time for Appeal. — The court dismissed the appeal of plaintiffs, administratrix and relatives of deceased infant, who failed to file and settle the record within the time limit required by this rule, where although plaintiffs timely served the proposed record on appeal on defendants, they failed to respond to defendants's objections and proposed amendments or to make a request for judicial settlement. As a result, the proposed record on appeal, in conformity with defendants' objections and amendments, became the record on appeal 13 days later (10 days as per N.C.R. A. P., Rule 11(c) plus 3 days as per N.C.R. App. P., Rule 27(b)) since defendants served their objections and amendments by United States mail, and plaintiffs should have filed the record on appeal within 15 days after that. Kellihan v. Thigpen, 140 N.C. App. 762, 538 S.E.2d 232, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 1267 (2000).

Court of Appeals Determines Question of Compliance. — Upon appeal, the opinion of Court of Appeals, not the clerk of the superior court, determines whether service of the proposed record was properly made within the required time, whether the record on appeal was properly settled, and, under former subsection (e), whether the record was certified by the clerk of the superior court within ten days after settlement. In re Rogers, 44 N.C. App. 713, 262 S.E.2d 312, vacated on other grounds, 300 N.C. 747, 268 S.E.2d 221 (1980).

Opposing Counsel of Record at Commitment Hearing. — Under former G.S. 122-58.24 (see now G.S. 122C-270), the staff attorney of the Attorney General who represents the State at a commitment hearing is the opposing counsel of record within the meaning of N.C.R.A.P. Rule 26 and should be served with the proposed record on appeal as required by this rule where the respondent appeals from an order of commitment. And if the State is not the petitioner in the involuntary commitment proceeding, the proposed record on appeal should be served on opposing counsel of record for the petitioner by the respondent appellant. In re Rogers, 44 N.C. App. 713, 262 S.E.2d 312, vacated on other grounds, 300 N.C. 747, 268 S.E.2d 221 (1980).

Noncompliance Works Loss of Right of Appeal. — A failure by appellant to meet the requirements of former section (e) of this rule, or to comply with the mandate of N.C.R.A.P. Rule 12(a), works a loss of the right of appeal. Craver v. Craver, 298 N.C. 231, 258 S.E.2d 357 (1979).

Failure to Comply Restored Jurisdiction to Trial Court. — Where defendant properly gave notice of appeal on September 1, 1978, but between that date and November 28, 1978, when judgment was entered, a period of 88 days, he took no steps to perfect that appeal, i.e., contrary to the mandate of section (a) of this rule defendant neither tendered a proposed record on appeal within 30 days, nor did he seek any extension of time to settle such a record as permitted by N.C.R.A.P. Rule 27(c), defendant's failure to perfect his appeal constituted an abandonment which reinvested the trial court with jurisdiction to render further order in the cause. McGinnis v. McGinnis, 44 N.C. App. 381, 261 S.E.2d 491 (1980).

Where the record on appeal contains two conflicting narratives of the evidence, the appeal should be dismissed for failure to bring forward a "settled" record as required under N.C.R.A.P., Rule 9 and this rule; however, where defendant did not assert that the trial court's findings quoted were unsupported by sufficient evidence at the custody hearing below, but instead asserted the trial court's conclusions were erroneous or were not supported by the findings actually made, under these limited circumstances, a narrative of evidence or a verbatim transcript was not necessary to understand defendant's assignment of error; therefore, the appellate court addressed the merits of his assignments of error. Napowsa v. Langston, 95 N.C. App. 14, 381 S.E.2d 882, cert. denied, 325 N.C. 709, 388 S.E.2d 460 (1989).

It is improper procedure for counsel to file three separate records on appeal from a trial at which the three cases were consolidated. — Aside from the question of the unnecessary expenses, the filing of three separate records on appeal creates the undue burden on the appellate courts of having to read three when one would have sufficed. State v. McKenzie, 30 N.C. App. 64, 226 S.E.2d 385, cert. denied, 291 N.C. 177, 229 S.E.2d 691 (1976).

The filing of two records when there should have been but one and the inclusion in both records of matter which should not have been included has placed an unnecessary burden on this court and has imposed upon the State an expense which was not necessary for the protection of defendants' rights to full appellate review. State v. Bryson, 30 N.C. App. 71, 226 S.E.2d 392, cert. denied, 290 N.C. 664, 228 S.E.2d 455 (1976).

Counsel Taxed for Redundant Record. — By appealing the three cases consolidated below separately, counsel has prepared and caused to be printed two redundant records on appeal; these records on appeal constitute matter not necessary for an understanding of the errors assigned. There has been no showing of compelling circumstances to justify the filing of three records on appeal instead of one. Consequently, counsel will be personally taxed with costs. State v. McKenzie, 30 N.C. App. 64, 226 S.E.2d 385, cert. denied, 291 N.C. 177, 229 S.E.2d 691 (1976).

When the court has ordered consolidation of cases or charges for trial, counsel cannot, of his own enterprise, sever the cases or charges and appeal each separately in the absence of a showing of compelling circumstances. State v. McKenzie, 30 N.C. App. 64, 226 S.E.2d 385, cert. denied, 291 N.C. 177, 229 S.E.2d 691 (1976).

Court Presumed to Have Acted Correctly Where Record Silent. — Where the record is silent as to whether a jury instruction conference was in fact held, the defendant must hold himself accountable. The defendant, as appellant, has the duty under this rule to preserve the record on appeal. If there was no instruction conference held, the defendant could have sought a stipulation from the State pursuant to subsection (a) of this rule acknowledging the trial court's failure in this regard. Had the State refused to agree to the stipulation, and objected to such a notation in the record, then the defendant could have requested that the trial judge settle the record on appeal pursuant to subsection (c) of this rule. Where the record is silent, it will be presumed that the trial court acted correctly. State v. Nealy, 64 N.C. App. 663, 308 S.E.2d 343 (1983), cert. denied, 310 N.C. 155, 311 S.E.2d 295 (1984).

Time Period Held Inapplicable. — Where the trial court allowed defendant 45 days to serve objections or file a counter-proposed record on appeal, the 15-day period of this rule was inapplicable. McLeod v. Faust, 92 N.C. App. 370, 374 S.E.2d 417 (1988).

Extension Held Ineffective. — Trial court's order extending the time during which plaintiffs could serve proposed record on appeal was ineffective where it was made after the expiration of the 35-day period during which plaintiffs were required by subsection (b) of this rule to serve the proposed record on appeal, it was made upon plaintiffs' oral motion in violation of N.C.R.A.P., Rule 27(c)(1), and the record did not reflect that the other parties, the defendant and third-party defendant, were given notice or an opportunity to be heard as required by N.C.R.A.P., Rule 27(c)(1). Richardson v. Bingham, 101 N.C. App. 687, 400 S.E.2d 757 (1991).

Failure to Perfect Appeal — Illustrative Cases. — Where defendant gave oral notice of appeal on January 4, 1988 (date of initial judgment), and tendered her proposed record on appeal pursuant to subsection (b) of this rule 139 days later, the court did not address defendant's first issue because the appeal from the trial court's initial judgment was not properly perfected. Woods v. Shelton, 93 N.C. App. 649, 379 S.E.2d 45 (1989) (effective for judgment entered prior to July 1, 1989).

Failure of Period to Run. — Subsection (a) provides that the time in which the record of a case on appeal must be filed runs from the date of the court reporter's certification of delivery of the transcript and if the court reporter fails to certify that the transcript has been delivered within the 60-day period permitted by Rule 7(b), the 35-day period within which an appellant must serve the proposed record on appeal does not begin to run until the court reporter does certify delivery of the transcript; therefore, since the court reporter had not certified delivery of her portion of the transcript prior to the hearing on plaintiff's motion to dismiss the appeal, the defendant's 35-day period to serve the record on appeal never began to run. Lockert v. Lockert, 116 N.C. App. 73, 446 S.E.2d 606 (1994), cert. granted in part and denied in part, writ of supersedeas allowed, 338 N.C. 311, 450 S.E.2d 487 (1994).

Dismissal for Failure to Comply. — Where the trial court's purported extension of time to file the records on appeal was ineffective, and where the records on appeal were not filed within the times mandated by the Rules of Appellate Procedure, each parties' appeals were dismissed for failure to comply with the rules. Onslow County v. Moore, 127 N.C. App. 546, 491 S.E.2d 670 (1997), rev'd on other grounds, 347 N.C. 672, 500 S.E.2d 88 (1998).

Notice to Defendant and Counsel. — The failure to give the defendant or his counsel notice of a hearing to settle the appellate record did not violate due process, where defendant's presence was not required, and defense counsel was present and fully examined the deputy clerk on the method and manner by which jurors were sworn. State v. McNeill, 349 N.C. 634, 509 S.E.2d 415, 1998 N.C. App. LEXIS 853 (1998), cert. denied, 528 U.S. 838, 120 S. Ct. 102, 145 L. Ed. 2d 87 (1999).

Applied in State v. Cottingham, 30 N.C. App. 67, 226 S.E.2d 387 (1976); State v. Chavis, 30 N.C. App. 75, 226 S.E.2d 389 (1976); State v. Pevia, 30 N.C. App. 79, 226 S.E.2d 394 (1976); State v. Rule 12. Filing the record; Docketing the appeal; Copies of the record.

(a) Time for filing record on appeal. Within 15 days after the record on appeal has been settled by any of the procedures provided in this Rule 11 or Rule 18, the appellant shall file the record on appeal with the clerk of the court to which appeal is taken.

(b) Docketing the appeal. At the time of filing the record on appeal, the appellant shall pay to the clerk the docket fee fixed pursuant to G.S. 7A-20(b), and the clerk shall thereupon enter the appeal upon the docket of the appellate court. If an appellant is authorized to appeal in forma pauperis as provided in G.S. 1-288 or 7A-450 et seq., the clerk shall docket the appeal upon timely filing of the record on appeal. An appeal is docketed under the title given to the action in the trial division, with the appellant identified as such. The clerk shall forthwith give notice to all parties of the date on which the appeal was docketed in the appellate court.

(c) Copies of record on appeal. The appellant need file but a single copy of the record on appeal. Upon filing, the appellant may be required to pay to the clerk of the appellate court a deposit fixed by the clerk to cover the costs of reproducing copies of the record on appeal. The clerk will reproduce and distribute copies as directed by the court. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended November 27, 1984 — applicable to appeals in which the notice of appeal is filed on or after February 1, 1985; Amended December 8, 1988 — 12(a) and (c) — effective for all judgments of the trial tribunal entered on or after July 1, 1989; Amended March 6, 1997 — 12(c) — effective upon adoption March 6, 1997; Amended May 1, 2003 — 12(c).)

CASE NOTES

I. In General.
II. Decisions Under Prior Law.

I. IN GENERAL.

Compliance Universally Mandatory. — Since appellate rules apply to everyone, the court would dismiss the appeal of pro se defendant who failed to comply with N.C.R.A.P., Rules 9(a)(1)(c), 9(a)(1)(k), 9(b)(3), 10(c)(1), 12(a), and 28(b)(5). Bledsoe v. County of Wilkes, 135 N.C. App. 124, 519 S.E.2d 316 (1999).

Section (e) of this rule contemplates review of petitions for writ of certiorari to review motions for appropriate relief that have been denied; those allowed may be reviewed by the State Supreme Court. State v. Roberts, 351 N.C. 325, 523 S.E.2d 417 (2000).

Notice Provision Jurisdictional. — The provisions of this rule as it read prior to amendment effective July 1, 1989, requiring that no later than 150 days after giving notice of appeal, the appellant shall file the record on appeal with the clerk of the court to which appeal is taken was jurisdictional and it imposed a limit on the aggrieved party's right to appeal. Only the appropriate appellate court could extend this 150-day time limit. State v. Ward, 61 N.C. App. 747, 301 S.E.2d 507, cert. denied, 309 N.C. 825, 310 S.E.2d 357 (1983).

Counsel's failure to timely file the record on appeal amounted to inadequate assistance of counsel, and the loss of one's only direct appeal because of counsel's neglect constitutes a serious deprivation. Galloway v. Stephenson, 510 F. Supp. 840 (M.D.N.C. 1981).

Noncompliance Works Loss of Right of Appeal. — A failure by appellant to meet the requirements of former Rule 11(e), or to comply with the mandate of subsection (a) of this rule, works a loss of the right of appeal. Craver v. Craver, 298 N.C. 231, 258 S.E.2d 357 (1979).

Failure to Settle Record. — Appeal would be dismissed where appellants failed to settle the record on appeal prior to filing with the Court of Appeals. Higgins v. Town of China Grove, 102 N.C. App. 570, 402 S.E.2d 885 (1991).

Time for Filing Record. — Appellant was not entitled to use all the time less than 150 days and then file a record on appeal that had not been settled as required by N.C.R.A.P., Rule 11. McLeod v. Faust, 92 N.C. App. 370, 374 S.E.2d 417 (1988) (decided prior to 1989 amendment.)

Failure to Respond to Defendants's Objections to Record Affected Time for Appeal. — The court dismissed the appeal of plaintiffs, administratrix and relatives of deceased infant, who failed to file and settle the record within the time limit required by this rule, where although plaintiffs timely served the proposed record on appeal on defendants, they failed to respond to defendants's objections and proposed amendments or to make a request for judicial settlement. As a result, the proposed record on appeal, in conformity with defendants' objections and amendments, became the record on appeal 13 days later (10 days as per N.C.R. A. P., Rule 11(c) plus 3 days as per N.C.R. A. P., Rule 27(b)) since defendants served their objections and amendments by United States mail, and plaintiffs should have filed the record on appeal within fifteen days after that. Kellihan v. Thigpen, 140 N.C. App. 762, 538 S.E.2d 232, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 1267 (2000).

Failure to timely file the record on appeal was not excused by personal conflicts of class counsel such as a district court hearing, a $1.4 million real estate closing, a mayoral debate, and a tight race for the office of mayor; class counsel also failed to file their motion for extension of time within the deadline prescribed for the record on appeal and their writ of certiorari was filed after the appellate court's first opinion in the case. Taylor v. City of Lenoir, 140 N.C. App. 337, 542 S.E.2d 222, 2001 N.C. App. LEXIS 14 (2001).

Appellant bears the burden of seeing that the record on appeal is properly settled and filed with the court. McLeod v. Faust, 92 N.C. App. 370, 374 S.E.2d 417 (1988).

Settling the Record. — Record on appeal was not settled until defendant signed a Stipulation and Settlement of the Record on Appeal. Forrest v. Pitt County Bd. of Educ., 100 N.C. App. 119, 394 S.E.2d 659, cert. denied, 327 N.C. 634, 399 S.E.2d 121 (1990), aff'd, 328 N.C. 327, 401 S.E.2d 366 (1991).

Appeal would be dismissed where record on appeal was not filed in the appellate court within 150 days from the giving of notice of appeal under this rule as it read prior to amendment effective July 1, 1989. Appellant's motion for a new trial or a modification of the judgment pursuant to G.S. 1A-1, Rule 59, the court's order fixing the time for service of the record on appeal, and the court's orders denying appellant's G.S. 1A-1, Rule 59 motion did not extend the time within which the appellant was required to file the record on appeal after giving notice of appeal from the judgment. C.C. Woods Constr. Co. v. Budd-Piper Roofing Co., 46 N.C. App. 634, 265 S.E.2d 506 (1980).

Dismissal of an earlier attempt to appeal was proper where plaintiff failed to file and docket the record in the appellate court within 150 days, under this rule as it read prior to amendment effective July 1, 1989. Lowder v. All Star Mills, Inc., 91 N.C. App. 621, 372 S.E.2d 739 (1988), cert. denied, 324 N.C. 113, 377 S.E.2d 234 (1989).

Regardless of the time limits set by the trial court, plaintiff had no longer than 150 days after giving notice of appeal to file the appeal record with the appellate court; the 150-day time limit may be extended only by an appropriate appellate court. Roberts v. Roberts, 97 N.C. App. 319, 388 S.E.2d 164 (1990) (decided prior to 1989 amendment).

Order to Extend Time for Serving Record on Appeal Held Proper. — Although counsel for the State erred in calculating the initial filing date, the judge properly entered his ex parte order extending the time for serving the proposed record on appeal where the State complied with N.C.R.A.P., Rule 27(c)(1) by giving oral and written notice of its motion to extend time to serve the proposed record on appeal, and it complied with the initial 15-day time limit specified in subdivision (a) of this rule, and with the outside time limit of 150 days in which to file the settled record on appeal from the time of oral notice of appeal. State ex rel. Thornburg v. Currency in Amount of $52,029.00 in U.S. Currency, 324 N.C. 276, 378 S.E.2d 1 (1989) (decided prior to 1989 amendment).

Time of Docketing. — Pursuant to subsection (b) an appeal is docketed upon the time of filing the record on appeal. Watson v. Watson, 118 N.C. App. 534, 455 S.E.2d 866 (1995).

Applied in Boone v. Fuller, 30 N.C. App. 107, 226 S.E.2d 191 (1976); In re Allen, 31 N.C. App. 597, 230 S.E.2d 423 (1976); Byrd v. Alexander, 32 N.C. App. 782, 233 S.E.2d 654 (1977); State v. Lesley, 33 N.C. App. 237, 234 S.E.2d 476 (1977); Indian Trace Co. v. Sanders, 33 N.C. App. 386, 235 S.E.2d 91 (1977); White v. Lawrence, 33 N.C. App. 631, 236 S.E.2d 30 (1977); City of Hickory v. Catawba Valley Mach. Co., 38 N.C. App. 387, 248 S.E.2d 71 (1978); State v. Crouch, 41 N.C. App. 612, 255 S.E.2d 192 (1979); State v. Brown, 42 N.C. App. 724, 257 S.E.2d 668 (1979); State v. Brown, 43 N.C. App. 532, 259 S.E.2d 309 (1979); In re Farmer, 52 N.C. App. 97, 277 S.E.2d 880 (1981);

II. DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW.

Editor's note. — The cases cited below were decided under former Rule 17, Rules of Practice in the Supreme Court of North Carolina, and under former Rule 5, Rules of Practice in the Court of Appeals of North Carolina.

This rule is mandatory, not directory, and must be uniformly enforced. State v. Byrd, 4 N.C. App. 494, 167 S.E.2d 95 (1969).

Rule May Not Be Ignored or Dispensed with. — Neither the judges, nor the solicitors, nor the attorneys, nor the parties have the right to ignore or dispense with the rule requiring docketing within the time prescribed. State v. Farrell, 3 N.C. App. 196, 164 S.E.2d 388 (1968); State v. Byrd, 4 N.C. App. 494, 167 S.E.2d 95 (1969).

Rule Determines Time for Docketing Record on Appeal. — The time for docketing the record on appeal in the Court of Appeals is determined by this rule and should not be confused with the time allowed for serving case on appeal and the time allowed for serving countercase or exceptions. The case on appeal, and the countercase or exceptions, and the settlement of case on appeal by the trial tribunal must all be accomplished within a time which will allow docketing of the record on appeal within the time allowed under this rule. State v. Farrell, 3 N.C. App. 196, 164 S.E.2d 388 (1968); Ross v. Sampson, 4 N.C. App. 270, 166 S.E.2d 499 (1969); Reece v. Reece, 6 N.C. App. 606, 170 S.E.2d 546 (1969); State v. Fulk, 7 N.C. App. 68, 171 S.E.2d 81 (1969); State v. Brigman, 8 N.C. App. 316, 174 S.E.2d 48 (1970).

The case on appeal, and the countercase or exceptions, and the settlement of the case on appeal by the trial tribunal must all be accomplished within a time which will allow docketing of the record on appeal within the time allowed under this rule. Rector v. Rector, 4 N.C. App. 240, 166 S.E.2d 492 (1969).

Effect of Noncompliance. — Where defendant fails to docket the record on appeal within the time provided by this rule, the appeal is subject to dismissal. State v. Farrell, 3 N.C. App. 196, 164 S.E.2d 388 (1968); State v. Garnett, 4 N.C. App. 367, 167 S.E.2d 63 (1969); State v. Byrd, 4 N.C. App. 494, 167 S.E.2d 95 (1969); Laws v. Palmer, 4 N.C. App. 510, 167 S.E.2d 49 (1969); North Carolina State Bar v. Temple, 6 N.C. App. 437, 170 S.E.2d 131 (1969), cert. denied, 397 U.S. 1023, 90 S. Ct. 1263, 25 L. Ed. 2d 532, rehearing denied, 397 U.S. 1081, 90 S. Ct. 1520, 25 L. Ed. 2d 820 (1970); Kurtz v. Allstate Ins. Co., 6 N.C. App. 625, 170 S.E.2d 496 (1969); Reece v. Reece, 6 N.C. App. 606, 170 S.E.2d 546 (1969); Dixon v. Dixon, 6 N.C. App. 623, 170 S.E.2d 561 (1969); State v. Fulk, 7 N.C. App. 68, 171 S.E.2d 81 (1969); Harrell v. Brinson, 7 N.C. App. 197, 171 S.E.2d 798 (1970); State v. Bocage, 8 N.C. App. 64, 173 S.E.2d 638 (1970); State v. Brigman, 8 N.C. App. 316, 174 S.E.2d 48 (1970); State v. Daughtry, 8 N.C. App. 318, 174 S.E.2d 76 (1970); State v. Gibbs, 8 N.C. App. 339, 174 S.E.2d 119 (1970).

Where the record on appeal was docketed in the Court of Appeals after the expiration of the time within which the appeal could be docketed in compliance with this rule, and there was no order extending the time for docketing, the Court of Appeals ex mero motu will dismiss the appeal for failure to comply with the rules. Young v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 6 N.C. App. 443, 170 S.E.2d 90 (1969).

Failure to Docket. — When the appellant does not docket his appeal before the perusal of the docket of the district to which it belongs, the appellee is entitled, upon motion, to have the appeal docketed and dismissed. Rose v. Shaw, 105 N.C. 126, 10 S.E. 1055 (1890).

It is not discretionary with the Supreme Court to refuse to dismiss an appeal where appellant has failed to docket the case within the time required by this rule, but such refusal can only be based on sufficient legal excuse for the delay. Hewitt v. Beck, 152 N.C. 757, 67 S.E. 586 (1910); Carroll v. Victory Mfg. Co., 180 N.C.

660, 104 S.E. 528, aff'd, 180 N.C. 366, 104 S.E. 895 (1920).

An appeal from the conviction of a capital felony will be docketed and dismissed on motion of the Attorney General when not prosecuted as required by the rules of the Supreme Court regulating such matters, after an examination of the record of errors appearing on its face. State v. Taylor, 194 N.C. 738, 140 S.E. 728 (1927); State v. Thomas, 195 N.C. 458, 142 S.E. 474 (1928); State v. Clyburn, 195 N.C. 618, 143 S.E. 129 (1928); State v. Newsome, 196 N.C. 16, 144 S.E. 300 (1928); State v. Sentell, 208 N.C. 140, 179 S.E. 456 (1935); State v. Day, 215 N.C. 566, 2 S.E.2d 569 (1939); State v. Mayes, 216 N.C. 542, 5 S.E.2d 722 (1939); State v. Moore, 216 N.C. 543, 5 S.E.2d 719 (1939); State v. Mitchell, 216 N.C. 544, 5 S.E.2d 723 (1939); State v. Young, 216 N.C. 626, 5 S.E.2d 847 (1939); State v. Morrow, 220 N.C. 441, 17 S.E.2d 507 (1941); State v. Blue, 221 N.C. 36, 18 S.E.2d 697 (1942); State v. Wilfong, 222 N.C. 746, 24 S.E.2d 629 (1943). See State v. Alexander, 224 N.C. 478, 31 S.E.2d 357 (1944); State v. Taylor, 224 N.C. 479, 31 S.E.2d 367 (1944); State v. Buchanan, 224 N.C. 626, 31 S.E.2d 774 (1944); State v. Brooks, 224 N.C. 627, 31 S.E.2d 754 (1944).

Extension of Time for Filing. — To avoid dismissal, the appellant must get his appeal docketed within time, but the Supreme Court may, in its discretion, grant further time for filing the record if appellant filed the record proper in time and then moves for certiorari, showing delay was not attributable to him. Paris v. Carolina Portable Aggregates, Inc., 271 N.C. 471, 157 S.E.2d 131 (1967).

Extension of Time for Docketing Record. — The trial tribunal, upon motion by appellant, and upon a finding of good cause therefor, may enter an order extending the time for docketing the record on appeal in the Court of Appeals. However, this cannot be accomplished by an order allowing additional time to serve case on appeal. State v. Farrell, 3 N.C. App. 196, 164 S.E.2d 388 (1968); Ross v. Sampson, 4 N.C. App. 270, 166 S.E.2d 499 (1969); Reece v. Reece, 6 N.C. App. 606, 170 S.E.2d 546 (1969); State v. Fulk, 7 N.C. App. 68, 171 S.E.2d 81 (1969); State v. Brigman, 8 N.C. App. 316, 174 S.E.2d 48 (1970).

An extension of time to docket the record on appeal cannot be accomplished by an extension of time to serve the case on appeal. Kurtz v. Allstate Ins. Co., 6 N.C. App. 625, 170 S.E.2d 496 (1969); State v. Brigman, 8 N.C. App. 316, 174 S.E.2d 48 (1970); State v. Gibbs, 8 N.C. App. 339, 174 S.E.2d 119 (1970).

Appellee Must Obey Rules. — A motion to dismiss an appeal upon the ground that the appellant did not cause the same to be docketed in accordance with this rule will not be granted where it appears that the appellee has also failed to comply with its requirements. One who seeks benefit under the rule must himself observe it. Barbee v. Green, 91 N.C. 158 (1884).

When Motion to Dismiss May Be Made. — A motion to docket and dismiss an appeal may be made at the beginning of the call of the district to which it belongs, or at any time thereafter during the term. In re Burwell's Will, 123 N.C. 125, 31 S.E. 382 (1898).

A motion to dismiss an appeal in the Supreme Court for failure of appellant to docket in the time required is in apt time when it is made during the term of court to which the appeal is returnable, and before the case is docketed. Standard Mirror Co. v. Philadelphia Cas. Co., 157 N.C. 28, 72 S.E. 826 (1911).

A motion by the appellee to docket and dismiss made before the docketing of the transcript, though not at the first opportunity, will be allowed. Worth v. City of Wilmington, 131 N.C. 532, 42 S.E. 964 (1902).

When Motion Allowed in Capital Case. — In a capital case, where the time for bringing up the case on appeal has expired, in the absence of any apparent error in the record before the court, the motion of the Attorney General to docket and dismiss, under this rule, is allowed. State v. Poole, 223 N.C. 394, 26 S.E.2d 858 (1943).

Where appellant did not docket the appeal or file transcript of the record on appeal within the time allowed, and failed to comply with mandatory rules of practice in the Supreme Court, the motion of the Attorney General to docket and dismiss will be allowed, but in a capital case this will be done only after a careful examination of the whole record fails to disclose error. State v. Scriven, 232 N.C. 198, 59 S.E.2d 428 (1950). See State v. Hall, 233 N.C. 310, 63 S.E.2d 636 (1951).

Where defendant fails to file statement of case on appeal or apply for writ of certiorari within the time allowed, the appeal will be dismissed on motion of the Attorney General, but where defendant has been convicted of a capital felony this will be done only after an inspection of the record proper fails to show error. State v. Garner, 230 N.C. 66, 51 S.E.2d 895 (1949); State v. Lewis, 230 N.C. 539, 53 S.E.2d 528 (1949).

Where a defendant convicted of a capital felony fails to file case on appeal in the superior court, the motion of the Attorney General to docket and dismiss, made after expiration of time agreed for perfecting the appeal and any extension of time which may have been granted, will be allowed after a careful inspection of the record proper fails to disclose error. State v. Nelson, 226 N.C. 529, 39 S.E.2d 391 (1946).

Appellant Not Entitled to Notice of Dismissal Motion. — An appellee entitled to move for the dismissal of an appeal because of appellants' failure to file transcript of record within the required time, is not required to give appellants notice of such motion. Johnston v. Whitehead, 109 N.C. 207, 13 S.E. 731 (1891); Kerr v. Drake, 182 N.C. 764, 108 S.E. 393 (1921).

Duty of Clerk Where Judgment Stayed But Appeal Not Docketed. — Even though execution of the judgment is stayed, unless the defendant shall proceed further and docket the appeal within the time prescribed, the clerk of the superior court wherein the case is tried should certify the facts to the Attorney General, to the end that he may move to docket and dismiss the appeal under this rule. State v. Watson, 208 N.C. 70, 179 S.E. 455 (1935).

Case on Appeal Unnecessary. — A motion to docket and dismiss an appeal will be allowed where no transcript has been docketed, and no case on appeal is necessary to entitle appellee to such dismissal. S.R. Fowle & Son v. Mitchell, 149 N.C. 581, 62 S.E. 311 (1908).

Agreement of Parties. — Where the parties have entered into a written agreement or an oral agreement not denied, that the appellee will not move to dismiss under this rule the Supreme Court will uphold the agreement and a motion to dismiss will be denied. McNeil v. Virginia-Carolina R.R., 173 N.C. 729, 92 S.E. 484 (1917).

When Appellant Has Abandoned Appeal. — When it appears from the record on file in the Supreme Court that the appellant has abandoned his appeal below, no motion to dismiss is necessary, and it will therefore be disallowed. Standard Mirror Co. v. Philadelphia Cas. Co., 157 N.C. 28, 72 S.E. 826 (1911).

Withdrawal of Appeal. — Defendant's motion to withdraw his appeal may be allowed by the Court of Appeals in its discretion. State v. Byrd, 4 N.C. App. 494, 167 S.E.2d 95 (1969).

The superior court had no authority to permit or allow a defendant to withdraw an appeal to the Court of Appeals after the appeal is docketed here. State v. Byrd, 4 N.C. App. 494, 167 S.E.2d 95 (1969).

Motion to Reinstate. — Where an appeal has been dismissed under this rule, the appellant, applying for a reinstatement upon the ground that the trial judge has failed to settle the case, must show that he has had his record proper docketed in the Supreme Court, as required by the rules, or his motion will be denied. Caudle v. Morris, 158 N.C. 594, 74 S.E. 98, modified and aff'd, 160 N.C. 168, 76 S.E. 17 (1912).

A motion to reinstate a case on appeal must be denied when based on the same grounds upon which it was properly dismissed. McDowell v. J. S. Kent Co., 153 N.C. 555, 69 S.E. 626 (1910).

Where an appeal has been dismissed for failure to docket the transcript on appeal in proper time, it will not be reinstated upon the ground that appellant's counsel was prevented from appearing to settle the case before the trial judge on the days designated for the purpose, by other urgent business of his client, the appellant, requiring his presence elsewhere. Parker v. Southern Ry., 121 N.C. 501, 28 S.E. 347 (1897).

A brief entitled "Reply to Argument of Appellees" that was filed with the clerk of the Court of Appeals after argument in that court was not considered where appellant failed to obtain leave of the court as required by this rule. Roughton v. Jim Walter Corp., 8 N.C. App. 325, 174 S.E.2d 389 (1970).

Rule 13. Filing and service of briefs.

(a) Time for filing and service of briefs.

(1) Cases other than death penalty cases. Within 30 days after the clerk of the appellate court has mailed the printed record to the parties, the appellant shall file his brief in the office of the clerk of the appellate court, and serve copies thereof upon all other parties separately represented. Within 30 days after appellant's brief has been served on an appellee, the appellee shall similarly file and serve copies of his brief. If permitted by Rule 28(h), the appellant may serve and file a reply brief within 14 days after service of the brief of the appellee.

(2) Death penalty cases. Within 60 days after the Clerk of the Supreme Court has mailed the printed record to the parties, the defendant-appellant in a criminal appeal which includes a sentence of death shall file his brief in the office of the Clerk and serve copies thereof upon all other parties separately represented. Within 60 days after appellant's brief has been served, the State-appellee shall similarly file and serve copies of its brief. If permitted by Rule 28(h), the appellant may serve and file a reply brief within 21 days after service of the brief of the State-appellee.

(b) Copies reproduced by clerk. A party need file but a single copy of his brief. At the time of filing the party may be required to pay to the clerk of the appellate court a deposit fixed by the clerk to cover the cost of reproducing copies of the brief. The clerk will reproduce and distribute copies of briefs as directed by the court.

(c) Consequence of failure to file and serve briefs. If an appellant fails to file and serve his brief within the time allowed, the appeal may be dismissed on motion of an appellee or on the court's own initiative. If an appellee fails to file and serve his brief within the time allowed, he may not be heard in oral argument except by permission of the court. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended October 7, 1980 — 13(a) — effective January 1, 1981; Amended November 27, 1984 — 13(a) and (b) — effective February 1, 1985; Amended June 30, 1988 — 13(a) — effective September 1, 1988; Amended June 8, 1989 — 13(a) — effective September 1, 1989; Amended May 1, 2003 — 13(a)(1), (b).)

ARTICLE III. REVIEW BY SUPREME COURT OF APPEALS ORIGINALLY DOCKETED IN COURT OF APPEALS: APPEALS OF RIGHT; DISCRETIONARY REVIEW

Rule 14. Appeals of right from Court of Appeals to Supreme Court under G.S. 7A-30.

(a) Notice of appeal; filing and service. Appeals of right from the Court of Appeals to the Supreme Court are taken by filing notices of appeal with the Clerk of the Court of Appeals and with the Clerk of the Supreme Court and serving notice of appeal upon all other parties within 15 days after the mandate of the Court of Appeals has been issued to the trial tribunal. For cases which arise from the Industrial Commission, a copy of the notice of appeal shall be served on the Chairman of the Industrial Commission. The running of the time for filing and serving a notice of appeal is tolled as to all parties by the filing by any party within such time of a petition for rehearing under Rule 31 of these rules, and the full time for appeal thereafter commences to run and is computed as to all parties from the date of entry by the Court of Appeals of an order denying the petition for rehearing. If a timely notice of appeal is filed by a party, any other party may file a notice of appeal within 10 days after the first notice of appeal was filed. A petition prepared in accordance with Rule 15(c) for discretionary review in the event the appeal is determined not to be of right or for issues in addition to those set out as the basis for a dissenting opinion may be filed with or contained in the notice of appeal.

(b) Content of notice of appeal.

(1) Appeal based upon dissent in court of appeals. In an appeal which is based upon the existence of a dissenting opinion in the Court of Appeals the notice of appeal shall specify the party or parties taking the appeal; shall designate the judgment of the Court of Appeals from which the appeal is taken; shall state the basis upon which it is asserted that appeal lies of right under G.S. 7A-30; and shall state the issue or issues which are the basis of the dissenting opinion and which are to be presented to the Supreme Court for review.

(2) Appeal presenting constitutional question. In an appeal which is asserted by the appellant to involve a substantial constitutional question, the notice of appeal shall specify the party or parties taking the appeal; shall designate the judgment of the Court of Appeals from which the appeal is taken; shall state the issue or issues which are the basis of the constitutional claim and which are to be presented to the Supreme Court for review; shall specify the articles and sections of the Constitution asserted to be involved; shall state with particularity how appellant's rights thereunder have been violated; and shall affirmatively state that the constitutional issue was timely raised (in the trial tribunal if it could have been, in the Court of Appeals if not) and either not determined or determined erroneously.

(c) Record on appeal.

(1) Composition. The record on appeal filed in the Court of Appeals constitutes the record on appeal for review by the Supreme Court. However, the Supreme Court may note de novo any deficiencies in the record on appeal and may take such action in respect thereto as it deems appropriate, including dismissal of the appeal.

(2) Transmission; Docketing; Copies. Upon the filing of a notice of appeal, the Clerk of the Court of Appeals will forthwith transmit the original record on appeal to the Clerk of the Supreme Court, who shall thereupon file the record and docket the appeal. The Clerk of the Supreme Court will procure or reproduce copies of the record on appeal for distribution as directed by the Court, and may require a deposit from appellant to cover the cost of reproduction.

(d) Briefs.

(1) Filing and service; Copies. Within 30 days after filing notice of appeal in the Supreme Court, the appellant shall file with the Clerk of the Supreme Court and serve upon all other parties copies of a new brief prepared in conformity with Rule 28, presenting only those questions upon which review by the Supreme Court is sought; provided, however, that when the appeal is based upon the existence of a substantial constitutional question or when the appellant has filed a petition for discretionary review for issues in addition to those set out as the basis of a dissent in the Court of Appeals, the appellant shall file and serve a new brief within 30 days after entry of the order of the Supreme Court which determines for the purpose of retaining the appeal on the docket that a substantial constitutional question does exist or allows or denies the petition for discretionary review in an appeal based upon a dissent. Within 30 days after service of the appellant's brief upon him, the appellee shall similarly file and serve copies of a new brief. If permitted by Rule 28(h), the appellant may serve and file a reply brief within 14 days after service of the brief of the appellee.

The parties need file but single copies of their respective briefs. At the time of filing a brief, the party may be required to pay to the Clerk a deposit fixed by the Clerk to cover the cost of reproducing copies of the brief. The Clerk will reproduce and distribute copies as directed by the Court.

(2) Failure to file or serve. If an appellant fails to file and serve his brief within the time allowed, the appeal may be dismissed on motion of an appellee or on the court's own initiative. If an appellee fails to file and serve his brief within the time allowed, he may not be heard in oral argument except by permission of the Court. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended January 31, 1977 — 14(d)(1); Amended October 7, 1980 — 14(d)(1) — effective January 1, 1981; Amended November 27, 1984 — 14(a), (b), (d) — applicable to appeals in which the notice of appeal is filed on or after February 1, 1985; Amended June 30, 1988 — 14(b)(2), (d)(1) — effective September 1, 1988; Amended June 8, 1989 — 14(d)(1) — effective September 1, 1989; Amended March 6, 1997 — 14(a) — effective July 1, 1997; Amended May 1, 2003 — 14(c)(2), (d)(1).)

Editor's note. — The 1981 amendment to Rule 28 eliminated the right to incorporate by reference any argument contained in a brief filed in the Court of Appeals, which was formerly contained in subsection (d) of that rule.

Rule 15. Discretionary review on certification by Supreme Court under G.S. 7A-31.

(a) Petition of party. Either prior to or following determination by the Court of Appeals of an appeal docketed in that court, any party to the appeal may in writing petition the Supreme Court upon any grounds specified in G.S. 7A-31 to certify the cause for discretionary review by the Supreme Court; except that a petition for discretionary review of an appeal from the Industrial Commission, the North Carolina State Bar, the Property Tax Commission, the Board of State Contract Appeals, or the Commissioner of Insurance may only be made following determination by the Court of Appeals; and except that no petition for discretionary review may be filed in any post-conviction proceeding under G.S. Chap. 15A, Art. 89, or in valuation of exempt property under G.S. Chap. 1C.

(b) Same; Filing and service. A petition for review prior to determination by the Court of Appeals shall be filed with the Clerk of the Supreme Court and served on all other parties within 15 days after the appeal is docketed in the Court of Appeals. For cases which arise from the Industrial Commission, a copy of the petition shall be served on the Chairman of the Industrial Commission. A petition for review following determination by the Court of Appeals shall be similarly filed and served within 15 days after the mandate of the Court of Appeals has been issued to the trial tribunal. Such a petition may be contained in or filed with a notice of appeal of right, to be considered by the Supreme Court in the event the appeal is determined not to be of right, as provided in Rule 14(a). The running of the time for filing and serving a petition for review following determination by the Court of Appeals is terminated as to all parties by the filing by any party within such time of a petition for rehearing under Rule 31 of these rules, and the full time for filing and serving such a petition for review thereafter commences to run and is computed as to all parties from the date of entry by the Court of Appeals of an order denying the petition for rehearing. If a timely petition for review is filed by a party, any other party may file a petition for review within 10 days after the first petition for review was filed.

(c) Same; Content. The petition shall designate the petitioner or petitioners and shall set forth plainly and concisely the factual and legal basis upon which it is asserted that grounds exist under G.S. 7A-31 for discretionary review. The petition shall state each question for which review is sought, and shall be accompanied by a copy of the opinion of the Court of Appeals when filed after determination by that court. No supporting brief is required; but supporting authorities may be set forth briefly in the petition.

(d) Response. A response to the petition may be filed by any other party within 10 days after service of the petition upon him. No supporting brief is required, but supporting authorities may be set forth briefly in the response. If, in the event that the Supreme Court certifies the case for review, the respondent would seek to present questions in addition to those presented by the petitioner, those additional questions shall be stated in the response. A motion for extension of time is not permitted.

(e) Certification by Supreme Court; How determined and ordered.

(1) On petition of a party. The determination by the Supreme Court whether to certify for review upon petition of a party is made solely upon the petition and any response thereto and without oral argument.

(2) On initiative of the court. The determination by the Supreme Court whether to certify for review upon its own initiative pursuant to G.S. 7A-31 is made without prior notice to the parties and without oral argument.

(3) Orders; Filing and service. Any determination to certify for review and any determination not to certify made in response to petition will be recorded by the Supreme Court in a written order. The Clerk of the Supreme Court will forthwith enter such order, deliver a copy thereof to the Clerk of the Court of Appeals, and mail copies to all parties. The cause is docketed in the Supreme Court upon entry of an order of certification by the Clerk of the Supreme Court.

(f) Record on appeal.

(1) Composition. The record on appeal filed in the Court of Appeals constitutes the record on appeal for review by the Supreme Court. However, the Supreme Court may note de novo any deficiencies in the record on appeal and may take such action in respect thereto as it deems appropriate, including dismissal of the appeal.

(2) Filing; Copies. When an order of certification is filed with the Clerk of the Court of Appeals, he will forthwith transmit the original record on appeal to the Clerk of the Supreme Court. The Clerk of the Supreme Court will procure or reproduce copies thereof for distribution as directed by the Court. If it is necessary to reproduce copies, the Clerk may require a deposit of the petitioner to cover the costs thereof.

(g) Filing and service of briefs.

(1) Cases certified before determination by Court of Appeals. When a case is certified for review by the Supreme Court before being determined by the Court of Appeals, the times allowed the parties by Rule 13 to file their respective briefs are not thereby extended. If a party has filed his brief in the Court of Appeals and served copies before the case is certified, the Clerk of the Court of Appeals shall forthwith transmit to the Clerk of the Supreme Court the original brief and any copies already reproduced by him for distribution, and if filing was timely in the Court of Appeals this constitutes timely filing in the Supreme Court. If a party has not filed his brief in the Court of Appeals and served copies before the case is certified, he shall file his brief in the Supreme Court and serve copies within the time allowed and in the manner provided by Rule 13 for filing and serving in the Court of Appeals.

(2) Cases certified for review of Court of Appeals determinations. When a case is certified for review by the Supreme Court of a determination made by the Court of Appeals, the appellant shall file a new brief prepared in conformity with Rule 28 in the Supreme Court and serve copies upon all other parties within 30 days after the case is docketed in the Supreme Court by entry of its order of certification. The appellee shall file a new brief in the Supreme Court and serve copies upon all other parties within 30 days after a copy of appellant's brief is served upon him. If permitted by Rule 28(h), the appellant may serve and file a reply brief within 14 days after service of the brief of the appellee.

(3) Copies. A party need file or the Clerk of the Court of Appeals transmit, but a single copy of any brief required by this Rule 15 to be filed in the Supreme Court upon certification for discretionary review. The Clerk of the Supreme Court will thereupon procure from the Court of Appeals or will himself reproduce copies for distribution as directed by the Supreme Court. The Clerk may require a deposit of any party to cover the costs of reproducing copies of his brief.

In civil appeals in forma pauperis a party need not pay the deposit for reproducing copies, but at the time of filing his original new brief shall also deliver to the clerk two legible copies thereof reproduced by typewriter carbon or other means.

(4) Failure to file or serve. If an appellant fails to file and serve his brief within the time allowed by this Rule 15, the appeal may be dismissed on motion of an appellee or upon the Court's own initiative. If an appellee fails to file and serve his brief within the time allowed by this Rule 15, he may not be heard in oral argument except by permission of the Court.

(h) Discretionary review of interlocutory orders. An interlocutory order by the Court of Appeals, including an order for a new trial or for further proceedings in the trial tribunal, will be certified for review by the Supreme Court only upon a determination by the Court that failure to certify would cause a delay in final adjudication which would probably result in substantial harm to a party.

(i) Appellant, appellee defined. As used in this Rule 15, the terms "appellant" and "appellee" have the following meanings:

(1) With respect to the Supreme Court review prior to determination by the Court of Appeals, whether on petition of a party or on the Court's own initiative, "appellant" means a party who appealed from the trial tribunal; "appellee," a party who did not appeal from the trial tribunal.

(2) With respect to Supreme Court review of a determination of the Court of Appeals, whether on petition of a party or on the Court's own initiative, "appellant" means the party aggrieved by the determination of the Court of Appeals; "appellee," the opposing party. Provided, that in its order of certification, the Supreme Court may designate either party appellant or appellee for purposes of proceeding under this Rule 15. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended October 7, 1980 — 15(g)(2) — effective January 1, 1981; Amended November 18, 1981 — 15(a); Amended June 30, 1988 — 15(a), (c), (d), (g)(2) — effective September 1, 1988; Amended December 8, 1988 — 15(i)(2) — effective January 1, 1989; Amended June 8, 1989 — 15(g)(2) — effective September 1, 1989; Amended March 6, 1997 — 15(b) — effective July 1, 1997; Amended October 18, 2001 — 15(d) — effective October 31, 2001.)

Rule 16. Scope of review of decisions of Court of Appeals.

(a) How determined. Review by the Supreme Court after a determination by the Court of Appeals, whether by appeal of right or by discretionary review, is to determine whether there is error of law in the decision of the Court of Appeals. Except where the appeal is based solely upon the existence of a dissent in the Court of Appeals, review in the Supreme Court is limited to consideration of the questions stated in the notice of appeal filed pursuant to Rule 14(b)(2) or the petition for discretionary review and the response thereto filed pursuant to Rule 15(c) and (d), unless further limited by the Supreme Court, and properly presented in the new briefs required by Rules 14(d)(1) and 15(g)(2) to be filed in the Supreme Court.

(b) Scope of review in appeal based solely upon dissent. Where the sole ground of the appeal of right is the existence of a dissent in the Court of Appeals, review by the Supreme Court is limited to a consideration of those questions which are (1) specifically set out in the dissenting opinion as the basis for that dissent, (2) stated in the notice of appeal, and (3) properly presented in the new briefs required by Rule 14(d)(1) to be filed in the Supreme Court. Other questions in the case may properly be presented to the Supreme Court through a petition for discretionary review, pursuant to Rule 15, or by petition for writ of certiorari, pursuant to Rule 21.

(c) Appellant, appellee defined. As used in this Rule 16, the terms "appellant" and "appellee" have the following meanings when applied to discretionary review:

(1) With respect to Supreme Court review of a determination of the Court of Appeals upon petition of a party, "appellant" means the petitioner, "appellee" means the respondent.

(2) With respect to Supreme Court review upon the Court's own initiative, "appellant" means the party aggrieved by the decision of the Court of Appeals; "appellee" means the opposing party. Provided that in its order of certification the Supreme Court may designate either party "appellant" or "appellee" for purposes of proceeding under this Rule 16. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended November 3, 1983 — 16(a) and (b) — applicable to all notices of appeal filed in the Supreme Court on and after January 1, 1984; Amended June 30, 1988 — 16(a) and (b) — effective September 1, 1988; Amended July 26, 1990 — 16(a) — effective October 1, 1990.)

CASE NOTES

Scope of Review Limited in Appeals of Right Based on Dissent. — The intent of subsection (b) of this rule, effective with notices of appeal filed in the Supreme Court on and after January 1, 1984, is to further ensure that in appeals of right based solely upon dissent, review by the Supreme Court shall be limited to those questions on which there was division in the intermediate appellate court. Such review has never been intended for claims on which that court has rendered unanimous decisions. C.C. Walker Grading & Hauling, Inc. v. S.R.F. Mgt. Corp., 311 N.C. 170, 316 S.E.2d 298 (1984).

Where a plaintiff's appeal is based solely on the existence of a dissent in the Court of Appeals, the scope of the Supreme Court's review on the plaintiff's appeal is limited to the issues raised in that dissent. Penley v. Penley, 314 N.C. 1, 332 S.E.2d 51 (1985).

On appeal to the Supreme Court pursuant to G.S. 7A-30(2) by defendant from a decision of the Court of Appeals, one judge dissenting, in which a majority of the panel found no error in defendant's convictions of felonious breaking and felonious larceny, where the dissent in the Court of Appeals disagreed only with the majority's treatment of the second question presented to that court, and defendant did not petition the Supreme Court for discretionary review of the other questions, only the second question was properly before the Supreme Court for review, notwithstanding defendant's attempt to bring forward other questions in his brief. State v. Reilly, 313 N.C. 499, 329 S.E.2d 381 (1985), considering also, however, the question of the sufficiency of the evidence on the question of guilt, in order to prevent manifest injustice.

Under G.S. 7A-30(2), only the issue raised in the dissent is properly before the Supreme Court for review. This rule defines the permissible scope of review in such cases. Blumenthal v. Lynch, 315 N.C. 571, 340 S.E.2d 358 (1986), addressing, nevertheless, additional issues which arise frequently in the administration of estates and must often be determined by the Department of Revenue under the court's residual power or authority under N.C.R.A.P., Rule 2.

When an appeal is taken pursuant to G.S. 7A-30(2), the scope of the Supreme Court's review is properly limited to the issue upon which the dissent in the Court of Appeals diverges from the opinion of the majority. State v. Hooper, 318 N.C. 680, 351 S.E.2d 286 (1987).

Where appeal was before the Supreme Court pursuant to G.S. 7A-30(2), review was limited to the issues raised in dissent. Medlin v. Bass, 327 N.C. 587, 398 S.E.2d 460 (1990).

Issues Not Set Out in Dissent. — Where an appeal of right is taken to the Supreme Court based solely on a dissent in the Court of Appeals, and the dissenter does not set out the issues upon which he bases his disagreement with the majority, the appellant has no issue properly before the court. Such appeals are subject to dismissal. C.C. Walker Grading & Hauling, Inc. v. S.R.F. Mgt. Corp., 311 N.C. 170, 316 S.E.2d 298 (1984).

Petitioners whose cases come before the Supreme Court on discretionary review are limited by this rule to those questions they have presented in their briefs to the Court of Appeals. Pearce v. American Defender Life Ins. Co., 316 N.C. 461, 343 S.E.2d 174 (1986).

This rule does not limit the state's right of appeal to only the matters which are the basis of the dissent in the court of appeals. State v. Kaley, 343 N.C. 107, 468 S.E.2d 44 (1996).

Questions Must First Be Presented in Court of Appeals. — The potential scope of review by the Supreme Court is limited by the questions properly presented for first review in the Court of Appeals. The attempt to smuggle in new questions is not approved. Falls Sales Co. v. Board of Transp., 292 N.C. 437, 233 S.E.2d 569 (1977).

Only Decision of Court of Appeals Is Before Supreme Court for Review. — After there has been a determination by the Court of Appeals, review by the Supreme Court, whether by appeal of right or by discretionary review, is to determine whether there is any error of law in the decision of the Court of Appeals and only the decision of that court is before the Supreme Court for review. Falls Sales Co. v. Board of Transp., 292 N.C. 437, 233 S.E.2d 569 (1977).

Effect of Equally Divided Supreme Court. — Where one member of the Supreme Court does not participate in the consideration or decision of a case, and the remaining six justices are equally divided as to whether the decision of the Court of Appeals should be affirmed or reversed, the decision of the Court of Appeals is affirmed without becoming a precedent. Wayfaring Home, Inc. v. Ward, 301 N.C. 518, 272 S.E.2d 121 (1980); Greenhill v. Crabtree, 301 N.C. 520, 271 S.E.2d 908 (1980).

Applied in State v. Dietz, 289 N.C. 488, 223 S.E.2d 357 (1976); North Carolina State Ports Auth. v. Lloyd A. Fry Roofing Co., 294 N.C. 73, 240 S.E.2d 345 (1978); State v. Rule 17. Appeal bond in appeals under G.S. 7A-30, 7A-31.

(a) Appeal of right. In all appeals of right from the Court of Appeals to the Supreme Court in civil cases, the party who takes appeal shall, upon filing the notice of appeal in the Supreme Court, file with the Clerk of that Court a written undertaking, with good and sufficient surety in the sum of $250, or deposit cash in lieu thereof, to the effect that he will pay all costs awarded against him on the appeal to the Supreme Court.

(b) Discretionary review of Court of Appeals determination. When the Supreme Court on petition of a party certifies a civil case for review of a determination of the Court of Appeals, the petitioner shall file an undertaking for costs in the form provided in subdivision (a). When the Supreme Court on its own initiative certifies a case for review of a determination of the Court of Appeals, no undertaking for costs shall be required of any party.

(c) Discretionary review by Supreme Court before Court of Appeals determination. When a civil case is certified for review by the Supreme Court before being determined by the Court of Appeals, the undertaking on appeal initially filed in the Court of Appeals shall stand for the payment of all costs incurred in either the Court of Appeals or the Supreme Court and awarded against the party appealing.

(d) Appeals in forma pauperis. No undertakings for costs are required of a party appealing in forma pauperis. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended June 19, 1978 — effective July 1, 1978; Amended July 26, 1990 — 17(a) — effective October 1, 1990.)

Note to July 1, 1978 Amendment. — Repeal of Rule 7 and limiting Rule 17's application to civil cases are to conform the Rules of Appellate Procedure to Chap. 711, 1977 Session Laws, particularly that portion of Chap. 711 codified as G.S. 15A-1449, which provides, "In criminal cases no security for costs is required upon appeal to the appellate division." Section 33 of Chap. 711 repealed, among other statutes, G.S. 15-180 and 15-181, upon which Rule 7 was based. Chap. 711 became effective 1 July 1978. While G.S. 15A-1449, strictly construed, does not apply to cost bonds in appeals from or petitions for further review of decisions of the Court of Appeals, the Supreme Court believes the legislature intended to eliminate the giving of security for costs in criminal cases on appeal or on petition to the Supreme Court from the Court of Appeals. The Court has, therefore, amended Rule 17 to comply with what it believes to be the legislative intent in this area.

ARTICLE IV. DIRECT APPEALS FROM ADMINISTRATIVE AGENCIES TO APPELLATE DIVISION

Rule 18. Taking appeal; Record on appeal — Composition and settlement.

(a) General. Appeals of right from administrative agencies, boards, or commissions (hereinafter "agency") directly to the appellate division under G.S. 7A-29 shall be in accordance with the procedures provided in these rules for appeals of right from the courts of the trial divisions, except as hereinafter provided in this Article.

(b) Time and method for taking appeals.

(1) The times and methods for taking appeals from an agency shall be as provided in this Rule 18 unless the statutes governing the agency provide otherwise, in which case those statutes shall control.

(2) Any party to the proceeding may appeal from a final agency determination to the appropriate court of the appellate division for alleged errors of law by filing and serving a notice of appeal within 30 days after receipt of a copy of the final order of the agency. The final order of the agency is to be sent to the parties by Registered or Certified Mail. The notice of appeal shall specify the party or parties taking the appeal; shall designate the final agency determination from which appeal is taken and the court to which appeal is taken; and shall be signed by counsel of record for the party or parties taking the appeal, or by any such party not represented by counsel of record.

(3) If a transcript of fact-finding proceedings is not made by the agency as part of the process leading up to the final agency determination, the appealing party may contract with the reporter for production of such parts of the proceedings not already on file as he deems necessary, pursuant to the procedures prescribed in Rule 7.

(c) Composition of record on appeal. The record on appeal in appeals from any agency shall contain:

(1) an index of the contents of the record, which shall appear as the first page thereof;

(2) a statement identifying the commission or agency from whose judgment, order or opinion appeal is taken, the session at which the judgment, order or opinion was rendered, or if rendered out of session, the time and place of rendition, and the party appealing;

(3) a copy of the summons with return, notice of hearing, or other papers showing jurisdiction of the agency over persons or property sought to be bound in the proceeding, or a statement showing same;

(4) copies of all other notices, pleadings, petitions, or other papers required by law or rule of the agency, including a Form 44 for all cases which originate from the Industrial Commission, to be filed with the agency to present and define the matter for determination;

(5) a copy of any findings of fact and conclusions of law and a copy of the order, award, decision, or other determination of the agency from which appeal was taken;

(6) so much of the evidence taken before the agency or before any division, commissioner, deputy commissioner, or hearing officer of the agency, set out in the form provided in Rule 9(c)(1), as is necessary for an understanding of all errors assigned, or a statement specifying that the verbatim transcript of proceedings is being filed with the record pursuant to Rule 9(c)(2) and (3);

(7) where the agency has reviewed a record of proceedings before a division, or an individual commissioner, deputy commissioner, or hearing officer of the agency, copies of all items included in the record filed with the agency which are necessary for an understanding of all errors assigned;

(8) copies of all other papers filed and statements of all other proceedings had before the agency or any of its individual commissioners, deputies, or divisions which are necessary to an understanding of all errors assigned unless they appear in the verbatim transcript of proceedings which is being filed pursuant to Rule 9(c)(2) and (3);

(9) a copy of the notice of appeal from the agency, of all orders establishing time limits relative to the perfecting of the appeal, of any order finding a party to the appeal to be a civil pauper, and of any agreement, notice of approval, or order settling the record on appeal and settling the verbatim transcript of proceedings if one is filed pursuant to Rule 9(c)(2) and (3);

(10) assignments of error to the actions of the agency, set out as provided in Rule 10; and

(11) a statement, where appropriate, that the record of proceedings was made with an electronic recording device.

(d) Settling the record on appeal. The record on appeal may be settled by any of the following methods:

(1) By agreement. Within 35 days after filing of the notice of appeal or after production of the transcript if one is ordered pursuant to Rule 18(b)(3), the parties may by agreement entered in the record on appeal settle a proposed record on appeal prepared by any party in accordance with this Rule 18 as the record on appeal.

(2) By appellee's approval of appellant's proposed record on appeal. If the record on appeal is not settled by agreement under Rule 18(d)(1), the appellant shall, within 35 days after filing of the notice of appeal or after production of the transcript if one is ordered pursuant to Rule 18(b)(3), file in the office of the agency head and serve upon all other parties a proposed record on appeal constituted in accordance with the provisions of Rule 18(c). Within 30 days after service of the proposed record on appeal upon him, an appellee may file in the office of the agency head and serve upon all other parties a notice of approval of the proposed record on appeal, or objections, amendments, or a proposed alternative record on appeal. If all appellees within the times allowed them either file notices of approval or fail to file either notices of approval or objections, amendments, or proposed alternative records on appeal, appellant's proposed record on appeal thereupon constitutes the record on appeal.

(3) By conference or agency order; Failure to request settlement. If any appellee timely files amendments, objections, or a proposed alternative record on appeal, the appellant or any other appellee, within 10 days after expiration of the time within which the appellee last served might have filed, may in writing request the agency head to convene a conference to settle the record on appeal. A copy of that request, endorsed with a certificate showing service on the agency head, shall be served upon all other parties. Each party shall promptly provide to the agency head a reference copy of the record items, amendments, or objections served by that party in the case. If only one appellee or only one set of appellees proceeding jointly have so filed and no other party makes timely request for agency conference or settlement by order, the record on appeal is thereupon settled in accordance with the one appellee's, or one set of appellees', objections, amendments, or proposed alternative record on appeal. If more than one appellee proceeding separately have so filed, failure of the appellant to make timely request for agency conference or for settlement by order results in abandonment of the appeal as to those appellees, unless within the time allowed an appellee makes request in the same manner.

Upon receipt of a request for settlement of the record on appeal, the agency head shall send written notice to counsel for all parties setting a place and time for a conference to settle the record on appeal. The conference shall be held not later than 15 days after service of the request upon the agency head. The agency head or a delegate appointed in writing by the agency head shall settle the record on appeal by order entered not more than 20 days after service of the request for settlement upon the agency. If requested, the settling official shall return the record items submitted for reference during the settlement process with the order settling the record on appeal.

When the agency head is a party to the appeal, the agency head shall forthwith request the Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals or the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, as appropriate, to appoint a referee to settle the record on appeal. The referee so appointed shall proceed after conference with all parties to settle the record on appeal in accordance with the terms of these Rules and the appointing order.

Nothing herein shall prevent settlement of the record on appeal by agreement of the parties at any time within the times herein limited for settling the record by agency order.

(e) Further procedures. Further procedures for perfecting and prosecuting the appeal shall be as provided by these Rules for appeals from the courts of the trial divisions.

(f) Extensions of time. The times provided in this Rule for taking any action may be extended in accordance with the provisions of Rule 27(c). (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended June 21, 1977; Amended October 7, 1980 — 18(d)(3) — effective January 1, 1981; Amended February 27, 1985 — applicable to all appeals in which the notice of appeal is filed on or after March 15, 1985; Amended July 26, 1990 — 18(b)(3), (d)(1) and (d)(2) — effective October 1, 1990; Amended March 6, 1997 —18(c)(2), (c)(4) — effective July 1, 1997; Amended November 21, 1997 — 18(c)(11) — effective February 1, 1998.)

Editor's note. — The order of the Supreme Court of February 27, 1985, which amended this rule and Rule 20 and deleted Rule 19, provided that inasmuch as the rules affected make the procedures for direct appeals from administrative agencies to the appellate division consistent with the rules for bringing appeals from the courts of the trial division which were amended on November 27, 1984, to be effective February 1, 1985, the amendments of February 27, 1985, would be applicable to all appeals in which the notice of appeal was filed on or after March 15, 1985.

A party may not circumvent the manner in which appeals are taken under G.S. 105-345(a) by relying on subdivision (b)(2) of this rule or other state or federal rules of civil procedure; therefore, the appropriate analysis for the time for taking such appeal lies in G.S. 105-345, where the appealing party has 30 days after the entry of the final order or decision to file its notice of appeal and exceptions, not from a party's receipt of a copy of the final order. OPINIONS OF ATTORNEY GENERAL

Industrial Commission. — The only specific authorities conferred on the chairman of the Industrial Commission are to settle records on appeal, certify in forma pauperis appeals, set appeal bonds, and designate deputies to sit on the Full Commission when necessary. See opinion of Attorney General to J. Randolph Ward, Commissioner, North Carolina Industrial Commission, — N.C.A.G. — (November 8, 1990).

Rule 19. [Reserved].

Editor's note. — Rule 19 was repealed by order of February 27, 1985, effective March 15, 1985.

The order of the Supreme Court of February 27, 1985, which repealed this section and amended Rules 18 and 20, provided that inasmuch as these rules make the procedures for direct appeals from administrative agencies to the appellate division consistent with the rules for bringing appeals from the courts of the trial division which were amended on November 27, 1984, to be effective February 1, 1985, the amendments adopted February 27, 1985, would be applicable to all appeals in which the notice of appeal was filed on or after March 15, 1985.

Rule 20. Miscellaneous provisions of law governing in agency appeals.

Specific provisions of law pertaining to stays pending appeals from any agency to the appellate division, to pauper appeals therein, and to the scope of review and permissible mandates of the Court of Appeals therein shall govern the procedure in such appeals notwithstanding any provisions of these rules which may prescribe a different procedure. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended February 27, 1985 — effective March 15, 1985.)

Editor's note. — The order of the Supreme Court of February 27, 1985, which amended this rule and Rule 18 and repealed Rule 19, provided that inasmuch as the rules affected make the procedures for direct appeals from administrative agencies to the appellate division consistent with the rules for bringing appeals from the courts of the trial division which were amended on November 27, 1984, to be effective February 1, 1985, the amendments of February 27, 1985, would be applicable to all appeals in which the notice of appeal was filed on or after March 15, 1985.

ARTICLE V. EXTRAORDINARY WRITS

Rule 21. Certiorari.

(a) Scope of the writ.

(1) Review of the judgments and orders of trial tribunals. The writ of certiorari may be issued in appropriate circumstances by either appellate court to permit review of the judgments and orders of trial tribunals when the right to prosecute an appeal has been lost by failure to take timely action, or when no right of appeal from an interlocutory order exists, or for review pursuant to G.S. 15A-1422(c)(3) of an order of the trial court denying a motion for appropriate relief.

(2) Review of the judgments and orders of the Court of Appeals. The writ of certiorari may be issued by the Supreme Court in appropriate circumstances to permit review of the decisions and orders of the Court of Appeals when the right to prosecute an appeal of right or to petition for discretionary review has been lost by failure to take timely action; or for review of orders of the Court of Appeals when no right of appeal exists.

(b) Petition for writ; To which appellate court addressed. Application for the writ of certiorari shall be made by filing a petition therefor with the clerk of the court of the appellate division to which appeal of right might lie from a final judgment in the cause by the tribunal to which issuance of the writ is sought.

(c) Same; Filing and service; Content. The petition shall be filed without unreasonable delay and shall be accompanied by proof of service upon all other parties. For cases which arise from the Industrial Commission, a copy of the petition shall be served on the Chairman of the Industrial Commission. The petition shall contain a statement of the facts necessary to an understanding of the issues presented by the application; a statement of the reasons why the writ should issue; and certified copies of the judgment, order or opinion or parts of the record which may be essential to an understanding of the matters set forth in the petition. The petition shall be verified by counsel or the petitioner. Upon receipt of the prescribed docket fee, the clerk will docket the petition.

(d) Response; Determination by court. Within 10 days after service upon him of the petition any party may file a response thereto with supporting affidavits or certified portions of the record not filed with the petition. Filing shall be accompanied by proof of service upon all other parties. The Court for good cause shown may shorten the time for filing a response. Determination will be made on the basis of the petition, the response and any supporting papers. No briefs or oral argument will be received or allowed unless ordered by the court upon its own initiative.

(e) Petition for writ in post conviction matters; To which appellate court addressed. Petitions for writ of certiorari to review orders of the trial court denying motions for appropriate relief upon grounds listed in G.S. 15A-1415(b) by persons who have been convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to death shall be filed in the Supreme Court. In all other cases such petitions shall be filed in and determined by the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court will not entertain petitions for certiorari or petitions for further discretionary review in these cases. In the event the petitioner unreasonably delays in filing the petition or otherwise fails to comply with a rule of procedure, the petition shall be dismissed by the Court. In the event the petition is without merit, it shall be denied by the Court.

(f) Petition for writ in post conviction matters — Death penalty cases. A petition for writ of certiorari to review orders of the trial court on motions for appropriate relief in death penalty cases shall be filed in the Supreme Court within 60 days after delivery of the transcript of the hearing on the motion for appropriate relief to the petitioning party. The responding party shall file its response within 30 days of service of the petition. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended November 18, 1981 — 21(a) and (e); Amended November 27, 1984 — 21(a) — effective February 1, 1985; Amended September 3, 1987 — 21(e) — effective for all judgments of the trial division entered on and after July 24, 1987; Amended December 8, 1988 — 21(f) — applicable to all cases in which the superior court order is entered on or after July 1, 1989; Amended March 6, 1997 — 21(c), (f) — effective July 1, 1997; Amended August 15, 2002 — 21(e).)

CASE NOTES

I. In General.
II. Decisions Under Prior Law.

I. IN GENERAL.

Rules Similar to United States Supreme Court's. — The rules and procedures of the North Carolina Supreme Court regarding writs of certiorari are substantially similar to those of the United States Supreme Court. Felton v. Barnett, 912 F.2d 92 (4th Cir. 1990), cert. denied, 111 S. Ct. 693, 112 L. Ed. 2d 683 (1991).

Writ of Certiorari Limited. — While G.S. 15A-1444(e) allows a defendant to petition for writ of certiorari after entering a guilty plea, the appellate court is limited to issuing a writ of certiorari in appropriate circumstances to permit review of the judgments and orders of trial tribunals when the right to prosecute an appeal has been lost by failure to take timely action, or when no right of appeal from an interlocutory order exists, or for review pursuant to G.S. 15A-1422(c)(3) of an order of the trial court denying a motion for appropriate relief, N.C. R. App. P. 21(a)(1). State v. Pimental, 153 N.C. App. 69, 568 S.E.2d 867, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1076 (2002), cert. denied, 356 N.C. 442, 573 S.E.2d 163 (2002).

Court of Appeals of North Carolina lacked jurisdiction to hear the State Bar of North Carolina's appeal of a grant of summary judgment to an attorney in a disciplinary proceeding because G.S. 84-28(h) provided no appeal from a final order that did not impose discipline and in the instant case, no discipline had been imposed; further, certiorari was inappropriate because the case did not fall within the rubric of N.C. R. App. P. 21(a)(1) and the court declined to suspend the requirement of Rule 21(a)(1) using N.C. R. App. P. 2. N.C. State Bar v. Rudisill, — N.C. App. —, 583 S.E.2d 413, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1527 (2003).

The Court of Appeals of North Carolina may only issue a writ of certiorari to review judgments and orders of trial tribunals in instances where: (1) the right to prosecute an appeal has been lost by failure to take timely action; (2) no right of appeal from an interlocutory order exists; or (3) for review pursuant to G.S. 15A-1422(c)(3) of an order of the trial court denying a motion for appropriate relief. N.C. R. App. P. 21(a)(1). State v. Smith, — N.C. App. —, 584 S.E.2d 830, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1767 (2003).

Habeas Corpus Proceedings for Prisoners Under Sentence of Death or Life Imprisonment. — By analogy, subsection (b) of this rule and G.S. 7A-27(a) and repealed G.S. 15-180.2 were logically applicable to petitions for certiorari to review judgments in habeas corpus proceedings involving the restraint of prisoners under sentences of death or life imprisonment. State v. Niccum, 293 N.C. 276, 238 S.E.2d 141 (1977), decided prior to adoption of subsection (f) of this rule.

The Court of Appeals has authority to issue writ of certiorari to review trial court order "when no right of appeal from an interlocutory order exists." But where authority was exercised by another panel of the court with respect to the matters presented, its grant of certiorari is the law of the case and cannot be overruled by any panel of the Court of Appeals. Stone v. Martin, 69 N.C. App. 650, 318 S.E.2d 108 (1984).

Construing Rules 3, 27(c) and 21(a)(1) together, the court concluded that Rule 21(a)(1) gives an appellate court the authority to review the merits of an appeal by certiorari even if the party has failed to file notice of appeal in a timely manner. Anderson v. Hollifield, 345 N.C. 480, 480 S.E.2d 661 (1997).

Although the trial court exceeded its authority and violated N.C.R. App. P. 27(c) when it entered an order on 12 September 1996 allowing defendant to appeal as of right from the judgments and sentences imposed on 16 June 1994, the Court of Appeals chose to suspend the Rules pursuant to subdivision (a)(1) of this rule and treat the otherwise untimely appeal as before them on a writ of certiorari. State v. White, 127 N.C. App. 565, 492 S.E.2d 48 (1997).

The Court May Treat Appeal as Writ of Certiorari. — Although the defendant, who was stripped of her jail credit for time in home detention, could not appeal under G.S. 15A-1444, the court elected to treat her appeal as a petition for a writ of certiorari and granted it, pursuant to this section. State v. Jarman, 140 N.C. App. 198, 535 S.E.2d 875, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 1103 (2000).

Appellate Court Treated Uncertified Interlocutory Appeal as Petition for Writ of Certiorari. — Although appellants, trusts and trustees, failed to show that the trial court's antisuit injunction affected a substantial right that would be lost without immediate interlocutory review, in the interest of the administration of justice, the appellate court exercised its discretionary authority under N.C. R. App. P. 21(a) to treat the appeal as a writ of certiorari and address the merits of the appeal. Staton v.

Russell, 151 N.C. App. 1, 565 S.E.2d 103, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 688 (2002).

Where the determination of the correctness of the judge's denial of plaintiffs' motion to amend was necessary to decide an appeal from a Rule 12(b)(6) dismissal, which motion was properly before the Court of Appeals, the court would treat the appeal of the denial of the motion to amend as a petition for certiorari under subdivision (a)(1) of this rule. Hoots v. Pryor, 106 N.C. App. 397, 417 S.E.2d 269, cert. denied, 332 N.C. 345, 421 S.E.2d 148 (1992).

A writ of certiorari will only be issued upon a showing of appropriate circumstances in a civil case where the right of appeal has been lost because of failure to take timely action or where no right to appeal from an interlocutory order exists. Graham v. Rogers, 121 N.C. App. 460, 466 S.E.2d 290 (1996).

Timeliness. — Where defendant did not move to withdraw a guilty plea pursuant to G.S. 15A-1024, did not give timely notice of appeal pursuant to G.S. 15A-1444, and did not petition for writ of certiorari pursuant G.S.15A-1444(e) and N.C. R. App. P. 21(c), any challenge to the original judgment was waived; since defendant waived the right to appeal by consenting to an initial extension of probation under G.S. 15A-1342, the trial court was entitled to revoke defendant's probation and activate the sentence under G.S. 15A-1344(d) after a second violation of probation. State v. Rush, — N.C. App. —, 582 S.E.2d 37, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1255 (2003).

Absence of Dismissal Does Not Necessarily Imply That Petition Was Timely. — It did not necessarily follow from the fact that a petition for certiorari was not dismissed that such petition was not untimely, as it was possible that the court might have opted to excuse the untimeliness as a matter of state law in order to rule on the merits. Allen v. Mitchell, 276 F.3d 183, 2001 U.S. App. LEXIS 27233 (4th Cir. 2001).

The court refused to grant a writ pursuant to this section where the Attorney General's appeal was interlocutory and where he had no right to appeal in the first place from the court's denial of his challenge to class action attorneys' fees. Bailey v. North Carolina Dep't of Revenue, 353 N.C. 142, 540 S.E.2d 313, 2000 N.C. LEXIS 896 (2000).

The appellate court was without authority to issue remedial writs or grant a writ of certiorari in a county's appeal of juvenile court's orders requiring the county to pay for a juvenile delinquent's residential substance abuse and mental treatment; the County had not failed to take timely action, was not attempting to appeal from an interlocutory order, and was not seeking review pursuant to G.S. 15A-1422(c)(3) as was required by N.C. R. App. P. 21(a)(1). In re Braithwaite, 150 N.C. App. 434, 562 S.E.2d 897, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 486 (2002), cert. denied, 356 N.C. 162, 568 S.E.2d 187 (2002).

Where denial of Rule 60(b) motion was in the nature of an interlocutory order because plaintiff's voluntary dismissal resulted in there being no action pending, and defendants would not suffer the loss of a substantial right absent an appeal, in the court's discretion pursuant to Rules 2 and 21 the appeal was treated as a writ of certiorari. Troy v. Tucker, 126 N.C. App. 213, 484 S.E.2d 98 (1997).

II. DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW.

Editor's note. — The cases cited below were decided under former Rule 34, Rules of Practice in the Supreme Court of North Carolina

Rule Strictly Applied. — Failure to comply strictly with the regulations contained in this rule will result in a dismissal. In re McCoy, 233 F. Supp. 409 (E.D.N.C. 1964).

When Certiorari Should Be Applied for. — Where the appellant can show good and sufficient cause why his case on appeal had not been docketed in the Supreme Court in the time required by the rules, or that he was not at fault, he should file a transcript of the record proper and move for a certiorari for the statement of the case, which may be done at any time during the term before appellee moves to dismiss it. McNeil v. Virginia-Carolina R.R., 173 N.C. 729, 92 S.E. 484 (1917); Rose v. Rocky Mount, 184 N.C. 609, 113 S.E. 506 (1922).

Further Time Not Matter of Right. — Where the record of a case on appeal is not docketed in the Supreme Court at the time required, it will be dismissed, but the court may, in its discretion and not as a matter of right of the appellant, grant further time for the filing of the record, if the appellant files the record proper in apt time and thereupon moves for a certiorari, showing that the delay was not attributable to himself. State ex rel. Mills v. National Sur. Co., 192 N.C. 52, 133 S.E. 172 (1926); Pruitt v. Wood, 199 N.C. 788, 156 S.E. 126 (1930).

Effect of Agreement for Extension of Time. — Where the parties have agreed upon an extension of time for the service of their respective cases on appeal that the delay will cause the docketing of the case too late to come within the rule, the appellant having used his full time may not successfully move the Supreme Court for a certiorari upon the ground that the delay was caused by a loss of the papers in it, for which he was not responsible, without proof sufficient to overcome evidence in denial of the allegation. Baker v. Hare, 192 N.C. 788, 136 S.E. 113 (1926).

Legal Excuse Decided by Supreme Court. — Whether the appellant has legal excuse in not docketing his case on appeal in time for it to be regularly heard at the call of the district to which it belongs is a matter for the Supreme Court to determine upon his docketing the record proper and moving for a certiorari under the rule. State v. Johnson, 183 N.C. 730, 110 S.E. 782 (1922).

Question of Laches May Be Heard. — Where the appellant asserts that he is not in default in docketing his appeal in the time required by the rule, he may apply for a certiorari to bring up the transcript of the case, or the omitted part, and thus only have the question of his laches therein passed upon. Stone v. Ledbetter, 191 N.C. 777, 133 S.E. 162 (1926).

Motion Too Late After Argument. — Where the plaintiff's motion for a certiorari was disallowed at a former term of the Supreme Court without prejudice, for the purpose of allowing him to renew his motion after he had applied to the trial judge to correct the case, the plaintiff should again move the court for a writ before the call of the district to which the case belonged, and it comes too late after argument of the case. Todd v. Mackie, 160 N.C. 352, 76 S.E. 245 (1912).

Motion Denied After Appeal Dismissed. — A motion for a certiorari to bring up the case on appeal will be denied if made after the appellee has had it docketed and dismissed. Cox v. Kinston Carolina R.R. & Lumber Co., 177 N.C. 227, 98 S.E. 704 (1919).

When Appellee Prevents Timely Docketing of Appeal. — Where the appellant is prevented from docketing his appeal within the time prescribed, in consequence of the conduct of the appellee or his counsel, he is entitled to the writ of certiorari to bring up the case. Briggs v. Jervis, 98 N.C. 454, 4 S.E. 631 (1887).

Appellant Must Docket All of Available Record. — When the appeal is not docketed at or before the time prescribed, the appellant must docket all of the record proper, or so much thereof as he can obtain, with an affidavit, as to why the entire record cannot be docketed and move at that time for a certiorari. If he fails to do so, the appellee has the right to docket the certificate and have the appeal dismissed. Caudle v. Morris, 158 N.C. 594, 74 S.E. 98, modified and aff'd, 160 N.C. 168, 76 S.E. 17 (1912); State v. Johnson, 183 N.C. 730, 110 S.E. 782 (1922); Hardy v. Heath, 188 N.C. 271, 124 S.E. 564 (1924).

Appellant's motion for a writ of certiorari will be denied where the petition is not verified and no transcript of the record has been filed nor any good reason shown for failure to file it. Critz v. Sparger, 121 N.C. 283, 28 S.E. 365 (1897); Rothchild v. McNichol, 121 N.C. 284, 28 S.E. 364 (1897).

Filing of Original Papers Insufficient. — A transcript of the record proper should be filed by appellant in the Supreme Court to entitle him to move for a certiorari; and the filing of the original papers, which should remain in the office of the superior court, is insufficient. Lindsey v. Supreme Lodge of Knights of Honor, 172 N.C. 818, 90 S.E. 1013 (1916).

When Case on Appeal Not Prepared. — Where a case and counter-case are served within the time as extended by agreement, but neither is accepted, appellant must immediately request a settlement, file the record proper, and sue out certiorari; otherwise appellee may move to docket and dismiss. Waynesville Transp. Co. v. Waynesville Lumber Co., 168 N.C. 60, 84 S.E. 54 (1915); Washam & Patterson Motor Co. v. Reep, 186 N.C. 509, 119 S.E. 821 (1923).

Certiorari Denied When Case Unsettled in Agreed Time. — Where the parties to an action have agreed, or the judge at their request has allowed an extension of time for service of case and counter-case, etc., that will prevent its being docketed in the time, and consequently no case has been settled by the trial judge, appellant's motion in the Supreme Court for a writ of certiorari will be denied. Waller v. Dudley, 193 N.C. 354, 137 S.E. 149 (1927).

Appeal by Person Without Counsel Treated as Petition for Certiorari. — Where plaintiff, appearing in propria persona because of an asserted inability to employ counsel, fails to comply with the rules of court governing appeals, the Supreme Court, in the exercise of its supervisory jurisdiction, may treat the purported appeal as a petition for certiorari. Huffman v. Douglass Aircraft Co., 260 N.C. 308, 132 S.E.2d 614 (1963), cert. denied, 379 U.S. 850, 85 S. Ct. 93, 13 L. Ed. 2d 53, rehearing denied, 379 U.S. 925, 85 S. Ct. 279, 13 L. Ed. 2d 338 (1964).

Failure to Pay Clerk's Fees. — The failure of the clerk below to send up the transcript after the case on appeal had been filed in his office will not excuse appellant's failure to have the transcript or case on appeal filed, where there is no allegation that the appellant had tendered the fees for such transcript and was otherwise free from laches. Critz v. Sparger, 121 N.C. 283, 28 S.E. 365 (1897).

Extent of Waiver by Consent. — The parties to an appeal, without the consent of the court, cannot waive the rule of the Supreme Court requiring that a transcript of the record proper, or all thereof that may be had, shall be filed therein as the basis for the motion for a certiorari; but they may, by written agreement, consent that the appeal may be docketed at the next ensuing term of the Supreme Court. Murphy v. Carolina Elec. Co., 174 N.C. 782, 93 S.E. 456 (1917).

Application for Certiorari in Criminal Case. — Where the appellant in a criminal action has failed to have his case docketed in the time required by the rules in the Supreme Court, in order to preserve his right to appeal it is required that he file an application for a certiorari, addressed to the sound discretion of the Supreme Court, and show a good and sufficient reason for granting his motion therefor, and where this has not been done the appeal will be dismissed upon motion of the State. State v. Harris, 199 N.C. 377, 154 S.E. 628 (1930).

Rule 22. Mandamus and prohibition.

(a) Petition for writ; To which appellate court addressed. Applications for the writs of mandamus or prohibition directed to a judge, judges, commissioner, or commissioners shall be made by filing a petition therefor with the clerk of the court to which appeal of right might lie from a final judgment entered in the cause by the judge, judges, commissioner, or commissioners to whom issuance of the writ is sought.

(b) Same; Filing and service; Content. The petition shall be filed without unreasonable delay after the judicial action sought to be prohibited or compelled has been undertaken, or has occurred, or has been refused, and shall be accompanied by proof of service on the respondent judge, judges, commissioner, or commissioners and on all other parties to the action. The petition shall contain a statement of the facts necessary to an understanding of the issues presented by the application; a statement of the issues presented and of the relief sought; a statement of the reasons why the writ should issue; and certified copies of any order or opinion or parts of the record which may be essential to an understanding of the matters set forth in the petition. The petition shall be verified by counsel or the petitioner. Upon receipt of the prescribed docket fee, the clerk shall docket the petition.

(c) Response; Determination by court. Within 10 days after service upon him of the petition the respondent or any party may file a response thereto with supporting affidavits or certified portions of the record not filed with the petition. Filing shall be accompanied by proof of service upon all other parties. The Court for good cause shown may shorten the time for filing a response. Determination will be made on the basis of the petition, the response and any supporting papers. No briefs or oral argument will be received or allowed unless ordered by the court upon its own initiative. (Adopted June 13, 1975.)

CASE NOTES

The failure of the trial court to enter an order is not a matter to be addressed on an appeal from that inaction, but instead is to be addressed through a writ of mandamus filed with the Court of Appeals. Stevens v. Guzman, 140 N.C. App. 780, 538 S.E.2d 590, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 1273 (2000), cert. granted, 353 N.C. 397, 547 S.E.2d 437 (2001), review dismissed, 354 N.C. 214, 552 S.E.2d 140 (2001).

Rule 23. Supersedeas.

(a) Pending review of trial tribunal judgments and orders.

(1) Application — When appropriate. Application may be made to the appropriate appellate court for a writ of supersedeas to stay the execution or enforcement of any judgment, order, or other determination of a trial tribunal which is not automatically stayed by the taking of appeal when an appeal has been taken or a petition for mandamus, prohibition, or certiorari has been filed to obtain review of the judgment, order, or other determination; and (i) a stay order or entry has been sought by the applicant by deposit of security or by motion in the trial tribunal and such order or entry has been denied or vacated by the trial tribunal, or (ii) extraordinary circumstances make it impracticable to obtain a stay by deposit of security or by application to the trial tribunal for a stay order.

(2) Same — How and to which appellate court made. Application for the writ is by petition which shall in all cases, except those initially docketed in the Supreme Court, be first made to the Court of Appeals. Except where an appeal from a superior court is initially docketed in the Supreme Court no petition will be entertained by the Supreme Court unless application has been first made to the Court of Appeals and by that court denied.

(b) Pending review by Supreme Court of Court of Appeals decisions. Application may be made in the first instance to the Supreme Court for a writ of supersedeas to stay the execution or enforcement of a judgment, order or other determination mandated by the Court of Appeals when a notice of appeal of right or a petition for discretionary review has been or will be timely filed, or a petition for review by certiorari, mandamus, or prohibition has been filed to obtain review of the decision of the Court of Appeals. No prior motion for a stay order need be made to the Court of Appeals.

(c) Petition: Filing and service; Content. The petition shall be filed with the clerk of the court to which application is being made, and shall be accompanied by proof of service upon all other parties. The petition shall be verified by counsel or the petitioner. Upon receipt of the required docket fee, the clerk will docket the petition.

For stays of the judgments of trial tribunals, the petition shall contain a statement that stay has been sought in the court to which issuance of the writ is sought and by that court denied or vacated, or of facts showing that it was impracticable there to seek a stay. For stays of any judgment, the petition shall contain: (1) a statement of any facts necessary to an understanding of the basis upon which the writ is sought; and (2) a statement of reasons why the writ should issue in justice to the applicant. The petition may be accompanied by affidavits and by any certified portions of the record pertinent to its consideration. It may be included in a petition for discretionary review by the Supreme Court under G.S. 7A-31, or in a petition to either appellate court for certiorari, mandamus or prohibition.

(d) Response; Determination by court. Within 10 days after service upon him of the petition any party may file a response thereto with supporting affidavits or certified portions of the record not filed with the petition. Filing shall be accompanied by proof of service upon all other parties. The court for good cause shown may shorten the time for filing a response. Determination will be made on the basis of the petition, the response, and any supporting papers. No briefs or oral arguments will be received or allowed unless ordered by the court upon its own initiative.

(e) Temporary stay. Upon the filing of a petition for supersedeas, the applicant may apply, either within the petition or by separate paper, for an order temporarily staying enforcement or execution of the judgment, order, or other determination pending decision by the court upon the petition for supersedeas. If application is made by separate paper, it shall be filed and served in the manner provided for the petition for supersedeas in Rule 23(c). The court for good cause shown in such a petition for temporary stay may issue such an order ex parte. In capital cases, such stay, if granted shall remain in effect until the period for filing a petition for certiorari in the United States Supreme Court has passed without a petition being filed, or until certiorari on a timely filed petition has been denied by that Court. At that time, the stay shall automatically dissolve. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended December 1980 — 23(b) — effective January 1, 1981; Amended March 6, 1997 — 23(e) — effective July 1, 1997.)

Rule 24. Form of papers: Copies.

A party need file with the appellate court but a single copy of any paper required to be filed in connection with applications for extraordinary writs. The court may direct that additional copies be filed. The clerk will not reproduce copies. (Adopted June 13, 1975.)

ARTICLE VI. GENERAL PROVISIONS

Rule 25. Penalties for failure to comply with rules.

(a) Failure of appellant to take timely action. If after giving notice of appeal from any court, commission, or commissioner the appellant shall fail within the times allowed by these rules or by order of court to take any action required to present the appeal for decision, the appeal may on motion of any other party be dismissed. Prior to the filing of an appeal in an appellate court motions to dismiss are made to the court, commission, or commissioner from which appeal has been taken; after an appeal has been filed in an appellate court motions to dismiss are made to that court. Motions to dismiss shall be supported by affidavits or certified copies of docket entries which show the failure to take timely action or otherwise perfect the appeal, and shall be allowed unless compliance or a waiver thereof is shown on the record, or unless the appellee shall consent to action out of time, or unless the court for good cause shall permit the action to be taken out of time.

Motions heard under this rule to courts of the trial divisions may be heard and determined by any judge of the particular court specified in Rule 36 of these rules; motions made under this rule to a commission may be heard and determined by the chairman of the commission; or if to a commissioner, then by that commissioner. The procedure in all motions made under this rule to trial tribunals shall be that provided for motion practice by the N. C. Rules of Civil Procedure; in all motions made under this rule to courts of the appellate division, shall be that provided by Rule 37 of these rules.

(b) Sanctions for failure to comply with rules. A court of the appellate division may, on its own initiative or motion of a party, impose a sanction against a party or attorney or both when the court determines that such party or attorney or both substantially failed to comply with these appellate rules. The court may impose sanctions of the type and in the manner prescribed by Rule 34 for frivolous appeals. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended December 8, 1988 — effective July 1, 1989; Amended March 6, 1997 — 25(a) — effective upon adoption March 6, 1997.)

CASE NOTES

I. In General.
II. Decisions Under Prior Law.

I. IN GENERAL.

Construction of Second Sentence. — The title and first and third sentences of what is now subsection (a) of this rule clearly indicate that the motions described in the second sentence are only those for failure to comply with the Rules of Appellate Procedure or with court orders requiring action to perfect the appeal. The commentary makes this interpretation even clearer. Notably absent from the commentary is any suggestion that the drafters intended to alter existing case law. Estrada v. Jaques, 70 N.C. App. 627, 321 S.E.2d 240 (1984).

Taken out of context, the second sentence of what is now subsection (a) of this rule might provide the trial court with authority to dismiss interlocutory appeals. However, elementary principles of construction require that words and phrases be interpreted contextually and in harmony with the underlying purposes of the whole. Estrada v. Jaques, 70 N.C. App. 627, 321 S.E.2d 240 (1984).

The court lacks discretion under this rule to permit the notice of appeal to be served after the expiration of 10 (now 30) days following the entry of judgment. Giannitrapani v. Duke Univ., 30 N.C. App. 667, 228 S.E.2d 46 (1976).

The Rules of Appellate Procedure are mandatory and a party's failure to comply with them frustrates the review process and subjects the party to sanctions, which may include dismissal of the appeal. Dillingham v. North Carolina Dep't of Human Resources, 132 N.C. App. 704, 513 S.E.2d 823 (1999).

The trial division possesses limited authority to dismiss appeals under this rule. Estrada v. Jaques, 70 N.C. App. 627, 321 S.E.2d 240 (1984).

Tolling of Time for Appeal. — In order for the exception to the 30-day requirement under N.C.R.A.P., Rule 3 to have any effect, when a party makes a motion enumerated in the rule, the opposing party's time for appeal is tolled. If the motion is withdrawn, the opposing party has 30 days from the withdrawal to file an appeal. Landingham Plumbing & Heating of N.C., Inc. v. Funnell, 102 N.C. App. 814, 403 S.E.2d 604 (1991).

Extension of Time to Serve Proposed Record on Appeal. — The Court of Appeals would not allow plaintiffs' appeal to go forward, where the court previously had denied the plaintiffs' motion to extend the time within which to serve its proposed record on appeal, and permitting appeal would be tantamount to a retroactive grant of such extension. Webb v. McKeel, 132 N.C. App. 816, 513 S.E.2d 596 (1999).

Failure to Comply May Result in Dismissal. — Plaintiff's appeal, which stated three separate errors in one assignment, failed to state the statutory authority exceeded, the procedure violated and the error of law committed, and failed to provide "clear and specific record or transcript references" relating to each alleged error, violated the Rules of Appellate Procedure, and would be dismissed. Bowen v. North Carolina Dep't of Health & Human Servs., 135 N.C. App. 122, 519 S.E.2d 60 (1999).

Motion by defendants, a human services agency, a social worker, and a guardian ad litem, to dismiss plaintiff daughter's appeal from an order of sanctions and attorney's fees against her, was granted where, despite several extensions, the daughter repeatedly failed to comply with the North Carolina Rules of Appellate Procedure regarding the timely filing of an acceptable appellate brief. Dalenko v. Wake County Dep't of Human Servs., — N.C. App. —, 578 S.E.2d 599, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 371 (2003), cert. denied, — N.C. —, 585 S.E.2d 386 (2003).

Dismissal Upheld. — Dismissal of an earlier attempt to appeal was proper where plaintiff failed to file and docket the record in the appellate court within 150 days. Lowder v. All Star Mills, Inc., 91 N.C. App. 621, 372 S.E.2d 739 (1988), cert. denied, 324 N.C 113, 377 S.E.2d 234 (1989), decided prior to the amendments to the rules effective July 1, 1989.

Appeal would be dismissed where appellants failed to settle the record on appeal prior to filing with the Court of Appeals. Higgins v. Town of China Grove, 102 N.C. App. 570, 402 S.E.2d 885 (1991).

Court would not address the merits of plaintiff's argument regarding alleged fraudulent conveyances because she violated N.C.R.A.P., Rule 28(b)(5), in that she failed to reference in her brief the assignment of error supporting the argument. Therefore, this part of plaintiff's appeal would be dismissed. Hines v. Arnold, 103 N.C. App. 31, 404 S.E.2d 179 (1991).

Dismissal Denied. — Judge properly denied school board's motion to dismiss appeal under this rule; sufficient good cause was shown to allow appeal to proceed where judge stated that he had heard arguments and considered material in the case file, and the proposed record on appeal, among other things, presented no factual dispute and only two questions of law. State ex rel. Thornburg v. Currency in Amount of $52,029.00, 324 N.C. 276, 378 S.E.2d 1 (1989).

Appellate court denied a motion by defendants, a human services agency, a social worker, and a guardian ad litem, to dismiss, based on rules violations and mootness, an appeal by plaintiff daughter brought in her capacity as the personal representative of her father's estate, because (1) although the appeal was subject to dismissal due to violations of the North Caroline Rules of Appellate Procedure regarding the filing of the appeal and the brief, the appellate court chose to exercise its discretion to review the matter in light of the fact that the daughter only obtained one extension of time to file the brief, the brief was filed within four days of the deadline, and the daughter asserted and documented the reason for the delay, and (2) the appeal was not rendered moot by a prior decision that similar claims in a prior action were not plausible, as that decision addressed only sanctions and involved a less-detailed complaint. Dalenko v. Wake County Dep't of Human Servs., — N.C. App. —, 578 S.E.2d 599, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 371 (2003), cert. denied, — N.C. —, 585 S.E.2d 386 (2003).

Motions to dismiss appeal are made to the court from which the appeal was taken until the appeal has been docketed in the appellate court; where plaintiff's appeal was docketed in court of appeals on May 20, 1993, defendant's motion to dismiss filed over five months earlier, on December 2, 1992, was properly directed to the trial court. Dodd v. Steele, 114 N.C. App. 632, 442 S.E.2d 363 (1994).

Length and Type Size of Brief. — Where appellate brief was 42 pages in length, thereby exceeding the 35 page limit, and counsel proffered minimal justification for the rule violation, the court imposed a fine and reimbursement for copying expenses to be paid by counsel personally. State v. Hudson, 123 N.C. App. 336, 473 S.E.2d 415 (1996), rev'd on other grounds, 345 N.C. 729, 483 S.E.2d 436 (1997).

Although violations of appellate rules regarding the type size and page length of briefs subjected the appeal to dismissal, the appellate court elected to hear the appeal, but sanctioned both parties' attorneys by taxing one-half of the printing costs to each of them. Howell v. Morton, 131 N.C. App. 626, 508 S.E.2d 804 (1998).

Sanctions were appropriate where counsel failed to follow rule that limited characters in a line of the appellate brief to 62 and did not file a substitute brief when notified. Hilliard v. Hilliard, 146 N.C. App. 709, 554 S.E.2d 374, 2001 N.C. App. LEXIS 1079 (2001).

Applied in Craver v. Craver, 298 N.C. 231, 258 S.E.2d 357 (1979); State v. Evans, 46 N.C. App. 327, 264 S.E.2d 766 (1980); McLeod v. Faust, 92 N.C. App. 370, 374 S.E.2d 417 (1988); Richardson v. II. DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW.

Editor's note. — The cases cited below were decided under former Rule 48, Rules of Practice in the Court of Appeals of North Carolina.

For failure to docket record on appeal within the time prescribed by the rules, the appeal should be dismissed ex mero motu. State v. Byrd, 4 N.C. App. 494, 167 S.E.2d 95 (1969); State v. Garnett, 4 N.C. App. 367, 167 S.E.2d 63 (1969), overruled on other grounds, State v. Baines, 324 N.C. 539, 380 S.E.2d 118 (1989).

Where the record on appeal was docketed in the Court of Appeals after the expiration of the time within which the appeal could be docketed, and there was no order extending the time for docketing, the Court of Appeals ex mero motu will dismiss the appeal for failure to comply with the rules. Young v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 6 N.C. App. 443, 170 S.E.2d 90 (1969).

Pursuant to this rule, an appeal will be dismissed ex mero motu for failure to docket within the time prescribed. North Carolina State Bar v. Temple, 6 N.C. App. 437, 170 S.E.2d 131 (1969), cert. denied, 397 U.S. 1023, 90 S. Ct. 1263, 25 L. Ed. 2d 532, rehearing denied, 397 U.S. 1081, 90 S. Ct. 1520, 25 L. Ed. 2d 820 (1970).

An appeal is dismissed by the Court of Appeals ex mero motu where the record on appeal is docketed more than the allowed time after the date of judgment appealed from and the record contains no order extending the time for docketing the record on appeal, an order allowing defendant additional time within which to prepare and serve the case on appeal being insufficient to extend the time for docketing the record on appeal. State v. Fulk, 7 N.C. App. 68, 171 S.E.2d 81 (1969).

A defendant's appeal to the Court of Appeals is subject to dismissal for failure to docket the record on appeal within the time allowed. State v. Bocage, 8 N.C. App. 64, 173 S.E.2d 638 (1970); State v. Brigman, 8 N.C. App. 316, 174 S.E.2d 48 (1970).

Rule 26. Filing and service.

(a) Filing. Papers required or permitted by these rules to be filed in the trial or appellate divisions shall be filed with the clerk of the appropriate court. Filing may be accomplished by mail or by electronic means as set forth in this Rule.

(1) Filing by mail: Filing may be accomplished by mail addressed to the clerk, but is not timely unless the papers are received by the clerk within the time fixed for filing, except that motions, responses to petitions, record on appeal, and briefs shall be deemed filed on the date of mailing, as evidenced by the proof of service.

In civil cases and special proceedings where there is an order establishing the indigency of a party entitled to appointed appellate counsel, the ordering of the transcript shall be as in criminal cases where there is an order establishing the indigency of the defendant as set forth in Rule 7(a)(2).

(2) Filing by electronic means: Filing in the appellate courts may be accomplished by electronic means by use of the electronic filing site at www.ncappellatecourts.org. All documents may be filed electronically through the use of this site. A document filed by use of the official electronic web site is deemed filed as of the time that the document is received electronically.

Responses and motions may be filed by facsimile machines, if an oral request for permission to do so has first been tendered to and approved by the clerk of the appropriate appellate court.

In all cases where a document has been filed by facsimile machine pursuant to this rule, counsel must forward the following items by first class mail, contemporaneously with the transmission: the original signed document, the electronic transmission fee, and the applicable filing fee for the document, if any. The party filing a document by electronic means shall be responsible for all costs of the transmission and neither they nor the electronic transmission fee may be recovered as costs of the appeal. When a document is filed to the electronic filing site at www.ncappellatecourts.org, counsel may either have their account drafted electronically by following the procedures described at the electronic filing site, or they must forward the applicable filing fee for their document by first class mail, contemporaneously with the transmission.

(b) Service of all papers required. Copies of all papers filed by any party and not required by these rules to be served by the clerk shall, at or before the time of filing, be served on all other parties to the appeal.

(c) Manner of service. Service may be made in the manner provided for service and return of process in Rule 4 of the N. C. Rules of Civil Procedure, and may be so made upon a party or upon his attorney of record. Service may also be made upon a party or his attorney of record by delivering a copy to either or by mailing it to either at his last known address, or if no address is known, by filing it in the office of the clerk with whom the original paper is filed. Delivery of a copy within this Rule means handing it to the attorney or to the party, or leaving it at the attorney's office with a partner or employee. Service by mail is complete upon deposit of the paper enclosed in a postpaid, properly addressed wrapper in a Post Office or official depository under the exclusive care and custody of the United States Post Office Department, or, for those having access to such services, upon deposit with the State Courier Service or Inter-Office Mail. When a document is filed electronically to the official web site, service also may be accomplished electronically by use of the other counsel(s)'s correct and current electronic mail address(es) or service may be accomplished in the manner described previously in this subsection.

(d) Proof of service. Papers presented for filing shall contain an acknowledgement of service by the person served or proof of service in the form of a statement of the date and manner of service and of the names of the persons served, certified by the person who made service. Proof of service shall appear on or be affixed to the papers filed.

(e) Joint appellants and appellees. Any paper required by these rules to be served on a party is properly served upon all parties joined in the appeal by service upon any one of them.

(f) Numerous parties to appeal proceeding separately. When there are unusually large numbers of appellees or appellants proceeding separately, the trial tribunal upon motion of any party or on its own initiative, may order that any papers required by these rules to be served by a party on all other parties need be served only upon parties designated in the order, and that the filing of such a paper and service thereof upon the parties designated constitutes due notice of it to all other parties. A copy of every such order shall be served upon all parties to the action in such manner and form as the court directs.

(g) Documents filed with Appellate Courts.

(1) Form of papers. Papers presented to either appellate court for filing shall be letter size (8½ x 11″) with the exception of wills and exhibits. All printed matter must appear in at least 12 point type on unglazed white paper of 16-20 pound substance so as to produce a clear, black image, leaving a margin of approximately one inch on each side. The body of text shall be presented with double spacing between each line of text. No more than 27 lines of double-spaced text may appear on a page, even if proportional type is used. Lines of text shall be no wider than 6½ inches. The format of all papers presented for filing shall follow the additional instructions found in the Appendixes to these Appellate Rules. The format of briefs shall follow the additional instructions found in Appellate Rule 28(j).

(2) Index required. All documents presented to either appellate court other than records on appeal, which in this respect are governed by Appellate Rule 9, shall, unless they are less than 10 pages in length, be preceded by a subject index of the matter contained therein, with page references, and a table of authorities, i.e., cases (alphabetically arranged), constitutional provisions, statutes, and text books cited, with references to the pages where they are cited.

(3) Closing. The body of the document shall at its close bear the printed name, post office address, and telephone number of counsel of record, and in addition, at the appropriate place, the manuscript signature of counsel of record. If the document has been filed electronically by use of the official web site at www.ncappellatecourts.org, the manuscript signature of counsel of record is not required. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended May 5, 1981 — 26(g) — effective for all appeals arising from cases filed in the court of original jurisdiction after July 1, 1982; Amended February 11, 1982 — 26(c); Amended December 7, 1982 — 26(g) — effective for documents filed on and after March 1, 1983; Amended November 27, 1984 — 26(a) — effective for documents filed on and after February 1, 1985; Amended June 30, 1988 — 26(a) and (g) — effective September 1, 1988; Amended July 26, 1990 — 26(a) — effective October 1, 1990; Amended March 6, 1997 — 26(b), (g) — effective July 1, 1997; Amended November 4, 1999 — effective November 15, 1999; Amended October 18, 2001 — 26(g), para. 1 — effective October 31, 2001; Amended August 15, 2002; Amended October 3, 2002 — 26(g) — effective October 7, 2002; Amended May 1, 2003 — 26(a)(1).)

CASE NOTES

Requirements Jurisdictional. — The requirement of timely filing and service of notice of appeal is jurisdictional, and unless the requirements of G.S. 1-279, N.C.R.A.P., Rule 3 and this rule are met, the appeal must be dismissed. Smith v. Smith, 43 N.C. App. 338, 258 S.E.2d 833 (1979), cert. denied, 299 N.C. 122, 262 S.E.2d 6 (1980).

When Papers Must Be Served. — This rule is interpreted as requiring that the papers referred to therein be served on all other parties to the appeal on the day of or before the day of filing; therefore, service of notice of appeal on plaintiff's counsel was timely where service was made by depositing the notice in the mail on the same day, though several hours later, that notice was filed with the clerk of court. Smith v. Smith, 43 N.C. App. 338, 258 S.E.2d 833 (1979), cert. denied, 299 N.C. 122, 262 S.E.2d 6 (1980).

Notice of appeal must be served on opposing party either before the notice is filed or on the same day the notice is filed. Shaw v. Hudson, 49 N.C. App. 457, 271 S.E.2d 560 (1980).

The better practice is to file the Anders letter that an attorney sends to a client in the Court of Appeals of North Carolina, along with a certificate showing service on the attorney's client and other necessary parties. In re May, 153 N.C. App. 299, 569 S.E.2d 704, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1130 (2002).

Waiver of Service. — Failure to serve the notice of appeal was a defect in the record analogous to failure to serve process. Therefore, a party upon whom service of notice of appeal is required may waive the failure of service by not raising the issue by motion or otherwise and by participating without objection in the appeal. Hale v. Afro-American Arts Int'l, Inc., 335 N.C. App. 231, 436 S.E.2d 588 (1993).

Service on Appointed Special Advocate for State. — Where, at a mental health hearing session, the State was represented by an appointed special advocate, which special advocate was present at the hearing, had knowledge of the evidence offered, and was qualified to determine for the State if the proposed record on appeal was accurate, he alone was the "attorney of record" within the meaning of this rule, and the proposed record on appeal should be served on him as special advocate rather than the Attorney General. In re Rogers, 44 N.C. App. 713, 262 S.E.2d 312, vacated on other grounds, 300 N.C. 747, 268 S.E.2d 221 (1980).

Unauthorized Change to Papers. — In filing the record on appeal, an attorney for the Department of Revenue made an unauthorized change in the caption of the case in violation of this rule. State v. Sneed, 112 N.C. App. 361, 435 S.E.2d 579 (1993).

Type Size. — This rule requires all type to be "at least 11 point," while Appendix B specifies "10-12 point type." To the extent that Appendix B conflicts with this rule, this rule governs and no brief shall be submitted in less than eleven point type. Lewis v. Craven Regional Medical Ctr., 122 N.C. App. 143, 468 S.E.2d 269 (1996).

A brief presented in eleven point type will contain no more than three lines of double spaced text in a single, vertical inch, or twenty-seven (27) lines of double-spaced text on a properly formatted 8.5 by 11 inch page. The numbering of the pages, as provided in Appendix B, is not included in the text of the page and shall be centered in the one-inch margin at the top of the page. Lewis v. Craven Regional Medical Ctr., 122 N.C. App. 143, 468 S.E.2d 269 (1996).

Under this rule, all printed matter in briefs must appear in at least 11 point type, or the appeal is subject to dismissal. H.B.S. Contractors v. Cumberland County Bd. of Educ., 122 N.C. App. 49, 468 S.E.2d 517 (1996), discretionary review improvidently allowed, 345 N.C. 178, 477 S.E.2d 926 (1996).

Appellate rules governing the size of type to be used and the limitation on the number of pages to be included in appellate briefs prevent unfair advantage to any litigant and insure a level playing field for all parties on appeal. Howell v. Morton, 131 N.C. App. 626, 508 S.E.2d 804 (1998).

An appellate brief may not contain more than 65 characters and spaces per line, nor more than 27 lines of double-spaced text per page. Barnard v. Rowland, 132 N.C. App. 416, 512 S.E.2d 458 (1999).

A brief submitted in 11 point type will contain not more than 65 characters and spaces per line, and no more than 27 lines of double-spaced text per page. Howell v. Morton, 131 N.C. App. 626, 508 S.E.2d 804 (1998).

An appellate brief may be presented in the same type-setting as used by the Court of Appeals in its slip opinions - Courier 10 cpi - which insures no more than 65 characters per line and 27 lines per page, and Courier 10 cpi may be achieved in computer and word processing technology by using not smaller than size 12 Courier or Courier New font. Barnard v. Rowland, 132 N.C. App. 416, 512 S.E.2d 458 (1999).

Where all appellate briefs contained in excess of 91 characters per line in violation of APP-26(g), double costs would be assessed, with the first set to be shared equally among all parties, and the second to be paid in equal share by counsel for the parties. Barnard v. Rowland, 132 N.C. App. 416, 512 S.E.2d 458 (1999).

Improper Type Size. — Where petitioner submitted a brief utilizing 14 characters per inch type size instead of the ten characters mandated by subsection (g) double costs of the appeal were imposed. Tate Terrace Realty Investors, Inc. v. Currituck County, 127 N.C. App. 212, 488 S.E.2d 845 (1997), cert. denied, 347 N.C. 409, 496 S.E.2d 394 (1997).

Sanctions were appropriate when counsel failed to follow rule that limited characters in a line of the appellate brief to 62, and they did not file a substitute brief when notified. Hilliard v. Hilliard, 146 N.C. App. 709, 554 S.E.2d 374, 2001 N.C. App. LEXIS 1079 (2001).

Characters Per Inch. — Characters per inch, referred to in some modern word processing systems as "cpi," is not equivalent to point size and defines only the width or "set" size of a character, which includes spaces, punctuation, and letters. This rule does not speak in terms of characters per inch; however, in order to provide a uniform construction of this rule and prevent unfair advantage to any litigant, it is necessary to provide for a limit on the characters per inch. Ten characters per inch is the standard used in the slip opinions of the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court and the standard that will be applied to the briefs filed with the Court of Appeals. Using this standard, a properly formatted 8.5 by 11 inch page will contain no more than 65 characters per line. Lewis v. Craven Regional Medical Ctr., 122 N.C. App. 143, 468 S.E.2d 269 (1996).

Double Spacing. — Dismissal of an appeal was proper, where the appellant failed to double space the text of her brief and failed to set out in her brief references to the assignments of error upon which her presented issues and arguments were based. Steingress v. Steingress, 350 N.C. 64, 511 S.E.2d 298 (1999).

Prospective Application of Construction of Rule. — Where the point size in defendants' appellate brief did not comply with this rule, but neither the rule nor the Court of Appeals had previously construed this rule, the court would consider the arguments presented in defendants' brief. This rule, as construed in this case, will be applied by the Court to briefs, petitions, notices of appeal, responses and motions filed after the date of this opinion. Lewis v. Craven Regional Medical Ctr., 122 N.C. App. 143, 468 S.E.2d 269 (1996).

Appeal Dismissed. — The defendants' numerous, flagrant violations of the Rules of Appellate Procedure warranted dismissal of the appeal, where the defendants did not provide a listing of assignments of error, they included as appendices to their brief certain documents that were excluded by an earlier order, they failed to include other required material, and they used incorrect point type and spacing. Duke Univ. v. Bishop, 131 N.C. App. 545, 507 S.E.2d 904 (1998).

Applied in Edwards v. West, 128 N.C. App. 570, 495 S.E.2d 920 (1998), cert. denied, 348 N.C. 282, 501 S.E.2d 918 (1998).

Stated in Hixson v. Krebs, 136 N.C. App. 183, 523 S.E.2d 684, 1999 N.C. App. LEXIS 1311 (1999).

Rule 27. Computation and extension of time.

(a) Computation of time. In computing any period of time prescribed or allowed by these rules, by order of court, or by any applicable statute, the day of the act, event, or default after which the designated period of time begins to run is not included. The last day of the period so computed is to be included, unless it is a Saturday, Sunday, or a legal holiday, in which event the period runs until the end of the next day which is not a Saturday, Sunday, or a legal holiday.

(b) Additional time after service by mail. Whenever a party has the right to do some act or take some proceedings within a prescribed period after the service of a notice or other paper upon him and the notice or paper is served upon him by mail, three days shall be added to the prescribed period.

(c) Extensions of time; By which court granted. Except as herein provided, courts for good cause shown may upon motion extend any of the times prescribed by these rules or by order of court for doing any act required or allowed under these rules; or may permit an act to be done after the expiration of such time. Courts may not extend the time for taking an appeal or for filing a petition for discretionary review or a petition for rehearing or the responses thereto prescribed by these rules or by law.

(1) Motions for extension of time in the trial division. The trial tribunal for good cause shown by the appellant may extend once for no more than 30 days the time permitted by Rule 11 or Rule 18 for the service of the proposed record on appeal.

Motions for extensions of time made to a trial tribunal may be made orally or in writing and without notice to other parties and may be determined at any time or place within the state.

Motions made under this Rule 27 to a court of the trial divisions may be heard and determined by any of those judges of the particular court specified in Rule 36 of these rules. Such motions made to a commission may be heard and determined by the chairman of the commission; or if to a commissioner, then by that commissioner.

(2) Motions for extension of time in the appellate division. All motions for extensions of time other than those specifically enumerated in Rule 27(c)(1) may only be made to the appellate court to which appeal has been taken.

(d) Motions for extension of time; How determined. Motions for extension of time made in any court may be determined ex parte, but the moving party shall promptly serve on all other parties to the appeal a copy of any order extending time. Provided that motions made after the expiration of the time allowed in these rules for the action sought to be extended must be in writing and with notice to all other parties and may be allowed only after all other parties have had opportunity to be heard. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended March 7, 1978 — 27(c); Amended October 4, 1978 — 27(c) — effective January 1, 1979; Amended November 27, 1984 — 27(a) and (c) — effective February 1, 1985; Amended December 8, 1988 — 27(c) — effective for all judgments of the trial tribunal entered on or after July 1, 1989; Amended July 26, 1990 — 27(c) and (d) — effective October 1, 1990; Amended October 18, 2001 — 27(c) — effective October 31, 2001.)

CASE NOTES

Construction with Other Rules. — Construing Rules 3, 27(c) and 21(a)(1) together, the court concluded that Rule 21(a)(1) gives an appellate court the authority to review the merits of an appeal by certiorari even if the party has failed to file notice of appeal in a timely manner. Anderson v. Hollifield, 345 N.C. 480, 480 S.E.2d 661 (1997).

The time for taking an appeal may not be enlarged by the appellate courts. — O'Neill v. Southern Nat'l Bank, 40 N.C. App. 227, 252 S.E.2d 231 (1979).

In calculating whether notice of appeal is timely given, the 10th (now 30th) day is not considered if it is a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday. In such case, the 10 (now 30) day period runs at the end of the next day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday. Hardy v. Floyd, 70 N.C. App. 608, 320 S.E.2d 320 (1984).

Appeal was dismissed where record on appeal was not filed in appellate court within 150 days from giving of notice of appeal. — Appellant's motion for a new trial or a modification of the judgment pursuant to G.S. 1A-1, Rule 59, the court's order fixing the time for service of the record on appeal, and the court's orders denying appellant's G.S. 1A-1, Rule 59 motion did not extend the time within which the appellant was required to file the record on appeal after giving notice of appeal from the judgment. C.C. Woods Constr. Co. v. Budd-Piper Roofing Co., 46 N.C. App. 634, 265 S.E.2d 506 (1980), decided prior to amendments to the rules effective July 1, 1989.

Failure to Respond to Defendants's Objections to Record Affected Time for Appeal. — The court dismissed the appeal of plaintiffs, administratrix and relatives of deceased infant, who failed to file and settle the record within the time limit required by this rule, where although plaintiffs timely served the proposed record on appeal on defendants, they failed to respond to defendants's objections and proposed amendments or to make a request for judicial settlement. As a result, the proposed record on appeal, in conformity with defendants' objections and amendments, became the record on appeal 13 days later (10 days as per N.C.R. A. P., Rule 11(c) plus 3 days as per N.C.R. A. P., Rule 27(b)) since defendants served their objections and amendments by United States mail, and plaintiffs should have filed the record on appeal within 15 days after that. Kellihan v. Thigpen, 140 N.C. App. 762, 538 S.E.2d 232, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 1267 (2000).

Notice of Appeal Held Timely. — Notice of appeal filed on July 5, 1983, was timely, where the 10th day fell on Sunday, July 3, 1983, and the next day, July 4, 1983, was a legal holiday. Hardy v. Floyd, 70 N.C. App. 608, 320 S.E.2d 320 (1984), decided prior to amendments to the rules effective July 1, 1989.

Notice Provision Contained in N.C.R.A.P., Rule 12 Is Jurisdictional. — The provisions of N.C.R.A.P., Rule 12, as it read prior to amendment effective July 1, 1989, requiring that "no later than 150 days after giving notice of appeal, the appellant shall file the record on appeal with the clerk of the court to which appeal is taken" was jurisdictional and it imposed a limit on the aggrieved party's right to appeal. Only the appropriate appellate court could extend this 150-day time limit. State v. Ward, 61 N.C. App. 747, 301 S.E.2d 507, cert. denied, 309 N.C. 825, 310 S.E.2d 357 (1983).

Regardless of the time limits set by the trial court, plaintiff had no longer than 150 days after giving notice of appeal to file the appeal record with the appellate court; the 150-day time limit may be extended only by an appropriate appellate court. Roberts v. Roberts, 97 N.C. App. 319, 388 S.E.2d 164 (1990), decided under the rules as they read prior to 1989 amendments.

Motion to Extend Time. — All motions made to extend time, except for motions to extend the time for service of the proposed record on appeal subdivision (c)(1) of this rule, and motions to extend the time to produce the transcript under N.C.R. App. P. 7(b)(1), must be made to the court to which appeal has been taken. Onslow County v. Moore, 127 N.C. App. 546, 491 S.E.2d 670 (1997), rev'd on other grounds, 347 N.C. 672, 500 S.E.2d 88 (1998).

Order to Extend Time for Serving Record on Appeal Held Proper. — Although counsel for the State erred in calculating the initial filing date, the judge properly entered his ex parte order extending the time for serving the proposed record on appeal where the State complied with subdivision (c)(1) of this rule by giving oral and written notice of its motion to extend time to serve the proposed record on appeal, and it complied with the initial 15-day time limit specified in N.C.R.A.P., Rule 12(a), and the outside time limit of 150 days in which to file the settled record on appeal from the time of oral notice of appeal. State ex rel. Thornburg v. Currency in Amount of $52,029.00 in U.S. Currency, 324 N.C. 276, 378 S.E.2d 1 (1989).

Order to Extend Time for Serving Record on Appeal Held Ineffective. — Trial court's order extending the time during which plaintiffs could serve proposed record on appeal was ineffective where it was made after the expiration of the 35-day period during which plaintiffs were required by N.C.R.A.P., Rule 11(b) to serve the proposed record on appeal, it was made upon plaintiffs' oral motion in violation of N.C.R.A.P., Rule 27(c)(1), and the record did not reflect the other parties, the defendant and third-party defendant, were given notice or an opportunity to be heard as required by N.C.R.A.P., Rule 27(c)(1). Richardson v. Bingham, 101 N.C. App. 687, 400 S.E.2d 757 (1991).

Dismissal for Failure to Comply. — Where the trial court's purported extension of time to file the records on appeal was ineffective, and where the records on appeal were not filed within the times mandated by the Rules of Appellate Procedure, each parties' appeals were dismissed for failure to comply with the rules. Onslow County v. Moore, 127 N.C. App. 546, 491 S.E.2d 670 (1997), rev'd on other grounds, 347 N.C. 672, 500 S.E.2d 88 (1998).

Rule 28. Briefs: Function and content.

(a) Function. The function of all briefs required or permitted by these rules is to define clearly the questions presented to the reviewing court and to present the arguments and authorities upon which the parties rely in support of their respective positions thereon. Review is limited to questions so presented in the several briefs. Questions raised by assignments of error in appeals from trial tribunals but not then presented and discussed in a party's brief, are deemed abandoned. Similarly, questions properly presented for review in the Court of Appeals but not then stated in the notice of appeal or the petition, accepted by the Supreme Court for review, and discussed in the new briefs required by Rules 14(d)(1) and 15(g)(2) to be filed in the Supreme Court for review by that Court are deemed abandoned.

(b) Content of appellant's brief. An appellant's brief in any appeal shall contain, under appropriate headings, and in the form prescribed by Rule 26(g) and the Appendixes to these rules, in the following order:

(1) A cover page, followed by a subject index and table of authorities required by Rule 26(g).

(2) A statement of the questions presented for review.

(3) A concise statement of the procedural history of the case. This shall indicate the nature of the case and summarize the course of proceedings up to the taking of the appeal before the court.

(4) A statement of the grounds for appellate review. Such statement shall include citation of the statute or statutes permitting appellate review. When an appeal is based on Rule 54(b) of the Rules of Civil Procedure, the statement shall show that there has been a final judgment as to one or more but fewer than all of the claims or parties and that there has been a certification by the trial court that there is no just reason for delay. When an appeal is interlocutory, the statement must contain sufficient facts and argument to support appellate review on the ground that the challenged order affects a substantial right.

(5) A full and complete statement of the facts. This should be a non-argumentative summary of all material facts underlying the matter in controversy which are necessary to understand all questions presented for review, supported by references to pages in the transcript of proceedings, the record on appeal, or exhibits, as the case may be.

(6) An argument, to contain the contentions of the appellant with respect to each question presented. Each question shall be separately stated. Immediately following each question shall be a reference to the assignments of error pertinent to the question, identified by their numbers and by the pages at which they appear in the printed record on appeal. Assignments of error not set out in the appellant's brief, or in support of which no reason or argument is stated or authority cited, will be taken as abandoned.

The body of the argument shall contain citations of the authorities upon which the appellant relies. Evidence or other proceedings material to the question presented may be narrated or quoted in the body of the argument, with appropriate reference to the record on appeal or the transcript of proceedings, or the exhibits.

(7) A short conclusion stating the precise relief sought.

(8) Identification of counsel by signature, typed name, office address and telephone number.

(9) The proof of service required by Rule 26(d).

(10) The appendix required by Rule 28(d).

(c) Content of appellee's brief; Presentation of additional questions. An appellee's brief in any appeal shall contain a subject index and table of authorities as required by Rule 26(g), an argument, a conclusion, identification of counsel and proof of service in the form provided in Rule 28(b) for an appellant's brief, and any appendix as may be required by Rule 28(d). It need contain no statement of the questions presented, statement of the procedural history of the case, statement of the grounds for appellate review, or statement of the facts, unless the appellee disagrees with the appellant's statements and desires to make a restatement or unless the appellee desires to present questions in addition to those stated by the appellant.

Without having taken appeal, an appellee may present for review, by stating them in his brief, any questions raised by cross-assignments of error under Rule 10(d). Without having taken appeal or made cross-assignments of error, an appellee may present the question, by statement and argument in his brief, whether a new trial should be granted to the appellee rather than a judgment n.o.v. awarded to the appellant when the latter relief is sought on appeal by the appellant.

If the appellee is entitled to present questions in addition to those stated by the appellant, the appellee's brief must contain a full, non-argumentative summary of all material facts necessary to understand the new questions supported by references to pages in the record on appeal, the transcript of proceedings, or the appendixes, as appropriate.

(d) Appendixes to briefs. Whenever the transcript of proceedings is filed pursuant to Rule 9(c)(2), the parties must file verbatim portions of the transcript as appendixes to their briefs, if required by this Rule 28(d).

(1) When appendixes to appellant's brief are required. Except as provided in Rule 28(d)(2), the appellant must reproduce as appendixes to its brief:

a. those portions of the transcript of proceedings which must be reproduced verbatim in order to understand any question presented in the brief;

b. those portions of the transcript showing the pertinent questions and answers when a question presented in the brief involves the admission or exclusion of evidence;

c. relevant portions of statutes, rules, or regulations, the study of which is required to determine questions presented in the brief.

(2) When appendixes to appellant's brief are not required. Notwithstanding the requirements of Rule 28(d)(1), the appellant is not required to reproduce an appendix to its brief with respect to an assignment of error:

a. whenever the portion of the transcript necessary to understand a question presented in the brief is reproduced verbatim in the body of the brief;

b. to show the absence or insufficiency of evidence unless there are discrete portions of the transcript where the subject matter of the alleged insufficiency of the evidence is located; or

c. to show the general nature of the evidence necessary to understand a question presented in the brief if such evidence has been fully summarized as required by Rule 28(b)(4) and (5).

(3) When appendixes to appellee's brief are required. Appellee must reproduce appendixes to his brief in the following circumstances:

a. Whenever the appellee believes that appellant's appendixes do not include portions of the transcript required by Rule 28(d)(1), the appellee shall reproduce those portions of the transcript he believes to be necessary to understand the question.

b. Whenever the appellee presents a new or additional question in his brief as permitted by Rule 28(c), the appellee shall reproduce portions of the transcript as if he were the appellant with respect to each such new or additional question.

(4) Format of appendixes. The appendixes to the briefs of any party shall be in the format prescribed by Rule 26(g) and shall consist of clear photocopies of transcript pages which have been deemed necessary for inclusion in the appendix under this Rule 28(d). The pages of the appendix shall be consecutively numbered and an index to the appendix shall be placed at its beginning.

(e) References in briefs to the record. References in the briefs to assignments of error shall be by their numbers and to the pages of the printed record on appeal or of the transcript of proceedings, or both, as the case may be, at which they appear. Reference to parts of the printed record on appeal and to the verbatim transcript or documentary exhibits shall be to the pages where the parts appear.

(f) Joinder of multiple parties in briefs. Any number of appellants or appellees in a single cause or in causes consolidated for appeal may join in a single brief although they are not formally joined on the appeal. Any party to any appeal may adopt by reference portions of the briefs of others.

(g) Additional authorities. Additional authorities discovered by a party after filing his brief may be brought to the attention of the court by filing a memorandum thereof with the clerk of the court and serving copies upon all other parties. The memorandum may not be used as a reply brief or for additional argument, but shall simply state the issue to which the additional authority applies and provide a full citation of the authority. Authorities not cited in the briefs nor in such a memorandum may not be cited and discussed in oral argument.

Before the Court of Appeals, the party shall file an original and three copies of the memorandum; in the Supreme Court, the party shall file an original and 14 copies of the memorandum.

(h) Reply briefs. Unless the court, upon its own initiative, orders a reply brief to be filed and served, none will be received or considered by the court, except as herein provided:

(1) If the appellee has presented in its brief new or additional questions as permitted by Rule 28(c), an appellant may, within 14 days after service of such brief, file and serve a reply brief limited to those new or additional questions.

(2) If the parties are notified under Rule 30(f) that the case will be submitted without oral argument on the record and briefs, an appellant may, within 14 days after service of such notification, file and serve a reply brief limited to a concise rebuttal to arguments set out in the brief of the appellee which were not addressed in the appellant's principal brief or in a reply brief filed pursuant to Rule 28(h)(1).

(i) Amicus curiae briefs. A brief of an amicus curiae may be filed only by leave of the appellate court wherein the appeal is docketed or in response to a request made by that Court on its own initiative.

A person desiring to file an amicus curiae brief shall present to the Court a motion for leave to file, served upon all parties, within ten days after the printed record is mailed by the Clerk and ten days after the record is docketed in pauper cases. The motion shall state concisely the nature of the applicant's interest, the reasons why an amicus curiae brief is believed desirable, the questions of law to be addressed in the amicus curiae brief and the applicant's position on those questions. The proposed amicus curiae brief may be conditionally filed with the motion for leave. Unless otherwise ordered by the Court, the application for leave will be determined solely upon the motion, and without responses thereto or oral argument.

The clerk of the appellate court will forthwith notify the applicant and all parties of the court's action upon the application. Unless other time limits are set out in the order of the Court permitting the brief, the amicus curiae shall file the brief within the time allowed for the filing of the brief of the party supported or, if in support of neither party, within the time allowed for filing appellant's brief. Reply briefs of the parties to an amicus curiae brief will be limited to points or authorities presented in the amicus curiae brief which are not presented in the main briefs of the parties. No reply brief of an amicus curiae will be received.

A motion of an amicus curiae to participate in oral argument will be allowed only for extraordinary reasons.

(j) Page limitations applicable to briefs filed in the Court of Appeals. Each brief filed in the North Carolina Court of Appeals, whether filed by appellant, appellee, or amicus curiae, formatted according to Rule 26 and the Appendixes to these Rules, shall have either a page limit or a word-count limit, depending on the type style used in the brief:

(1) Type.

(A) Type style. Documents must be set in a plain roman style, although italics or boldface may be used for emphasis. Case names must be italicized or underlined. Documents may be set in either proportionally spaced or nonproportionally spaced (monospaced) type.

(B) Type size.

1. Nonproportionally spaced type (e.g., Courier or Courier New) may not contain more than 10 characters per inch (12-point).

2. Proportionally spaced type (e.g., Times New Roman), must be 14-point or larger.

3. Documents set in Courier New 12-point type, or Times New Roman 14-point type will be deemed in compliance with these type-size requirements.

(2) Document length.

(A) Length limitations on briefs filed in the Court of Appeals. Every brief filed in the Court of Appeals, whether filed by an appellant, appellee, or amicus curiae, shall be subject to either a page limit or a word-count limit, depending on the type style used in the brief.

1. Page limits for briefs using nonproportional type. The page limit for a principal brief that uses nonproportional (e.g., Courier) type is 35 pages, and the page limit for a reply brief (if permitted by Appellate Rule 28(h)) is 15 pages. A page shall contain no more than 27 lines of double-spaced text of no more than 65 characters per line. Covers, indexes, tables of authorities, certificates of service, and appendixes do not count toward these page limits. The Court may strike or require resubmission of briefs with excessive single-spaced passages or footnotes that are used to circumvent these page limits.

2. Word-count limits for briefs in proportional type. A principal brief that uses proportional type may contain no more than 8,750 words, and a reply brief (if permitted by Appellate Rule 28(h)) may contain no more than 3,750 words. Covers, indexes, tables of authorities, certificates of service, certificates of compliance with this rule, and appendixes do not count against these word-count limits. Footnotes and citations in the text, however, do count against these word-count limits. Parties who file briefs in proportional type shall submit along with the brief, immediately before the certificate of service, a certification, signed by counsel of record, or, in the case of parties filing briefs pro se, by the party, that the brief contains no more than the number of words allowed by this rule. For purposes of this certification, counsel and parties may rely on word counts reported by word-processing software, as long as footnotes and citations are included in those word counts. CASE NOTES

I. In General.
II. Decisions Under Prior Law.

I. IN GENERAL.

Editor's note. — Many of the cases below were decided prior to amendments of the rules effective July 1, 1989, deleting references to exceptions.

Compliance Universally Mandatory. — Since appellate rules apply to everyone, the court would dismiss the appeal of pro se defendant who failed to comply with N.C.R.A.P., Rules 9(a)(1)(c), 9(a)(1)(k), 9(b)(3), 10(c)(1), 12(a), and 28(b)(5). Bledsoe v. County of Wilkes, 135 N.C. App. 124, 519 S.E.2d 316 (1999).

The Rules of Appellate Procedure are mandatory and failure to follow the rules subjects an appeal to dismissal. Wiseman v. Wiseman, 68 N.C. App. 252, 314 S.E.2d 566 (1984).

Appellant's failure to observe the mandatory Rules of Appellate Procedure frustrated the process of the appellate review, but did not cause the court to dismiss the case. May v. City of Durham, 136 N.C. App. 578, 525 S.E.2d 223, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 109 (2000).

Under this rule, appellate review is limited to the arguments upon which the parties rely in their briefs. — Crockett v. First Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 289 N.C. 620, 224 S.E.2d 580 (1976); State v. Edwards, 49 N.C. App. 547, 272 S.E.2d 384 (1980).

The proviso to N.C.R.A.P., Rule 10(a) allows review of the questions, without exceptions or assignments of error, which were reviewed under the old rules by the appeal itself or an exception to the judgment (such as the legal sufficiency of the indictment, subject matter jurisdiction, the plea, the jury verdict and the judgment) but this proviso does not negate the requirement of this rule that a question must be presented and argued in the brief in order to obtain appellate review of it. State v. Brothers, 33 N.C. App. 233, 234 S.E.2d 652, cert. denied, 293 N.C. 160, 236 S.E.2d 704 (1977); Stanley v. Stanley, 51 N.C. App. 172, 275 S.E.2d 546, cert. denied, 303 N.C. 182, 280 S.E.2d 454, appeal dismissed and cert. denied, 454 U.S. 959, 102 S. Ct. 496, 70 L. Ed. 2d 374 (1981).

This rule requires that a question be presented and argued in the brief in order to obtain appellate review. Love v. Pressley, 34 N.C. App. 503, 239 S.E.2d 574 (1977), cert. denied, 294 N.C. 441, 241 S.E.2d 843 (1978).

In a workers' compensation proceeding, an appeal by an employer and its insurance carrier was dismissed as interlocutory where the North Carolina Industrial Commission specifically reserved the issue of the amount of the compensation award for the employee; as the employer and carrier failed to include any grounds for appellate review in their brief, the appeal was dismissed. Watts v. Hemlock Homes of the Highlands, Inc., — N.C. App. —, 584 S.E.2d 97, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1666 (2003).

The purpose of subsection (c) of this rule is to permit an appellee who obtains relief at trial to seek a new trial because of trial errors material to the claim upon which relief was granted, in lieu of having judgment n.o.v. entered on appeal when such relief is sought by the appellant. Potter v. Homestead Preservation Ass'n, 330 N.C. 569, 412 S.E.2d 1 (1992).

Assignments of error not argued in defendant's brief are deemed waived. State v. Lemonds, — N.C. App. —, 584 S.E.2d 841, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1762 (2003).

Two Ways to Preserve Exceptions in Brief. — Under this subsection, an appeal may be abandoned in two ways: (1) assignments of error are not set out in the appellant's brief, or (2) in support of which no reason or argument is stated or authority cited. Strader v. Sunstates Corp., 129 N.C. App. 562, 500 S.E.2d 752 (1998), cert. denied, 349 N.C. 240, 514 S.E.2d 274 (1998).

Three Ways to Preserve Exceptions in Brief. — Provision in subdivision (b)(5) of this rule that exceptions not set out in the appellant's brief, or in support of which no reason or argument is stated or authority cited, will be taken as abandoned, is to be read in the disjunctive. It gives appellant at least three means of preserving exceptions in his or her brief; it does not require appellant to cite authority for every proposition put forward on appeal. State v. Watson, 80 N.C. App. 103, 341 S.E.2d 366 (1986).

Review Confined to Exceptions Pertaining to Argument Presented. — The Rules of Appellate Procedure require that review be confined to those exceptions which pertain to the argument presented. In re Will of Hester, 84 N.C. App. 585, 353 S.E.2d 643, modified on other grounds, 320 N.C. 738, 360 S.E.2d 801 (1987).

Incorporation by reference of arguments contained in briefs before the Court of Appeals is not permitted under the present Rules of Appellate Procedure. Fortner v. J.K. Holding Co., 319 N.C. 640, 357 S.E.2d 167 (1987).

Failure to File Brief. — Borrower's failure to file a brief with the appellate court violated N.C. R. App. P. 13 and N.C. R. App. P. 28(b), and as a result, the appeal was dismissed. Thompson v. First Citizens Bank & Trust Co., 151 N.C. App. 704, 567 S.E.2d 184, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 889 (2002).

Questions Must Be Presented in Brief. — A question purportedly raised by an assignment of error or exception must be presented and argued in the brief in order to obtain appellate review. In re Envtl. Mgt. Comm'n, 80 N.C. App. 1, 341 S.E.2d 588, cert. denied, 317 N.C. 334, 346 S.E.2d 139 (1986).

Although defendant made a constitutional objection at trial pertaining to admission of evidence, because he did not provide argument or cite any cases in support of the alleged constitutional violations in his brief, the appellate court did not consider his arguments based on alleged constitutional violations. State v. Lloyd, 354 N.C. 76, 552 S.E.2d 596, 2001 N.C. LEXIS 942 (2001).

Defendant waived the argument that the trial court erred when it failed to provide the jury with a written copy of the jury instructions, as defendant did not object to the alleged error, and although defendant, in an assignment of error, argued pursuant to N.C. R. App. P. 10(c)(4) that the error was plain error, defendant did not argue in defendant's brief that the instructions amounted to plain error pursuant to N.C. R. App. P. 28(a). State v. Scercy, — N.C. App. —, 583 S.E.2d 339, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 1499 (2003).

Questions raised by assignments of error but not presented in party's brief are deemed abandoned. State v. Wilson, 289 N.C. 531, 223 S.E.2d 311 (1976).

Under former Rule 28 (Rules of Practice in Court of Appeals), assignments of error not brought forward and argued in the brief are deemed abandoned. State v. Robinson, 26 N.C. App. 620, 216 S.E.2d 497 (1975).

On appeal, where defendant brings forward in his brief fewer arguments than there are assignments of error, the remaining assignments of error are deemed abandoned. State v. Ledford, 41 N.C. App. 213, 254 S.E.2d 780 (1979).

Where appellant did not bring forth exceptions to certain findings of the trial court in his brief, he was deemed to have abandoned them. Baker v. Log Sys., 75 N.C. App. 347, 330 S.E.2d 632 (1985).

Defendant's assignments of error, which were not argued or supported in his brief, were deemed abandoned under N.C. R. App. P. 28(b)(6). State v. Sexton, 153 N.C. App. 641, 571 S.E.2d 41, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1276 (2002), cert. granted, 356 N.C. 622, 575 S.E.2d 756 (2002).

An Unsupported Assertion of Plain Error Will Fail. — The right and requirement to specifically and distinctly contend that an error amounts to plain error does not obviate the requirement that a party provide argument supporting the contention that the trial court's instruction amounted to plain error, as required by subsections (a) and (b)(5) of this rule. State v. Cummings, 352 N.C. 600, 536 S.E.2d 36, 2000 N.C. LEXIS 753 (2000), cert denied, 532 U.S. 997, 121 S. Ct. 1660, 149 L. Ed. 2d 641 (2001).

Argument in Brief Did Not Correspond to Assignment of Error. — Where defendant's objection and assignment of error were directed to the witness's purported "unresponsive answer" but the accompanying argument in the brief concerned the leading nature of the question by the prosecutor, the argument in the brief did not correspond to the assignment of error; therefore, that assignment was deemed abandoned under this rule. State v. Purdie, 93 N.C. App. 269, 377 S.E.2d 789 (1989).

The defendant waived his right to appellate review of the admissibility of hearsay evidence under G.S. 8C-1, Rule 803(3) where he only argued erroneous admission under G.S. 8C-1, Rule 804(b)(5). State v. Parker, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 1107 (N.C. App. Oct. 3, 2000).

One assignment of error is enough to raise one question of law under N.C.R.A.P., Rule 10(c) and subsection (b) of this rule, even when it questions the correctness of many rulings of the trial court. Pate v. Thomas, 89 N.C. App. 312, 365 S.E.2d 704, cert. denied, 322 N.C. 482, 370 S.E.2d 227 (1988).

Cross-Assignments of Error. — N.C. R. App. P. 28(c) operates in conjunction with N.C. R. App. P. 10(d) by allowing an appellee, without having taken appeal, to present for review, by stating them in his brief, any questions raised by cross-assignments of error under Rule 10(d). Harllee v. Harllee, 151 N.C. App. 40, 565 S.E.2d 678, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 687 (2002).

Constitutional arguments presented in the briefs filed in another case not yet decided by the Court of Appeals were not properly before the court, inasmuch as former subsection (d) of this rule, which permitted incorporation of such material, was repealed in 1981, and the material sought to be incorporated was not submitted as part of the record of the case at hand on appeal. State v. Watson, 88 N.C. App. 624, 364 S.E.2d 683, cert. denied, 322 N.C. 485, 370 S.E.2d 235 (1988).

Abandonment of Assignments of Error. — Where defendant failed to attach pertinent portions of the court transcript or to include verbatim reproduction of materials he wanted court to review as required by this rule or to advance any argument or cite any authority to support his assignments of error, he waived these assignments of error. State v. Nobles, 350 N.C. 483, 515 S.E.2d 885 (1999).

In termination of parental rights case, three of four assignments of error on appeal, relating to respondent/father, were deemed abandoned because respondents/parents failed to argue them in their brief or to cite any authority supporting them. In re Leftwich, 135 N.C. App. 67, 518 S.E.2d 799 (1999).

The propriety of directed verdicts with respect to plaintiffs' claims against all defendants for securities fraud and against one defendant for negligent misrepresentation were not briefed as required by this rule and were, thus, deemed abandoned. Jay Group, Ltd. v. Glasgow, 139 N.C. App. 595, 534 S.E.2d 233, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 975 (2000), cert. denied, 353 N.C. 265, 546 S.E.2d 100 (2000).

Assignments of error that are not supported by reason or legal argument in the appellant's brief are deemed abandoned. N.C. State Bar v. Gilbert, 151 N.C. App. 299, 566 S.E.2d 685, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 782 (2002).

Where defendant failed to put forth an argument in support of several of defendant's assignments of error, the assignments were deemed abandoned pursuant to N.C. R. App. P. 28(b)(6). State v. Sakobie, — N.C. App. —, 579 S.E.2d 125, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 645 (2003).

Injured party abandoned, under N.C. R. App. P. 28(a), her claim that a trial court which adopted an arbitrator's award dismissing her case erred when it denied her motion for relief from judgment under G.S. 1A-1, N.C. R. Civ. P. 60(b)(1) and (6) because she offered no argument or evidence to support her contentions. Clendening v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., — N.C. App. —, — S.E.2d —, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 2114 (Aug. 20, 2002).

Abandonment of Issue. — Where defendant failed to argue in his brief an alleged error made by the trial court, the issue was deemed abandoned. State v. Davis, 68 N.C. App. 238, 314 S.E.2d 828 (1984).

Although defendant assigned error to the sufficiency of evidence to support the court's findings, it was determined that he abandoned the issue on appeal by not presenting argument in his brief. State v. Rhyne, 124 N.C. App. 84, 478 S.E.2d 789 (1996).

Plaintiffs abandoned their appeal from the directed verdict dismissing their claim for negligent infliction of emotional distress by failing to argue it on appeal. Bailey v. Gitt, 135 N.C. App. 119, 518 S.E.2d 794 (1999).

Where defendant contended that trial court erred in excluding evidence concerning his accomplice's conduct, but failed to refer to any specific ruling of the trial court and to provide any citations to the record or transcript, he was deemed to have abandoned his argument. State v. Cheek, 351 N.C. 48, 520 S.E.2d 545, 1999 N.C. App. LEXIS 1158 (1999), cert. denied, 530 U.S. 1245, 120 S. Ct. 2694, 147 L. Ed. 2d 965 (2000).

Defendant's contention that an instruction on voluntary manslaughter should have been given in addition to ones on first-degree murder by poisoning and attempted first-degree murder by poisoning was not raised in any assignment of error and was, therefore, abandoned. State v. Smith, 351 N.C. 251, 524 S.E.2d 28 (2000), cert. denied, 531 U.S. 862, 121 S. Ct. 151, 148 L. Ed. 2d 100 (2000).

Defendant's failure to assign error to trial court's admission of inculpatory statements by his daughter, which tended to show that the defendant had tried to throw the blame for the poisoning of the family on the mother, resulted in his abandoning it pursuant to this section. State v. Smith, 351 N.C. 251, 524 S.E.2d 28 (2000), cert. denied, 531 U.S. 862, 121 S. Ct. 151, 148 L. Ed. 2d 100 (2000).

Assignment of error relating to concurring acts of negligence was abandoned where plaintiffs failed to cite any legal authority or make an argument for extension of the law in support of their argument. Benton v. Hillcrest Foods, Inc., 136 N.C. App. 42, 524S.E.2d 53, 1999 N.C. App. LEXIS 1296 (1999).

Employee failed in an appeal of the lower court's approval of an agency decision that the employee's refusal to report to work after the expiration of family and medical leave was a voluntary resignation without notice; the employee did not argue subject matter jurisdiction issues which defeated the claim. Shackleford-Moten v. Lenoir County Dep't of Soc. Servs., 155 N.C. App. 568, 573 S.E.2d 767, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1630 (2002).

Where corporation failed to argue the dismissal of its counterclaim or any other assignments of error in its brief, the appellate court deemed the corporation's assignments of error abandoned; however, the appellate court chose to address the corporation's claim to the extent implicated in the creditor's cross-appeal. LexisNexis v. TRaviSHan Corp., 155 N.C. App. 205, 573 S.E.2d 547, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1635 (2002).

Failure to Meet Requirements of Subdivision (b)(5). — Defendant's assignment of error concerning the court's denial of his motion to dismiss for insufficient evidence was considered abandoned where defendant failed to make any supporting argument or give any citation of supporting authority. State v. Hatcher, 136 N.C. App. 524, 524 S.E.2d 815, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 55 (2000).

Reply Brief. — A reply brief is intended to be a vehicle for responding to matters raised in the appellees' brief and is not intended to be — and may not serve as — a means for raising entirely new matters. Newsome v. North Carolina State Bd. of Elections, 105 N.C. App. 499, 415 S.E.2d 201 (1992).

Reply brief could not revive assignments of error which plaintiff had previously abandoned where plaintiff's brief in chief failed to state any reason, argument or authority in support of its contention that summary judgment was improperly granted on particular claims. Trull v. Central Carolina Bank & Trust Co., 117 N.C. App. 220, 450 S.E.2d 542 (1994).

The bar may not use a memorandum of additional authority as a reply brief or for additional argument. Whitaker v. Akers, 137 N.C.App. 274, 527 S.E.2d 721, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 315 (2000).

Replacement Brief Sufficient. — Plaintiffs' motion to dismiss defendants' appeal and to impose sanctions pursuant to N.C. R. App. P. 34 for failure to comply with the required format and contents of an appellate brief as required by N.C. R. App. P. 28(b) was denied, as defendants filed a replacement brief which sufficiently complied with the North Carolina Rules of Appellate Procedure. Estate of Graham v. Morrison, 156 N.C. App. 154, 576 S.E.2d 355, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 81 (2003).

Appellant Must Except to Each Finding or Conclusion Separately. — On appeal from a judgment containing findings of fact and conclusions of law, the appellant must except and assign error separately to each finding or conclusion that he or she contends is not supported by the evidence, and then state which assignments support which questions in the brief. Failure to do so will result in waiver of the right to challenge the sufficiency of the evidence to support particular findings of fact. Concrete Serv. Corp. v. Investors Group, Inc., 79 N.C. App. 678, 340 S.E.2d 755, cert. denied, 317 N.C. 333, 346 S.E.2d 137 (1986).

Reduction of Appeal to Broadside Attack. — Where defendant properly excepted to a large number of the court's findings of fact and the resulting conclusions of law, and correctly assigned error individually to each excepted finding and conclusion, but then, rather than direct the Court of Appeals to the particular findings he challenged, he instead argued the general denial of his Rule 41(b) motion, he thereby reduced his appeal relative to the sufficiency of the evidence to a single broadside attack. Therefore the only question presented was whether the findings of fact supported the conclusions of law and the conclusions supported the judgment. Concrete Serv. Corp. v. Investors Group, Inc., 79 N.C. App. 678, 340 S.E.2d 755, cert. denied, 317 N.C. 333, 346 S.E.2d 137 (1986).

The Court of Appeals will not "fish out" an appellant's exceptions which are not referred to by the proper printed page number. — Lee v. Capitol Tire Co., 40 N.C. App. 150, 252 S.E.2d 252, cert. denied, 297 N.C. 454, 256 S.E.2d 807 (1979); S.J. Groves & Sons & Co. v. State, 50 N.C. App. 1, 273 S.E.2d 465 (1980), cert. denied, 302 N.C. 396, 279 S.E.2d 353 (1981).

Failure to Identify Page Held Not to Require Dismissal. — Although defendant did not identify the record page on which each exception appeared as required under N.C.R.A.P., Rule 10(c) and subdivision (b)(5) of this rule, these omissions were not so egregious as to invoke dismissal. Symons Corp. v. Insurance Co. of N. Am., 94 N.C. App. 541, 380 S.E.2d 550 (1989).

The State is not required by section (c) to state the facts unless there is some disagreement. — State v. Siler, 292 N.C. 543, 234 S.E.2d 733 (1977).

Incorporating Material by Reference. — For case construing former subsection (d), repealed in 1981, see State v. Lynch, 300 N.C. 534, 268 S.E.2d 161 (1980).

Materials Relating to Similar Case. — This rule does not prohibit a party from including in an appendix to a brief copies of a motion, order and portions of a transcript showing the court's reasoning in a similar case. Gibbons v. CIT Group/Sales Fin., Inc., 101 N.C. App. 502, 400 S.E.2d 104 (1991).

Relief as Matter of Appellate Grace. — Plaintiff's failure to present and argue in its brief to the Court of Appeals the propriety of the trial court's judgment as to attorney fees precluded plaintiff from obtaining relief on this point in the Court of Appeals as a matter of right; however, the Court of Appeals, in the exercise of its general supervisory powers under G.S. 7A-32(c) or pursuant to N.C.R.A.P., Rule 2, could consider on its own initiative the question of the attorney fees award and give relief as a matter of appellate grace. Stillwell Enters., Inc. v. Interstate Equip. Co., 300 N.C. 286, 266 S.E.2d 812 (1980).

Although juvenile's brief appealing order to turn him over to South Carolina authorities did not refer to assignments of error and exceptions pertinent to the question, nor contain a statement of the questions for review, the Court of Appeals would consider the juvenile's appeal and suspend the requirements of subsection (b) of this rule, as authorized by N.C.R.A.P., Rule 2, because it was an important case of first impression in this state and to prevent any injustice to the juvenile. In re Teague, 91 N.C. App. 242, 371 S.E.2d 510, cert. denied, 323 N.C. 624, 374 S.E.2d 588 (1988).

Failure to Cite Authority. — Where a boyfriend was sued by a husband for alienation of his wife's affections and criminal conversation, the boyfriend's argument that the trial court did not provide the jury with any standards for the assessment of punitive damages and that the omission violated his rights to due process and equal protection under the United States Constitution and similar rights under the North Carolina Constitution, complied with neither N.C. R. App. P. 28(b)(6) nor N.C. R. App. P. 10(b)(1), and the assignment of error was overruled. Nunn v. Allen, 154 N.C. App. 523, 574 S.E.2d 35, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1522 (2002), cert. denied, 356 N.C. 675, 577 S.E.2d 630 (2003).

Failure to Cite Authority Abandons Argument. — Where the defendant properly included in its brief the assignments of error and exceptions to the findings of fact from the trial court but completely failed to afford the appellate court any citations of authority or the portions of the record upon which it relied to support its argument, its argument was deemed abandoned under subdivision (b)(3) of this rule. S.J. Groves & Sons & Co. v. State, 50 N.C. App. 1, 273 S.E.2d 465 (1980), cert. denied, 302 N.C. 396, 279 S.E.2d 353 (1981).

Where plaintiff failed to cite authority in support of assignment of error, such assignment would be deemed to be abandoned. Byrne v. Bordeaux, 85 N.C. App. 262, 354 S.E.2d 277 (1987).

Where plaintiff contended that he produced sufficient evidence to establish a prima facie case of defamation in the form of slander and libel but did not state any reason or argument nor cite any authority for support of the contention that there was sufficient evidence of libel, he abandoned his assignment of error with respect to the libel claim. Smith v. Carolina Coach Co., 120 N.C. App. 106, 461 S.E.2d 362 (1995).

Where defendant failed to cite any authority in support of its contention the trial court erroneously instructed the jury, the court declined to consider the issue. Markham v. Nationwide Mut. Fire Ins. Co., 125 N.C. App. 443, 481 S.E.2d 349 (1997), cert. denied, 346 N.C. 281, 487 S.E.2d 551 (1997).

Husband's assignments of error regarding the constitutionality of the domestic violence statute were deemed abandoned since he failed to cite any authority to support his arguments. Wilson v. Wilson, 134 N.C. App. 642, 518 S.E.2d 255 (1999).

Defendant's assignment of error was dismissed where he failed to cite any authority in support of his contention that "a plea must be accepted by the State as well as the Court before a judgment can be entered." State v. Stevenson, 136 N.C. App. 235, 523 S.E.2d 734, 1999 N.C. App. LEXIS 1378 (1999), cert. denied, 351 N.C. 368, 543 S.E.2d 144 (2000).

The court refused to address defendant's argument pursuant to this section where defendant failed to cite authority to support the contention that admittance of testimony of a witness who is offered immunity violates a defendant's constitutional rights. State v. McNeill, 140 N.C. App. 450, 537 S.E.2d 518, 2000 N.C. App. LEXIS 1208 (2000).

Plaintiff grading company violated N.C. R. App. P. 28 by failing to present any arguments or authority pertaining to the only order from which it appealed; the appeal was deemed abandoned. Atchley Grading Co. v. W. Cabarrus Church, 148 N.C. App. 211, 557 S.E.2d 188, 2001 N.C. App. LEXIS 1286 (2001).

Appellate court refused to consider defendant's request that the court deviate from prior precedent where defendant offered no argument in the appellate brief to support the plea for a deviation. State v. Shepherd, 156 N.C. App. 69, 575 S.E.2d 776, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 31 (2003).

Failure to Relate Cases to Assignment of Error. — Where plaintiff, in his brief, has listed several cases but has made no attempt to relate the cases cited to his one assignment of error or to any argument advanced in support thereof, his brief is clearly not in accordance with this rule. Brown v. Boney, 41 N.C. App. 636, 255 S.E.2d 784, cert. denied, 298 N.C. 294, 259 S.E.2d 910 (1979).

Where an argument in the appellant's brief did not deal with the assignment of error, it was deemed abandoned. Raleigh-Durham Airport Auth. v. King, 75 N.C. App. 57, 330 S.E.2d 622 (1985).

Failure to Discuss Assignment of Error in Brief. — Where plaintiff failed to discuss in its brief the trial court's denial of its motion for a new trial, the question raised by plaintiff's assignment of error on that issue was deemed abandoned. Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. v. Southeast Airmotive, Inc., 91 N.C. App. 417, 371 S.E.2d 768 (1988), cert. denied, 323 N.C. 706, 377 S.E.2d 230 (1989).

Defendant abandoned four out of five assignments of error on appeal by failing to bring them forward in his brief. State v. Clapp, 135 N.C. App. 52, 519 S.E.2d 90 (1999).

Failure to refer to the assignments of error or exceptions following the statement of the questions presented could result in abandonment of all of appellant's questions on appeal and consequently result in dismissal of the appeal. State v. Shelton, 53 N.C. App. 632, 281 S.E.2d 684 (1981), appeal dismissed and cert. denied, 305 N.C. 306, 290 S.E.2d 707 (1982).

Court would not address the merits of plaintiff's argument regarding alleged fraudulent conveyances where she violated subdivision (b)(5) of this rule in that she failed to reference in her brief the assignment of error supporting the argument. Therefore, this part of plaintiff's appeal would be dismissed. Hines v. Arnold, 103 N.C. App. 31, 404 S.E.2d 179 (1991).

Dismissal of an appeal was proper, where the appellant failed to double space the text of her brief and failed to set out in her brief references to the assignments of error upon which her presented issues and arguments were based. Steingress v. Steingress, 350 N.C. 64, 511 S.E.2d 298 (1999).

Multiple Errors in Brief. — Defendant in murder case did not identify the specific questions or answers which he wanted the Supreme Court to review, did not include the portions of the transcripts containing those questions or answers in the appendix, and did not include a verbatim recitation of those questions or answers in his brief. Therefore, the assignments of error were dismissed. State v. Glenn, 333 N.C. 296, 425 S.E.2d 688 (1993).

Although appellant failed to identify the various exceptions upon which its assignments of errors were based, as required by subsection (b)(5) of this rule, the court deemed it appropriate, pursuant to N.C.R.A.P., Rule 2, to dispose of the appeal on the merits. State Employee's Credit Union, Inc. v. Gentry, 75 N.C. App. 260, 330 S.E.2d 645 (1985).

Codefendant Deemed to Have Abandoned Assignment. — Where codefendants object to the introduction of evidence, but the assignment of error based on this exception is brought forward and discussed in the brief of only one of the codefendants, the assignment is deemed abandoned by the other codefendants. State v. Cox, 289 N.C. 414, 222 S.E.2d 246 (1976).

An exception to the trial judge's signing of the judgment upon verdict of guilty raises nothing for review under this rule. State v. Womble, 292 N.C. 455, 233 S.E.2d 534 (1977).

It is the better practice for the appellee's brief to use the same numbering system for the questions presented as the appellant's brief. — State v. Siler, 292 N.C. 543, 234 S.E.2d 733 (1977).

Question Not Raised at Trial or on Appeal May Not Be Attacked by Collateral Review. — Where the defendant in a prosecution for second-degree murder failed to raise at trial, on direct appeal or in a subsequent petition for post-conviction relief, the question of the trial judge's alleged error in instructing the jury that the burden was on the defendant to disprove malice to reduce the killing to voluntary manslaughter and to prove that he killed in self-defense, the defendant could not seek collateral review of the alleged error. State v. Locklear, 39 N.C. App. 671, 251 S.E.2d 638, cert. denied, 296 N.C. 739, 254 S.E.2d 180 (1979), decided under former Rule 28, Rules of Practice in the Court of Appeals of North Carolina.

Subdivision (b)(4) serves the same function as N.C.R.A.P., Rule 9(c)(1) serves with respect to records filed wherein the evidence is narrated; it assures that the court will have before it the evidence necessary to answer the questions presented, and that such evidence is in a condensed and readily available form. State v. Briley, 59 N.C. App. 335, 296 S.E.2d 501 (1982).

Subdivision (b)(4) Must Be Followed When Stenographic Transcript Used. — It is imperative that defendants using the stenographic transcript alternative allowed by N.C.R.A.P., Rule 9(c)(1) carefully follow the requirements of subdivision (b)(4) of this rule in order that appellate courts not be left the time-consuming and burdensome task of searching through the transcript for the pertinent pages. The omission of the pertinent transcript pages requires that the transcript be circulated among all the judges on the panel, requiring each of them to go through this time-consuming and burdensome task and is grounds for dismissal of the appeal. State v. Wilson, 58 N.C. App. 818, 294 S.E.2d 780, 1982 N.C. App. LEXIS 2840 (1982), cert. denied without prejudice, — N.C. —, 342 S.E.2d 907 (1986).

Failure to observe the requirements of subdivision (b)(4) of this rule constitutes a substantial impediment to the capacity of the appellate court to perform its functions. Williams v. East Coast Sales, Inc., 59 N.C. App. 700, 298 S.E.2d 80 (1982).

Only Portions of Transcript Necessary to Determine Question Need Be Set Out. — Subdivision (b)(4) of this rule only requires setting out the verbatim portions of the transcript necessary for an understanding of each question presented. The rule does not require the appellant to include all of the evidence necessary for a determination of the questions presented. State v. Nickerson, 308 N.C. 376, 302 S.E.2d 221 (1983).

N.C.R.A.P., Rule 9(c) provides for an alternative to narrating the evidence into the record; that is, the filing of a complete stenographic transcript with the clerk of the court in which the appeal is docketed. Whichever method is chosen (N.C.R.A.P., Rule 9 or this rule), the result must be the same: to-wit, to provide the reviewing court with all the information necessary to understand each question presented. State v. Edmonds, 308 N.C. 362, 302 S.E.2d 223 (1983).

Appendix as Part of Record on Appeal. — In an action regarding the termination of state employment, an appendix to the employee's brief was stricken because it violated N.C. R. App. P. 9 and 28, as it was not part of the record, nor agreed on by the parties to be part of the record, nor submitted pursuant to a motion to amend the record. Woodburn v. N.C. State Univ., 156 N.C. App. 549, 577 S.E.2d 154, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 305 (2003).

When Appendix Required. — An appendix is not contemplated for each question that requires a verbatim reproduction of a part of the transcript in order to understand that question. Instead, subdivision (b)(4) of this rule is designed to ensure that verbatim reproductions appear either in the brief itself or in an appendix to the brief. The appendix method should be employed when the question presented requires long verbatim reproductions of the transcript. Placing such reproductions in an appendix serves the dual purpose of providing the reviewing court with all the information necessary in order to make an informed determination while preserving the clarity and directness of the argument. State v. Edmonds, 308 N.C. 362, 302 S.E.2d 223 (1983).

This rule only requires the inclusion of the portions of the transcript necessary to understand, not decide, the question. Any other interpretation would require many appellants, especially those who question the sufficiency of the evidence, to include a verbatim copy of the entire transcript in the appendix to the brief. This interpretation should not encourage appellants to use less than due diligence in following the rules. Indeed, it is usually the safer and wiser course to do more than meet the minimum requirements. State v. Nickerson, 308 N.C. 376, 302 S.E.2d 221 (1983).

Although a complete stenographic transcript contains all the evidence in a case, it is too time consuming and too burdensome a task to expect each member of the reviewing court to search through pages of the transcript in order to find those passages necessary to the understanding of each question presented. Therefore, it is imperative that whenever a stenographic transcript is used in lieu of narrating the evidence into the record, all relevant portions of the transcript must be reproduced in either the brief or its appendix. State v. Edmonds, 308 N.C. 362, 302 S.E.2d 223 (1983).

Improper Documents in Appendix. — It is improper for a party to attach a document not in the record and not permitted under this rule in an appendix to its brief. Horton v. New South Ins. Co., 122 N.C. App. 265, 468 S.E.2d 856, 1996 N.C. App. LEXIS 240 (1996), cert. denied, 472 S.E.2d 8 (1996).

The defendants' numerous, flagrant violations of the Rules of Appellate Procedure warranted dismissal of the appeal, where they did not provide a listing of assignments of error, they included as appendices to their brief certain documents that were excluded by an earlier order, they failed to include other required material, and they used incorrect point type and spacing. Duke Univ. v. Bishop, 131 N.C. App. 545, 507 S.E.2d 904 (1998).

Type Size. — N.C.R.A.P., Rule 26 requires all type to be "at least 11 point," while Appendix B specifies "10-12 point type." To the extent that Appendix B conflicts with Rule 26, Rule 26 governs and no brief shall be submitted in less than eleven point type. Lewis v. Craven Regional Medical Ctr., 122 N.C. App. 143, 468 S.E.2d 269 (1996).

A brief presented in eleven point type will contain no more than three lines of double spaced text in a single, vertical inch, or twenty-seven (27) lines of double-spaced text on a properly formatted 8.5 by 11 inch page. The numbering of the pages, as provided in Appendix B., is not included in the text of the page and shall be centered in the one-inch margin at the top of the page. Lewis v. Craven Regional Medical Ctr., 122 N.C. App. 143, 468 S.E.2d 269 (1996).

Characters Per Inch. — Characters per inch, referred to in some modern word processing systems as "cpi," is not equivalent to point size and defines only the width or "set" size of a character, which includes spaces, punctuation, and letters. N.C.R.A.P., Rule 26 does not speak in terms of characters per inch; however, in order to provide a uniform construction of this rule and prevent unfair advantage to any litigant, it is necessary to provide for a limit on the characters per inch. Ten characters per inch is the standard used in the slip opinions of the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court and the standard we will apply to the briefs filed with the Court of Appeals. Using this standard, a properly formatted 8.5 by 11 inch page will contain no more than 65 characters per line. Lewis v. Craven Regional Medical Ctr., 122 N.C. App. 143, 468 S.E.2d 269 (1996).

Prospective Application of Construction of Rule. — Where the point size in defendants' appellate brief did not comply with N.C.R.A.P., Rule 26, but neither the rule nor the Court of Appeals had previously construed Rule 26, the court would consider the arguments presented in defendants' brief. Rule 26, as construed in this case, will be applied by the Court to briefs, petitions, notices of appeal, responses and motions filed after the date of this opinion. Lewis v. Craven Regional Medical Ctr., 122 N.C. App. 143, 468 S.E.2d 269 (1996).

Page Limitation. — Appellate rules governing the size of type and the number of pages to be included in appellate briefs prevent unfair advantage to any litigant and insure a level playing field for all parties on appeal. Howell v. Morton, 131 N.C. App. 626, 508 S.E.2d 804 (1998).

Sanction for Lengthy Brief. — Where an appellant submitted a 75-page brief, in clear violation of the 35-page limit of subsection (j) of this rule, which put forth precisely the same argument as in his previous motion to dismiss and in previous appeals, under N.C.R.A.P., Rule 34 the Court of Appeals was authorized to impose a sanction against that party. Lowder v. All Star Mills, Inc., 103 N.C. App. 500, 405 S.E.2d 774 (1991), cert. denied, 332 N.C. 484, 421 S.E.2d 349 (1992).

Where appellate brief was 42 pages in length, thereby exceeding the 35 page limit, and counsel proffered minimal justification for the rule violation, the court imposed a fine and reimbursement for copying expenses to be paid by counsel personally. State v. Hudson, 123 N.C. App. 336, 473 S.E.2d 415 (1996), rev'd on other grounds, 345 N.C. 729, 483 S.E.2d 436 (1997).

Noncompliance Resulting in Sanctions Against Plaintiff's Attorneys. — Given plaintiff's attorneys' willful disobedience of the trial court's explicit order and their substantial noncompliance with N.C.R.A.P., Rules 9, 28, and 37, the court would impose sanctions against plaintiff's attorneys in the form of costs associated with the appeal. Coiner v. Cales, 135 N.C. App. 343, 520 S.E.2d 61 (1999).

Costs Attributable to Too Long Brief Assessed Against Attorney. — Where former attorney for plaintiffs filed a brief of 80 single-spaced pages of arguments, a gross violation of subsection (j) of this rule, the portion of the costs of the appeal attributable to plaintiff appellant's excessively long brief were assessed against said attorney, with plaintiffs bearing the remainder of the costs of the appeal. North Buncombe Ass'n of Concerned Citizens v. Rhodes, 100 N.C. App. 24, 394 S.E.2d 462, cert. denied, 327 N.C. 484, 397 S.E.2d 215 (1990).

Amicus Brief Accepted Under N.C.R.A.P., Rule 2. — Where in spite of the fact that appellee and estate purported to have settled their differences, and in spite of the fact that appellee was no longer represented by attorneys, such attorneys filed a brief opposing appellant, titled "Appellee's Brief," appellate court would use N.C.R.A.P., Rule 2 to treat this brief as an amicus brief because of the extraordinary procedural posture of the case. In re Estate of Tucci, 104 N.C. App. 142, 408 S.E.2d 859 (1991), cert. denied, 331 N.C. 749, 417 S.E.2d 236 (1992).

The scope of appellate review is limited to the issues presented by assignments of error set out in the record on appeal, and where the issue presented in the appellant's brief does not correspond to a proper assignment of error, the matter is not properly considered by the appellate court. Bustle v. Rice, 116 N.C. App. 658, 449 S.E.2d 10 (1994).

Briefs Held to Violate Rule. — An appellate brief in a capital murder case violated this rule, where it set forth several arguments with a cluster of assignments referred to after each such argument, with each such argument also including many subheadings in which separate questions were stated without reference to any assignment of error. State v. Williams, 350 N.C. 1, 510 S.E.2d 626, 1999 N.C. LEXIS 5 (1999), cert. denied 528 U.S. 880, 120 S. Ct. 193, 145 L. Ed. 2d 162 (1999).

Appellants' appeal was dismissed due to their violation of the requirement of N.C. R. App. P. 28(b)(6) that, in an appellant's brief, immediately following each question shall be a reference to the assignments of error pertinent to the question, identified by their numbers and by the pages at which they appear in the printed record on appeal. Anthony v. City of Shelby, 152 N.C. App. 144, 567 S.E.2d 222, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 904 (2002).

Appellate court refused to review an interlocutory appeal of the trial court's grant of partial summary judgment, where the appellants failed to comply with N.C. R. App. P. 28(b)(4) by failing to state in their brief the substantial right that would have been lost if the appeal was not heard, as was required under G.S. 1-277(a) and G.S. 7A-27(d)(1). Munden v. Courser, 155 N.C. App. 217, 574 S.E.2d 110, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1582 (2002).

II. DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW.

Editor's note. — The cases cited below were decided under former Rules 27 and 28, Rules of Practice in the Supreme Court of North Carolina, and under former Rule 28, Rules of Practice in the Court of Appeals of North Carolina.

Rules Mandatory. — The rules of practice of the Supreme Court are mandatory. Jim Walter Corp. v. Gilliam, 260 N.C. 211, 132 S.E.2d 313 (1963).

A failure to comply with this rule results in a failure to present for review the questions sought to be presented. State v. Black, 7 N.C. App. 324, 172 S.E.2d 217 (1970).

Brief Not in Accordance with Rules. — An appeal will be dismissed where there is a failure to print the record and briefs in accordance with the rules of the Supreme Court. Bradshaw v. Stansberry, 164 N.C. 356, 79 S.E. 302 (1913).

Failure to File in Time. — Where appellant fails to file his brief within the time prescribed, and the case on appeal contains no assignments of error or grouped exceptions, as required by the rules of the Supreme Court, a motion by appellee to dismiss will be granted. Rosemond v. McPherson, 156 N.C. 593, 72 S.E. 570 (1911); In re Bailey, 180 N.C. 300, 103 S.E. 896 (1920).

Where an appellant knows that his brief must be prepared, printed, and filed by noon of a certain day, and he takes no steps to this end, a motion to dismiss the appeal will be granted. Truelove v. Norris, 152 N.C. 755, 67 S.E. 487 (1910).

Late filing of appellant's brief works an abandonment of the assignments of error, except those appearing on the face of the record, which are cognizable ex mero motu. State v. Lynn, 251 N.C. 703, 111 S.E.2d 866 (1960).

When Cause Docketed Too Late for Hearing. — Where a cause was docketed too late for hearing at a term of the Supreme Court, a motion to dismiss for failure to file printed briefs must be denied. Gupton v. Sledge, 161 N.C. 213, 76 S.E. 527 (1912); Bumgarner v. Thornton Light & Power Co., 76 S.E. 528 (1912); McLean v. McDonald, 175 N.C. 418, 95 S.E. 769 (1918).

When No Brief Filed. — Where the appellant has not filed a brief in the Supreme Court, under the rule the judgment appealed from will be affirmed on appellee's motion, if upon examination of the records proper no error appears. Rowe v. Campbell, 76 S.E. 474 (1912); Cumberland County v. R.S. Dickson & Co., 190 N.C. 330, 129 S.E. 726 (1925).

Where an appellant failed to file a brief in the Supreme Court, as required by this rule, upon motion of the Attorney General the appeal of the appellant was held properly dismissed. State v. Kinyon, 210 N.C. 294, 186 S.E. 368 (1936); State v. Pelley, 222 N.C. 684, 24 S.E.2d 635 (1943).

The failure to file a brief as required by this rule works an abandonment of the assignments of error, except those appearing upon the face of the record, which are cognizable ex mero motu. Dillard v. Brown, 233 N.C. 551, 64 S.E.2d 843 (1951); Land v. Land, 4 N.C. App. 115, 165 S.E.2d 692 (1969).

Where appellant does not file a brief, his appeal will be dismissed. Wilson v. Ervin, 227 N.C. 396, 42 S.E.2d 468 (1947).

Appellant's exceptions and assignments of error are deemed abandoned where appellant fails to file a brief as required by this rule. In re Maxwell, 7 N.C. App. 59, 171 S.E.2d 20 (1969).

An appeal is subject to dismissal for failure of claimants to file their brief within the time allowed by the rules of the Court of Appeals. Fetherbay v. Sharpe Motor Lines, 8 N.C. App. 58, 173 S.E.2d 589 (1970).

In Capital Felony Cases. — An appeal will be dismissed upon motion of the Attorney General for failure of defendant to file a brief, but when defendant has been convicted of a capital felony, this will be done only after a careful examination of the record fails to disclose material defect. State v. Peele, 220 N.C. 83, 16 S.E.2d 449 (1941); State v. Sturdivant, 220 N.C. 535, 17 S.E.2d 661 (1941).

Although exceptions, in support of which no reason or argument is stated or authority cited, will be taken as abandoned in accordance with the provisions of this rule, nevertheless in the case of a capital felony, the Supreme Court will examine the matters to which those exceptions relate in its search for prejudicial error. State v. Roman, 235 N.C. 627, 70 S.E.2d 857 (1952).

Briefs which merely state with reference to the exceptions taken of record, "Exceptions No. 1. This question and answer are incompetent," etc., afford no assistance to the court. They are merely pass briefs, and do not conform to the rules. Jones v. Southern Ry., 164 N.C. 392, 80 S.E. 408 (1913); State v. Gibson, 221 N.C. 252, 20 S.E.2d 51 (1942).

Exceptions Not Discussed Deemed Abandoned. — It is necessary that exceptions appearing in the record on appeal be mentioned in appellant's brief, with reason or argument to support them, to entitle them to be considered by the court, for otherwise they are taken as abandoned. Gray v. Cartwright, 174 N.C. 49, 93 S.E. 432 (1917); State v. Barnhill, 186 N.C. 446, 119 S.E. 894 (1923); Austin v. Crisp, 186 N.C. 616, 120 S.E. 199 (1923); In re Will of Fuller, 189 N.C. 509, 127 S.E. 549 (1925); Hyatt v. McCoy, 194 N.C. 760, 140 S.E. 807 (1927); Ludford v. Combs, 195 N.C. 851, 141 S.E. 541 (1928); Grant v. Tallassee Power Co., 196 N.C. 617, 146 S.E. 531 (1929); Andrews Music Store v. Boone, 197 N.C. 174, 148 S.E. 39 (1929); State v. App. 154, 174 S.E.2d 281 (1970), cert. denied, 403 U.S. 940, 91 S. Ct. 2258, 29 L. Ed. 2d 719 (1971); State v. Norman, 8 N.C. App. 239, 174 S.E.2d 41, aff'd, 9 N.C. App. 706, 177 S.E.2d 449 (1970).

In the absence of a showing, by statement of reason or argument or citation of authority, that the statute of limitations pleaded is relevant as a defense, error in striking this defense did not appear. Dunn v. Dunn, 242 N.C. 234, 87 S.E.2d 308 (1955).

Mere reference to exceptions of record made in the brief, without argument or citation of authority, is not a compliance with this rule. Ingle v. Southern Ry., 167 N.C. 636, 83 S.E. 744 (1914).

Exceptions and assignments of error not brought forward in the brief are deemed abandoned. Reliable Trucking Co. v. Payne, 233 N.C. 637, 65 S.E.2d 132 (1951); Tart v. Register, 257 N.C. 161, 125 S.E.2d 754 (1962); Smith v. Simpson, 260 N.C. 601, 133 S.E.2d 474 (1963); Becker v. Becker, 262 N.C. 685, 138 S.E.2d 507 (1964); Spartan Equip. Co. v. Air Placement Equip. Co., 263 N.C. 549, 140 S.E.2d 3 (1965); Martin v. Underhill, 265 N.C. 669, 144 S.E.2d 872 (1965); State v. Covington, 267 N.C. 292, 148 S.E.2d 138 (1966); Branch v. Cofield, 273 N.C. 355, 160 S.E.2d 29 (1968); Capune v. Robbins, 273 N.C. 581, 160 S.E.2d 881 (1968); State v. Covington, 273 N.C. 690, 161 S.E.2d 140 (1968); Goldston v. Lynch, 2 N.C. App. 291, 163 S.E.2d 26 (1968); State v. Bass, 5 N.C. App. 429, 168 S.E.2d 424 (1969); Brantley v. Sawyer, 5 N.C. App. 557, 169 S.E.2d 55 (1969); State v. Paschal, 6 N.C. App. 334, 170 S.E.2d 95 (1969); State v. Clontz, 6 N.C. App. 587, 170 S.E.2d 624 (1969); State v. Corn, 6 N.C. App. 613, 170 S.E.2d 544 (1969); Atkins v. Parker, 7 N.C. App. 446, 173 S.E.2d 38 (1970); Moody v. Lundy Packing Co., 7 N.C. App. 463, 172 S.E.2d 905 (1970); Tickle v. Standard Insulating Co., 8 N.C. App. 5, 173 S.E.2d 491 (1970); State v. Tipton, 8 N.C. App. 53, 173 S.E.2d 527 (1970); State v. Chisholm, 8 N.C. App. 80, 173 S.E.2d 635 (1970); State v. Jordan, 8 N.C. App. 203, 174 S.E.2d 112, aff'd, 277 N.C. 341, 177 S.E.2d 289 (1970); State v. Eaton, 8 N.C. App. 321, 174 S.E.2d 24 (1970).

Exceptions set out in the record, and not preserved as required by this rule, are to be considered as abandoned. Higgins v. Higgins, 223 N.C. 453, 27 S.E.2d 128 (1943).

Statements made in appellant's brief, that he has ten assignments of error and insists upon them all, do not come within this rule, and they will not be considered; the requirements being that there must be some reason or argument in their support set out in the brief. Watkins v. Lawson, 166 N.C. 216, 81 S.E. 623 (1914).

Assignments of Error. — The purported assignments of error will not be considered by the court where they do not throw the slightest light on the questions the court is asked to pass upon and do not comply with this rule. Tillis v. Calvine Cotton Mills, Inc., 244 N.C. 587, 94 S.E.2d 600 (1956).

Where the record and brief contain no assignments of error as required by this rule, only the face of the record proper is presented for review. Bumgarner & Bowman Bldg., Inc. v. Hollar, 7 N.C. App. 14, 171 S.E.2d 60 (1969).

An appeal is subject to dismissal where both the record on appeal and the appellant's brief contain no assignments of error but list or refer only to the exceptions. In re Whichard, 8 N.C. App. 154, 174 S.E.2d 281 (1970), cert. denied, 403 U.S. 940, 91 S. Ct. 2258, 29 L. Ed. 2d 719 (1971).

Where briefs do not contain the exceptions and assignments of error, properly numbered, with references to the printed record, they do not conform to the rules. It is impossible to determine just what exceptions or assignments of error are referred to. State v. Newton, 207 N.C. 323, 177 S.E. 184 (1934).

Defendant's brief should designate the assignments of error discussed by number with reference to the printed pages of the transcript, and authorities relied on should be classified under each of the assignments. State v. Abernethy, 220 N.C. 226, 17 S.E.2d 25 (1941).

Effect of Failure to Set Forth Exceptions and Assignments of Error. — The exceptions and assignments of error were not set forth in defendant appellant's brief. This is tantamount to the admission that the evidence was sufficient to be submitted to the jury. State v. Walls, 211 N.C. 487, 191 S.E. 232, appeal dismissed and cert. denied, 302 U.S. 635, 58 S. Ct. 18, 82 L. Ed. 494 (1937).

A broadside reference to the errors assigned by counsel does not conform with this rule. Seibold v. Mutual Benefit Health & Accident Ass'n, 8 N.C. App. 277, 174 S.E.2d 25 (1970).

Exception Too General. — An exception simply to the general failure of the judge to state in a plain and correct manner the evidence and declare and explain the law arising thereon is too general and cannot be sustained. Ellis v. Wellons, 224 N.C. 269, 29 S.E.2d 884 (1944).

Question Discussed in Oral Argument. — A question on oral argument, but not embraced in the assignments of error referred to in the brief, will not be considered. Mitchem v. Mitchem, 169 N.C. 48, 85 S.E. 146 (1915).

Statement of Case. — A fair and succinct statement of the case should be made at the beginning of the brief, so that the Supreme Court may understand the issues and more expeditiously hear the argument and decide the case. Balfour Quarry Co. v. West Constr. Co., 151 N.C. 345, 66 S.E. 217 (1909).

Strict Numerical Order Not Essential. — It is not essential that the assignments of error be argued in the brief in strict numerical order, but certainly counsel should indicate which assignment of error he proposes that the argument supports. In re Will of Head, 1 N.C. App. 575, 162 S.E.2d 137 (1968).

Citation of Cases. — The grouping of cases cited in a brief does not authorize the use of the names of such cases throughout the brief without giving the citation of such cases. Weaver v. Morgan, 232 N.C. 642, 61 S.E.2d 916 (1950).

Failure to Furnish Appellee with Copy of Brief. — The appellee may not successfully move in the Supreme Court to have the case dismissed for the failure of the appellant to furnish him a copy of his briefs when the brief was duly filed with the clerk under the rule, and he could have obtained one in the time prescribed by applying to the clerk, who is not under duty to either notify him or supply him a copy except at his request. Turnage v. Dunn, 196 N.C. 105, 144 S.E. 521 (1928).

When Appellant Must Discuss Appellees' Exceptions. — On an appeal from an order of a trial judge setting aside a verdict of the jury in favor of the plaintiff because of error committed against the defendant, the brief of appellant must refer to exceptions taken by defendant. Powers v. City of Wilmington, 177 N.C. 361, 99 S.E. 102 (1919).

Rule 29. Sessions of courts; Calendar of hearings.

(a) Sessions of court.

(1) Supreme Court. The Supreme Court shall be in continuous session for the transaction of business. Unless otherwise scheduled by the Court, hearings in appeals will be held during the week beginning the second Monday in the months of February through May and September through December. Additional settings may be authorized by the Chief Justice.

(2) Court of Appeals. Appeals will be heard in accordance with a schedule promulgated by the Chief Judge. Panels of the Court will sit as scheduled by the Chief Judge. For the transaction of other business, the Court of Appeals shall be in continuous session.

(b) Calendaring of cases for hearing. Each appellate court will calendar the hearing of all appeals docketed in the court. In general, appeals will be calendared for hearing in the order which they are docketed, but the court may vary the order for any cause deemed appropriate. On motion of any party, with notice to all other parties, the court may determine without hearing to give an appeal peremptory setting or otherwise to vary the normal calendar order. Except as advanced for peremptory setting on motion of a party or the court's own initiative, no appeal will be calendared for hearing at a time less than 30 days after the filing of the appellant's brief. The clerk of the appellate court will give reasonable notice to all counsel of record of the setting of an appeal for hearing by mailing a copy of the calendar. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended March 3, 1982 — 29(a)(1); Amended September 3, 1987 — 29(a)(1); Amended July 26, 1990 — 29(b) — effective October 1, 1990.)

Editor's note. — The cases cited below were decided under former Rule 13, Rules of Practice in the Supreme Court of North Carolina.

Title to Public Office. — Where an action involving title to public office is begun after the term of the Supreme Court, and on appeal has come to such term of the Supreme Court after the call of the district to which the cause belongs, the court can, under this rule, set the same down for argument, though it was not entitled to be heard as of right. Caldwell v. Wilson, 121 N.C. 423, 28 S.E. 363 (1897).

Enjoining Issue of County Bonds. — An injunction suit to restrain a county from issuing bonds for the payment of certain county indebtedness will not be advanced for hearing because a certain portion of such indebtedness is due to the board of education for borrowed money. Black v. Commissioners of Buncombe County, 129 N.C. 121, 39 S.E. 818 (1901).

Rule 30. Oral argument.

(a) Order and content of argument. The appellant is entitled to open and conclude the argument. The opening argument shall include a fair statement of the case. Oral arguments should complement the written briefs, and counsel will therefore not be permitted to read at length from briefs, records, and authorities.

(b) Time allowed for argument.

(1) In general. Ordinarily a total of thirty minutes will be allowed all appellants and a total of thirty minutes will be allowed all appellees for oral argument. Upon written or oral application of any party, the court for good cause shown may extend the times limited for argument. Among other causes, the existence of adverse interests between multiple appellants or between multiple appellees may be suggested as good cause for such an extension. The court of its own initiative may direct argument on specific points outside the times limited. Counsel is not obliged to use all the time allowed, and the court may terminate argument whenever it considers further argument unnecessary.

(2) Numerous counsel. Any number of counsel representing individual appellants or appellees proceeding separately or jointly may be heard in argument within the times herein limited or allowed by order of court. When more than one counsel is heard, duplication or supplementation of argument on the same points shall be avoided unless specifically directed by the court.

(c) Non-appearance of parties. If counsel for any party fails to appear to present oral argument, the court will hear argument from opposing counsel. If counsel for no party appears, the court will decide the case on the written briefs unless it orders otherwise.

(d) Submission on written briefs. By agreement of the parties, a case may be submitted for decision on the written briefs; but the court may nevertheless order oral argument prior to deciding the case.

(e) Decision of appeal without publication of an opinion.

(1) In order to minimize the cost of publication and of providing storage space for the published reports, the Court of Appeals is not required to publish an opinion on every decided case. If the panel which hears the case determines that the appeal involves no new legal principles and that an opinion, if published, would have no value as a precedent, it may direct that no opinion be published.

(2) The text of a decision without published opinion shall be posted on the Administrative Office of the Court's North Carolina Court System Internet web site and reported only by listing the case and the decision in the Advance Sheets and the bound volumes of the North Carolina Court of Appeals Reports.

(3) An unpublished decision of the North Carolina Court of Appeals does not constitute controlling legal authority. Accordingly, citation of unpublished opinions in briefs, memoranda, and oral arguments in the trial and appellate divisions is disfavored, except for the purpose of establishing claim preclusion, issue preclusion, or the law of the case. If a party believes, nevertheless, that an unpublished opinion has precedential value to a material issue in the case and that there is no published opinion that would serve as well, the party may cite the unpublished opinion if that party serves a copy thereof on all other parties in the case and on the court to whom the citation is offered. This service may be accomplished by including the copy of the unpublished opinion in an addendum to a brief or memorandum. A party who cites an unpublished opinion for the first time at a hearing or oral argument must attach a copy of the unpublished opinion relied upon pursuant to requirements of Rule 28(g) ("Additional Authorities"). When citing an unpublished opinion, a party must indicate the opinion's unpublished status.

(4) Counsel of record and pro se parties of record may move for publication of an unpublished opinion, citing reasons based on Rule 30(e)(1), and serving a copy of the motion upon all other counsel and pro se parties of record. The motion shall be filed and served within 10 days of the filing of the opinion. Any objection to the requested publication, by the counsel or pro se parties of record, must be filed within 5 days after service of the motion requesting publication. The panel which heard the case shall determine whether to allow or deny such motion.

(f) Pre-argument review; Decision of appeal without oral argument.

(1) At anytime that the Supreme Court concludes that oral argument in any case pending before it will not be of assistance to the Court, it may dispose of the case on the record and briefs. In those cases, counsel will be notified not to appear for oral argument.

(2) The Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals may from time to time designate a panel to review any pending case, after all briefs are filed but before argument, for decision under this rule. If all of the judges of the panel to which a pending appeal has been referred conclude that oral argument will not be of assistance to the Court, the case may be disposed of on record and briefs. Counsel will be notified not to appear for oral argument. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended December 18, 1975 — 30(e); Amended May 3, 1976 — 30(f); Amended February 5, 1979 — 30(e); Amended June 10, 1981 — 30(f) — effective July 1, 1981; Amended October 18, 2001 — 30(e)(2), (4) — effective January 1, 2002; Amended October 3, 2002 — 30(e)(3) — effective October 7, 2002.)

CASE NOTES

Unpublished Decisions Not Controlling Authority. — Unpublished decisions were not controlling authority, and an insurance company's reliance on an unpublished opinion was unavailing to its argument regarding whether a written rejection of underinsured motorist coverage was valid. Rule 31. Petition for rehearing.

(a) Time for filing; Content. A petition for rehearing may be filed in a civil action within 15 days after the mandate of the court has been issued. The petition shall state with particularity the points of fact or law which, in the opinion of the petitioner, the court has overlooked or misapprehended, and shall contain such argument in support of the petition as petitioner desires to present. It shall be accompanied by a certificate of at least two attorneys who for periods of at least five years respectively, shall have been members of the bar of this State and who have no interest in the subject of the action and have not been counsel for any party to the action, that they have carefully examined the appeal and the authorities cited in the decision, and that they consider the decision in error on points specifically and concisely identified. Oral argument in support of the petition will not be permitted.

(b) How addressed; Filed. A petition for rehearing shall be addressed to the court which issued the opinion sought to be reconsidered.

(c) How determined. Within 30 days after the petition is filed, the court will either grant or deny the petition. Determination to grant or deny will be made solely upon the written petition; no written response will be received from the opposing party; and no oral argument by any party will be heard. Determination by the court is final. The rehearing may be granted as to all or less than all points suggested in the petition. When the petition is denied the clerk shall forthwith notify all parties.

(d) Procedure when granted. Upon grant of the petition the clerk shall forthwith notify the parties that the petition has been granted. The case will be reconsidered solely upon the record on appeal, the petition to rehear, new briefs of both parties, and the oral argument if one has been ordered by the court. The briefs shall be addressed solely to the points specified in the order granting the petition to rehear. The petitioner's brief shall be filed within 30 days after the case is certified for rehearing, and the opposing party's brief, within 30 days after petitioner's brief is served upon him. Filing and service of the new briefs shall be in accordance with the requirements of Rule 13. No reply brief shall be received on rehearing. If the court has ordered oral argument, the clerk shall give notice of the time set therefor, which time shall be not less than 30 days after the filing of the petitioner's brief on rehearing.

(e) Stay of execution. When a petition for rehearing is filed, the petitioner may obtain a stay of execution in the trial court to which the mandate of the appellate court has been issued. The procedure is as provided for stays pending appeal by Rule 8 of these rules.

(f) Waiver by appeal from court of appeals. The timely filing of a notice of appeal from, or of a petition for discretionary review of, a determination of the Court of Appeals constitutes a waiver of any right thereafter to petition the Court of Appeals for rehearing as to such determination or, if a petition for rehearing has earlier been filed, an abandonment of such petition.

(g) No petition in criminal cases. The courts will not entertain petitions for rehearing in criminal actions. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended November 27, 1984 — 31(a) — effective February 1, 1985; Amended September 3, 1987 —

31(d); Amended December 8, 1988 — 31(b), (d) — effective January 1, 1989; Amended October 18, 2001 — 31(b) — effective October 31, 2001.)

CASE NOTES

I. In General.
II. Decisions Under Prior Law.

I. IN GENERAL.

No Rehearing in Criminal Matters. — Petitions for rehearing were not available in criminal proceedings; because no rehearing was available, there was no period following the denial of certiorari during which the inmate could have sought rehearing, and as such, the inmate's untimely habeas petition could not have been statutorily tolled. Rouse v. Lee, 339 F.3d 238, 2003 U.S. App. LEXIS 16417 (4th Cir. 2003).

Petitioner inmate's habeas petition was untimely under 28 U.S.C.S. § 2244(d)(1) because N.C. R. App. P. 32's 20-day period did not apply to the order of the highest state court denying certiorari and that order ended the state post-conviction process and the tolling provisions of 28 U.S.C.S. § 2244(d)(2); further, N.C. R. App. 31(a) did not apply to criminal proceedings and, under G.S. 15A-1411(b), a post-conviction motion was a motion in the original cause and not a new proceeding, thus, N.C. R. App. P. 31(g) applied and the inmate had no right to file a motion for rehearing in the state court. Rouse v. Lee, — F. Supp. 2d —, 2001 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 25353 (M.D.N.C. Jan. 17, 2001).

Applied in Siders v. Gibbs, 31 N.C. App. 481, 229 S.E.2d 811 (1976); Drummond v. Cordell, 73 N.C. App. 438, 326 S.E.2d 292 (1985).

Stated in Smith v. Nationwide Mut. Ins. Co., 72 N.C. App. 400, 324 S.E.2d 868 (1985).

Cited in State v. Fayetteville St. Christian School, 299 N.C. 731, 265 S.E.2d 387 (1980); Housing Inc. v. Weaver, 305 N.C. 428, 290 S.E.2d 642 (1982); Penuel v. Hiatt, 100 N.C. App. 268, 396 S.E.2d 85 (1990); Wilson v. Sutton, 124 N.C. App. 170, 476 S.E.2d 467 (1996).

II. DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW.

Editor's note. — The cases cited below were decided under former Rules 31 and 44, Rules of Practice in the Supreme Court of North Carolina.

Rule Mandatory. — The requirement that a petition for a rehearing be filed within so many days after the filing of the opinion in the case is mandatory upon all litigants alike, and will be rigidly enforced. Cooper v. Board of Comm'rs, 184 N.C. 615, 113 S.E. 569 (1922).

This rule prescribes the procedure for the correction of errors by the Supreme Court. Nowell v. Neal, 249 N.C. 516, 107 S.E.2d 107 (1959).

Time of Filing Affidavit in Support of Petition. — Where the Supreme Court, on appeal, has allowed a motion for a new trial for newly discovered evidence after having fixed a time in which the parties may file their affidavit in support of the motion and per contra, the court will not thereafter allow a motion retaining the case on its docket for the purpose of correcting the amount of the judgment. Moore v. Tidwell, 194 N.C. 186, 138 S.E. 541 (1927).

When Time Begins to Run. — The time begins to run against a petition to rehear in the Supreme Court from the time the opinion was filed in the office of the clerk of that court. McGeorge v. Nicola, 173 N.C. 733, 92 S.E. 610 (1917).

Distinction Between Filing and Docketing. — The petition is said to be filed when it is received by the clerk, and this must be done within the requisite days after the filing of the opinion; it is docketed when the clerk enters it upon the records at the order of the justice, who grants the rehearing. Bird v. Gilliam, 123 N.C. 63, 31 S.E. 267 (1898).

Rehearing a Matter of Discretion. — Unlike an appeal, a petition to rehear is a matter in the discretion of the Supreme Court to be exercised under the rules prescribed by it. Moore v. Harkins, 179 N.C. 525, 103 S.E. 12 (1920).

Presumption in Favor of Judgment. — Rehearings of decisions of cases of the Supreme Court are granted only in exceptional cases, and, when granted, every presumption is in favor of the judgment already rendered. Weisel v. Cobb, 122 N.C. 67, 30 S.E. 312 (1898).

Rehearing by Means of Second Appeal Not Allowed. — A second appeal on matters determined by a decision on a former appeal will not be considered, the procedure being by a petition to rehear. Gainesville & Alachua County Hosp. Ass'n v. Atlantic Coast Line R.R., 157 N.C. 460, 73 S.E. 242 (1911); LaRoque v. Kennedy, 161 N.C. 459, 77 S.E. 695 (1913).

Same Facts Will Not Warrant Second Appeal. — A party to an action may not have the decision of the Supreme Court again reviewed by it, upon a second appeal, upon the same state of facts, the former decision having become the law of the case. Strunks v. Southern Ry., 188 N.C. 567, 125 S.E. 182 (1924).

No Rehearing on Motion to Modify. — A rehearing will not be granted upon a summary motion to modify a final judgment of this court. Ruffin v. Harrison, 91 N.C. 398 (1884).

When Rehearing Allowed. — No case will be reviewed upon petition to rehear, unless it was decided hastily and some material point was overlooked, or some direct authority was not called to the attention of the court. Haywood v. Daves, 81 N.C. 8 (1879); Mullen v. Norfolk & N.C. Canal Co., 115 N.C. 15, 20 S.E. 167 (1894).

The petition to rehear having been fully and carefully considered, and it appearing that the errors assigned have already been passed upon in well considered opinions of this court, and no new fact has been called to the attention of the court, or new case or authority cited, or new position assumed, the petition is dismissed. Weston v. John L. Roper Lumber Co., 168 N.C. 98, 83 S.E. 693 (1914).

Only Points Certified as Erroneous Considered. — Upon a rehearing, the Supreme Court will not consider any point not certified as erroneous by counsel making the certificate. Kerr v. Hicks, 133 N.C. 175, 45 S.E. 529 (1903).

When Conclusion Assigned as Error. — It is unnecessary to consider a broadside assignment of error in a petition to rehear, "for that, granting the correctness of every legal proposition laid down by the court, and that its findings and inferences of fact were supported by the record, yet the conclusion reached by the court in its opinion is erroneous." Bunn v. Braswell, 142 N.C. 113, 55 S.E. 85 (1906).

When Petitioner Guilty of Laches. — A petition to rehear a case in the Supreme Court will not be granted when the alleged error is attributable solely to the petitioner's own laches or want of attention in looking after his case or he has neglected to follow the rules of procedure necessary to a proper presentment thereof, and especially when there is nothing to warrant the assurance that substantial relief would otherwise be afforded him. Battle v. Mercer, 188 N.C. 116, 123 S.E. 258 (1924).

Immaterial Assumption. — It is no ground for the rehearing of a case that the defendant was assumed to be a citizen of North Carolina, whereas, in fact, he was not, when the place of his residence is immaterial. Blackwell v. Wright, 74 N.C. 733 (1876).

When Everything Considered on First Hearing. — Where neither the record nor the briefs on the rehearing of a case disclose anything that was not apparently considered on the first hearing, the former judgment will not be disturbed. Weisel v. Cobb, 122 N.C. 67, 30 S.E. 312 (1898).

New Trial for Newly Discovered Evidence. — A motion for a new trial, in the Supreme Court, upon the ground of newly discovered evidence, is a matter for the full court, and will not be entertained after the case has been certified down, nor will an ungranted petition to rehear, made at the same time to the justices of the court, under the rule, put the case in the Supreme Court. Smith v. Moore, 150 N.C. 158, 63 S.E. 735 (1909).

Contents of Supporting Affidavit. — It is required for the granting of a motion for a new trial upon the ground of newly discovered evidence, that it should appear by affidavit that the desired testimony will be given upon the new trial; that it is probably true, competent, and material; that there has been no laches, but that the movant had used diligence and means to procure the evidence in due time at the trial; that the evidence is not cumulative and does not tend only to contradict, impeach, or discredit a witness who has testified, and is of such a nature as to show that probably a different result will be reached on another trial, so that right will prevail. Johnson v. Seaboard Air Line R.R., 163 N.C. 431, 79 S.E. 690, 1915B Ann. Cas. 598 (1913).

When Petitioner Erroneously Deprived of Property. — Upon a petition to rehear, the case will be corrected when it appears that the petitioner has thereby been erroneously deprived of its property. State ex rel. Lee v. Martin, 188 N.C. 119, 123 S.E. 631 (1924).

Court May Order Reargument. — It is the duty of parties to see that their causes are fully argued in the Supreme Court, and where this has not been — especially where the record is voluminous and assignments of error indefinite — the court will require it to be reargued. Lenoir v. Valley River Mining Co., 104 N.C. 490, 10 S.E. 525 (1889).

Without New Petition Being Filed. — Where a new trial is granted without passing upon certain exceptions, and, upon a rehearing of the exceptions upon which new trial was granted, is reversed, the Supreme Court may order a reargument of the exceptions not passed upon, without a petition for the same being filed. Fleming v. Southern Ry., 132 N.C. 714, 44 S.E. 551 (1903).

Omission of Questions Not Discussed in Brief. — A petition to rehear in the Supreme Court will be denied when founded upon the ground that a certain question was not mentioned in the opinion, when it had not been discussed in movant's brief and he has not appealed from the judgment. Greene v. Lyles, 187 N.C. 598, 122 S.E. 297 (1924).

When No Error Assigned. — Where no exception is taken in trial court to a ruling, and no error is assigned upon rehearing, the Supreme Court will not review the ruling. Faison v. Grandy, 128 N.C. 438, 38 S.E. 897 (1901).

Section Petition to Rehear. — Where a petition to rehear a case in the Supreme Court has been allowed, the opposing party only may petition for a second rehearing thereof. Moore v. Harkins, 179 N.C. 525, 103 S.E. 12 (1920).

A party whose application for a rehearing of the case has been denied may not successfully petition for a rehearing, though additional reasons are given in the denial of the former petition by the court in reaching the same conclusion. Moore v. Harkins, 179 N.C. 525, 103 S.E. 12 (1920).

Costs When New Trial Granted. — Where, upon a rehearing, the court grants a new trial, which was refused on the former hearing, all the costs of the appeal, including those of the rehearing, are properly taxed against the appellee. Waldo v. Wilson, 174 N.C. 767, 94 S.E. 715 (1917).

Reasons for Denying Petition Not Usually Set Out. — The reasons of denying a petition to rehear in the Supreme Court are not usually set out. Crowell v. Crowell, 181 N.C. 66, 106 S.E. 149 (1921).

When Petition Will Be Dismissed. — Petitions to rehear will be dismissed where the grounds of error assigned are substantially the same as on the former hearing, and no new facts appear, no new authorities cited, and no new positions assumed. Montgomery v. Blades, 223 N.C. 331, 26 S.E.2d 567 (1943).

Rule 32. Mandates of the courts.

(a) In general. Unless a court of the appellate division directs that a formal mandate shall issue, the mandate of the court consists of certified copies of its judgment and of its opinion and any direction of its clerk as to costs. The mandate is issued by its transmittal from the clerk of the issuing court to the clerk or comparable officer of the tribunal from which appeal was taken to the issuing court.

(b) Time of issuance. Unless a court orders otherwise, its clerk shall enter judgment and issue the mandate of the court 20 days after the written opinion of the court has been filed with the clerk. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended November 27, 1984 — 32(b) — effective February 1, 1985.)

CASE NOTES

Time of Issuance. — Federal habeas petitioner claimed that petitioner's habeas application was timely based on issuance of the state appellate court's "mandate" 20 days after denial of petitioner's state post-conviction relief request was affirmed; however, there was no such "mandate" in the record, and the habeas petition was untimely based on the date of affirmance. Morrow v. Harkleroad, 247 F. Supp. 2d 805, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 2771 (W.D.N.C. 2003).

N.C. R. App. P. 32(b) mandates generally did not issue after summary denials of certiorari and the inmate submitted no evidence that any mandate ever issued in the inmate's case; as such, N.C. R. App. P. 32(b) clearly did not apply to toll the inmate's untimely habeas petition. Rouse v. Lee, 339 F.3d 238, 2003 U.S. App. LEXIS 16417 (4th Cir. 2003).

Petitioner inmate's habeas petition was untimely under 28 U.S.C.S. § 2244(d)(1) because N.C. R. App. P. 32's 20-day period did not apply to the order of the highest state court denying certiorari and that order ended the state post-conviction process and the tolling provisions of 28 U.S.C.S. § 2244(d)(2); further, N.C. R. App. 31(a) did not apply to criminal proceedings and, under G.S. 15A-1411(b), a post-conviction motion was a motion in the original cause and not a new proceeding, thus, N.C. R. App. P. 31(g) applied and the inmate had no right to file a motion for rehearing in the state court. Rouse v. Lee, — F. Supp. 2d —, 2001 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 25353 (M.D.N.C. Jan. 17, 2001).

Supp. 2d —, 2003 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16831 (M.D.N.C. Sept. 15, 2003).

Rule 33. Attorneys.

(a) Appearances. An attorney will not be recognized as appearing in any case unless he is entered as counsel of record therein. The signature of an attorney on a record on appeal, motion, brief, or other document permitted by these rules to be filed in a court of the appellate division constitutes entry of the attorney as counsel of record for the parties designated and a certification that he represents such parties. The signature of a member or associate in a firm's name constitutes entry of the firm as counsel of record for the parties designated. Counsel of record may not withdraw from a case except by leave of court. Only those counsel of record who have personally signed the brief prior to oral argument may be heard in argument.

(b) Signatures on electronically filed documents. If more than one attorney is listed as being an attorney for the party(ies) on an electronically filed document, it is the responsibility of the attorney actually filing the document from his or her computer to (1) list his or her name first on the document, and (2) place on the document under his or her signature line the following statement: "I certify that all of the attorneys listed below have authorized me to list their names on this document as if they had personally signed it."

(c) Agreements. Only those agreements of counsel which appear in the record on appeal or which are filed in the court where an appeal is docketed will be recognized by that court. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended October 18, 2001 — 33(a)-(c) — effective October 31, 2001.)

CASE NOTES

I. In General.
II. Decisions Under Prior Law.

I. IN GENERAL.

Subsection (a) of this rule is not applicable in criminal cases involving court-appointed counsel. — State v. Carter, 66 N.C. App. 21, 311 S.E.2d 5, cert. denied, 310 N.C. 745, 315 S.E.2d 705 (1984).

II. DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW.

Editor's note. — The cases cited below were decided under former Rule 32, Rules of Practice in the Supreme Court of North Carolina.

Verbal Agreements Not Considered When Denied. — The Supreme Court will not consider appellant's alleged verbal agreement between the parties when such is denied. Standard Mirror Co. v. Philadelphia Cas. Co., 157 N.C. 28, 72 S.E. 826 (1911); Brewer v. Mineola Mfg. Co., 161 N.C. 211, 76 S.E. 237 (1912); McNeil v. Virginia-Carolina R.R., 173 N.C. 729, 92 S.E. 484 (1917).

When it appears in the Supreme Court that appellant has not served his case on appeal in time, no agreement for further extension thereof will be considered, unless it is in writing or appears by an entry on the record. Standard Mirror Co. v. Philadelphia Cas. Co., 157 N.C. 28, 72 S.E. 826 (1911); State v. Black, 162 N.C. 637, 78 S.E. 210 (1913).

Rule 33A. Secure leave periods for attorneys.

(A) Purpose, Authorization. In order to secure for the parties to actions and proceedings pending in the Appellate Division, and to the public at large, the heightened level of professionalism that an attorney is able to provide when the attorney enjoys periods of time that are free from the urgent demands of professional responsibility and to enhance the overall quality of the attorney's personal and family life, any attorney may from time to time designate and enjoy one or more secure leave periods each year as provided in this Rule.

(B) Length, Number. A secure leave period shall consist of one or more complete calendar weeks. During any calendar year, an attorney's secure leave periods pursuant to this Rule and to Rule 26 of the General Rules of Practice for the Superior and District Courts shall not exceed, in the aggregate, three calendar weeks.

(C) Designation, Effect. To designate a secure leave period an attorney shall file a written designation containing the information required by subsection (D), with the official specified in subsection (E), and within the time provided in subsection (F). Upon such filing, the secure leave period so designated shall be deemed allowed without further action of the court, and the attorney shall not be required to appear at any argument or other in-court proceeding in the Appellate Division during that secure leave period.

(D) Content of Designation. The designation shall contain the following information:

(1) the attorney's name, address, telephone number and state bar number,

(2) the date of the Monday on which the secure leave period is to begin and of the Friday on which it is to end,

(3) the dates of all other secure leave periods during the current calendar year that have previously been designated by the attorney pursuant to this Rule and to Rule 26 of the General Rules of Practice for the Superior and District Courts,

(4) a statement that the secure leave period is not being designated for the purpose of delaying, hindering or interfering with the timely disposition of any matter in any pending action or proceeding, and

(5) a statement that no argument or other in-court proceeding has been scheduled during the designated secure leave period in any matter pending in the Appellate Division in which the attorney has entered an appearance.

(E) Where to File Designation. The designation shall be filed as follows:

(1) if the attorney has entered an appearance in the Supreme Court, in the office of the Clerk of the Supreme Court;

(2) if the attorney has entered an appearance in the Court of Appeals, in the office of the Clerk of Court of Appeals.

(F) When to File Designation. To be effective, the designation shall be filed:

(1) no later than ninety (90) days before the beginning of the secure leave period, and

(2) before any argument or other in-court proceeding has been scheduled for a time during the designated secure leave period. (Adopted May 6, 1999, effective January 1, 2000 for all actions and proccedings pending in the appellate division on and after that date.)

Editor's note. — The order adopting this Rule provides that the Rule applies to all actions and proceedings pending in the Appellate Division on and after January 1, 2000.

Rule 34. Frivolous appeals; Sanctions.

(a) A court of the appellate division may, on its own initiative or motion of a party, impose a sanction against a party or attorney or both when the court determines that an appeal or any proceeding in an appeal was frivolous because of one or more of the following:

(1) the appeal was not well grounded in fact and warranted by existing law or a good faith argument for the extension, modification, or reversal of existing law;

(2) the appeal was taken or continued for an improper purpose, such as to harass or to cause unnecessary delay or needless increase in the cost of litigation;

(3) a petition, motion, brief, record, or other paper filed in the appeal was so grossly lacking in the requirements of propriety, grossly violated appellate court rules, or grossly disregarded the requirements of a fair presentation of the issues to the appellate court.

(b) A court of the appellate division may impose one or more of the following sanctions:

(1) dismissal of the appeal;

(2) monetary damages including, but not limited to,

a. single or double costs,

b. damages occasioned by delay,

c. reasonable expenses, including reasonable attorney fees, incurred because of the frivolous appeal or proceeding;

(3) any other sanction deemed just and proper.

(c) A court of the appellate division may remand the case to the trial division for a hearing to determine one or more of the sanctions under (b)(2) or (b)(3) of this rule.

(d) If a court of the appellate division remands the case to the trial division for a hearing to determine a sanction under (c) of this rule, the person subject to sanction shall be entitled to be heard on that determination in the trial division. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended December 8, 1988 — effective July 1, 1989; Amended April 14, 1999 — 34(d).)

CASE NOTES

The appellate division possesses sufficient authority to dispose of interlocutory appeals which do not affect a substantial right by dismissal. It has express authority to do so under this rule on motion of the parties if the appeal is frivolous or taken solely for purposes of delay. Or it may exercise its general authority in response to motions filed under the general motions provision (N.C.R.A.P., Rule 37). Or the appellate division may dismiss upon its own motion as part of its general duty to apply the laws governing the right to appeal. Estrada v. Jaques, 70 N.C. App. 627, 321 S.E.2d 240 (1984).

Motions to dismiss appeals from being interlocutory should properly be filed after the record on appeal is filed in the appellate court. Estrada v. Jaques, 70 N.C. App. 627, 321 S.E.2d 240 (1984).

Where plaintiff had appealed nearly every order entered by the trial court, the appeal at hand being the thirteenth appeal to the appellate division in the case and related cases, not including requests for extraordinary writs, and for the most part plaintiff had merely reasserted issues previously ruled upon by the appellate division, the appeal would be dismissed, with costs to be taxed to plaintiff individually. Lowder v. All Star Mills, Inc., 91 N.C. App. 621, 372 S.E.2d 739 (1988), cert. denied, 324 N.C. 113, 377 S.E.2d 234 (1989).

Where an appellant submitted a 75-page brief, in clear violation of the 35-page limit of N.C.R.A.P., Rule 28(j), in which he put forth precisely the same argument as in his previous motion to dismiss and in previous appeals, under this rule the Court of Appeals is authorized to impose a sanction against that party. Lowder v. All Star Mills, Inc., 103 N.C. App. 500, 405 S.E.2d 774 (1991), cert. denied, 332 N.C. 484, 421 S.E.2d 349 (1992).

Upon review of the more than twenty appeals brought to the Court of Appeals in one case, the court concluded that a hearing pursuant to this rule would be in order and would give notice to appellant pursuant to this rule, that, following receipt of briefs and an oral hearing, it would consider the imposition of one or more of the sanctions enumerated under subdivision (b). Lowder v. All Star Mills, Inc., 103 N.C. App. 500, 405 S.E.2d 774 (1991), cert. denied, 332 N.C. 484, 421 S.E.2d 349 (1992).

The court imposed sanctions against plaintiff and awarded damages to the estate for plaintiff's frivolous appeal disputing the value of a stock certificate. Long v. Long, 119 N.C. App. 500, 459 S.E.2d 58 (1995).

Double Costs Assessed. — Where all appellate briefs contained in excess of 91 characters per line in violation of Appellate Rule 26(g), double costs would be assessed, with the first set to be shared equally among all parties, and the second to be paid in equal share by counsel for the parties. Barnard v. Rowland, 132 N.C. App. 416, 512 S.E.2d 458 (1999).

Husband's interlocutory appeal was dismissed and double costs were assessed as a sanction under N.C. R. App. P. 34(a)(2) where husband filed a second premature appeal in the same case. Steadman v. Steadman, 148 N.C. App. 713, 559 S.E.2d 291, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 55 (2002).

Real Estate Broker's Appeal Was Frivolous. — A real estate broker's appeal was frivolous, where the broker appealed a grant of summary judgment in its suit seeking brokers' commissions and introductory fees, because the case presented the same issues between the same parties or their privies as were decided in a prior case. McGowan v. Argo Travel, Inc., 131 N.C. App. 694, 507 S.E.2d 601 (1998).

Materials Outside the Record. — The costs of an appeal were taxed to defense counsel, where counsel successfully challenged a non-statutory aggravating factor imposed by the sentencing judge, but counsel's appellate brief contained materials outside the record and gratuitous comments about the trial judge. State v. Rollins, 131 N.C. App. 601, 508 S.E.2d 554 (1998).

Dismissal of Appeal. — Plaintiff's appeal, which stated three separate errors in one assignment, failed to state the statutory authority exceeded, the procedure violated and the error of law committed, and failed to provide "clear and specific record or transcript references" relating to each alleged error, violated the Rules of Appellate Procedure, and would be dismissed. Bowen v. North Carolina Dep't of Health & Human Servs., 135 N.C. App. 122, 519 S.E.2d 60 (1999).

Dismissal of Appeal Not Warranted. — Plaintiffs' motion to dismiss defendants' appeal and to impose sanctions pursuant to N.C. R. App. P. 34 for failure to comply with the required format and contents of an appellate brief as required by N.C. R. App. P. 28(b) was denied, as defendants filed a replacement brief which sufficiently complied with the North Carolina Rules of Appellate Procedure. Estate of Graham v. Morrison, 156 N.C. App. 154, 576 S.E.2d 355, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 81 (2003).

Attorney's Fees Not Imposed. — Injured employee did not pursue a frivolous appeal from North Carolina Industrial Commission decision as he made good faith arguments concerning whether he was entitled to attorney's fees and reimbursement for out-of-pocket medical expenses pursuant to Workers' Comp. R. N.C. Indus. Comm'n 502(2)(b) (2000); therefore, his employer was not entitled to attorney's fees. Stevenson v. Noel Williams Masonry, Inc., 148 N.C. App. 90, 557 S.E.2d 554, 2001 N.C. App. LEXIS 1268 (2001).

Applied in K & K Dev. Corp. v. Columbia Banking Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 96 N.C. App. 474, 386 S.E.2d 226 (1989); Lowder v. All Star Mills, Inc., 100 N.C. App. 322, 396 S.E.2d 95 (1990); State v. Bennett, 102 N.C. App. 797, 404 S.E.2d 4 (1991); Lowder v. Lowder, 107 N.C. App. 115, 418 S.E.2d 713 (1992).

Rule 35. Costs.

(a) To whom allowed. Except as otherwise provided by law, if an appeal is dismissed, costs shall be taxed against the appellant unless otherwise agreed by the parties or ordered by the court; if a judgment is affirmed, costs shall be taxed against the appellant unless otherwise ordered by the court; if a judgment is reversed, costs shall be taxed against the appellee unless otherwise ordered; if a judgment is affirmed in part, reversed in part, or modified in any way, costs shall be allowed as directed by the court.

(b) Direction as to costs in mandate. The clerk shall include in the mandate of the court an itemized statement of costs taxed in the appellate court and designate the party against whom taxed.

(c) Costs of appeal taxable in trial tribunals. Any costs of an appeal which are assessable in the trial tribunal shall upon receipt of the mandate be taxed as directed therein, and may be collected by execution of the trial tribunal.

(d) Execution to collect costs in appellate courts. Costs taxed in the courts of the appellate division may be made the subject of execution issuing from the court where taxed. Such execution may be directed by the clerk of the court to the proper officers of any county of the State; may be issued at any time after the mandate of the court has been issued; and may be made returnable on any day named. Any officer to whom such execution is directed is amenable to the penalties prescribed by law for failure to make due and proper return. (Adopted June 13, 1975.)

CASE NOTES

Where plaintiff had appealed nearly every order entered by the trial court, the appeal at hand being the thirteenth appeal to the appellate division in the case and related cases, not including requests for extraordinary writs, and for the most part plaintiff had merely reasserted issues previously ruled upon by the appellate division, the appeal would be dismissed, with costs to be taxed to plaintiff individually. Costs Attributable to Excessively Long Brief Assessed Against Attorney. — Where former attorney for plaintiffs filed a brief of 80 single-spaced pages of arguments, a gross violation of N.C.R.A.P., Rule 28(j), the portion of the costs of the appeal attributable to plaintiff appellant's excessively long brief were assessed against said attorney, with plaintiffs bearing the remainder of the costs of the appeal. North Buncombe Ass'n of Concerned Citizens v. Rhodes, 100 N.C. App. 24, 394 S.E.2d 462, appeal dismissed, 327 N.C. 484, 397 S.E.2d 215 (1990).

Costs Assessed on Attorney. — Because Rule 7 of the Rules of Appellate Procedure was violated, in that a timely written request for the transcript was not made, the cost of appeal was assessed on upon plaintiffs' attorney personally, pursuant to this rule. Thompson v. Town of Warsaw, 120 N.C. App. 471, 462 S.E.2d 691 (1995).

Where all appellate briefs contained in excess of 91 charactes per line in violation of Appellate Rule 26(g), double costs would be assessed, with the first set to be shared equally among all parties, and the second to be paid in equal share by counsel for the parties. Barnard v. Rowland, 132 N.C. App. 416, 512 S.E.2d 458 (1999).

The costs of an appeal were taxed to defense counsel, where counsel successfully challenged a non-statutory aggravating factor imposed by the sentencing judge, but counsel's appellate brief contained materials outside the record and gratuitous comments about the trial judge. State v. Rollins, 131 N.C. App. 601, 508 S.E.2d 554 (1998).

Rule 36. Trial judges authorized to enter orders under these rules.

(a) When particular judge not specified by rule. When by these rules a trial court or a judge thereof is permitted or required to enter an order or to take some other judicial action with respect to a pending appeal and the rule does not specify the particular judge with authority to do so, the following judges of the respective courts have such authority with respect to causes docketed in their respective divisions:

(1) Superior court: the judge who entered the judgment, order, or other determination from which appeal was taken, and any regular or special judge resident in the district or assigned to hold courts in the district wherein the cause is docketed;

(2) District court: the judge who entered the judgment, order, or other determination from which appeal was taken; the chief district judge of the district wherein the cause is docketed; and any judge designated by such chief district judge to enter interlocutory orders under G.S. 7A-192.

(b) Upon death, incapacity, or absence of particular judge authorized. When by these rules the authority to enter an order or to take other judicial action is limited to a particular judge and that judge is unavailable for the purpose by reason of death, mental or physical incapacity, or absence from the state, the Chief Justice will upon motion of any party designate another judge to act in the matter. Such designation will be by order entered ex parte, copies of which will be mailed forthwith by the Clerk of the Supreme Court to the judge designated and to all parties. (Adopted June 13, 1975.)

Rule 37. Motions in appellate courts.

(a) Time; Content of motions; Response. An application to a court of the appellate division for an order or for other relief available under these rules may be made by filing a motion for such order or other relief with the clerk of the court, with service on all other parties. Unless another time is expressly provided by these rules, the motion may be filed and served at any time before the case is called for oral argument. The motion shall contain or be accompanied by any matter required by a specific provision of these rules governing such a motion and shall state with particularity the grounds on which it is based and the order or relief sought. If a motion is supported by affidavits, briefs, or other papers, these shall be served and filed with the motion. Within 10 days after a motion is served upon him or until the appeal is called for oral argument, whichever period is shorter, a party may file and serve copies of a response in opposition to the motion, which may be supported by affidavits, briefs, or other papers in the same manner as motions. The court may shorten or extend the time for responding to any motion.

(b) Determination. Notwithstanding the provisions of Rule 37(a), a motion may be acted upon at any time, despite the absence of notice to all parties, and without awaiting a response thereto. A party who has not received actual notice of such a motion or who has not filed a response at the time such action is taken, and who is adversely affected by the action may request reconsideration, vacation or modification thereof. Motions will be determined without argument, unless the court orders otherwise. (Adopted June 13, 1975.)

CASE NOTES

I. In General.
II. Decisions Under Prior Law.

I. IN GENERAL.

The appellate division possesses sufficient authority to dispose of interlocutory appeals which do not affect a substantial right by dismissal. It has express authority to do so under N.C.R.A.P., Rule 34 on motion of the parties if the appeal is frivolous or taken solely for purposes of delay. Or it may exercise its general authority in response to motions filed under the general motions provision (this rule). Or the appellate division may dismiss upon its own motion as part of its general duty to apply the laws governing the right to appeal. Estrada v. Jaques, 70 N.C. App. 627, 321 S.E.2d 240 (1984).

Motions to dismiss appeals as being interlocutory should properly be filed after the record on appeal is filed in the appellate court. Estrada v. Jaques, 70 N.C. App. 627, 321 S.E.2d 240 (1984).

Defendant's motion to dismiss plaintiff's appeal should have been filed in accordance with this rule, not raised for the first time in his brief. Smithers v. Tru-Pak Moving Sys., 121 N.C. App. 542, 468 S.E.2d 410 (1996).

Motions to an appellate court may not be made in a brief, but must be made in accordance with this rule. Horton v. New South Ins. Co., 122 N.C. App. 265, 468 S.E.2d 856, 1996 N.C. App. LEXIS 240 (1996), cert. denied, 472 S.E.2d 8 (1996).

Where the record on appeal contained no motion to dismiss filed in accordance with this rule, the Court of Appeals would not address the motion as presented in defendant's brief. Morris v. Morris, 92 N.C. App. 359, 374 S.E.2d 441 (1988).

Noncompliance Resulting in Sanctions Against Plaintiff's Attorneys. — Given plaintiff's attorneys' willful disobedience of the trial court's explicit order and their substantial noncompliance with N.C.R.A.P., Rules 9, 28, and 37, the court would impose sanctions against plaintiff's attorneys in the form of costs associated with the appeal. Coiner v. Cales, 135 N.C. App. 343, 520 S.E.2d 61 (1999).

Motion for Attorney's Fees. — When, in an appeal of a personal injury case, the injured party moved, pursuant to N.C. R. App. P. 37(a), for attorney's fees on appeal, it was appropriate to remand the matter to the trial court for findings of fact and an award consistent with those findings. Messina v. Bell, — N.C. App. —, 581 S.E.2d 80, 2003 N.C. App. LEXIS 978 (2003).

Applied in In re Kivett, 309 N.C. 635, 309 S.E.2d 442 (1983).

Jarvis, 198 F.3d 432 (4th Cir. 1999); In re Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Inc., 135 N.C. App. 247, 520 S.E.2d 302 (1999).

II. DECISIONS UNDER PRIOR LAW.

Editor's note. — The cases cited below were decided under former Rule 36, Rules of Practice in the Supreme Court of North Carolina.

Only Motions in Writing Entertained. — The Supreme Court will not entertain any motion, unless reduced to writing. McCoy v. Lassiter, 94 N.C. 131 (1886); Hoyle v. Bagby, 253 N.C. 778, 117 S.E.2d 760 (1961).

Rule 38. Substitution of parties.

(a) Death of a party. No action abates by reason of the death of a party while an appeal may be taken or is pending, if the cause of action survives. If a party acting in an individual capacity dies after appeal is taken from any tribunal, the personal representative of the deceased party in a personal action, or the successor in interest of the deceased party in a real action may be substituted as a party on motion filed by the representative or the successor in interest or by any other party with the clerk of the court in which the action is then docketed. A motion to substitute made by a party shall be served upon the personal representative or successor in interest in addition to all other parties. If such a deceased party in a personal action has no personal representative, any party may in writing notify the court of the death, and the court in which the action is then docketed shall direct the proceedings to be had in order to substitute a personal representative.

If a party against whom an appeal may be taken dies after entry of a judgment or order but before appeal is taken, any party entitled to appeal therefrom may proceed as appellant as if death had not occurred; and after appeal is taken, substitution may then be effected in accordance with this subdivision. If a party entitled to appeal dies before filing a notice of appeal, appeal may be taken by his personal representative, or, if he has no personal representative, by his attorney of record within the time and in the manner prescribed in these rules; and after appeal is taken, substitution may then be effected in accordance with this rule.

(b) Substitution for other causes. If substitution of a party to an appeal is necessary for any reason other than death, substitution shall be effected in accordance with the procedure prescribed in subdivision (a).

(c) Public officers; Death or separation from office. When a person is a party to an appeal in an official or representative capacity and during its pendency dies, resigns, or otherwise ceases to hold office, the action does not abate and his successor is automatically substituted as a party. Prior to the qualification of a successor, the attorney of record for the former party may take any action required by these rules to be taken. An order of substitution may be made, but neither failure to enter such an order nor any misnomer in the name of a substituted party shall affect the substitution unless it be shown that the same affected the substantial rights of a party. (Adopted June 13, 1975.)

Appeal Where Plaintiff Died Before Entitled to Appeal. — The court used N.C.A.P., Rule 2 to vary the requirements of this rule so as to allow an appeal by the decedent's attorney where the plaintiff died before she was entitled to an appeal. Death of Party Pending Appeal. — Where a party dies pending appeal, his personal representative will be made a party by order of the court. First & Citizens Nat'l Bank v. Toxey, 210 N.C. 470, 187 S.E. 553 (1936).

When a party dies pending appeal, his administratrix will be substituted as a party upon motion. Peterson v. McLamb, 221 N.C. 538, 19 S.E.2d 488 (1942).

Rule 39. Duties of clerks; When offices open.

(a) General provisions. The clerks of the courts of the appellate division shall take the oaths and give the bonds required by law. The courts shall be deemed always open for the purpose of filing any proper paper and of making motions and issuing orders. The offices of the clerks with the clerks or deputies in attendance shall be open during business hours on all days except Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays, but the respective courts may provide by order that the offices of their clerks shall be open for specified hours on Saturdays or on particular legal holidays or shall be closed on particular business days.

(b) Records to be kept. The clerk of each of the courts of the appellate division shall keep and maintain the records of that court, on paper, microform, or electronic media, or any combination thereof. The records kept by the clerk shall include indexed listings of all cases docketed in that court, whether by appeal, petition, or motion and a notation of the dispositions attendant thereto; a listing of final judgments on appeals before the court, indexed by title, docket number, and parties, containing a brief memorandum of the judgment of the court and the party against whom costs were adjudicated; and records of the proceedings and ceremonies of the court. (Adopted June 13, 1975; Amended December 8, 1988 — 39(b) — effective January 1, 1989.)

Rule 40. Consolidation of actions on appeal.

Two or more actions which involve common questions of law may be consolidated for hearing upon motion of a party to any of the actions made to the appellate court wherein all are docketed, or upon the initiative of that court. Actions so consolidated will be calendared and heard as a single case. Upon consolidation, the parties may set the course of argument, within the times permitted by N.C. R. App. P. 30(b), by written agreement filed with the court prior to oral argument. This agreement shall control unless modified by the court. (a) The Court of Appeals has adopted an APPEAL INFORMATION STATEMENT which will be revised from time to time. The purpose of the APPEAL INFORMATION STATEMENT is to provide the Court the substance of an appeal and the information needed by the Court for effective case management.

(b) Each appellant shall complete, file and serve the APPEAL INFORMATION STATEMENT as set out in this Rule.

(1) The Clerk of the Court of Appeals shall furnish an APPEAL INFORMATION STATEMENT form to all parties to the appeal when the record on appeal is docketed in the Court of Appeals.

NOTES

All of the critical time intervals here outlined except those for taking an appeal and petitioning for discretionary review or for rehearing may be extended by order of the Court wherein the appeal is docketed at the time. Note that Rule 27 grants the trial tribunal the authority to grant only one extension of time for service of the proposed record. All other motions for extension of the times provided in the rules must be filed with the appellate court to which the appeal of right lies.

No time limits are prescribed for petitions for writs of certiorari other than that they be "filed without unreasonable delay." Rule 21(c). (Amended October 1, 1990; Amended March 6, 1997; Amended October 31, 2001; Amended May 1, 2003.)

Appendix B. Format and style.

All documents for filing in either Appellate Court are prepared on 8½ x 11 inch, plain, white unglazed paper of 16 to 20 pound weight. Typing is done on one side only, although the document will be reproduced in two-sided format. No vertical rules, law firm marginal return addresses, or punched holes will be accepted. The papers need not be stapled; a binder clip or rubber bands are adequate to secure them in order.

Papers shall be prepared using at least 12 point type so as to produce a clear, black image. Documents shall be set either in nonproportional type or in proportional type, defined as follows: Nonproportional type is defined as 10-character-per-inch Courier (or an equivalent style of Pica) type that devotes equal horizontal space to each character. Proportional type is defined as any non-italic, non-script font, other than nonproportional type, that is 14-point or larger. Under Appellate Rule 28(j), briefs in nonproportional type are governed by a page limit, and briefs in proportional type are governed by a word-count limit. To allow for binding of documents, a margin of approximately one inch shall be left on all sides of the page. The formatted page should be approximately 6½ inches wide and 9 inches long. Tabs are located at the following distances from the left margin: ½", 1", 1½", 2", 4¼" (center), and 5".

Captions of Documents

All documents to be filed in either appellate court shall be headed by a caption. The caption contains: the number to be assigned the case by the Clerk; the Judicial District from which the case arises; the appellate court to whose attention the document is addressed; the style of the case showing the names of all parties to the action; the county from which the case comes; the indictment or docket numbers of the case below (in records on appeal and in motions and petitions in the cause filed prior to the filing of the record); and the title of the document. The caption shall be placed beginning at the top margin of a cover page and, again, on the first textual page of the document.

(TITLE OF DOCUMENT)

The caption should reflect the title of the action (all parties named) as it appeared in the trial division. The appellant or petitioner is not automatically given topside billing; the relative position of the plaintiff and defendant should be retained.

The caption of a record on appeal and of a notice of appeal from the Trial Division should include directly below the name of the county, the indictment or docket numbers of the case in the trial division. Those numbers, however, should not be included in other documents except for a petition for writ of certiorari or other petitions and motions where no record on appeal has yet been created in the case. In notices of appeal or petitions to the Supreme Court from decisions of the Court of Appeals, the caption should show the court of appeals' docket number in similar fashion.

Immediately below the caption of each document, centered and underlined, in all capital letters, should be the title of the document, e.g., PETITION FOR DISCRETIONARY REVIEW UNDER G.S. 7A-31, or DEFENDANT-APPELLANT'S BRIEF. A brief filed in the Supreme Court in a case previously heard and decided by the Court of Appeals is entitled NEW BRIEF.

Indexes

A brief or petition which is 10 pages or more in length and all Appendixes to briefs (Rule 28) and Records on Appeal (Rule 9) must contain an index to the contents.

The index should be indented approximately ¾″ from each margin, providing a 5-inch line. The form of the index for a record on appeal should be as follows (indexes for briefs are addressed in Appendix E):

Use of the Transcript of Evidence with Record on Appeal

Those portions asterisked (*) in the sample index above would be omitted if the transcript option were selected under Appellate Rule 9(c). In their place in the record, counsel should place a statement in substantially the following form:

"Per Appellate Rule 9(c) the transcript of proceedings in this case, taken by (name), court reporter, from (date) to (date) and consisting of (# of pages) pages, numbered (1) through (last page #), and bound in (# of volumes) volumes is filed contemporaneously with this record."

The transcript should be prepared with a clear, black image on 8½ x 11 paper of 16-20 pound substance. Enough copies should be reproduced to assure the parties of a reference copy, and file one copy in the Appellate Court. In criminal appeals, the District Attorney is responsible for conveying a copy to the Attorney General (App. Rule 9(c)).

The transcript should not be inserted into the record on appeal, but, rather, should be separately bound and submitted for filing in the proper appellate court with the record. Transcript pages inserted into the record on appeal will be treated in the manner of a narration and will be printed at the standard page charge. Counsel should note that the separate transcript will not be reproduced with the record on appeal, but will be treated and used as an exhibit.

Table of Cases and Authorities

Immediately following the index and before the inside caption, all briefs, petitions, and motions greater than five pages in length shall contain a table of cases and authorities. Cases should be arranged alphabetically, followed by constitutional provisions, statutes, regulations, and other textbooks and authorities. The format should be similar to that of the index. Citations should be made according to A Uniform System of Citation (14th ed.).

Format of Body of Document

The body of the document of records on appeal should be single-spaced with double-spaces between paragraphs. The body of the document of petitions, notices of appeal, responses, motions, and briefs should be double-spaced, with captions, headings, and long quotes single-spaced.

Adherence to the margins is important since the document will be reproduced front and back and will be bound on the side. No part of the text should be obscured by that binding.

Quotations of more than three lines in length should be indented ¾ inch from each margin and should be single-spaced. The citation should immediately follow the quote.

References to the record on appeal should be made through a parenthetic entry in the text. (R pp. 38-40) References to the transcript, if used, should be made in similar manner. (T p. 558, line 21)

Topical Headings

The various sections of the brief or petition should be separated (and indexed) by topical headings, centered and underlined, in all capital letters.

Within the argument section, the issues presented should be set out as a heading in all capital letters and in paragraph format from margin to margin. Sub-issues should be presented in similar format, but block indented ½ inch from the left margin.

Numbering Pages

The cover page containing the caption of the document (and the index in Records on Appeal) is unnumbered. The index and table of cases and authorities are on pages numbered with lower case roman numerals, e.g., i, ii, iv.

While the page containing the inside caption and the beginning of the substance of the petition or brief bears no number, it is page 1. Subsequent pages are sequentially numbered by arabic numbers, flanked by dashes, at the center of the top margin of the page, e.g., -4-.

An appendix to the brief should be separately numbered in the manner of a brief.

Signature and Address

All original papers filed in a case will bear the original signature of at least one counsel participating in the case, as in the example below. The name, address, telephone number, and e-mail address of the person signing, together with the capacity in which he signs the paper will be included. Where counsel or the firm is retained, the firm name should be included above the signature; however, if counsel is appointed in an indigent criminal appeal, only the name of the appointed counsel should appear, without identification of any firm affiliation. Counsel participating in argument must have signed the brief in the case prior to that argument.

(Amended October 31, 2001; Amended August 15, 2002; Amended October 7, 2002.)

Type Size. — N.C.R.A.P., Rule 26 requires all type to be "at least 11 point," while Appendix B specifies "10-12 point type." To the extent that Appendix B conflicts with Rule 26, Rule 26 governs and no brief shall be submitted in less than eleven point type Lewis v. Craven Regional Medical Ctr., 122 N.C. App. 143, 468 S.E.2d 269 (1996).

A brief presented in eleven point type will contain no more than three lines of double spaced text in a single, vertical inch, or twenty-seven (27) lines of double-spaced text on a properly formatted 8.5 by 11 inch page. The numbering of the pages, as provided in Appendix B., is not included in the text of the page and shall be centered in the one-inch margin at the top of the page. Lewis v. Craven Regional Medical Ctr., 122 N.C. App. 143, 468 S.E.2d 269 (1996).

Characters Per Inch. — Characters per inch, referred to in some modern word processing systems as "cpi," is not equivalent to point size and defines only the width or "set" size of a character, which includes spaces, punctuation, and letters. N.C.R.A.P., Rule 26 does not speak in terms of characters per inch; however, in order to provide a uniform construction of this rule and prevent unfair advantage to any litigant, it is necessary to provide for a limit on the characters per inch. Ten characters per inch is the standard used in the slip opinions of the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court and the standard we will apply to the briefs filed with the Court of Appeals. Using this standard, a properly formatted 8.5 by 11 inch page will contain no more than 65 characters per line. Lewis v. Craven Regional Medical Ctr., 122 N.C. App. 143, 468 S.E.2d 269 (1996).

Prospective Application of Construction of Rule. — Where the point size in defendants' appellate brief did not comply with N.C.R.A.P., Rule 26, but neither the rule nor the Court of Appeals had previously construed Rule 26, the court would consider the arguments presented in defendants' brief. Rule 26, as construed in this case, will be applied by the Court to briefs, petitions, notices of appeal, responses and motions filed after the date of this opinion. Lewis v. Craven Regional Medical Ctr., 122 N.C. App. 143, 468 S.E.2d 269 (1996).

ASSIGNMENTS OF ERROR

A. Examples related to pre-trial rulings in civil action

Defendant assigns as error:

1. The court's denial of defendant's motion under N.C.R.Civ.P. 12(b)(2) to dismiss for lack of jurisdiction over the person of the defendant on the grounds (that the uncontested affidavits in support of the motion show that no grounds for jurisdiction existed) (or other appropriately stated grounds).

   R., p. 4.

2. The court's denial of defendant's motion under N.C.R.Civ.P. 12(b)(6) to dismiss for failure of the complaint to state a claim upon which relief can be granted, on the ground that the complaint affirmatively shows that the plaintiff's own negligence contributed to any injuries sustained.

   R., p. 7.

3. The court's denial of defendant's motion requiring the plaintiff to submit to physical examination under N.C.R.Civ.P. 35, on the ground that on the record before the court, good cause for the examination was shown.
   T., vol. 1, p. 137, lines 17-20.
4. The court's denial of defendant's motion for summary judgment, on the ground that there was not [no] genuine issue of fact that the statute of limitations had run and defendant was therefore entitled to judgment as a matter of law.
   R., p. 15.

B. Examples related to civil jury trial rulings

Defendant assigns as error the following:

1. The court's admission of the testimony of the witness E.F., on the ground that the testimony was hearsay.
   T., vol. 1, p. 295, line 5, through p. 297, line 12.
   T., vol. 1, p. 299, lines 1-8.
2. The court's denial of the defendant's motion for directed verdict at the conclusion of all the evidence, on the ground that plaintiff's evidence as a matter of law established his contributory negligence.
   R., p. 45.
3. The court's instructions to the jury, R., pp. 50-51, as bracketed, explaining the doctrine of last clear chance, on the ground that the doctrine was not correctly explained.
4. The court's instructions to the jury, R., pp. 53-54, as bracketed, applying the doctrine of sudden emergency to the evidence, on the ground that the evidence referred to by the court did not support application of the doctrine.
5. The court's denial of defendant's motion for a new trial for newly discovered evidence, on the ground that on the uncontested affidavits in support of the motion the court abused its discretion in denying the motion.
   R., p. 80; T., Vol. 3, p. 764, lines 8-23.

C. Examples related to civil non-jury trial

Defendant assigns as error:

1. The court's refusal to enter judgment of dismissal on the merits against plaintiff upon defendant's motion for dismissal made at the conclusion of plaintiff's evidence, on the ground that plaintiff's evidence established as a matter of law that plaintiff's own negligence contributed to the injury.
   R., p. 20.
2. The court's Finding of Fact No. 10, on the ground that there was insufficient evidence to support it.
   R., p. 25.
3. The court's Conclusion of Law No. 3, on the ground that there are findings of fact which support the conclusion that defendant had the last clear chance to avoid the collision alleged.
   R., p. 27. (Amended October 1, 1990; Amended October 31, 2001.)

Editor's note. — A former Table 4, relating to exceptions set out in the record on appeal, was deleted by the amendment of Appendix C, effective July 1, 1989.

TO THE HONORABLE SUPREME COURT OF NORTH CAROLINA:
(Plaintiff) (Defendant) (name of party) hereby appeals to the Supreme Court of North Carolina from the judgment of the Court of Appeals (describe it), which judgment ...

(Constitutional question — G.S. 7A-30(1)) ... directly involves substantial questions arising under the Constitution(s) (of the United States) (and) (or) (of the State of North Carolina) as follows:

(here describe the specific issues, citing Constitutional provisions under which they arise, and showing how such issues were timely raised below and are set out in the record on appeal, e.g.:

"Question 1: Said judgment directly involves a substantial question arising under the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments to the Constitution of the United States and under Article 1, Section 20 of the Constitution of the State of North Carolina, in that it deprives rights secured thereunder to the defendant by overruling defendant's assignment of error to the denial of his Motion to Suppress Evidence Obtained by a Search Warrant, thereby depriving defendant of his Constitutional right to be secure in his person, house, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures and violating constitutional prohibitions against warrants issued without probable cause and warrants not supported by evidence. This constitutional issue was timely raised in the trial tribunal by defendant's Motion to Suppress Evidence Obtained by a Search Warrant made prior to trial of defendant (R pp. 7 through 10). This constitutional issue was determined erroneously by the Court of Appeals.")

In the event the Court finds this constitutional question to be substantial, petitioner intends to present the following issues in his brief for review:

(Here list all issues to be presented in appellant's brief to the Supreme Court, not limited to those which are the basis of the constitutional question claim. An issue may not be briefed if it is not listed in the notice of appeal.)

(dissent — G.S. 7A-30(2)) ... was entered with a dissent by Judge (name), based on the following issue(s):

(Here state the issue or issues which are the basis of the dissenting opinion in the Court of Appeals. Do not state additional issues as with the constitutional question appeal, above. Any additional issues desired to be raised in the Supreme Court where the appeal of right is based solely on a dissenting opinion must be presented by a petition for discretionary review as to the additional issues.)

2. Appeal Entries

The appeal entries are appropriate as a ready means of providing in composite form for the record on appeal:

1) the entry required by App. Rule 9(a) showing appeal duly taken by oral notice under App. Rule 3(b) or 4(a) and

2) the entry required by App. Rule 9(a) showing any judicial extension of time for serving proposed record on appeal under App. Rule 27(c).

These entries of record may also be made separately.

Where appeal is taken by filing and serving written notice after the term of court, a copy of the notice with filing date and proof of service is appropriate as the record entry required.

Such "appeal entries" are appropriately included in the record on appeal following the judgment from which appeal is taken.

The judge's signature, while not technically required, is traditional and serves as authentication of the substance of the entries.

(Defendant) gave due notice of appeal to the (Court of Appeals) (Supreme Court). (Defendant) shall have 10 days in which to order the transcript, or, in the alternative, 35 days in which to serve a proposed record on appeal on the appellee. (Plaintiff) is allowed 21 days thereafter within which to serve objections or a proposed alternative record on appeal.

3. Petition for Discretionary Review Under G.S. 7A-31

To seek review of the opinion and judgment of the Court of Appeals where appellant contends case involves issues of public interest or jurisprudential significance. May also be filed as a separate paper in conjunction with a notice of appeal to the Supreme Court when the appellant considers that such appeal lies of right due to substantial constitutional questions under G.S. 7A-30, but desires to have the Court consider discretionary review should it determine that appeal does not lie of right in the particular case.

TO THE HONORABLE SUPREME COURT OF NORTH CAROLINA:

(Plaintiff) (Defendant), (Name of Party), respectfully petitions the Supreme Court of North Carolina that the Court certify for discretionary review the judgment of the Court of Appeals (describing it) on the basis that (here set out the grounds from G.S. 7A-31 which provide the basis for the petition). In support of this petition, (Plaintiff) (Defendant) shows the following:

Facts

(Here state first the procedural history of the case through the trial division and the Court of Appeals. Then set out factual background necessary for understanding the basis of the petition.)

Reasons Why Certification Should Issue

(Here set out factual and legal argument to justify certification of [the] case for full review. While some substantive argument will certainly be helpful, the focus of the argument in the petition should be to show how the opinion of the Court of Appeals conflicts with prior decisions of the Supreme Court or how the case is one significant to the jurisprudence of the State or one which offers significant public interest. If the Court is persuaded [to] take the case, then the appellant may deal thoroughly with the substantive issues in the new brief.)

Issues to Be Briefed

In the event the Court allows this petition for discretionary review, petitioner intends to present the following issues in his brief for review:

(Here list all issues to be presented in appellant's brief to the Supreme Court, not limited to those which are the basis of the petition. An issue may not be briefed if it is not listed in the petition.)

Respectfully submitted this ____ day of _____ 2_____.

Attorney for (Plaintiff) (Defendant)
(Address and Telephone)

Attached to the petition shall be a certificate of service upon the opposing parties and a clear copy of the opinion of the Court of Appeals in [the] case.

4. Petition for Writ of Certiorari

To seek review 1) of the judgments or orders of trial tribunals in the appropriate appellate court when the right to prosecute an appeal has been lost or where no right to appeal exists; 2) by the Supreme Court of the decisions and orders of the Court of Appeals where no right to appeal or to petition for discretionary review exists or where such right has been lost by failure to take timely action.

TO THE HONORABLE (SUPREME COURT) (COURT OF APPEALS) OF NORTH CAROLINA:

(Plaintiff) (Defendant), (Name of Party), respectfully petitions this Court to issue its writ of certiorari pursuant to Rule 21 of the N.C. Rules of Appellate Procedure to review the (judgment) (order) (decree) of the [Honorable (name), Judge Presiding, (name) County Superior (District) Court] [North Carolina Court of Appeals], dated (date), (here describe the judgment, order, or decree appealed from), and in support of this petition shows the following:

Facts

(Here set out factual background necessary for understanding the basis petition: e.g., failure to perfect appeal by reason of circumstances constituting excusable neglect; nonappealability of right of an interlocutory order, etc.) (If circumstances are that transcript could not be procured from reporter, statement should include estimate of date of availability, and supporting affidavit from the Court Reporter.)

Reasons Why Writ Should Issue

(Here set out factual and legal argument to justify issuance of writ: e.g., reasons why interlocutory order makes it impractical for petitioner to proceed further in trial court; meritorious basis of petitioner's proposed assignments of error; etc.)

Attachments

Attached to this petition for consideration by the Court are certified copies of the (judgment) (order) (decree) sought to be reviewed, and (here list any other certified items from the trial court record and any affidavits attached as pertinent to consideration of the petition.)

Wherefore, petitioner respectfully prays that this Court issue its writ of certiorari to the [Superior Court of (name) County] [North Carolina Court of Appeals] to permit review of the (judgment) (order) (decree) above specified, upon errors [(to be) assigned in the record on appeal constituted in accordance with the Rules of Appellate Procedure] [stated as follows: (here list the errors, as issues, in the manner provided for the petition for discretionary review)]; and that the petitioner have, such other relief as to the Court may seem proper.

Respectfully submitted, this the ____ day of _____, 2_____.

5. Petition for Writ of Supersedeas Under Rule 23 and Motion for Temporary Stay

A writ of supersedeas operates to stay the execution or enforcement of any judgment, order, or other determination of a trial court or of the Court of Appeals in civil cases under Appellate Rule 8 or to stay imprisonment or execution of a sentence of death in criminal cases (other portions of criminal sentences, e.g., fines, are stayed automatically pending an appeal of right).

A motion for temporary stay is appropriate to show good cause for immediate stay of execution on an ex parte basis pending the Court's decision on the Petition for Supersedeas or the substantive petition in the case.

(Caption)

TO THE HONORABLE (COURT OF APPEALS) (SUPREME COURT) OF NORTH CAROLINA:

(Plaintiff) (Defendant), (Name of Party), respectfully petitions this Court to issue its writ of supersedeas to stay (execution) (enforcement) of the (judgment) (order) (decree) of the [Honorable _____, Judge Presiding, (Superior) (District) Court of _____ County] [North Carolina Court of Appeals] dated _____, pending review by this Court of said (judgment) (order) (decree) which (here describe the judgment, order, or decree and its operation if not stayed); and in support of this petition shows the following:

Facts

(Here set out factual background necessary for understanding basis of petition and justifying its filing under Rule 23: e.g. trial judge has vacated the entry upon finding security deposited under G.S. Section _____ inadequate; or that trial judge has refused to stay execution upon motion therefor by petitioner; or that circumstances make it impracticable to apply first to trial judge for stay, etc.; and showing that review of the trial court judgment is being sought by appeal or extraordinary writ.)

Reasons Why Writ Should Issue

(Here set out factual and legal argument for justice of issuing writ: e.g., that security deemed inadequate by trial judge is adequate under the circumstances; that irreparable harm will result to petitioner if he is required to obey decree pending its review; that petitioner has meritorious basis for seeking review, etc.)

Attachments

Attached to this petition for consideration by the court are certified copies of the (judgment) (order) (decree) sought to be stayed and (here list any other certified items from the trial court record and any affidavits deemed necessary to consideration of the petition).

Wherefore, petitioner respectfully prays that this Court issue its writ of supersedeas to the [(Superior) (District) Court of _____ County)] [(North Carolina Court of Appeals)] staying (execution) (enforcement) of its (judgment) (order) (decree) above specified, pending issuance of the mandate to this Court following its review and determination of the (Appeal) (discretionary review) (review by extraordinary writ) (now pending) (the petition for which will be timely filed); and that the petitioner have such other relief as to the Court may seem proper.

Respectfully submitted, this the ____ day of _____, 2_____.

s/_____
Attorney for Petitioner

(Verification by petitioner or counsel.)
(Certificate of Service upon opposing party.)

Rule 23(e) provides that in conjunction with such a petition for supersedeas, either as part of it or separately, the petitioner may move for a temporary stay of execution or enforcement pending the Court's ruling on the petition for supersedeas. The following form is illustrative of such a motion for temporary stay, either included in the main petition as part of it or filed separately.

Motion for Temporary Stay

(Plaintiff) (Defendant) respectfully applies to the Court for an order temporarily staying (execution) (enforcement) of the (judgment) (order) (decree) which is the subject of (this) (the accompanying) petition for writ of supersedeas, such order to be in effect until determination by this Court whether it shall issue its writ. In support of this Application, movant shows that (here set out the legal and factual argument for the issuance of such a temporary stay order; e.g., irreparable harm practically threatened of [if] petitioner must obey decree of trial court during interval before decision by Court whether to issue writ of supersedeas).

Motion for Stay of Execution

In death cases, the Supreme Court uses an order for stay of execution [of] death sentence in lieu of the writ of supersedeas. Counsel should promptly apply for such a stay after the judgment of the Superior Court imposing the death sentence. The stay of execution order will provide that it remains in effect until dissolved. The following form illustrates the contents needed in such a motion.

A brief filed in the Supreme Court in a case decided by the Court of Appeals is captioned a "New Brief" and the position of the filing party before the Supreme Court should be reflected, e.g., DEFENDANT-APPELLEE'S NEW BRIEF (where the State has appealed from the Court of Appeals in a criminal matter).

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

The inside caption is on "page 1" of the brief, followed by the questions presented. The phrasing of the questions presented need not be identical with that set forth in the assignments of error in the Record; however, the brief may not raise additional questions or change the substance of the questions already presented in those documents. The appellee's brief need not restate the questions unless the appellee desires to present additional questions to the Court.

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

I. DID THE TRIAL COURT COMMIT REVERSIBLE ERROR IN DENYING THE DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO SUPPRESS HIS INCULPATORY STATEMENT BECAUSE THAT STATEMENT WAS THE PRODUCT OF AN ILLEGAL DETENTION?

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

If the Questions Presented carry beyond page 1, the Statement of the Case should follow them, separated by the heading. If the Questions Presented do not carry over, the Statement of the Case should begin at the top of page 2 of the brief.

Set forth a concise chronology of the course of the proceedings in the trial court and the route of appeal, including pertinent dates. For example:

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

The defendant, John Q. Public, was convicted of first degree rape at the October 5, 1988, Criminal Session of the Superior Court of Bath County, the Honorable I. M. Wright presiding, and received the mandatory life sentence for the Class B felony. The defendant gave written notice of appeal in open court to the Supreme Court of North Carolina at the time of the entry of judgment on October 8, 1988, the transcript was ordered on October 15, 1988, and was delivered to parties on December 10, 1988.

A motion to extend the time for serving and filing the record on appeal was allowed by the Supreme Court on January 12, 1989. The record was filed and docketed in the Supreme Court on February 25, 1989.

STATEMENT OF THE GROUNDS FOR APPELLATE REVIEW

Set forth the statutory basis for permitting appellate review. For example, in an appeal from a final judgment to the Court of Appeals, the appellant might state that the ground for appellate review is a final judgment of the superior court under G.S. 7A-27(b). If the appeal is based on N.C.R. Civ. P. 54(b), the appellant must also state that there has been a final judgment as to one or more but fewer than all of the claims or parties and that there has been a certification by the trial court that there is no just reason for delay. If the appeal is from an interlocutory order or determination based on a substantial right, the appellant must present, in addition to the statutory authorization, facts and argument showing the substantial right that will be lost, prejudiced, or less than adequately protected absent immediate appellate review.

STATEMENT OF THE FACTS

The facts constitute the basis of the dispute or criminal charges and the procedural mechanics of the case if they are significant to the questions presented. The facts should be stated objectively and concisely and should be limited to those which are relevant to the issue or issues presented.

Do not include verbatim portions of the record or other matters of an evidentiary nature in the statement of the facts. Summaries and record or transcript citations should be used. No appendix should be compiled simply to support the statement of the facts.

The appellee's brief need contain no statement of the case or facts if there is no dispute. The appellee may state additional facts where deemed necessary, or, if there is a dispute of the facts, may restate the facts as they objectively appear from the appellee's viewpoint.

ARGUMENT

Each question will be set forth in upper case type as the party's contention, followed by the assignments of error pertinent to the question, identified by their numbers and by the pages in the printed record on appeal or in the transcript at which they appear, and separate arguments pertaining to and supporting that contention, e.g.,

I. THE TRIAL COURT COMMITTED REVERSIBLE ERROR IN DENYING THE DEFENDANT'S MOTION TO SUPPRESS HIS INCULPATORY STATEMENT BECAUSE THAT STATEMENT WAS THE PRODUCT OF AN ILLEGAL DETENTION.

ASSIGNMENT OF ERROR NO. 2
(T p. 45, lines 20-23)

Parties should feel free to summarize, quote from, or cite to the record or transcript during the presentation of argument. If the transcript option is selected under Appellate Rule 9(c), the Appendix to the Brief becomes a consideration, as described in Appellate Rule 28 and below.

Where statutory or regulatory materials are cited, the relevant portions should be quoted in the body of the argument or placed in the appendix to the brief. Rule 28(d)(1)c.

CONCLUSION

State briefly and clearly the specific objective or relief sought in the appeal. It is not necessary to restate the party's contentions, since they are presented both in the index and as headings to the individual arguments.

SIGNATURE AND CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

Following the conclusion, the brief must be dated and signed, with the attorney's mailing address and telephone number, all indented to the center of the page.

The Certificate of Service is then shown with centered, upper case heading. The certificate itself, describing the manner of service upon the opposing party with the complete mailing address of the party or attorney served is followed by the date and the signature of the person certifying the service.

APPENDIX TO THE BRIEF UNDER THE TRANSCRIPT OPTION

Appellate Rules 9(c) and 28 require additional steps to be taken in the brief to point the Court to appropriate excerpts of the transcript considered essential to the understanding of the arguments presented.

Counsel is encouraged to cite, narrate, and quote freely within the body of the brief. However, if because of length a verbatim quotation is not included in the body of the brief, that portion of the transcript and others like it shall be gathered into an appendix to the brief which is situated at the end of the brief, following all signatures and certificates. Counsel should not compile the entire transcript into an appendix to support issues involving directed verdict, sufficiency of evidence, or the like.

The appendix should be prepared so as to be clear and readable, distinctly showing the transcript page or pages from which each passage is drawn. Counsel may reproduce transcript pages themselves, clearly indicating those portions to which attention is directed.

The appendix should include a table of contents, showing the pertinent contents of the appendix, the transcript or appendix page reference and a reference back to the page of the brief citing the appendix.

For example:

CONTENTS OF APPENDIX

VOIR DIRE DIRECT EXAMINATION OF JOHN Q. PUBLIC .. 27
(or T pp. 38-45)
VOIR DIRE CROSS-EXAMINATION OF JOHN Q. PUBLIC 35
(or T pp 46-49)

LAW N. ORDER 39
(or T pp. 68-73)
VOIR DIRE CROSS-EXAMINATION OF OFFICER

(or T pp. 74-76)

The appendix will be printed with the brief to which it is appended; however, it will not be retyped, but run as is. Therefore, clarity of image is extremely important.

(Amended October 31, 2001; Amended August 15, 2002.)

Appendix F. Fees and costs.

Fees and costs are provided by order of the Supreme Court and apply to proceedings in either appellate court. There is no fee for filing a motion in a cause; other fees are as follows, and should be submitted with the document to which they pertain, made payable to the Clerk of the appropriate appellate court:

Notice of Appeal, Petition for Discretionary Review, Petition for Writ of Certiorari or other extraordinary writ, Petition for Writ of Supersedeas — docketing fee of $10.00 for each document, i.e.: docketing fees for a notice of appeal and petition for discretionary review filed jointly would be $20.00.

Petitions to rehear require a docketing fee of $20.00. (Petitions to rehear are only entertained in civil cases.)

Certification fee of $10.00 (payable to Clerk, Court of Appeals) where review of a judgment of Court of Appeals is sought in Supreme Court by notice of appeal or by petition.

An appeal bond of $250.00 is required in civil cases per Appellate Rule 6 and 17. The bond should be filed contemporaneously with the record in the Court of Appeals and with the notice of appeal in the Supreme Court. The Bond will not be required in cases brought by petition for discretionary review or certiorari unless and until the Court allows the petition.

Costs for printing documents are $1.75 per printed page. The Appendix to a brief under the Transcript option of Appellate Rules 9(c) and 28 (b) and (c) will be reproduced as is, but billed at the rate of the printing of the brief.

The Clerk of the Court of Appeals requires that a deposit for estimated printing costs accompany the document at filing. The Clerk of the Supreme Court prefers to bill the party for the costs of printing after the fact.

Court costs on appeal total $9.00, plus the cost of copies of the opinion to each party filing a brief, and are imposed when a notice of appeal is withdrawn or dismissed and when the mandate is issued following the opinion in a case.

Photocopying charges are $.20 per page. The facsimile transmission fee for documents sent from the clerk's office, which is in addition to standard photocopying charges, is $5.00 for the first 25 pages and $.20 for each page thereafter. (Amended October 31, 2001.)

Rule 1. Authority.

These rules are promulgated pursuant to the authority contained in G.S. 7A-377, and are effective January 1, 1973.

Rule 2. Organization; Officers; Meetings; Quorum.

The Commission shall have a Chairman, who is the Court of Appeals member, and a Vice-Chairman, who shall be elected by the members. The Vice-Chairman shall preside in the absence of the Chairman. The Commission shall also have a Secretary, who shall be elected by the members and perform such duties as the Commission may assign. The Vice-Chairman and Secretary shall serve for one-year terms, and may succeed themselves.

The Commission shall meet on the call of the Chairman or of any four members.

A quorum for the conduct of business shall consist of any four members, except as otherwise provided in these rules.

Each member of the Commission, including the Chairman, Vice-Chairman, Secretary, or other presiding member, shall be a voting member.

The Commission shall ordinarily meet in Raleigh, but may meet anywhere in the State. The Commission's address is P. O. Box 1122, Raleigh, N.C. 27602.

Rule 3. Interested party.

A judge who is a member of the Commission is disqualified from acting in any case in which he is a respondent, except in his own defense.

CASE NOTES

Convicting Defendants of Traffic Violations with Which They Were Not Charged. — The actions of respondent/judge constituted willful misconduct, were prejudicial to the administration of justice such that they brought the judicial office into disrepute, violated Canons 2A, 3A(1), and 3A(4) of the North Carolina Code of Judicial Conduct, and warranted censure where the respondent knowingly convicted one defendant of careless and reckless driving when he had not been charged with that offense and where respondent took the disposition of a second case outside of the courtroom and convicted that defendant, charged with DWI, of careless and reckless driving. In re a Judge, No. 238 Brown, 351 N.C. 601, 527 S.E.2d 651, 2000 N.C. LEXIS 353 (2000).

Rule 4. Confidentiality of proceedings.

(a) Unless otherwise waived by the justice or judge involved, all papers filed with and proceedings before the Commission, including any preliminary investigation which the Commission may make, are confidential except as provided herein. If the Commission concludes that formal proceedings should be instituted after a preliminary investigation is completed, the notice and complaint filed by the Commission along with the answer and all other pleadings are not confidential. Formal hearings ordered by the Commission are not confidential, and recommendations of the Commission to the Supreme Court along with the record filed in support of such recommendations are not confidential.

(b) At the request of the judge involved or on its own motion in any case in which a complaint filed with the Commission or a Commission proceeding is made public by the complainant, the judge involved, independent sources, or the law, the Commission may issue such statements of clarification and correction as it deems appropriate in the interest of maintaining confidence in the justice system. Such statements may address the status and procedural aspects of the proceeding, the judge's right to a fair hearing in accordance with due process requirements, and any official action or disposition by the Commission, including release of its written notice to the complainant or the judge of such action or disposition.

(c) All written communications to a judge (counsel, guardian, guardian ad litem) which are considered confidential pursuant to these rules shall be enclosed in a securely sealed inner envelope marked "Confidential."

CASE NOTES

Minority Recommendations Not Confidential. — A written minority recommendation filed with the Judicial Standards Commission by one or more of its members is not confidential and should be filed with the State Supreme Court together with the Commission's recommendation. In re Bissell, 333 N.C. 766, 429 S.E.2d 731 (1993).

Rule 5. Defamatory matter.

Testimony and other evidence presented to the Commission is privileged in any action for defamation.

Rule 6. Unfounded or frivolous complaints.

(a) Upon receipt of a written complaint that is obviously unfounded or frivolous, the Commission shall write a short letter of explanation to the complainant. The judge involved shall not be notified of these complaints unless otherwise determined.

(b) A determination that a complaint is unfounded or frivolous may be made by two Commission members one of whom must be a judge or attorney. Such determination may be reconsidered by the full Commission at its next meeting.

Rule 7. Preliminary investigation.

(a) The Commission, upon receiving a written complaint, not obviously unfounded or frivolous, alleging facts indicating that a judge may be guilty of willful misconduct in office, willful and persistent failure to perform his duties, habitual intemperance, conviction of a crime involving moral turpitude, or conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brings the judicial office into disrepute, or alleging that a judge is suffering from a mental or physical incapacity interfering with the performance of his duties, which incapacity is, or is likely to become, permanent, shall make a preliminary investigation to determine whether formal proceedings should be instituted. The Commission may also make a preliminary investigation on its own motion.

(b) The judge shall be notified of the investigation, the nature of the charge, and whether the investigation is on the Commission's own motion or upon written complaint, and afforded a reasonable opportunity to present such relevant matters as he may choose. Such notice shall be in writing, and may be transmitted by a member of the Commission, any person of suitable age and discretion designated by it, or by certified or registered mail.

(c) Once a preliminary investigation has been ordered, if the Commission feels that immediate suspension of the judge involved is necessary for the proper administration of justice, it may recommend to the Chief Justice that the judge be temporarily suspended from performing judicial duties pending final disposition of the inquiry. A copy of the recommendation shall be provided to the judge by certified mail.

If the preliminary investigation does not disclose sufficient cause to warrant further proceedings, the judge shall be so notified, and the case closed.

CASE NOTES

Cited in In re Cornelius, 335 N.C. 198, 436 S.E.2d 836 (1993).

Rule 8. Private admonition.

The Commission may issue a private admonition in any inquiry which discloses conduct by a judge which requires attention but is not of such a nature as would warrant a recommendation of censure or removal; provided, no private admonition may be issued after a formal proceeding has been instituted in accordance with Rule 9. Issuance of a private admonition will not bar proceedings before the Commission in future inquiries concerning similar or other conduct by a judge who receives a private admonition. In the event the Commission intends to refer to or consider, in subsequent proceedings, an inquiry which has been closed with a private admonition, adequate notice of such intentions shall be included in the Rule 9, NOTICE OF FORMAL PROCEEDINGS to the judge.

Rule 9. Notice of formal proceedings.

After the preliminary investigation has been completed, if the Commission concludes that formal proceedings should be instituted, it shall promptly so notify the judge. Such notice shall be entitled "BEFORE THE JUDICIAL STANDARDS COMMISSIONS, Inquiry Concerning a Judge, No....." The notice shall identify the complainant, and shall specify in ordinary and concise language the charge or charges against the judge. The judge shall be advised of the alleged facts upon which such charges are based, and a copy of the verified complaint shall be furnished to the judge, and the notice shall advise the judge of his right to file a written, verified answer to the charges against him within 20 days after service of the notice upon him. The notice shall be served upon the judge by personal service by a member of the Commission, or some person of suitable age and discretion designated by it. If, after reasonable efforts to do so, personal service cannot be effected, service by certified or registered mail is authorized. Notice by mail shall be addressed to the judge at his residence of record.

CASE NOTES

Cited in In re Hayes, 353 N.C. 511, 546 S.E.2d 376, 2001 N.C. LEXIS 532 (2001).

Rule 10. Answer.

(a) Within 20 days after service of the complaint and notice of formal proceedings the judge may file with the Commission an original and 8 copies of an answer, which shall be verified.

(b) The notice, complaint and answer constitute the pleadings. No further pleadings may be filed, and no motions may be filed against any of the pleadings.

CASE NOTES

Cited in In re Martin, 333 N.C. 242, 424 S.E.2d 118 (1993).

Rule 11. Formal hearings.

Upon the filing of an answer, or upon the expiration of the time allowed for its filing, the Commission shall order a formal hearing before it concerning the charges. The hearing shall be held no sooner than 10 days after filing of the answer, or after the deadline for filing of the answer, unless the judge consents to an earlier hearing. The notice shall be served in the same manner as the notice of charges under Rule 9.

At the date set for the formal hearing, the Commission shall proceed whether or not the judge has filed an answer, and whether or not he appears in person or through counsel, but failure of the judge to answer or to appear shall not be taken as evidence of the facts alleged in the charges.

Special counsel (who shall be an attorney) employed by the Commission, or counsel supplied by the Attorney General at the request of the Commission, shall present the evidence in support of the charges.

The hearing shall be recorded by a reporter employed by the Commission for this purpose. (Amended December 12, 1975.)

Rule 12. Witnesses; Oaths; Subpoenas; Compensation.

Witnesses shall take an oath or affirmation to tell the truth. The oath to witnesses may be administered by any member of the Commission.

Subpoenas to witnesses shall be issued in the name of the State, and shall be signed by a member of the Commission. They shall be served, without fee, by any officer authorized to serve process of the General Court of Justice.

Witnesses are entitled to the same compensation and reimbursement for travel expenses as witnesses in a civil case in the General Court of Justice. Vouchers authorizing disbursements for Commission witnesses shall be signed by the Chairman or Secretary of the Commission.

Rule 13. Medical examination.

When the mental or physical health of a judge is in issue, the Commission may request the judge to submit to an examination by a licensed physician or physicians of its choosing. If the judge fails to submit to the examination, the Commission may take his failure into account, unless it has good reason to believe that the judge's failure was due to circumstances beyond his control. The judge shall be furnished a copy of the report of any examination conducted under this rule.

The examining physician or physicians shall receive the fee of an expert witness, to be set by the Commission.

Rule 14. Rights of respondent.

In formal hearings involving his censure, removal, or retirement, a judge shall have the right and opportunity to defend against the charges by introduction of evidence, representation by counsel, and examination and cross-examination of witnesses. He shall also have the right to the issuance of subpoenas for attendance of witnesses to testify or to produce books, papers, and other evidentiary matter.

A copy of the transcript of proceedings prepared for transmission to the Supreme Court shall be furnished to the judge and, if he has objections to it, he may within 10 days present his objections to the Commission, and the Chairman or Vice-Chairman or his designee shall consider his objections and settle the record prior to transmitting it to the Supreme Court.

The judge has the right to have all or any portion of the testimony in the hearings transcribed at his own expense.

Once the judge has informed the Commission that he has counsel, a copy of any notices, pleadings, or other written communications (other than the transcript) sent to the judge shall be furnished to counsel by any reliable means. (Amended December 12, 1975; January 27, 1978.)

Rule 15. Evidence.

At a formal hearing before the Commission, legal evidence only shall be received, and oral evidence shall be taken only on oath or affirmation.

Rulings on evidentiary matters shall be made by the Chairman, or the Vice-Chairman presiding in his absence. (Amended December 12, 1975.)

Rule 16. Amendments to notice or answer.

The Commission, at any time prior to its recommendation, may allow or require amendments to the notice of formal proceedings, and may allow amendments to the answer. The notice may be amended to conform to proof or to set forth additional facts, whether occurring before or after the commencement of the hearings. In case such an amendment is made, the judge shall be given reasonable time both to answer the amendment and to prepare and present his defense against the matters charged thereby.

Rule 17. Commission voting.

The affirmative vote of at least five members of the Commission is necessary to recommend to the Supreme Court censure or removal of a judge. A vote of four (a quorum) is necessary for any other official action, except as specified in Rule 6 for disposing of unfounded or frivolous complaints.

Rule 18. Contempt.

The Commission has the same power as a trial court of the General Court of Justice to punish for contempt, or for refusal to obey lawful orders or process issued by the Commission.

Rule 19. Record of proceedings.

The Commission shall keep a record of all preliminary investigations and formal proceedings concerning a judge. In formal hearings testimony shall be recorded verbatim, and if a recommendation to the Supreme Court for censure or removal is made, a transcript of the evidence and all proceedings therein shall be prepared, and the Commission shall make written findings of fact and conclusions of law in support of its recommendation. (Amended December 12, 1975.)

Rule 20. Transmission of recommendations to Supreme Court.

After reaching a recommendation to censure or remove a judge, when 10 days have expired after the transcript of the proceeding has been transmitted to the Judge and no objection has been filed, or when the record is settled after objection has been made, the Commission shall promptly file with the Clerk of the Supreme Court the transcript of proceedings, and its findings of fact, conclusions of law, and recommendation, certified by the Chairman or Secretary. The Commission shall concurrently transmit to the judge a copy of the transcript (if the judge objected to the original transcript, and settlement proceedings resulting in changes in the transcript were had), its findings, conclusions, and recommendation. (Amended January 27, 1978.)

Rule 21. Proceedings in the Supreme Court.

Proceedings in the Supreme Court shall be as prescribed by Supreme Court Rule. See G.S. 7A-33.

RULES FOR SUPREME COURT REVIEW OF RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE JUDICIAL STANDARDS COMMISSION

Adopted September 25, 1975, with amendments received through September 10, 1997.

Rule
1. Definitions.
2. Petition for hearing.
3. Decision by the court.
4. Reproduction of record and briefs.
5. Costs.

Index follows Rules.

Rule 1. Definitions.

In these rules, unless the context or subject matter otherwise requires:

(a) Commission means the Judicial Standards Commission.

(b) Judge or respondent means a justice or judge of the General Court of Justice who has been recommended for censure or removal under N. C. Gen. Stat. ch. 7A, art. 30 (1974 Supp.).

(c) Court means the Supreme Court of North Carolina. Clerk means the Clerk of the Supreme Court.

(d) Commission's attorney means the attorney who represented the Commission at the hearing which resulted in the recommendation under consideration by the Court.

(e) The masculine gender includes the feminine gender.

(f) Service of a document required to be served means either mailing the document by U.S. certified mail, return receipt requested, to the person to be served or service in the manner provided in Rule 4 of the N.C. Rules of Civil Procedure.

CASE NOTES

Cited in In re Greene, 340 N.C. 251, 456 S.E.2d 516 (1995); In re Martin, 340 N.C. 248, 456 S.E.2d 517 (1995).

Rule 2. Petition for hearing.

(a) Notice to judge. When the Commission, pursuant to its Rule 19, files with the Clerk a recommendation that a judge be censured or removed, the Clerk shall immediately transmit a copy of the recommendation by U.S. certified mail, return receipt requested, to the respondent named therein.

(b) Petition for hearing. The respondent may petition the Court for a hearing upon the Commission's recommendation. The petition shall be signed by the judge or his counsel of record and specify the grounds upon which it is based. It must be filed with the Clerk within 10 days from the date shown on the return receipt as the time the respondent received the copy of the recommendation from the Clerk. At the time the petition is filed it shall be accompanied by a certificate showing service of a copy of the petition upon the Commission's attorney and its chairman or secretary. Upon the filing of his petition, the respondent becomes entitled under G.S. 7A-377 to file a brief and, upon filing a brief, to argue his case to the Court, in person and through counsel.

(c) Failure to file petition. If a respondent fails to file a petition for hearing within the time prescribed, the Court will proceed to consider and act upon the recommendation on the record filed by the Commission. Failure to file a petition waives the right to file a brief and to be heard on oral argument.

(d) Briefs. Within 15 days after filing his petition, the respondent may file his brief with the Clerk. At the time the brief is filed the respondent shall also file a certificate showing service of a copy of the brief upon the Commission's attorney and its chairman or secretary. Within 15 days after the service of such brief upon him, the Commission's attorney may file a reply brief, together with a certificate of service upon the respondent and his attorney of record. The form and content of briefs shall be similar to briefs in appeals to the Court.

(e) Oral argument. After the briefs are filed, and as soon as may be, the Court will set the case for argument on a day certain and notify the parties. Oral arguments shall conform as nearly as possible to the rules applicable to arguments on appeals to the Court. A judge who has filed a brief may, if he desires, waive the oral argument. A judge who has filed a petition but who has not filed a brief will not be heard upon oral argument.

Rule 3. Decision by the court.

After considering the record, and the briefs and oral arguments if any, the Court will act upon the Commission's recommendation as required by G.S. 7A-377. The decision on a recommendation for removal shall be by a written opinion filed and published as any other opinion of the Court. Decision on a recommendation for censure shall be by a written order filed with the Clerk and published in the Advance Sheets and bound volumes of the Supreme Court Reports. (Amended April 14, 1976.)

CASE NOTES

In re Leonard, 339 N.C. 596, 453 S.E.2d 521 (1995).

Respondent/judge was censured under this section where he found defendant who was pleading guilty not guilty of a DWI charge, without hearing sworn testimony or according the State its full right to participate and be heard in the proceedings. In re Tucker, 350 N.C. 649, 516 S.E.2d 593 (1999).

PREAMBLE

An independent and honorable judiciary is indispensable to justice in our society, and to this end and in furtherance thereof, this Code of Judicial Conduct is hereby established. A violation of this Code of Judicial Conduct may be deemed conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brings the judicial office into disrepute, or willful misconduct in office, or otherwise as grounds for disciplinary proceedings pursuant to Article 30 of Chapter 7A of the General Statutes of North Carolina. No other code or proposed code of judicial conduct shall be relied upon in the interpretation and application of this Code of Judicial Conduct. (Amended effective April 2, 2003.)

Canon 1. A judge should uphold the integrity and independence of the judiciary.

A judge should participate in establishing, maintaining, and enforcing, and should himself observe, appropriate standards of conduct to ensure that the integrity and independence of the judiciary shall be preserved. (Amended effective April 2, 2003.)

CASE NOTES

Code Is Guide to Meaning of G.S. 7A-376. — The General Assembly intended the North Carolina Code of Judicial Conduct to be a guide to the meaning of G.S. 7A-376. In re Nowell, 293 N.C. 235, 237 S.E.2d 246 (1977).

A judge willfully abuses the power and prestige of his office by consenting to receive and receiving sums of money not in payment of a legal salary, fee, or perquisite of his office as a district court judge with the corrupt intent and understanding that said sums are to influence his action in the performance of or the omission to perform his duties as an officer of the court and a public official in violation of the laws of the State and his oath of office. In re Hunt, 308 N.C. 328, 302 S.E.2d 235 (1983).

Judge's efforts to prevent the convening of a grand jury for his own benefit would support a charge of common-law obstruction of justice. It also violates Canons 1, 2(A), and 3(A)(4). In re Kivett, 309 N.C. 635, 309 S.E.2d 442 (1983).

Drug Conviction. — Judge's conduct resulting in his entering a plea of guilty to all charges concerning possession of cocaine, marijuana and drug paraphernalia constituted willful misconduct in office and conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brings the judicial office into disrepute, for which he should be removed and be disqualified from holding further judicial office and ineligible for retirement benefits. In re Sherrill, 328 N.C. 719, 403 S.E.2d 255 (1991).

Interference with Divorce Proceedings. — Where, during the course of his divorce proceedings, respondent judge had ex parte contact with another judge in which he questioned the fairness of the judge's decision and attempted to exert pressure on him, resulting in the other judge's withdrawal from respondent's case; where respondent threatened members of the staff of the district attorney's office, his ex-wife's attorneys, and other attorneys with professional reprisal for their involvement in his case; and where respondent presided over cases in which his attorney or members of his attorney's law firm represented parties while respondent's divorce case was pending, the finding by the Judicial Standards Commission that the respondent be censured for conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brought the judicial office into disrepute was affirmed. In re Hair, 335 N.C. 150, 436 S.E.2d 128 (1993).

Contact with Solicitor on Behalf of Another Who Faced Rape Charges Held Willful Misconduct. — See In re Kivett, 309 N.C. 635, 309 S.E.2d 442 (1983).

Solicitation of Support in Election. — Judge's conduct in soliciting support and votes in an upcoming contested judicial election from attorneys and defendants appearing before the judge violated N.C. Code Jud. Conduct 1, 2A, 3A(1), and 7, and warranted censure of the judge by the North Carolina Supreme Court. In re Stephenson, 354 N.C. 201, 552 S.E.2d 137, 2001 N.C. LEXIS 939 (2001).

Canon 2. A judge should avoid impropriety in all his activities.

A. A judge should respect and comply with the law and should conduct himself at all times in a manner that promotes public confidence in the integrity and impartiality of the judiciary.

B. A judge should not allow his family, social or other relationships to influence his judicial conduct or judgment. He should not lend the prestige of his office to advance the private interest of others; nor should he convey or permit others to convey the impression that they are in a special position to influence him. A judge may, based on personal knowledge, serve as a personal reference or provide a letter of recommendation. He should not testify voluntarily as a character witness.

C. A judge should not hold membership in any organization that practices unlawful discrimination on the basis of race, gender, religion or national origin. (Amended May 25, 1997, effective September 1, 1997; Amended effective April 2, 2003.)

CASE NOTES

Conduct in Conferring Alone with Defendant Concerning Pending Cases Held Violation of This Canon. — See In re Martin, 302 N.C. 299, 275 S.E.2d 412 (1981).

A judge willfully abuses the power and prestige of his office by consenting to receive and receiving sums of money not in payment of a legal salary, fee, or perquisite of his office as a district court judge with the corrupt intent and understanding that said sums are to influence his action in the performance of or the omission to perform his duties as an officer of the court and a public official in violation of the laws of the State and his oath of office. In re Hunt, 308 N.C. 328, 302 S.E.2d 235 (1983).

Judge's efforts to prevent the convening of a grand jury for his own benefit would support a charge of common-law obstruction of justice. It also violates Canons 1, 2(A), and 3(A)(4). In re Kivett, 309 N.C. 635, 309 S.E.2d 442 (1983).

Knowing Erroneous Conviction. — Convicting defendants of reckless driving when they were charged with driving while impaired was an act which respondent judge knew to be improper and ultra vires, or beyond the powers of his office; therefore, respondent's actions constituted conduct in violation of Canons 2A and 3A(1) of the Code of Judicial Conduct. In re Martin, 333 N.C. 242, 424 S.E.2d 118 (1993).

Convicting Defendants of Traffic Violations with Which They Were Not Charged. — The actions of respondent/judge constituted willful misconduct, were prejudicial to the administration of justice such that they brought the judicial office into disrepute, violated Canons 2A, 3A(1), and 3A(4) of the North Carolina Code of Judicial Conduct, and warranted censure where the respondent knowingly convicted one defendant of careless and reckless driving when he had not been charged with that offense and where respondent took the disposition of a second case outside of the courtroom and convicted that defendant, charged with DWI, of careless and reckless driving. In re a Judge, No. 238 Brown, 351 N.C. 601, 527 S.E.2d 651, 2000 N.C. LEXIS 353 (2000).

Derogatory Remarks. — Judge's conduct in making of derogatory remarks in court concerning a group supporting woman in assault on female case and in making statements in traffic case to the effect that he had driven just over the proscribed speed limit himself to impress defendant that speeding in excess of leeway allowed by police was a serious offense, violated Canons 2A and 3A, and was conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brings the judicial office into disrepute in violation of G.S. 7A-376. In re Greene, 328 N.C. 639, 403 S.E.2d 257 (1991).

Directives to Attorney. — Where after judge in criminal case denied attorney's motion to withdraw and after inquiring as to the basis for such withdrawal and attorney's answer that he could not reply because to do so would require him to reveal confidential information in violation of attorney client privilege, judge directed attorney to remain in the courtroom while defendant was sent to another room to be interviewed for first offenders' program and during a recess, judge discussed the matter with an experienced attorney who called the judge's attention to the adverse impact judge's directives would have on the attorney's ability to practice law, and thereafter, despite expressions of concern about the judge's directives, judge again addressed himself to the attorney in open court in front of all those present and stated that the matter had gotten out of hand but that everything he had said earlier regarding his refusal in the future to grant to such attorney recommendations, continuances, indigent appointments, and pleas still applied, actions of the judge constitute conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brings the judicial office into disrepute and violated Canon 2A. In re Bullock, 328 N.C. 712, 403 S.E.2d 264 (1991).

Misled by Counsel. — A judge's actions did not amount to conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brought the judicial office into disrepute, where in dismissing two DUI cases based on defense counsel's ex parte representations without determining if the state consented or wanted to be heard, the judge was acting pursuant to a shorthand disposition practice that had been acquiesced in by the state, and the judge had no reason to suspect that defense counsel had not been authorized to proceed in that manner. In re Inquiry Concerning Judge Tucker, 348 N.C. 677, 501 S.E.2d 67 (1998).

Action Against Attorneys. — Evidence supported the Judicial Standards Commission's conclusions that respondent judge's actions in declaring counsel, who initiated preliminary investigation of her before Judicial Standards Commission, persona non grata constituted conduct in violation of Canons 2A and 3A(3) of the Code of Judicial Conduct and G.S. 7A-376. In re Bissell, 333 N.C. 766, 429 S.E.2d 731 (1993).

Drug Conviction. — Judge's conduct resulting in his entering a plea of guilty to all charges concerning possession of cocaine, marijuana and drug paraphernalia constituted willful misconduct in office and conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brings the judicial office into disrepute, for which he should be removed and be disqualified from holding further judicial office and ineligible for retirement benefits. In re Sherrill, 328 N.C. 719, 403 S.E.2d 255 (1991).

Solicitation of Support in Election. — Judge's conduct in soliciting support and votes in an upcoming contested judicial election from attorneys and defendants appearing before the judge violated N.C. Code Jud. Conduct 1, 2A, 3A(1), and 7, and warranted censure of the judge by the North Carolina Supreme Court. In re Stephenson, 354 N.C. 201, 552 S.E.2d 137, 2001 N.C. LEXIS 939 (2001).

Conduct Held Prejudicial to Administration of Justice. — Former judge's conduct amounted to conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brings the judicial office into disrepute within the meaning of G.S. 7A-376 where he (1) attempted an assignation with a woman convicted of prostitution and on probation and gave the impression that he could assist her with her legal problems, (2) changed verdicts in motor vehicle violation cases upon ex parte communications from defendants without providing the state an opportunity to be heard, (3) made an inappropriate advance toward a woman detective, (4) made improper and potentially embarrassing and humiliating remarks to the victim in a criminal proceeding before the court and the victim's girl friend, and (5) made what could be construed as implied threats to attorneys who were representing clients in cases heard by the respondent or pending before his court. In re Hair, 324 N.C. 324, 377 S.E.2d 749 (1989).

Where respondent took it upon himself to give legal advice and counsel to a former probationary employee with regard to her discharge from employment by the Department of Social Services and undertook in his official capacity to intervene on her behalf, the evidence was sufficient to establish violations of Canons 2A and 2B of the Code of Judicial Conduct and amounted to conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brings the judicial office into disrepute. In re Cornelius, 335 N.C. 198, 436 S.E.2d 836 (1993).

Judge's ex parte meeting with defence counsel regarding a motion for appropriate relief seeking expungement of a prior conviction, and the entry of an order both vacating the conviction and dismissing the case, was prejudicial to the administration of justice. In re Brown, 356 N.C. 278, 570 S.E.2d 102, 2002 N.C. LEXIS 941 (2002).

Willful Misconduct Shown. — Judges may not be disciplined for error of judgment or error of law; however, when judges knowingly act beyond the bounds of their judicial power, their actions amount to willful misconduct which brings the judicial office into disrepute and prejudices the administration of justice. In re Martin, 333 N.C. 242, 424 S.E.2d 118 (1993).

Correction of Errors. — Judge who solicited and accepted a plea of guilty to a charge which was not a lesser included offense of the charged offense, but who then corrected his mistake when the error was called to his attention, was not censured. In re Fuller, 345 N.C. 157, 478 S.E.2d 641 (1996).

Canon 3. A judge should perform the duties of his office impartially and diligently.

The judicial duties of a judge take precedence over all his other activities. His judicial duties include all the duties of his office prescribed by law. In the performance of these duties, the following standards apply:

A. Adjudicative responsibilities.

(1) A judge should be faithful to the law and maintain professional competence in it. He should be unswayed by partisan interests, public clamor, or fear of criticism.

(2) A judge should maintain order and decorum in proceedings before him.

(3) A judge should be patient, dignified, and courteous to litigants, jurors, witnesses, lawyers, and others with whom he deals in his official capacity, and should require similar conduct of lawyers, and of his staff, court officials, and others subject to his direction and control.

(4) A judge should accord to every person who is legally interested in a proceeding, or his lawyer, full right to be heard according to law, and, except as authorized by law, neither initiate nor consider ex parte or other communications concerning a pending or impending proceeding. A judge, however, may obtain the advice of a disinterested expert on the law applicable to a proceeding before him.

(5) A judge should dispose promptly of the business of the court.

(6) A judge should abstain from public comment about the merits of a pending proceeding in any state or federal court dealing with a case or controversy arising in North Carolina or addressing North Carolina law and should encourage similar abstention on the part of court personnel subject to his direction and control. This subsection does not prohibit a judge from making public statements in the course of official duties; from explaining for public information the proceedings of the Court; from addressing or discussing previously issued judicial decisions when serving as faculty or otherwise participating in educational courses or programs; or from addressing educational, religious, charitable, fraternal, political, or civic organizations.

(7) A judge should exercise discretion with regard to permitting broadcasting, televising, recording, or taking photographs in the courtroom and areas immediately adjacent thereto during civil or criminal sessions of court or recesses between sessions, pursuant to the provisions of Rule 15 of the General Rules of Practice for the Superior and District Courts.

B. Administrative responsibilities.

(1) A judge should diligently discharge his administrative responsibilities, maintain professional competence in judicial administration, and facilitate the performance of the administrative responsibilities of other judges and court officials.

(2) A judge should require his staff and court officials subject to his direction and control to observe the standards of fidelity and diligence that apply to him.

(3) A judge should take or initiate appropriate disciplinary measures against a judge or lawyer for unprofessional conduct of which the judge may become aware.

(4) A judge should not make unnecessary appointments. He should exercise his power of appointment only on the basis of merit, avoiding nepotism and favoritism. He should not approve compensation of appointees beyond the fair value of services rendered.

C. Disqualification.

(1) On a motion of any party, a judge should disqualify himself in a proceeding in which his impartiality may reasonably be questioned, including but not limited to instances where:

(a) He has a personal bias or prejudice concerning a party, or personal knowledge of disputed evidentiary facts concerning the proceedings;

(b) He served as lawyer in the matter in controversy, or a lawyer with whom he previously practiced law served during such association as a lawyer concerning the matter, or the judge or such lawyer has been a material witness concerning it;

(c) He knows that he, individually or as a fiduciary, or his spouse or minor child residing in his household, has a financial interest in the subject matter in controversy or in a party to the proceeding, or any other interest that could be substantially affected by the outcome of the proceeding;

(d) He or his spouse, or a person within the third degree of relationship to either of them, or the spouse of such a person:

(i) Is a party to the proceeding, or an officer, director, or trustee of a party;

(ii) Is acting as a lawyer in the proceeding;

(iii) Is known by the judge to have an interest that could be substantially affected by the outcome of the proceeding;

(iv) Is to the judge's knowledge likely to be a material witness in the proceeding.

(2) A judge should inform himself about his personal and fiduciary financial interests, and make a reasonable effort to inform himself about the personal financial interests of his spouse and minor children residing in his household.

(3) For the purposes of this section:

(a) The degree of relationship is calculated according to the civil law system;

(b) "Fiduciary" includes such relationships as executor, administrator, trustee, and guardian;

(c) "Financial interest" means ownership of a substantial legal or equitable interest (i.e., an interest that would be significantly affected in value by the outcome of the subject legal proceeding), or a relationship as director or other active participant in the affairs of a party, except that:

(i) Ownership in a mutual or common investment fund that holds securities is not a "financial interest" in such securities unless the judge participates in the management of the fund;

(ii) An office in an educational, cultural, historical, religious, charitable, fraternal, or civic organization is not a "financial interest" in securities held by the organization.

D. Remittal of disqualification.

Nothing in this Canon shall preclude a judge from disqualifying himself from participating in any proceeding upon his own initiative. Also, a judge potentially disqualified by the terms of Canon 3C may, instead of withdrawing from the proceeding, disclose on the record the basis of his disqualification. If, based on such disclosure, the parties and lawyers, independently of the judge's participation, all agree in writing that the judge's basis for potential disqualification is immaterial or insubstantial, the judge is no longer disqualified, and may participate in the proceeding. The agreement, signed by all lawyers, shall be incorporated in the record of the proceeding. For purposes of this section, pro se parties shall be considered lawyers. (Amended June 13, 1990; Amended May 25, 1997, effective September 1, 1997; Amended effective April 2, 2003.)

Editor's note. — An order adopted Sept. 21, 1982, and effective Oct. 18, 1982, as amended, provided that former versions of this rule and Rule 15 of the General Rules of Practice for the Superior and District Courts, published in 276 N.C. at p. 740, were thereby suspended to and including June 30, 1990, and that electronic media and still photograph coverage of public judicial proceedings in the appellate and trial courts of this State would be allowed on an experimental basis, in accordance with the terms of the order. The amended versions of this rule, set out above, and Rule 15 of the General Rules of Practice for the Superior and District Courts now contain provisions regarding electronic media and still photography coverage of public judicial proceedings.

CASE NOTES

Conduct need not be criminal in order to constitute willful misconduct in office. — In re Kivett, 309 N.C. 635, 309 S.E.2d 442 (1983).

Conduct in Conferring Alone with Defendant Concerning Pending Cases Held Violation of This Canon. — See In re Martin, 302 N.C. 299, 275 S.E.2d 412 (1981).

Judge's efforts to prevent the convening of a grand jury for his own benefit would support a charge of common-law obstruction of justice. It also violates Canons 1, 2(A), and 3(A)(4). In re Kivett, 309 N.C. 635, 309 S.E.2d 442 (1983).

A judge willfully abuses the power and prestige of his office by consenting to receive and receiving sums of money not in payment of a legal salary, fee, or perquisite of his office as a district court judge with the corrupt intent and understanding that said sums are to influence his action in the performance of or the omission to perform his duties as an officer of the court and a public official in violation of the laws of the State and his oath of office. In re Hunt, 308 N.C. 328, 302 S.E.2d 235 (1983).

The failure of a judge to make due inquiry into the facts and law upon which his judgments were based and his execution of them upon a mere ex parte application of counsel for defendants violates this Canon. In re Crutchfield, 289 N.C. 597, 223 S.E.2d 822 (1975).

Conduct Violative of Subdivision A(4). — A judge violated subdivision A(4) of this canon where, in disposing of a traffic case, (a) the plea of guilty was not taken in open court in the presence of the defendant, the assistant district attorney and the prosecuting officer; (b) the plea of guilty was taken without prior notice to the assistant district attorney; (c) the judgments signed by the judge were signed out of the presence of the defendant, assistant district attorney and prosecuting officer; (d) the judgments were signed by the judge when court was not in session and in places where court is not held; and (e) the judgments were signed without prior notice to the assistant district attorney. In re Edens, 290 N.C. 299, 226 S.E.2d 5 (1976).

A criminal prosecution is an adversary proceeding in which the prosecuting attorney and defendant or his counsel are entitled to be present and to be heard. Failure to accord the prosecutor such opportunity violates this Canon. In re Stuhl, 292 N.C. 379, 233 S.E.2d 562 (1977); In re Nowell, 293 N.C. 235, 237 S.E.2d 246 (1977).

Conduct Not Violative of Subdivision A(4). — The trial court did not violate this section by receiving a written communication from the jury, summarizing its content and responding to it in open court. State v. Davis, 353 N.C. 1, 539 S.E.2d 243, 2000 N.C. LEXIS 897 (2000), cert. denied, 534 U.S. 839, 122 S. Ct. 95, 151 L. Ed. 2d 55 (2001).

When Recusal Warranted. — A trial judge should recuse himself or refer the recusal motion to another judge if there is sufficient force in the allegations contained in defendant's motion to proceed to find facts. Savani v. Savani, 102 N.C. App. 496, 403 S.E.2d 900 (1991).

Respondent/judge was censured for violating this section when he found defendant who was pleading guilty not guilty of a DWI charge, without hearing sworn testimony or according the State its full right to participate and be heard in the proceedings. In re Tucker, 350 N.C. 649, 516 S.E.2d 593 (1999).

The test to apply in deciding what is reasonable under subdivision (1) is whether a reasonable man knowing all the circumstances would have doubts about the judge's ability to rule on the motion to recuse in an impartial manner. Savani v. Savani, 102 N.C. App. 496, 403 S.E.2d 900 (1991).

Failure to Disqualify Himself on Motion to Recuse. — The trial judge committed error by not disqualifying himself from considering a motion to recuse himself from hearing the plaintiffs' motion to set aside a judgment on grounds of excusable neglect, since a reasonable man knowing all the circumstances would have had doubts about the judge's ability to rule on the motion to recuse in an impartial manner. McClendon v. Clinard, 38 N.C. App. 353, 247 S.E.2d 783 (1978).

Recusal Not Required. — Judge did not err in denying the motion for recusal in a parental rights termination case where, some eight months earlier, he had conducted a review hearing pursuant to G.S. 7A-657 and had concluded that the three children should remain with Department of Social Services. In re LaRue, 113 N.C. App. 807, 440 S.E.2d 301 (1994).

Judge who issued search warrant did not have to recuse himself from presiding over a suppression hearing which sought to have the warrant declared invalid. State v. Monserrate, 125 N.C. App. 22, 479 S.E.2d 494 (1997).

Trial court did not err in denying a father's motion to recuse the trial judge from a termination of parental rights hearing, as the knowledge of evidentiary facts gained by the trial judge from an earlier proceeding did not require disqualification. In re Faircloth, 153 N.C. App. 565, 571 S.E.2d 65, 2002 N.C. App. LEXIS 1273 (2002).

Knowing Erroneous Conviction. — Convicting defendants of reckless driving when they were charged with driving while impaired was an act which respondent judge knew to be improper and ultra vires, or beyond the powers of his office; therefore, respondent's actions constituted conduct in violation of Canons 2A and 3A(1) of the Code of Judicial Conduct. In re Martin, 333 N.C. 242, 424 S.E.2d 118 (1993).

Convicting Defendants of Traffic Violations with Which They Were Not Charged. — The actions of respondent/judge constituted willful misconduct, were prejudicial to the administration of justice such that they brought the judicial office into disrepute, violated Canons 2A, 3A(1), and 3A(4) of the North Carolina Code of Judicial Conduct, and warranted censure where the respondent knowingly convicted one defendant of careless and reckless driving when he had not been charged with that offense and where respondent took the disposition of a second case outside of the courtroom and convicted that defendant, charged with DWI, of careless and reckless driving. In re a Judge, No. 238 Brown, 351 N.C. 601, 527 S.E.2d 651, 2000 N.C. LEXIS 353 (2000).

Involvement in Divorce Proceedings. — Where, during the course of his divorce proceedings, respondent judge had ex parte contact with another judge in which he questioned the fairness of the judge's decision and attempted to exert pressure on him, resulting in the other judge's withdrawal from respondent's case; where respondent threatened members of the staff of the district attorney's office, his ex-wife's attorneys, and other attorneys with professional reprisal for their involvement in his case; and where respondent presided over cases in which his attorney or members of his attorney's law firm represented parties while respondent's divorce case was pending, the finding by the Judicial Standards Commission that the respondent be censured for conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brought the judicial office into disrepute was affirmed. In re Hair, 335 N.C. 150, 436 S.E.2d 128 (1993).

Actions Toward Counsel. — Evidence supported the Judicial Standards Commission's conclusions that respondent judge's actions in declaring counsel, who initiated preliminary investigation of her before Judicial Standards Commission, persona non grata constituted conduct in violation of Canons 2A and 3A(3) of the Code of Judicial Conduct and G.S. 7A-376. In re Bissell, 333 N.C. 766, 429 S.E.2d 731 (1993).

Prior Sharing of Office Space. — Defendant was not prejudiced by trial judge's prior sharing of office space with counsel for former wife in a child support case, as the primary issue before the judge was the amount of support to be provided. Savani v. Savani, 102 N.C. App. 496, 403 S.E.2d 900 (1991).

Derogatory Remarks. — Judge's conduct in making of derogatory remarks in court concerning a group supporting woman in assault on female case and in making statements in traffic case to the effect that he had driven just over the proscribed speed limit himself to impress defendant that speeding in excess of leeway allowed by police was a serious offense violated Canons 2A and 3A, and was conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brings the judicial office into disrepute in violation of G.S. 7A-376. In re Greene, 328 N.C. 639, 403 S.E.2d 257 (1991).

Conduct Held Prejudicial to the Administration of Justice. — Former judge's conduct amounted to conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brings the judicial office into disrepute within the meaning of G.S. 7A-376 where he (1) attempted an assignation with a woman convicted of prostitution and on probation and gave the impression that he could assist her with her legal problems, (2) changed verdicts in motor vehicle violation cases upon ex parte communications from defendants without providing the state an opportunity to be heard, (3) made an inappropriate advance toward a woman detective, (4) made improper and potentially embarrassing and humiliating remarks to the victim in a criminal proceeding before the court and the victim's girl friend, and (5) made what could be construed as implied threats to attorneys who were representing clients in cases heard by the respondent or pending before his court. Canon 4. A judge may participate in cultural or historical activities or engage in activities concerning the legal, economic, educational, or governmental system, or the administration of justice.

A judge, subject to the proper performance of his judicial duties, may engage in the following quasi-judicial activities, if in doing so he does not cast substantial doubt on his capacity to decide impartially any issue that may come before him:

A. He may speak, write, lecture, teach, participate in cultural or historical activities, or otherwise engage in activities concerning the economic, educational, legal, or governmental system, or the administration of justice.

B. He may appear at a public hearing before an executive or legislative body or official with respect to activities permitted under Canon 4A or other provision of this Code, and he may otherwise consult with an executive or legislative body or official.

C. He may serve as a member, officer, or director of an organization or governmental agency concerning the activities described in Canon 4A, and may participate in its management and investment decisions. He may not actively assist such an organization in raising funds but may be listed as a contributor on a fund-raising invitation. He may make recommendations to public and private fund-granting agencies regarding activities or projects undertaken by such an organization. (Amended effective April 2, 2003.)

Canon 5. A judge should regulate his extra-judicial activities to ensure that they do not prevent him from carrying out his judicial duties.

A. Avocational activities. A judge may write, lecture, teach, and speak on non-legal subjects, and engage in the arts, sports, and other social and recreational activities, if such avocational activities do not substantially interfere with the performance of his judicial duties.

B. Civic and charitable activities. A judge may participate in civic and charitable activities that do not reflect adversely upon his impartiality or interfere with the performance of his judicial duties. A judge may serve as an officer, director, trustee, or non-legal advisor of an educational, religious, charitable, fraternal, or civic organization subject to the following limitations:

(1) A judge should not serve if it is likely that the organization will be engaged in proceedings that would ordinarily come before him.

(2) A judge may be listed as an officer, director or trustee of any cultural, educational, historical, religious, charitable, fraternal or civic organization. He may not actively assist such an organization in raising funds but may be listed as a contributor on a fund-raising invitation.

(3) A judge may serve on the board of directors or board of trustees of such an organization even though the board has the responsibility for approving investment decisions.

C. Financial activities.

(1) A judge should refrain from financial and business dealings that reflect adversely on his impartiality, interfere with the proper performance of his judicial duties, exploit his judicial position or involve him in frequent transactions with lawyers or persons likely to come before the court on which he serves.

(2) Subject to the requirements of subsection (1), a judge may hold and manage his own personal investments or those of his spouse, children, or parents, including real estate investments, and may engage in other remunerative activity not otherwise inconsistent with the provisions of this Code but should not serve as an officer, director or manager of any business.

(3) A judge should manage his investments and other financial interests to minimize the number of cases in which he is disqualified.

(4) Neither a judge nor a member of his family residing in his household should accept a gift from anyone except as follows:

(a) A judge may accept a gift incident to a public testimonial to him; books supplied by publishers on a complimentary basis for official or academic use; or an invitation to the judge and his spouse to attend a bar-related function, a cultural or historical activity, or any event related to the economic, educational, legal, or governmental system, or the administration of justice;

(b) A judge or a member of his family residing in his household may accept ordinary social hospitality; a gift, favor or loan from a friend or relative; a wedding, engagement or other special occasion gift; a loan from a lending institution in its regular course of business on the same terms generally available to persons who are not judges; or a scholarship or fellowship awarded on the same terms applied to other applicants;

(c) Other than as permitted under subsection C.(4)(b) of this Canon, a judge or a member of his family residing in his household may accept any other gift only if the donor is not a party presentlybefore him, and, if its value exceeds $500, the judge reports it in the same manner as he reports compensation in Canon 6C.

(5) For the purposes of this section "member of his family residing in his household" means any relative of a judge by blood or marriage, or a person treated by a judge as a member of his family, who resides in his household.

(6) A judge is not required by this Code to disclose his income, debts or investments, except as provided in this Canon and Canons 3 and 6.

(7) Information acquired by a judge in his judicial capacity should not be used or disclosed by him in financial dealings or for any other purpose not related to his judicial duties.

D. Fiduciary activities. A judge should not serve as the executor, administrator, trustee, guardian or other fiduciary, except for the estate, trust or person of a member of his family, and then only if such service will not interfere with the proper performance of his judicial duties. "Member of his family" includes a spouse, child, grandchild, parent, grandparent or any other relative of the judge by blood or marriage. As a family fiduciary a judge is subject to the following restrictions:

(1) He should not serve if it is likely that as a fiduciary he will be engaged in proceedings that would ordinarily come before him, or if the estate, trust or ward becomes involved in adversarial proceedings in the court on which he serves or one under its appellate jurisdiction.

(2) While acting as a fiduciary a judge is subject to the same restrictions on financial activities that apply to him in his personal capacity.

E. Arbitration. A judge should not act as an arbitrator or mediator. However, an emergency justice or judge of the Appellate Division designated as such pursuant to Article 6 of Chapter 7A of the General Statutes of North Carolina, and an Emergency Judge of the District Court or Superior Court commissioned as such pursuant to Article 8 of Chapter 7A of the General Statutes of North Carolina may serve as an arbitrator or mediator when such service does not conflict with or interfere with the justice's or judge's judicial service in emergency status. A judge of the Appellate Division may participate in any dispute resolution program conducted at the Court of Appeals and authorized by the Supreme Court.

F. Practice of law. A judge should not practice law.

G. Extra-judicial appointments. A judge should not accept appointment to a governmental committee, commission, or other body concerned with issues of fact or policy on matters other than those relating to cultural or historical matters, the economic, educational, legal or governmental system, or the administration of justice. A judge may represent his country, state or locality on ceremonial occasions or in connection with historical, educational or cultural activities. (Amended effective April 2, 2003.)

Canon 6. A judge should regularly file reports of compensation received for quasi-judicial and extra-judicial activities.

A judge may receive compensation, honoraria and reimbursement of expenses for the quasi-judicial and extra-judicial activities permitted by this Code, subject to the following restrictions:

A. Compensation and honoraria. Compensation and honoraria should not exceed a reasonable amount.

B. Expense reimbursement. Expense reimbursement should be limited to the actual cost of travel, food and lodging reasonably incurred by the judge and, where appropriate to the occasion, by his spouse. Any payment in excess of such an amount is compensation.

C. Public reports. A judge shall report the name and nature of any source or activity from which he received more than $2,000 in income during the calendar year for which the report is filed. Any required report shall be made annually and filed as a public document as follows: The members of the Supreme Court shall file such reports with the Clerk of the Supreme Court; the members of the Court of Appeals shall file such reports with the Clerk of the Court of Appeals; and each Superior Court Judge, regular, special, and emergency, and each District Court Judge, shall file such report with the Clerk of the Superior Court of the county in which he resides. For each calendar year, such report shall be filed, absent good cause shown, not later than May 15th of the following year. (Amended December 30, 1974; Amended November 3, 1983; Amended effective April 2, 2003.)

Canon 7. A judge may engage in political activity consistent with his status as a public official.

The provisions of Canon 7 are designed to strike a balance between two important but competing considerations: (1) the need for an impartial and independent judiciary and (2) in light of the continued requirement that judicial candidates run in public elections as mandated by the Constitution and laws of North Carolina, the right of judicial candidates to engage in constitutionally protected political activity. To promote clarity and to avoid potentially unfair application of the provisions of this Code, subsection B of Canon 7 establishes a safe harbor of permissible political conduct.

A. Terminology. For the purposes of this Canon only, the following definitions apply.

(1) A "candidate" is a person actively and publicly seeking election to judicial office. A person becomes a candidate for judicial office as soon as he makes a public declaration of candidacy, declares or files as a candidate with the appropriate election authority, authorizes solicitation or acceptance of contributions or public support, or sends a letter of intent to the chair of the Judicial Standards Commission. The term "candidate" has the same meaning when applied to a judge seeking election to a non-judicial office.

(2) To "solicit" means to directly, knowingly and intentionally make a request, appeal or announcement, public or private, oral or written, whether in person or through the press, radio, television, telephone, Internet, billboard, or distribution and circulation of printed materials, that expressly requests other persons to contribute, give, loan or pledge any money, goods, labor, services or real property interest to a specific individual's efforts to be elected to public office.

(3) To "endorse" means to knowingly and expressly request, appeal or announce publicly, orally or in writing, whether in person or through the press, radio, television, telephone, Internet, billboard or distribution and circulation of printed materials, that other persons should support a specific individual in his efforts to be elected to public office.

B. Permissible political conduct. A judge or a candidate may:

(1) attend, preside over, and speak at any political party gathering, meeting or other convocation, including a fund-raising function for himself, another individual or group of individuals seeking election to office and the judge or candidate may be listed or noted within any publicity relating to such an event, so long as he does not expressly endorse a candidate (other than himself) for a specific office or expressly solicit funds from the audience during the event;

(2) if he is a candidate, endorse any individual seeking election to any office or conduct a joint campaign with and endorse other individuals seeking election to judicial office, including the solicitation of funds for a joint judicial campaign;

(3) identify himself as a member of a political party and make financial contributions to a political party or organization; provided, however, that he may not personally make financial contributions or loans to any individual seeking election to office (other than himself) except as part of a joint judicial campaign as permitted in subsection B(2);

(4) personally solicit campaign funds and request public support from anyone for his own campaign or, alternatively, and in addition thereto, authorize or establish committees of responsible persons to secure and manage the solicitation and expenditure of campaign funds;

(5) become a candidate either in a primary or in a general election for a judicial office provided that he should resign his judicial office prior to becoming a candidate either in a party primary or in a general election for a non-judicial office;

(6) engage in any other constitutionally protected political activity.

C. Prohibited political conduct. A judge or a candidate should not:

(1) solicit funds on behalf of a political party, organization, or an individual (other than himself) seeking election to office, by specifically asking for such contributions in person, by telephone, by electronic media, or by signing a letter, except as permitted under subsection B of this Canon or otherwise within this Code;

(2) endorse a candidate for public office except as permitted under subsection B of this Canon or otherwise within this Code;

(3) intentionally and knowingly misrepresent his identity or qualifications.

D. Political conduct of family members. The spouse or other family member of a judge or a candidate is permitted to engage in political activity. (Amended December 30, 1974; further amended March 16, 1976; further amended May 25, 1997, effective September 1, 1997; further amended February 17, 1998; further amended effective April 2, 2003.)

CASE NOTES

Political Organizations. — The political organizations envisioned by section A(2) of Canon 7 are entities such as the Republican Party, the Wake County Democratic Men's Club, the Democratic Party, the Conservative Party, etc. In re Wright, 313 N.C. 495, 329 S.E.2d 668 (1985).

A campaign committee set up by a candidate to handle the contributions to his campaign is not a "political organization" as referred to by section A(2) of Canon 7, but is, in effect, the alter ego of the candidate. In re Wright, 313 N.C. 495, 329 S.E.2d 668 (1985).

Under section (A)(1) of Canon 7, checks made to a candidate's campaign committee must be treated as contributions to the candidate. In re Wright, 313 N.C. 495, 329 S.E.2d 668 (1985).

Solicitation of Support in Election. — Judge's conduct in soliciting support and votes in an upcoming contested judicial election from attorneys and defendants appearing before the judge violated N.C. Code Jud. Conduct 1, 2A, 3A(1), and 7, and warranted censure of the judge by the North Carolina Supreme Court. In re Stephenson, 354 N.C. 201, 552 S.E.2d 137, 2001 N.C. LEXIS 939 (2001).

Contributions to Political Campaigns. — The clear purpose of section A(1) of Canon 7 is to prevent judges from making contributions to the campaigns of candidates for political office other than judicial candidates or members of the judge's family. In re Wright, 313 N.C. 495, 329 S.E.2d 668 (1985).

Contributions of a district court judge to the United States Senate campaign of former Governor and to the gubernatorial campaign of former Attorney General, by checks payable to the campaign committees of the candidates, violated Canon 7 and constituted conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice that brings the judicial office into disrepute, meriting censure. In re Wright, 313 N.C. 495, 329 S.E.2d 668 (1985).

LIMITATION OF PROCEEDINGS

Disciplinary proceedings to redress alleged violations of Canon 7 of this Code must be commenced within three months of the act or omission allegedly giving rise to the violation. Disciplinary proceedings to redress alleged violations of all other provisions of this Code must be commenced within three years of the act or omission allegedly giving rise to the violation; provided, however, that disciplinary proceedings may be instituted at any time against a judge convicted of a felony during his tenure in judicial office.

SCOPE AND EFFECTIVE DATE OF COMPLIANCE

The provisions of Canon 7 of this Code shall apply to judges and candidates for judicial office. The other provisions of this Code shall become effective as to a judge upon the administration of the judge's oath to the office of judge; provided, however, that it shall be permissible for a newly installed judge to facilitate or assist in the transfer of his prior duties as legal counsel but he may not be compensated therefor. (Amended effective April 2, 2003.)

Index follows Rules.

Rule I. Coverage.

These rules are applicable only to North Carolina District Court, Superior Court, and Court of Appeals Judges and to the Chief Justice and Associate Justices of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, including retired judges and justices qualified as emergency or recalled judges or justices.

Upon leaving judicial service, a judge or justice shall be bound by the rules of the Supreme Court of North Carolina for continuing legal education of members of the Bar.

Continuing legal education hours earned prior to entering judicial service and judicial education hours earned prior to leaving judicial service shall be recognized and accepted on a pro rata basis by the appropriate accrediting and reporting agency.

Rule II. Requirements.

A. Every judge in the trial division shall, within the first year after appointment or election, attend a course of instruction or orientation for new judges provided by the Administrative Office of the Courts. Attendance will be counted as a part of the hours of instruction required for the biennium in which the instruction is received.

B. Each judge and justice of the trial and appellate division shall attend at least thirty (30) hours of instruction in one or more approved continuing legal or judicial education programs in each biennium, effective with the biennium beginning 1 July 1989 and ending 30 June 1991.

C. At least fifteen (15) of the thirty (30) hours required shall be continuing judicial education courses designed especially for judges and attended exclusively or primarily by judges. All Superior Court Judges are expected to attend the scheduled Superior Court Judges Conferences and the programs there presented. All District Court Judges are expected to attend the scheduled District Court Judges Conferences and the programs there presented.

D. Judges participating as teachers, lecturers, discussion leaders, or panelists in an approved continuing judicial or legal education program shall receive five hours credit for each hour of actual presentation time. Presentation of the same material on subsequent occasions shall accrue credit for the actual time of presentation only.

E. Continuing judicial education hours shall be computed by the following formula:

$$\frac{\text{Sum of the Total Minutes of Actual Instruction}}{60} = \text{Total Hours.}$$

The instruction may be in no less than fifteen (15) minute segments. Only actual instruction shall be included in computing the total hours of instruction.

The following shall not be included: introductory remarks, breaks, business meetings, keynote speeches, and speeches in connection with meals.

Except as otherwise provided in this subsection E and the preceding subsection D, computation for credit of continuing legal education courses shall be computed in accordance with Regulation 5 of the Board of Continuing Legal Education of the North Carolina State Bar. (Amended August 15, 2002.)

CASE NOTES

Constitutionality. — The order of the North Carolina Supreme Court establishing the Client Security Fund and requiring annual payments by attorneys to the Fund is an essential corollary to the Court's function, was required for the proper administration of justice, and did not violate the North Carolina Constitution. Beard v. North Carolina State Bar, 320 N.C. 126, 357 S.E.2d 694 (1987).

The availability of prompt postsuspension review, along with a relatively brief suspension period, reduces the weight of the private interest in a suspended attorney's continued use of his or her law license pending the outcome of the postsuspension hearing. In re Lamm, 116 N.C. App. 382, 448 S.E.2d 125 (1994), aff'd, 341 N.C. 196, 458 S.E.2d 921 (1995).

The procedure contained in this rule provides for independent judicial review by a superior court judge, who must determine if the affidavits and petition establish a sufficient showing to justify a suspension and this procedure satisfies the requirements for sufficient process under the Law of the Land Clause of the North Carolina Constitution. In re Lamm, 116 N.C. App. 382, 448 S.E.2d 125 (1994), aff'd 341 N.C. 196, 458 S.E.2d 921 (1995).

SUBCHAPTER 1B. DISCIPLINE AND DISABILITY RULES

SECTION .0100. DISCIPLINE AND DISABILITY OF ATTORNEYS

B.0101. General provisions.

Discipline for misconduct is not intended as punishment for wrongdoing but is for the protection of the public, the courts, and the legal profession. The fact that certain misconduct has remained unchallenged when done by others, or when done at other times, or that it has not been made the subject of earlier disciplinary proceedings, will not be a defense to any charge of misconduct by a member.

B.0102. Procedure for discipline.

(a) The procedure to discipline members of the bar of this state will be in accordance with the provisions hereinafter set forth.

(b) District bars will not conduct separate proceedings to discipline members of the bar but will assist and cooperate with the North Carolina State Bar in reporting and investigating matters of alleged misconduct on the part of its members.

(c) Concurrent Jurisdiction of State Bar and Courts

(1) The Council of the North Carolina State Bar is vested, as an agency of the state, with the control of the discipline, disbarment, and restoration of attorneys practicing law in this state.

(2) The courts of this state have inherent authority to take disciplinary action against attorneys practicing therein, even in relation to matters not pending in the court exercising disciplinary authority.

(3) The authority of the North Carolina State Bar and the courts to discipline attorneys is separate and distinct, the North Carolina State Bar having derived its jurisdiction by legislative act and the courts from the inherent power of the courts themselves.

(4) Neither the North Carolina State Bar nor the courts are authorized or empowered to act for or in the name of the other, and the disciplinary action taken by either entity should be clearly delineated as to the source or basis for the action being taken.

(5) It is the position of the North Carolina State Bar that no trial court has the authority to preempt a North Carolina State Bar disciplinary proceeding with a pending civil or criminal court proceeding involving attorney conduct, or to dismiss a disciplinary proceeding pending before the North Carolina State Bar.

(6) Whenever the North Carolina State Bar learns that a court has initiated an inquiry or proceeding regarding alleged improper or unethical conduct of an attorney, the North Carolina State Bar may defer to the court and stay its own proceeding pending completion of the court's inquiry or proceeding. Upon request, the North Carolina State Bar will assist in the court's inquiry or proceeding.

(7) If the North Carolina State Bar finds probable cause and institutes disciplinary proceedings against an attorney for conduct which subsequently becomes an issue in a criminal or civil proceeding, the court may, in its discretion, defer its inquiry pending the completion of the North Carolina State Bar's proceedings.

(8) Upon the filing of a complaint by the North Carolina State Bar, the North Carolina State Bar will send a copy of the complaint to the chief resident superior court judge and to all superior court judges regularly assigned to the district in which the attorney maintains his or her law office. The North Carolina State Bar will send a copy of the complaint to the district attorney in the district in which the attorney maintains a law office if the complaint alleges criminal activity by the attorney.

(9) The North Carolina State Bar will encourage judges to contact the North Carolina State Bar to determine the status of any relevant complaints filed against an attorney before the court takes disciplinary action against the attorney.

(b) Upon the direction of the council or the Grievance Committee, the counsel will investigate such conduct of any member as may be specified by the council or Grievance Committee.

(c) The counsel may investigate any matter coming to the attention of the counsel involving alleged misconduct of a member upon receiving authorization from the chairperson of the Grievance Committee. If the counsel receives information that a member has used or is using illicit drugs, the counsel will follow the provisions of Rule .0130 of this subchapter.

(d) The North Carolina State Bar may keep confidential the identity of an attorney or judge who reports alleged misconduct of another attorney pursuant to Rule 1.3 of the Rules of Professional Conduct and who requests to remain anonymous. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the North Carolina State Bar will reveal the identity of a reporting attorney or judge to the respondent attorney where such disclosure is required by law, or by considerations of due process or where identification of the reporting attorney or judge is essential to preparation of the attorney's defense to the grievance and/or a formal disciplinary complaint.

(e) Grievances must be instituted by the filing of a written or oral grievance with the North Carolina State Bar Grievance Committee or a District Bar Grievance Committee within six years from the accrual of the offense, provided that grievances alleging fraud by a lawyer or an offense the discovery of which has been prevented by concealment by the accused lawyer shall not be barred until six years from the accrual of the offense or one year after discovery of the offense by the aggrieved party or by the North Carolina State Bar counsel, whichever is later. Notwithstanding the foregoing, grievances which allege felonious criminal misconduct may be filed with the Grievance Committee at any time.

(f) The counsel may decline to investigate the following allegations:

(i) that a member provided ineffective assistance of counsel in a criminal case, unless a court has granted a motion for appropriate relief based upon the member's conduct;

(ii) that a plea entered in a criminal case was not made voluntarily and knowingly, unless a court granted a motion for appropriate relief based upon the member's conduct;

B.0112. Investigations: Initial determination.

(a) Subject to the policy supervision of the council and the control of the chairperson of the Grievance Committee, the counsel, or other personnel under the authority of the counsel, will investigate the grievance and submit to the chairperson of the Grievance Committee a report detailing the findings of the investigation.

(b) As soon as practicable after the receipt of the initial or any interim report of the counsel concerning any grievance, the chairperson of the Grievance Committee may

(1) treat the report as a final report;

(2) direct the counsel to conduct further investigation, including contacting the respondent in writing or otherwise; or

(3) send a letter of notice to the respondent.

(c) If a letter of notice is sent to the respondent, it will be by certified mail and will direct that a response be made within 15 days of receipt of the letter of notice. Such response will be a full and fair disclosure of all the facts and circumstances pertaining to the alleged misconduct. The counsel will provide the respondent with a copy of the grievance upon request, except where the complainant requests to remain anonymous pursuant to Rule .0111(d) of this subchapter.

(d) The counsel may provide a copy of the respondent's response(s) to the letter of notice to the complaining party unless the respondent objects thereto in writing.

(e) After a response to a letter of notice is received, the counsel may conduct further investigation or terminate the investigation, subject to the control of the chairperson of the Grievance Committee.

(f) For reasonable cause, the chairperson of the Grievance Committee may issue subpoenas to compel the attendance of witnesses, including the respondent, for examination concerning the grievance and may compel the production of books, papers, and other documents or writings deemed necessary or material to the inquiry. Each subpoena will be issued by the chairperson of the Grievance Committee, or by the secretary at the direction of the chairperson. The counsel, deputy counsel, investigator, or any members of the Grievance Committee designated by the chairperson may examine any such witness under oath or otherwise.

(g) As soon as practicable after the receipt of the final report of the counsel or the termination of an investigation, the chairperson will convene the Grievance Committee to consider the grievance, except as otherwise provided in these rules.

(h) The investigation into the conduct of an attorney will not be abated by the failure of the complainant to sign a grievance, settlement, or restitution. The chair of the Grievance Committee may dismiss a grievance upon request of the complainant and with consent of counsel where it appears that there is no probable cause to believe that the respondent has violated the Rules of Professional Conduct.

(i) If at any time prior to a finding of probable cause, the chairperson of the Grievance Committee, upon the recommendation of the counsel or the Grievance Committee, determines that the alleged misconduct is primarily attributable to the respondent's failure to employ sound law office management techniques and procedures, the chairperson of the Grievance Committee may, with the respondent's consent, refer the case to a program of law office management training approved by the State Bar. The respondent will then be required to complete a course of training in law office management prescribed by the chairperson of the Grievance Committee which may include a comprehensive site audit of the respondent's records and procedures as well as continuing legal education seminars. If the respondent successfully completes the rehabilitation program, the Grievance Committee can consider that as a mitigating factor and may, for good cause shown, dismiss the grievance. If the respondent fails to cooperate with the training program's employees or fails to complete the prescribed training, that will be reported to the chairperson of the Grievance Committee and the investigation of the original grievance shall resume.

(j) If at any time before a finding of probable cause, the Grievance Committee determines that the alleged misconduct is primarily attributable to the respondent's substance abuse or mental health problem, the Committee may refer the matter to the Lawyer Assistance Program Board. The respondent must consent to the referral and must waive any right of confidentiality that the respondent might otherwise have had regarding communications with persons acting under the supervision of the Lawyer Assistance Program Board.

If the respondent successfully completes the rehabilitation program, the Grievance Committee can consider that as a mitigating factor and may, for good cause shown, dismiss the grievance. If the respondent fails to complete the rehabilitation program or fails to cooperate with the Lawyer Assistance Program Board, the failure will be reported to the chairperson of the Grievance Committee and the investigation of the grievance will resume.

B.0113. Proceedings before the Grievance Committee.

(a) The Grievance Committee or any of its panels acting as the Grievance Committee with respect to grievances referred to it by the chairperson of the Grievance Committee will determine whether there is probable cause to believe that a respondent is guilty of misconduct justifying disciplinary action. In its discretion, the Grievance Committee or a panel thereof may find probable cause regardless of whether the respondent has been served with a written letter of notice. The respondent may waive the necessity of a finding of probable cause with the consent of the counsel and the chairperson of the Grievance Committee. A decision of a panel of the committee may not be appealed to the Grievance Committee as a whole or to another panel (except as provided in 27 N.C.A.C. 1A, .0701(a)(3)).

Otherwise, a member of the committee, the staff of the North Carolina State Bar, any interpreter, stenographer, operator of a recording device, or any typist who transcribes recorded testimony may disclose matters occurring before the committee only when so directed by the committee or a court of record.

(g) At any preliminary hearing held by the Grievance Committee, a quorum of one-half of the members will be required to conduct any business. Affirmative vote of a majority of members present will be necessary to find that probable cause exists. The chairperson will not be counted for quorum purposes and will be eligible to vote regarding the disposition of any grievance only in case of a tie among the regular voting members.

(h) If probable cause is found and the committee determines that a hearing is necessary, the chairperson will direct the counsel to prepare and file a complaint against the defendant. If the committee finds probable cause but determines that no hearing is necessary, it will direct the counsel to prepare for the chairperson's signature an admonition, reprimand, or censure. If no probable cause is found, the grievance will be dismissed or dismissed with a letter of warning or a letter of caution.

(i) If no probable cause is found but it is determined by the Grievance Committee that the conduct of the respondent is unprofessional or not in accord with accepted professional practice, the committee may issue a letter of caution to the respondent recommending that the respondent be more professional in his or her practice in one or more ways which are to be specifically identified.

(j) Letters of warning

(1) If no probable cause is found but it is determined by the Grievance Committee that the conduct of the respondent is an unintentional, minor, or technical violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct, the committee may issue a letter of warning to the respondent. The letter of warning will advise the respondent that he or she may be subject to discipline if such conduct is continued or repeated. The letter will specify in one or more ways the conduct or practice for which the respondent is being warned. The letter of warning will not constitute discipline of the respondent.

(2) A copy of the letter of warning will be maintained in the office of the counsel for three years. If relevant, a copy of the letter of warning may be offered into evidence in any proceeding filed against the respondent before the commission within three years after the letter of warning is issued to the respondent. In every case filed against the respondent before the commission within three years after the letter of warning is issued to the respondent, the letter of warning may be introduced into evidence as an aggravating factor concerning the issue of what disciplinary sanction should be imposed. A copy of the letter of warning may be disclosed to the Grievance Committee if another grievance is filed against the respondent within three years after the letter of warning is issued to the respondent.

(3) A copy of the letter of warning will be served upon the respondent in person or by certified mail. A respondent who cannot, with due diligence, be served by certified mail or personal service shall be deemed served by the mailing of a copy of the letter of warning to the respondent's last known address on file with the N.C. State Bar. Service shall be deemed complete upon deposit of the letter of warning in a postpaid, properly addressed wrapper in a post office or official depository under the exclusive care and custody of the United States Postal Service. Within 15 days after service the respondent may refuse the letter of warning and request a hearing before the commission to determine whether a violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct has occurred. Such refusal and request will be in writing, addressed to the Grievance Committee, and served on the secretary by certified mail, return receipt requested. The refusal will state that the letter of warning is refused. If a refusal and request are not served within 15 days after service upon the respondent of the letter of warning, the letter of warning will be deemed accepted by the respondent. An extension of time may be granted by the chairperson of the Grievance Committee for good cause shown.

(4) In cases in which the respondent refuses the letter of warning, the counsel will prepare and file a complaint against the respondent for a hearing pursuant to Rule .0114 of this subchapter.

(k) Admonitions and Reprimands

(1) If probable cause is found but it is determined by the Grievance Committee that a complaint and hearing are not warranted, the committee may issue an admonition or reprimand to the defendant, depending upon the seriousness of the violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct. A record of such admonition or reprimand will be maintained in the office of the secretary.

(2) A copy of the admonition or reprimand will be served upon the defendant in person or by certified mail. A defendant who cannot, with due diligence, be served by certified mail or personal service shall be deemed served by the mailing of a copy of the admonition or reprimand to the defendant's last known address on file with the N.C. State Bar. Service shall be deemed complete upon deposit of the admonition or reprimand in a postpaid, properly addressed wrapper in a post office or official depository under the exclusive care and custody of the United States Postal Service.

(3) Within 15 days after service the defendant may refuse the admonition or reprimand and request a hearing before the commission. Such refusal and request will be in writing, addressed to the Grievance Committee, and served upon the secretary by certified mail, return receipt requested. The refusal will state that the admonition or reprimand is refused.

(4) In cases in which the defendant refuses an admonition or reprimand, the counsel will prepare and file a complaint against the defendant pursuant to Rule .0114 of this subchapter. If a refusal and request are not served upon the secretary within 15 days after service upon the defendant of the admonition or reprimand, the admonition or reprimand will be deemed accepted by the defendant. An extension of time may be granted by the chairperson of the Grievance Committee for good cause shown.

(l) Censures

(1) If probable cause is found and the Grievance Committee determines that the defendant has violated one or more provisions of the Rules of Professional Conduct and has caused significant harm or significant potential harm to a client, the administration of justice, the profession, or a member of the public, but the misconduct does not require suspension of the defendant's license, the committee will issue a notice of proposed censure and a proposed censure to the defendant.

(2) A copy of the notice and the proposed censure will be served upon the defendant in person or by certified mail. A defendant who cannot, with due diligence, be served by certified mail or personal service shall be deemed served by the mailing of a copy of the notice and proposed censure to the defendant's last known address on file with the N.C. State Bar. Service shall be deemed complete upon deposit of the Notice and proposed censure in a postpaid, properly addressed wrapper in a post office or official depository under the exclusive care and custody of the United States Postal Service. The defendant must be advised that he or she may accept the censure within 15 days after service upon him or her or a formal complaint will be filed before the commission.

(3) The defendant's acceptance must be in writing, addressed to the Grievance Committee, and served on the secretary by certified mail, return receipt requested. Once the censure is accepted by the defendant, the discipline becomes public and must be filed as provided by Rule .0123(a)(3) of this subchapter.

(4) If the defendant does not accept the censure, the counsel will file a complaint against the defendant pursuant to Rule .0114 of this subchapter.

(m) Formal complaints will be issued in the name of the North Carolina State Bar as plaintiff and signed by the chairperson of the Grievance Committee. Amendments to complaints may be signed by the counsel alone, with the approval of the chairperson of the Grievance Committee.

History Note: Statutory Authority G.S. 84-23; G.S. 84-28, Readopted effective December 8, 1994; Amended effective March 3, 1999; Amended effective February 3, 2000.

B.0114. Formal hearing.

(a) Complaints will be filed with the secretary. The secretary will cause a summons and a copy of the complaint to be served upon the defendant and thereafter a copy of the complaint will be delivered to the chairperson of the commission, informing the chairperson of the date service on the defendant was effected.

(b) Service of complaints and summonses and other documents or papers will be accomplished as set forth in the North Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure.

(c) Complaints in disciplinary actions will allege the charges with sufficient precision to clearly apprise the defendant of the conduct which is the subject of the complaint.

(d) Within 14 days of the receipt of return of service of a complaint by the secretary, the chairperson of the commission will designate a hearing committee from among the commission members. The chairperson will notify the counsel and the defendant of the composition of the hearing committee. Such notice will also contain the time and place determined by the chairperson for the hearing to commence. The commencement of the hearing will be initially scheduled not less than 60 nor more than 90 days from the date of service of the complaint upon the defendant, unless one or more subsequent complaints have been served on the defendant within 90 days from the date of service of the first or a preceding complaint. When one or more subsequent complaints have been served on the defendant within 90 days from the date of service of the first or a preceding complaint, the chairperson of the commission may consolidate the cases for hearing, and the hearing will be initially scheduled not less than 60 nor more than 90 days from the date of service of the last complaint upon the defendant.

(e) Within 20 days after the service of the complaint, unless further time is allowed by the chairperson of the hearing committee upon good cause shown, the defendant will file an answer to the complaint with the secretary and will serve a copy on the counsel.

(f) Failure to file an answer admitting, denying or explaining the complaint or asserting the grounds for failing to do so, within the time limited or extended, will be grounds for entry of the defendant's default and in such case the allegations contained in the complaint will be deemed admitted. The secretary will enter the defendant's default when the fact of default is made to appear by motion of the counsel or otherwise. The counsel may thereupon apply to the hearing committee for a default order imposing discipline, and the hearing committee will thereupon enter an order, make findings of fact and conclusions of law based on the admissions, and order the discipline deemed appropriate. The hearing committee may, in its discretion, hear such additional evidence as it deems necessary prior to entering the order of discipline. For good cause shown, the hearing committee may set aside the secretary's entry of default. After an order imposing discipline has been entered by the hearing committee upon the defendant's default, the hearing committee may set aside the order in accordance with Rule 60(b) of the North Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure.

(g) Discovery will be available to the parties in accordance with the North Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure. Any discovery undertaken must be completed before the date scheduled for commencement of the hearing unless the time for discovery is extended for good cause shown by the chairperson of the hearing committee. The chairperson of the hearing committee may thereupon reset the time for the hearing to commence to accommodate completion of reasonable discovery.

(h) The parties may meet by mutual consent prior to the hearing on the complaint to discuss the possibility of settlement of the case or the stipulation of any issues, facts, or matters of law. Any proposed settlement of the case will be subject to the approval of the hearing committee. If the committee rejects a proposed settlement, another hearing committee must be empaneled to try the case, unless all parties consent to proceed with the original committee. The parties may submit a proposed settlement to a second hearing committee, but the parties shall not have the right to request a third hearing committee if the settlement order is rejected by the second hearing committee. The second hearing committee shall either accept the settlement proposal or hear the disciplinary matter.

(i) At the discretion of the chairperson of the hearing committee, and upon five days' notice to the parties, a conference may be ordered before the date set for commencement of the hearing for the purpose of obtaining admissions or otherwise narrowing the issues presented by the pleadings. Such conference may be held before any member of the committee designated by its chairperson who shall have the power to issue such orders as may be appropriate. At any conference which may be held to expedite the orderly conduct and disposition of any hearing, there may be considered, in addition to any offers of settlement or proposals of adjustment the following:

(1) the simplification of the issues;

(2) the exchange of exhibits proposed to be offered in evidence;

(3) the stipulation of facts not remaining in dispute or the authenticity of documents;

(4) the limitation of the number of witnesses;

(5) the discovery or production of data;

(6) such other matters as may properly be dealt with to aid in expediting the orderly conduct and disposition of the proceeding.

The Chairperson may impose sanctions as set out in Rule 37(b) of the N.C. Rules of Civil Procedure against any party who willfully fails to comply with a prehearing order issued pursuant to this section.

(j) The chairperson of the hearing committee, without consulting the other committee members, may hear and dispose of all pretrial motions except motions the granting of which would result in dismissal of the charges or final judgment for either party. All motions which could result in dismissal of the charges or final judgment for either party will be decided by a majority of the members of the hearing committee. Any pretrial motion may be decided on the basis of the parties' written submissions. Oral argument may be allowed in the discretion of the chairperson of the hearing committee.

(k) The initial hearing date as set by the chairperson in accordance with Rule .0114(d) above may be reset by the chairperson, and said initial hearing or reset hearing may be continued by the chairperson of the hearing committee for good cause shown.

(l) After a hearing has commenced, no continuances other than an adjournment from day to day will be granted, except to await the filing of a controlling decision of an appellate court, by consent of all parties, or where extreme hardship would result in the absence of a continuance.

(m) The defendant will appear in person before the hearing committee at the time and place named by the chairperson. The hearing will be open to the public except that for good cause shown the chairperson of the hearing committee may exclude from the hearing room all persons except the parties, counsel, and those engaged in the hearing. No hearing will be closed to the public over the objection of the defendant. The defendant will, except as otherwise provided by law, be competent and compellable to give evidence for either of the parties. The defendant may be represented by counsel, who will enter an appearance.

(n) Pleadings and proceedings before a hearing committee will conform as nearly as practicable with requirements of the North Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure and for trials of nonjury civil causes in the superior courts except as otherwise provided herein.

(o) Pleadings or other documents in formal proceedings required or permitted to be filed under these rules must be received for filing by the secretary within the time limits, if any, for such filing. The date of receipt by the secretary, and not the date of deposit in the mails, is determinative.

(p) All papers presented to the commission for filing will be on letter size paper (8 1/2 x 11 inches) with the exception of exhibits. The secretary will require a party to refile any paper that does not conform to this size.

(q) When a defendant appears in his or her own behalf in a proceeding, the defendant will file with the secretary, with proof of delivery of a copy to the counsel, an address at which any notice or other written communication required to be served upon the defendant may be sent, if such address differs from that last reported to the secretary by the defendant.

(r) When a defendant is represented by counsel in a proceeding, counsel will file with the secretary, with proof of delivery of a copy to the counsel, a written notice of such appearance which will state his or her name, address and telephone number, the name and address of the defendant on whose behalf he or she appears, and the caption and docket number of the proceeding. Any additional notice or other written communication required to be served on or furnished to a defendant during the pendency of the hearing may be sent to the counsel of record for such defendant at the stated address of the counsel in lieu of transmission to the defendant.

(s) The hearing committee will have the power to subpoena witnesses and compel their attendance, and to compel the production of books, papers, and other documents deemed necessary or material to any hearing. Such process will be issued in the name of the committee by its chairperson, or the chairperson may designate the secretary of the North Carolina State Bar to issue such process. Both parties have the right to invoke the powers of the committee with respect to compulsory process for witnesses and for the production of books, papers, and other writings and documents.

(t) In any hearing admissibility of evidence will be governed by the rules of evidence applicable in the superior court of the state at the time of the hearing. The chairperson of the hearing committee will rule on the admissibility of evidence, subject to the right of any member of the hearing committee to question the ruling. If a member of the hearing committee challenges a ruling relating to admissibility of evidence, the question will be decided by majority vote of the hearing committee.

(u) If the hearing committee finds that the charges of misconduct are not established by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence, it will enter an order dismissing the complaint. If the hearing committee finds that the charges of misconduct are established by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence, the hearing committee will enter an order of discipline. In either instance, the committee will file an order which will include the committee's findings of fact and conclusions of law.

(v) The secretary will ensure that a complete record is made of the evidence received during the course of all hearings before the commission as provided by G.S. 7A-95 for trials in the superior court. The secretary will preserve the record and the pleadings, exhibits, and briefs of the parties.

(w) If the charges of misconduct are established, the hearing committee will then consider any evidence relevant to the discipline to be imposed, including the record of all previous misconduct for which the defendant has been disciplined in this state or any other jurisdiction and any evidence in aggravation or mitigation of the offense.

(1) The hearing committee may consider aggravating factors in imposing discipline in any disciplinary case, including the following factors:

(A) prior disciplinary offenses;

(B) dishonest or selfish motive;

(C) a pattern of misconduct;

(D) multiple offenses;

(E) bad faith obstruction of the disciplinary proceedings by intentionally failing to comply with rules or orders of the disciplinary agency;

(F) submission of false evidence, false statements, or other deceptive practices during the disciplinary process;

(G) refusal to acknowledge wrongful nature of conduct;

(H) vulnerability of victim;

(I) substantial experience in the practice of law;

(J) indifference to making restitution;

(K) issuance of a letter of warning to the defendant within the three years immediately preceding the filing of the complaint.

(2) The hearing committee may consider mitigating factors in imposing discipline in any disciplinary case, including the following factors:

(A) absence of a prior disciplinary record;

(B) absence of a dishonest or selfish motive;

(C) personal or emotional problems;

(D) timely good faith efforts to make restitution or to rectify consequences of misconduct;

(E) full and free disclosure to the hearing committee or cooperative attitude toward proceedings;

(F) inexperience in the practice of law;

(G) character or reputation;

(H) physical or mental disability or impairment;

(I) delay in disciplinary proceedings through no fault of the defendant attorney;

(J) interim rehabilitation;

(K) imposition of other penalties or sanctions;

(L) remorse;

(M) remoteness of prior offenses.

(x) In any case in which a period of suspension is stayed upon compliance by the defendant with conditions, the commission will retain jurisdiction of the matter until all conditions are satisfied. If, during the period the stay is in effect, the counsel receives information tending to show that a condition has been violated, the counsel may, with the consent of the chairperson of the Grievance Committee, file a motion in the cause with the secretary specifying the violation and seeking an order requiring the defendant to show cause why the stay should not be lifted and the suspension activated for violation of the condition. The counsel will also serve a copy of any such motion upon the defendant. The secretary will promptly transmit the motion to the chairperson of the commission who, if he or she enters an order to show cause, will appoint a hearing committee as provided in Rule .0108(a)(2) of this subchapter, appointing the members of the hearing committee that originally heard the matter wherever practicable. The chairperson of the commission will also schedule a time and a place for a hearing and notify the counsel and the defendant of the composition of the hearing committee and the time and place for the hearing. After such a hearing, the hearing committee may enter an order lifting the stay and activating the suspension, or any portion thereof, and taxing the defendant with the costs, if it finds that the North Carolina State Bar has proven, by the greater weight of the evidence, that the defendant has violated a condition. If the hearing committee finds that the North Carolina State Bar has not carried its burden, then it will enter an order continuing the stay. In any event, the hearing committee will include in its order findings of fact and conclusions of law in support of its decision.

(y) All reports and orders of the hearing committee will be signed by the members of the committee, or by the chairperson of the committee on behalf of the committee, and will be filed with the secretary. The copy to the defendant will be served by certified mail, return receipt requested or personal service. A defendant who cannot, with due diligence, be served by certified mail or personal service shall be deemed served by the mailing of a copy of the order to the defendant's last known address on file with the N.C. State Bar. Service by mail shall be deemed complete upon deposit of the report or order enclosed in a postpaid, properly addressed wrapper in a post office or official depository under the exclusive care and custody of the United States Postal Service.

(z) Posttrial Motions

(1) Consent Orders After Trial — At any time after a disciplinary hearing and prior to the execution of the committee's final order pursuant to Rule

.0114(y) above, the committee may, with the consent of the parties, amend its decision regarding the findings of fact, conclusions of law, or the disciplinary sanction imposed.

(2) New Trials and Amendment of Judgments

(A) As provided in Rule .0114(z)(2)(B) below, following a disciplinary hearing before the commission, either party may request a new trial or amendment of the hearing committee's final order, based on any of the grounds set out in Rule 59 of the North Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure.

(B) A motion for a new trial or amendment of judgment will be served, in writing, on the chairperson of the hearing committee which heard the disciplinary case no later than 20 days after service of the final order upon the defendant. Supporting affidavits, if any, and a memorandum setting forth the basis of the motion together with supporting authorities, will be filed with the motion.

(C) The opposing party will have 20 days from service of the motion to file a written response, any reply affidavits, and a memorandum with supporting authorities.

(D) The hearing committee may rule on the motion based on the parties' written submissions or may, in its discretion, permit the parties to present oral argument.

(3) Relief from Judgment or Order

(A) Following a disciplinary proceeding before the commission, either party may file a motion for relief from the final judgment or order, based on any of the grounds set out in Rule 60 of the North Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure.

(B) Motions made under Rule .0114(z)(2)(B) above will be made no later than one year after the effective date of the order from which relief is sought. Motions pursuant to this section will be heard and decided in the same manner as motions submitted pursuant to Rule .0114(z)(2) above.

(4) Effect of Filing Motion — The filing of a motion under Rule .0114(z)(2) above or Rule .0114(z)(3) above will not automatically stay or otherwise affect the effective date of an order of the commission.

CASE NOTES

Whole Record Test. — The standard for judicial review of attorney discipline cases is the "whole record" test. Under the whole record test there must be substantial evidence to support the findings, conclusions and result. The evidence is substantial if, when considered as a whole, it is such that a reasonable person might accept as adequate to support a conclusion. North Carolina State Bar v. Whitted, 82 N.C. App. 531, 347 S.E.2d 60 (1986), aff'd, 319 N.C. 398, 354 S.E.2d 501 (1987).

Clear, Cogent and Convincing Evidence. — The standard of proof in attorney discipline and disbarment proceedings is one of "clear, cogent and convincing" evidence. Clear, cogent and convincing describes an evidentiary standard stricter than a preponderance of the evidence, but less stringent than proof beyond a reasonable doubt. It has been defined as evidence which should fully convince. North Carolina State Bar v. Whitted, 82 N.C. App. 531, 347 S.E.2d 60 (1986), aff'd, 319 N.C. 398, 354 S.E.2d 501 (1987).

Where parties stipulated that defendant failed to file answer to the complaint served on him, and the record reflects that the defendant did not appear in person or through counsel at the hearing, the allegations of the complaint were deemed admitted. North Carolina State Bar v. Combs, 44 N.C. App. 447, 261 S.E.2d 207, cert. denied and appeal dismissed, 299 N.C. 740, 267 S.E.2d 663 (1980).

B.0115. Effect of a finding of guilt in any criminal case.

(a) Any member who has been found guilty of or has tendered and has had accepted a plea of guilty or no contest to a criminal offense showing professional unfitness in any state or federal court, may be suspended from the practice of law as set out in Rule .0115(d) below.

(b) A certificate of a the conviction of an attorney for any crime or a certificate of the judgment entered against an attorney where a plea of nolo contendere or no contest has been accepted by a court will be conclusive evidence of guilt of that crime in any disciplinary proceeding instituted against a member.

(c) Upon the receipt of a certified copy of a jury verdict showing a verdict of guilty, a certificate of the conviction of a member a criminal offense showing professional unfitness, or a certificate of the judgment entered against an attorney where a plea of nolo contendere or no contest has been accepted by a court, the Grievance Committee, at its next meeting following notification of the conviction, may authorize the filing of a complaint if one is not pending. In the hearing on such complaint, the sole issue to be determined will be the extent of the discipline to be imposed. The attorney may be disciplined based upon the conviction without awaiting the outcome of any appeals of the conviction or judgment, unless the attorney has obtained a stay of the disciplinary action as set out in G.S. 84-28(d1). Such a stay shall not prevent the North Carolina State Bar from proceeding with a disciplinary proceeding against the attorney based upon the same underlying facts or events that were the subject of the criminal proceeding.

(d) Upon the receipt of a certificate of conviction of a member of a criminal offense showing professional unfitness, or a certified copy of a plea of guilty or no contest to such an offense, or a certified copy of a jury verdict showing a verdict of guilty to such an offense, the commission chairperson may, in the chairperson's discretion, enter an order suspending the member pending the disposition of the disciplinary proceeding against the member before the commission. The provisions of Rule .0124(c) of this subchapter will apply to the suspension.

(e) Upon the receipt of a certificate of conviction of a member of a criminal offense which does not show professional unfitness, or a certificate of judgment against a member upon a plea of no contest to such an offense, or a certified copy of a jury verdict showing a verdict of guilty to such an offense, the Grievance Committee will take whatever action, including authorizing the filing of a complaint, it may deem appropriate. In a hearing on any such complaint, the sole issue to be determined will be the extent of the discipline to be imposed. The attorney may be disciplined based upon the conviction without awaiting the outcome of any appeals of the conviction or judgment, unless the attorney has obtained a stay of the disciplinary action as set out in G.S. 84-28(d1). Such a stay shall not prevent the North Carolina State Bar from proceeding with a disciplinary proceeding against the attorney based upon the same underlying facts or events that were the subject of the criminal proceeding.

History Note: Statutory Authority G.S. 84-23; G.S. 84-28, Readopted effective December 8, 1994; Amended effective November 7, 1996; Amended effective March 6, 1997; Amended effective December 30, 1998; Amended effective February 3, 2000.

B.0116. Reciprocal discipline & disability proceedings.

(a) All members who have been disciplined in any state or federal court for a violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct in effect in such state or federal court or who have been transferred to disability inactive status or its equivalent by any state or federal court will inform the secretary of such action in writing no later than 30 days after entry of the order of discipline or transfer to disability inactive status. Failure to make the report required in this section may subject the member to professional discipline as set out in Rule 8.3 of the Revised Rules of Professional Conduct.

(b) Except as provided in subsection (c) below which applies to disciplinary proceedings in certain federal courts, reciprocal discipline and disability proceedings will be administered as follows:

(1) Upon receipt of a certified copy of an order demonstrating that a member has been disciplined or transferred to disability inactive status or its equivalent in another jurisdiction, state or federal, the Grievance Committee will forthwith issue a notice directed to the member containing a copy of the order from the other jurisdiction and an order directing that the member inform the committee within 30 days from service of the notice of any claim by the member that the imposition of the identical discipline or an order transferring the member to disability inactive status in this state would be unwarranted and the reasons therefor. This notice is to be served on the member in accordance with the provisions of Rule 4 of the North Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure.

(2) If the discipline or transfer order imposed in the other jurisdiction has been stayed, any reciprocal discipline or transfer to disability inactive status imposed in this state will be deferred until such stay expires.

(3) Upon the expiration of 30 days from service of the notice issued pursuant to the provisions of Rule .0116(b)(1) above, the chairperson of the Grievance Committee will impose the identical discipline or enter an order transferring the member to disability inactive status unless the Grievance Committee concludes

(A) that the procedure was so lacking in notice or opportunity to be heard as to constitute a deprivation of due process; or

(B) there was such an infirmity of proof establishing the misconduct as to give rise to the clear conviction that the Grievance Committee could not, consistent with its duty, accept as final the conclusion on that subject; or

(C) that the imposition of the same discipline would result in grave injustice; or

(D) that the misconduct established warrants substantially different discipline in this state; or

(E) that the reason for the original transfer to disability inactive status no longer exists.

(4) Where the Grievance Committee determines that any of the elements listed in Rule .0116(b)(3) above exist, the committee will dismiss the case or direct that a complaint be filed.

(5) If the elements listed in Rule .0116(b)(3) above are found not to exist, a final adjudication in another jurisdiction that an attorney has been guilty of misconduct or should be transferred to disability inactive status will establish the misconduct or disability for purposes of reciprocal discipline or disability proceedings in this state.

(c) Reciprocal discipline with certain federal courts will be administered as follows:

(1) Upon receipt of a certified copy of an order demonstrating that a member has been disciplined in a United States District Court in North Carolina, in the United States Fourth Circuit Court of Appeals, or in the United States Supreme Court, the chairperson of the Grievance Committee will forthwith issue a notice directed to the member. The notice will contain a copy of the order from the court and an order directing the member to inform the committee within 10 days from service of the notice whether the member will accept reciprocal discipline which is substantially similar to that imposed by the federal court. This notice is to be served on the member in accordance with the provisions of Rule 4 of the North Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure. The member will have 30 days from service of the notice to file a written challenge with the committee on the grounds that the imposition of discipline by the North Carolina State Bar would be unwarranted because the facts found in the federal disciplinary proceeding do not involve conduct which violates the North Carolina Rules of Professional Conduct. If the member notifies the North Carolina State Bar within 10 days after service of the notice that he or she accepts reciprocal discipline which is substantially similar to that imposed by the federal court, substantially similar discipline will be ordered as provided in Rule .0116(c)(2) below and will run concurrently with the discipline ordered by the federal court.

(2) If the member notifies the North Carolina State Bar of his or her acceptance of reciprocal discipline as provided in Rule .0116(c)(1) above the chairperson of the Grievance Committee will execute an order of discipline which is of a type permitted by these rules and which is substantially similar to that ordered by the federal court and will cause said order to be served upon the member.

(3) If the discipline imposed by the federal court has been stayed, any reciprocal discipline imposed by the North Carolina State Bar will be deferred until such stay expires.

(4) Upon the expiration of 30 days from service of the notice issued pursuant to the provisions of Rule .0116(c)(1) above, the chairperson of the Grievance Committee will enter an order of reciprocal discipline imposing substantially similar discipline of a type permitted by these rules to be effective throughout North Carolina unless the member requests a hearing before the Grievance Committee and at such hearing

(A) the member demonstrates that the facts found in the federal disciplinary proceeding did not involve conduct which violates the North Carolina Rules of Professional Conduct, in which event the case will be dismissed; or

(B) the Grievance Committee determines that the discipline imposed by the federal court is not of a type described in Rule .0123(a) of this subchapter and, therefore, cannot be imposed by the North Carolina State Bar, in which event the Grievance Committee may dismiss the case or direct that a complaint be filed in the commission.

(5) All findings of fact in the federal disciplinary proceeding will be binding upon the North Carolina State Bar and the member.

(6) Discipline imposed by any other federal court will be administered as provided in Rule .0116(b) above.

(d) If the member fails to accept reciprocal discipline as provided in Rule .0116(c) above or if a hearing is held before the Grievance Committee under either Rule .0116(b) above or Rule .0116(c) above and the committee orders the imposition of reciprocal discipline, such discipline will run from the date of service of the final order of the chairperson of the Grievance Committee unless the committee expressly provides otherwise.

B.0117. Surrender of license while under investigation.

(a) A member who is the subject of an investigation into allegations of misconduct, but against whom no formal complaint has been filed before the commission may tender his or her license to practice by delivering to the secretary for transmittal to the council an affidavit stating that the member desires to resign and that

(1) the resignation is freely and voluntarily rendered, is not the result of coercion or duress, and the member is fully aware of the implications of submitting the resignation;

(2) the member is aware that there is presently pending an investigation or other proceedings regarding allegations that the member has been guilty of misconduct, the nature of which will specifically be set forth;

(3) the member acknowledges that the material facts upon which the grievance is predicated are true;

(4) the resignation is being submitted because the member knows that if charges were predicated upon the misconduct under investigation, the member could not successfully defend against them.

(b) The council may accept a member's resignation only if the affidavit required under Rule .0117(a) above satisfies the requirements stated therein and the member has provided to the North Carolina State Bar all documents and financial records required to be kept pursuant to the Rules of Professional Conduct and requested by the counsel. If the council accepts a member's resignation, it will enter an order disbarring the member. The order of disbarment is effective on the date the council accepts the member's resignation.

(c) The order disbarring the member and the affidavit required under Rule .0117(a) above are matters of public record.

(d) If a defendant against whom a formal complaint has been filed wishes to consent to disbarment, the defendant may do so by filing an affidavit with the chairperson of the commission. If the chairperson determines that the affidavit meets the requirements set out above, the chairperson will accept the surrender and issue an order of disbarment. The order of disbarment becomes effective 30 days after service of the order upon the defendant. If the affidavit does not meet the requirements set out above, the consent to disbarment will not be accepted and the disciplinary complaint will be heard pursuant to Rule .0114 of this subchapter.

(e) After a member tenders his or her license or consents to disbarment under this section the member may not undertake any new legal matters. The member may complete any legal matters which were pending on the date of the tender of the affidavit or consent to disbarment which can be completed within 30 days. The member has 30 days from the date on which the member tenders the affidavit of surrender or consent to disbarment in which to comply with all of the duties set out in Rule .0124 of this subchapter.

B.0118. Disability hearings.

Where a member of the North Carolina State Bar has been judicially declared incapacitated or mentally ill under the provisions of Chapter 122C of the General Statutes or similar laws of any jurisdiction, the secretary, upon proper proof of the fact, will enter an order transferring the member to disability inactive status effective immediately and for an indefinite period until further order of the commission. A copy of the order will be served upon the member, the member's guardian, or the director of the institution to which the member has been committed.

(b) Disability proceedings initiated by the North Carolina State Bar.

(1) When the North Carolina State Bar obtains evidence that a member has become disabled, the Grievance Committee will conduct a hearing in a manner that will conform as nearly as is possible to the procedures set forth in Rule .0113 of this subchapter. The Grievance Committee will determine whether there is probable cause to believe that the member is disabled within the meaning of Rule .0103(19) of this subchapter. If the committee finds probable cause, a petition alleging disability will be filed in the name of the North Carolina State Bar by the counsel and signed by the chairperson of the Grievance Committee.

(2) Whenever the counsel files a petition alleging the disability of a member, the chairperson of the commission will appoint a hearing committee as provided in Rule .0108(a)(2) of this subchapter to determine whether such member is disabled. The hearing committee will conduct a hearing on the petition in the same manner as a disciplinary proceeding under Rule .0114 of this subchapter. The hearing will be open to the public.

(3) The hearing committee may require the member to undergo psychiatric, physical, or other medical examination or testing by qualified medical experts selected by the hearing committee.

(4) In any proceeding seeking a transfer to disability inactive status under this rule, the North Carolina State Bar will have the burden of proving by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence that the member is disabled within the meaning of Rule .0103(19) of this subchapter.

(5) The hearing committee may appoint an attorney to represent the member in a disability proceeding, if the hearing committee concludes that justice so requires.

(6) If the hearing committee finds that the member is disabled, the committee will enter an order transferring the member to disability inactive status. The order of transfer will become effective immediately. A copy of the order will be served upon the member or the member's guardian or attorney.

(c) Disability proceedings where defendant alleges disability in disciplinary proceeding.

(1) If, during the course of a disciplinary proceeding, the defendant contends that he or she is disabled within the meaning of Rule .0103(19) of this subchapter, the disciplinary proceeding will be stayed pending a determination by the hearing committee whether such disability exists. The defendant will be immediately transferred to disability inactive status pending the conclusion of the disability hearing.

(2) The hearing committee scheduled to hear the disciplinary charges will hold the disability proceeding. The hearing will be conducted pursuant to the procedures outlined in Rule .0118(b)(3) and (5)-(6) above.

(3) The defendant will have the burden of proving by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence that he or she is disabled within the meaning of Rule .0103(19) of this subchapter. If the hearing committee concludes that the defendant is disabled, the disciplinary proceedings will be stayed as long as the defendant remains in disability inactive status.

(4) If the hearing committee determines that the defendant is not disabled, the chairperson of the hearing committee will set a date for resumption of the disciplinary proceeding.

(d) Disability hearings initiated by a hearing committee.

(1) If, during the pendency of a disciplinary proceeding a majority of the members of the hearing committee find reason to believe that the defendant is disabled, the committee will enter an order staying the disciplinary proceeding until the question of disability can be determined by the committee in accordance with the procedures set out in Rules .0118(b)(2)-(6) above. The State Bar will have the burden of proving by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence that the defendant is disabled within the meaning of Rule .0103(19) of this subchapter.

(2) If the hearing committee determines that the defendant is not disabled, the chairperson of the hearing committee will set a date for resumption of the disciplinary proceeding.

(3) If the hearing committee determines that the defendant is disabled, the disciplinary proceeding will be stayed as long as the defendant remains in disability inactive status. If the defendant is returned to active status by the commission, the disciplinary proceeding will be rescheduled by the chairperson of the commission.

(e) Fees and costs.

The hearing committee may direct the member to pay the costs of the disability proceeding, including the cost of any medical examination and the fees of any attorney appointed to represent the member.

(f) Preservation of evidence.

In any case in which disciplinary proceedings against a defendant have been stayed by reason of the defendant's disability, counsel may continue to investigate allegations of misconduct and may seek orders from the chairperson of the commission to preserve evidence of any alleged professional misconduct by the disabled defendant, including orders which permit the taking of depositions. The chairperson may order appointment of counsel to represent the disabled defendant when necessary to protect the interests of the disabled defendant.

(g) A member of the North Carolina State Bar may be transferred to disability inactive status with the consent of the member, the counsel and the Chairperson of the Grievance committee.

B.0119. Enforcement of powers.

In addition to the other powers contained herein, in proceedings before any committee or subcommittee of the Grievance Committee or the commission, if any person refuses to respond to a subpoena, refuses to take the oath or affirmation as a witness or thereafter refuses to be examined, refuses to obey any order in aid of discovery, or refuses to obey any lawful order of the committee contained in its decision rendered after hearing, the counsel or secretary may apply to the appropriate court for an order directing that person to comply by taking the requisite action.

B.0120. Notice to member of action and dismissal.

In every disciplinary case wherein the respondent has received a letter of notice and the grievance has been dismissed, the respondent will be notified of the dismissal by a letter by the chairperson of the Grievance Committee. The chairperson will have discretion to give similar notice to the respondent in cases wherein a letter of notice has not been issued but the chairperson deems such notice to be appropriate.

History Note: Statutory Authority G.S. 84-23, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994.

B.0121. Notice to complainant.

(a) If the Grievance Committee finds probable cause and imposes discipline, the chairperson of the Grievance Committee will notify the complainant of the action of the committee.

(b) If the Grievance Committee finds probable cause and refers the matter to the commission, the chairperson of the Grievance Committee will advise the complainant that the grievance has been received and considered and has been referred to the commission for hearing.

(c) If the Grievance Committee finds that there is no probable cause to believe that misconduct occurred and votes to dismiss a grievance, the chairperson of the Grievance Committee will advise the complainant that the committee did not find probable cause to justify imposing discipline and dismissed the grievance.

(d) If final action on a grievance is taken by the Grievance Committee in the form of a letter of caution or a letter of warning, the chairperson of the Grievance Committee will so advise the complainant. The communication to the complainant will explain that the letter of caution or letter of warning is not a form of discipline.

(e) If a grievance is referred to the Board of Continuing Legal Education, the chairperson of the Grievance Committee will advise the complainant of that fact and the reason for the referral. If the respondent successfully completes the prescribed training and the grievance is dismissed, the chairperson of the Grievance Committee will advise the complainant. (a) Whenever a member of the North Carolina State Bar has been transferred to disability inactive status, disappears, or dies and no partner or other member of the North Carolina State Bar capable of protecting the interests of the attorney's clients is known to exist, the senior resident judge of the superior court in the district of the member's most recent address on file with the North Carolina State Bar, if it is in this state, will be requested by the secretary to appoint an attorney or attorneys to inventory the files of the member and to take action to protect the interests of the member and his or her clients.

(b) Any member so appointed will not be permitted to disclose any information contained in any files inventoried without the consent of the client to whom such files relate except as necessary to carry out the order of the court which appointed the attorney to make such inventory.

B.0123. Imposition of discipline; Findings of incapacity or disability; Notice to courts.

(a) Upon the final determination of a disciplinary proceeding wherein discipline is imposed, one of the following actions will be taken—

(1) Admonition. An admonition will be prepared by the chairperson of the Grievance Committee or the chairperson of the hearing committee depending upon the agency ordering the admonition. The admonition will be served upon the defendant. The admonition will not be recorded in the judgment docket of the North Carolina State Bar. Where the admonition is imposed by the Grievance Committee, the complainant will be notified that the defendant has been admonished, but will not be entitled to a copy of the admonition. An order of admonition imposed by the commission will be a public document.

(2) Reprimand. The chairperson of the Grievance Committee or chairperson of the hearing committee depending upon the body ordering the discipline, will file an order of reprimand with the secretary, who will record the order on the judgment docket of the North Carolina State Bar and will forward a copy to the complainant.

Notice of the censure will be given to the complainant and to the courts in the same manner as orders of censures imposed by the commission.

(b) Upon the final determination of incapacity or disability, the chairperson of the hearing committee or the secretary, depending upon the agency entering the order, will file with the secretary a copy of the order transferring the member to disability inactive status. The secretary will cause a certified copy of the order to be entered upon the judgment docket of the superior court of the county of the disabled member's last address on file with the North Carolina State Bar and of any county where the disabled member maintains an office and will forward a copy of the order to the courts referred to in Rule .0123(a)(3) above.

History Note: Statutory Authority G.S. 84-23; G.S. 84-32(a), Readopted effective December 8, 1994; Amended effective November 7, 1996.

B.0124. Obligations of disbarred or suspended attorneys.

(a) A disbarred or suspended member of the North Carolina State Bar will promptly notify by certified mail, return receipt requested, all clients being represented in pending matters of the disbarment or suspension, the reasons for the disbarment or suspension, and consequent inability of the member to act as an attorney after the effective date of disbarment or suspension and will advise such clients to seek legal advice elsewhere. The written notice must be received by the client before a disbarred or suspended attorney enters into any agreement with or on behalf of any client to settle, compromise or resolve any claim, dispute or lawsuit of the client. The disbarred or suspended attorney will take reasonable steps to avoid foreseeable prejudice to the rights of his or her clients, including promptly delivering all file materials and property to which the clients are entitled to the clients or the clients' substituted attorney. No disbarred or suspended attorney will transfer active client files containing confidential information or property to another attorney, nor may another attorney receive such files or property, without prior written permission from the client.

(b) The disbarred or suspended member will withdraw from all pending administrative or litigation matters before the effective date of the suspension or disbarment and will follow all applicable laws and disciplinary rules regarding the manner of withdrawal.

(c) In cases not governed by Rule .0117 of this subchapter, orders imposing suspension or disbarment will be effective 30 days after being served upon the defendant. In such cases, after entry of the disbarment or suspension order, the disbarred or suspended attorney will not accept any new retainer or engage as attorney for another in any new case or legal matter of any nature. However, between the entry date of the order and its effective date, the member may complete, on behalf of any client, matters which were pending on the entry date and which can be completed before the effective date of the order.

(d) Within 10 days after the effective date of the disbarment or suspension order, the disbarred or suspended attorney will file with the secretary an affidavit showing that he or she has fully complied with the provisions of the order, with the provisions of this section, and with the provisions of all other state, federal, and administrative jurisdictions to which he or she is admitted to practice. The affidavit will also set forth the residence or other address of the disbarred or suspended member to which communications may thereafter be directed.

(e) The disbarred or suspended member will keep and maintain records of the various steps taken under this section so that, upon any subsequent proceeding, proof of compliance with this section and with the disbarment or suspension order will be available. Proof of compliance with this section will be a condition precedent to consideration of any petition for reinstatement.

(f) A suspended or disbarred attorney who fails to comply with Rules .0124(a)-(e) above may be subject to an action for contempt instituted by the appropriate authority. Failure to comply with the requirements of Rule .0124(a) above will be grounds for appointment of counsel pursuant to Rule .0122 of this subchapter.

History Note: Statutory Authority G.S. 84-23, Readopted effective December 8, 1994; Amended effective March 6, 1997.

B.0125. Reinstatement.

(a) After disbarment

(1) No person who has been disbarred may have his or her license restored but upon order of the council after the filing of a verified petition for reinstatement and the holding of a hearing before a hearing committee as provided herein. No such hearing will commence until security for the costs of such hearing has been deposited with the secretary in an amount not to exceed $500.00.

(2) No disbarred attorney may petition for reinstatement until the expiration of at least five years from the effective date of the disbarment.

(3) The petitioner will have the burden of proving by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence that

(A) not more than six months or less than 60 days before filing the petition for reinstatement, a notice of intent to seek reinstatement has been published by the petitioner in an official publication of the North Carolina State Bar. The notice will inform members of the Bar about the application for reinstatement and will request that all interested individuals file notice of their opposition or concurrence with the secretary within 60 days after the date of publication;

(B) not more than six months or less than 60 days before filing the petition for reinstatement, the petitioner has notified the complainant(s) in the disciplinary proceeding which led to the lawyer's disbarment of the notice of intent to seek reinstatement. The notice will specify that each complainant has 60 days from the date of publication in which to raise objections or support the lawyer's petition;

(C) the petitioner has reformed and presently possesses the moral qualifications required for admission to practice law in this state taking into account the gravity of the misconduct which resulted in the order of disbarment;

(D) permitting the petitioner to resume the practice of law within the state will not be detrimental to the integrity and standing of the bar, to the administration of justice, or to the public interest, taking into account the gravity of the misconduct which resulted in the order of disbarment;

(E) the petitioner's citizenship has been restored if the petitioner has been convicted of or sentenced for the commission of a felony;

(F) the petitioner has complied with Rule .0124 of this subchapter;

(G) the petitioner has complied with all applicable orders of the commission and the council;

(H) the petitioner has complied with the orders and judgments of any court relating to the matters resulting in the disbarment;

(I) the petitioner has not engaged in the unauthorized practice of law during the period of disbarment;

(J) the petitioner has not engaged in any conduct during the period of disbarment constituting grounds for discipline under G.S. 84-28(b);

(K) the petitioner understands the current Rules of Professional Conduct. Participation in continuing legal education programs in ethics and professional responsibility for each of the three years preceding the petition date may be considered on the issue of the petitioner's understanding of the Rules of Professional Conduct. Such evidence creates no presumption that the petitioner has met the burden of proof established by this section;

(L) the petitioner has reimbursed the Client Security Fund of the North Carolina State Bar for all sums, including costs other than overhead expenses, disbursed by the Client Security Fund as a result of the petitioner's misconduct. This section shall not be deemed to permit the petitioner to collaterally attack the decision of the Client Security Fund Board of Trustees regarding whether to reimburse losses occasioned by the misconduct of the petitioner. This provision shall apply to petitions for reinstatement submitted by attorneys who were disciplined after the effective date of this amendment;

(M) the petitioner has reimbursed all sums which the Disciplinary Hearing Commission found in the order of disbarment were misappropriated by the petitioner and which have not been reimbursed by the Client Security Fund.

(N) the petitioner paid all dues, Client Security Fund assessments, and late fees owed to the North Carolina State Bar as well as all attendee fees and late penalties due and owing to the Board of Continuing Legal Education at the time of disbarment.

(4) Petitions filed less than seven years after disbarment

(A) If less than seven years have elapsed between the effective date of the disbarment and the filing date of the petition for reinstatement, the petitioner will also have the burden of proving by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence that the petitioner has the competency and learning in the law required to practice law in this state.

(B) Factors which may be considered in deciding the issue of competency include

(i) experience in the practice of law;

(ii) areas of expertise;

(iii) certification of expertise;

(iv) participation in continuing legal education programs in each of the three years immediately preceding the petition date;

(v) certification by three attorneys who are familiar with the petitioner's present knowledge of the law that the petitioner is competent to engage in the practice of law.

(C) The factors listed in Rule .0125(a)(4)(B) above are provided by way of example only. The petitioner's satisfaction of one or all of these factors creates no presumption that the petitioner has met the burden of proof established by this section.

(D) The attainment of a passing grade on a regularly scheduled written bar examination administered by the North Carolina Board of Law Examiners and taken voluntarily by the petitioner shall be conclusive evidence on the issue of the petitioner's competence to practice law.

(5) If seven years or more have elapsed between the effective date of disbarment and the filing of the petition for reinstatement, reinstatement will be conditioned upon the petitioner's attaining a passing grade on a regularly scheduled written bar examination administered by the North Carolina Board of Law Examiners.

(6) Verified petitions for reinstatement of disbarred attorneys will be filed with the secretary. Upon receipt of the petition, the secretary will transmit the petition to the chairperson of the commission and serve a copy on the counsel. The chairperson will within 14 days appoint a hearing committee as provided in Rule .0108(a)(2) of this subchapter and schedule a time and place for a hearing to take place within 60 to 90 days after the filing of the petition with the secretary. The chairperson will notify the counsel and the petitioner of the composition of the hearing committee and the time and place of the hearing, which will be conducted in accordance with the North Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure for nonjury trials insofar as possible and the rules of evidence applicable in superior court.

(7) As soon as possible after the conclusion of the hearing, the hearing committee will file a report containing its findings, conclusions, and recommendations with the secretary.

(8) A petitioner in whose case the hearing committee recommends that reinstatement be denied may file notice of appeal to the council. Appeal from the report of the hearing committee must be taken within 30 days after service of the committee report upon the petitioner and shall be filed with the secretary. If no appeal is timely filed, the recommendation of the hearing committee to deny reinstatement will be deemed final. All cases in which the hearing committee recommends reinstatement of a disbarred attorney's license shall be heard by the council and no notice of appeal need be filed by the N.C. State Bar.

(9) Transcript of Hearing Committee Proceedings. The petitioner will have 60 days following the filing of the notice of appeal in which to produce a transcript of the trial proceedings before the hearing committee. The chairperson of the hearing committee, may, for good cause shown, extend the time to produce the record.

(10) Record to the Council.

(A) Composition of the Record. The petitioner will provide a record of the proceedings before the hearing committee, including a legible copy of the complete transcript, all exhibits introduced into evidence, and all pleadings, motions, and orders, unless the petitioner and counsel agree in writing to shorten the record. The petitioner will provide the proposed record to the counsel not later than 90 days after the hearing before the hearing committee, unless an extension of time is granted by the secretary for good cause shown. Any agreement or order regarding the record will be in writing and will be included in the record transmitted to the council.

(B) Settlement of the Record.

(i) By agreement — at any time following service of the proposed record upon the counsel, the parties may by agreement entered in the record settle the record to the council.

(ii) By counsel's failure to object to the proposed record — within 20 days after service of the proposed record, the counsel may serve a written objection or a proposed alternative record upon the petitioner. If the counsel fails to serve a notice of approval or an objection or a proposed alternative record, the petitioner's proposed record will constitute the record to the council.

(iii) By judicial settlement — If the counsel raises a timely objection to the proposed record or serves a proposed alternative record upon the petitioner, either party may request the chairperson of the hearing committee which heard the reinstatement petition to settle the record. Such request shall be filed in writing with the hearing committee chairperson no later than 15 days after the counsel files an objection or proposed alternative record. Each party shall promptly provide to the chairperson a reference copy of the proposed record, amendments and objections filed by that party in the case. The chairperson of the hearing committee shall settle the record on appeal by order not more than 20 days after service of the request for judicial settlement upon the chairperson. The chairperson may allow oral argument by the parties or may settle the record based upon written submissions by the parties.

(C) The petitioner will transmit a copy of the settled record to each member of the council and to the counsel no later than 30 days before the council meeting at which the petition is to be considered.

(D) The petitioner will bear the costs of transcribing, copying, and transmitting the record to the council.

(E) If the petitioner fails to comply with any of the subsections of Rule .0125(a)(8) above, the counsel may petition the secretary to dismiss the petition.

(11) The council will review the report of the hearing committee and the record and determine whether, and upon what conditions, the petitioner will be reinstated.

(12) No person who has been disbarred and has unsuccessfully petitioned for reinstatement may reapply until the expiration of one year from the date of the last order denying reinstatement.

(b) After suspension

(1) No attorney who has been suspended may have his or her license restored but upon order of the commission or the secretary after the filing of a verified petition as provided herein.

(2) No attorney who has been suspended for a period of 120 days or less is eligible for reinstatement until the expiration of the period of suspension and, in no event, until 10 days have elapsed from the date of filing the petition for reinstatement. No attorney whose license has been suspended for a period of more than 120 days is eligible for reinstatement until the expiration of the period of suspension and, in no event, until 30 days have elapsed from the date of the filing of the petition for reinstatement.

(3) Any suspended attorney seeking reinstatement must file a verified petition with the secretary, a copy of which the secretary will transmit to the counsel. The petitioner will have the burden of proving the following by clear, cogent and convincing evidence:

(A) compliance with Rule .0124 of this subchapter;

(B) compliance with all applicable orders of the commission and the council;

(C) abstention from the unauthorized practice of law during the period of suspension;

(D) attainment of a passing grade on a regularly scheduled North Carolina bar examination, if the suspended attorney applies for reinstatement of his or her license more than seven years after the effective date of the suspension;

(E) abstention from conduct during the period of suspension constituting grounds for discipline under G.S. 84-28(b);

(F) reimbursement of the Client Security Fund of the North Carolina State Bar for all sums, including costs other than overhead expenses, disbursed by the Client Security Fund as a result of the petitioner's misconduct. This section shall not be deemed to permit the petitioner to collaterally attack the decision of the Client Security Fund Board of Trustees regarding whether to reimburse losses occasioned by the misconduct of the petitioner. This provision shall apply to petitions for reinstatement submitted by attorneys who were disciplined after the effective date of this amendment;

(G) reimbursement of all sums which the Disciplinary Hearing Commission found in the order of suspension were misappropriated by the petitioner and which have not been reimbursed by the Client Security Fund.

(H) satisfaction of the minimum continuing legal education requirements, as set forth in Rule .1517 of Subchapter 1D of these rules, for the two calendar years immediately preceding the year in which the petitioner was suspended, which shall include the satisfaction of any deficit recorded in the petitioner's State Bar CLE transcript for such period; provided that the petitioner may attend CLE programs after the effective date of the suspension to make up any unsatisfied requirement. These requirements shall be in addition to any continuing legal education requirements imposed by the Disciplinary Hearing Commission;

(I) (Effective for petitioners suspended on or after January 1, 1997) if two or more years have elapsed between the effective date of the suspension order and the date on which the reinstatement petition is filed with the secretary, the petitioner must, within one year prior to filing the petition, complete 15 hours of CLE approved by the Board of Continuing Legal Education pursuant to Subchapter 1D, Rule .1519 of these rules. Three hours of the 15 hours must be earned by attending courses of instruction devoted exclusively to professional responsibility and/or professionalism. These requirements shall be in addition to any continuing legal education requirements imposed by the Disciplinary Hearing Commission;

(J) payment of all membership fees, Client Security Fund assessments and late fees due and owing to the North Carolina State Bar as well as all attendee fees and late penalties due and owing to the Board of Continuing Legal Education at the time of suspension.

(4) The counsel will conduct any necessary investigation regarding the compliance of the petitioner with the requirements set forth in Rule .0125(b)(3) above, and the counsel may file a response to the petition with the secretary prior to the date the petitioner is first eligible for reinstatement. The counsel will serve a copy of any response filed upon the petitioner.

(5) If the counsel does not file a response to the petition before the date the petitioner is first eligible for reinstatement, then the secretary will issue an order of reinstatement.

(6) If the counsel files a timely response to the petition, such response must set forth specific objections supported by factual allegations sufficient to put the petitioner on notice of the events at issue.

(7) The secretary will, upon the filing of a response to the petition, refer the matter to the chairperson of the commission. The chairperson will within 14 days appoint a hearing committee as provided in Rule .0108(a)(2) of this subchapter, schedule a time and place for a hearing, and notify the counsel and the petitioner of the composition of the hearing committee and the time and place of the hearing. The hearing will be conducted in accordance with the North Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure for nonjury trials insofar as possible and the rules of evidence applicable in superior court.

(8) The hearing committee will determine whether the petitioner's license should be reinstated and enter an appropriate order which may include additional sanctions in the event violations of the petitioner's order of suspension are found. In any event, the hearing committee must include in its order findings of fact and conclusions of law in support of its decision and tax such costs as it deems appropriate for the necessary expenses attributable to the investigation and processing of the petition against the petitioner.

(c) After transfer to disability inactive status:

(1) No member of the North Carolina State Bar transferred to disability inactive status may resume active status until reinstated by order of the commission. Any member transferred to disability inactive status will be entitled to apply to the commission for reinstatement to active status once a year or at such shorter intervals as are stated in the order transferring the member to disability inactive status or any modification thereof.

(2) Petitions for reinstatement by members transferred to disability inactive status will be filed with the secretary. Upon receipt of the petition the secretary will refer the petition to the commission chairperson. The chairperson will appoint a hearing committee as provided in Rule .0108(a)(2) of this subchapter. A hearing will be conducted pursuant to the procedures set out in Rule .0114 of this subchapter.

(3) The member will have the burden of proving by clear, cogent, and convincing evidence that he or she is no longer disabled within the meaning of Rule .0103(19) of this subchapter and that he or she is fit to resume the practice of law.

(4) Within 10 days of filing the petition for reinstatement, the member will provide the secretary with a list of the name and address of every psychiatrist, psychologist, physician, hospital, and other health care provider by whom or in which the member has been examined or treated or sought treatment while disabled. At the same time, the member will also furnish to the secretary a written consent to release all information and records relating to the disability.

(5) Where a member has been transferred to disability inactive status based solely upon a judicial finding of incapacity, and thereafter a court of competent jurisdiction enters an order adjudicating that the member's incapacity has ended, the chairperson of the commission will enter an order returning the member to active status upon receipt of a certified copy of the court's order. Entry of the order will not preclude the North Carolina State Bar from bringing an action pursuant to Rule .0118 of this subchapter to determine whether the member is disabled.

(6) The hearing committee may direct the member to pay the costs of the reinstatement hearing, including the cost of any medical examination ordered by the committee.

(d) The hearing committee may impose reasonable conditions on a lawyer's reinstatement from disbarment, suspension or disability inactive status in any case in which the hearing committee concludes that such conditions are necessary for the protection of the public.

Except where otherwise specified, any provision herein for notice to a respondent, member, petitioner, or a defendant will be deemed satisfied by appropriate correspondence addressed to that attorney by mail to the last address maintained by the North Carolina State Bar.

History Note: Statutory Authority G.S. 84-23, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994.

B.0127. Disqualification due to interest.

No member of the council or hearing commission will participate in any disciplinary matter involving the member, any partner, or associate in the practice of law of the member, or in which the member has a personal interest.

History Note: Statutory Authority G.S. 84-23, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994.

B.0128. Trust accounts; Audit.

(a) For reasonable cause, the chairperson of the Grievance Committee is empowered to issue an investigative subpoena to a member compelling the production of any records required to be kept relative to the handling of client funds and property by the Rules of Professional Conduct for inspection, copying, or audit by the counsel or any auditor appointed by the counsel. For the purposes of this rule, any of the following will constitute reasonable cause:

(1) any sworn statement of grievance received by the North Carolina State Bar alleging facts which, if true, would constitute misconduct in the handling of a client's funds or property;

(2) any facts coming to the attention of the North Carolina State Bar, whether through random review as contemplated by Rule .0128(b) below or otherwise, which if true, would constitute a probable violation of any provision of the Rules of Professional Conduct concerning the handling of client funds or property; or

(3) any finding of probable cause, indictment, or conviction relative to a criminal charge involving moral turpitude. The grounds supporting the issuance of any such subpoena will be set forth upon the face of the subpoena.

(b) The chairperson of the Grievance Committee may randomly issue investigative subpoenas to members compelling the production of any records required to be kept relative to the handling of client funds or property by the Rules of Professional Conduct for inspection by the counsel or any auditor appointed by the counsel to determine compliance with the Rules of Professional Conduct. Any such subpoena will disclose upon its face its random character and contain a verification of the secretary that it was randomly issued. No member will be subject to random selection under this section more than once in three years. The auditor may report any violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct discovered during random audit to the Grievance Committee for investigation. The auditor may allow the attorney a reasonable amount of time to correct any procedural violation in lieu of reporting the matter to the Grievance Committee. The auditor shall have authority under the original subpoena for random audit to compel the production of any documents necessary to determine whether the attorney has corrected any violation identified during the audit.

(c) No subpoena issued pursuant to this rule may compel production within five days of service.

(d) The rules of evidence applicable in the superior courts of the state will govern the use of any material subpoenaed pursuant to this rule in any hearing before the commission.

(e) No assertion of attorney-client privilege or confidentiality will prevent an inspection or audit of a trust account as provided in this rule.

History Note: Statutory Authority G.S. 84-23, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994.

B.0129. Confidentiality.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in this rule and G.S. 84-24(f), all proceedings involving allegations of misconduct by or alleged disability of a member will remain confidential until

(1) a complaint against a member has been filed with the secretary after a finding by the Grievance Committee that there is probable cause to believe that the member is guilty of misconduct justifying disciplinary action or is disabled;

(2) the member requests that the matter be made public prior to the filing of a complaint;

(3) the investigation is predicated upon conviction of the member of or sentencing for a crime;

(4) a petition or action is filed in the general courts of justice;

(5) the member files an affidavit of surrender of license; or

(6) a member is transferred to disability inactive status pursuant to Rule .0118(g). In such an instance, the order transferring the member shall be public. Any other materials, including the medical evidence supporting the order, shall be kept confidential unless and until the member petitions for reinstatement pursuant to Rule .0118(c), unless provided otherwise in the order

(b) The previous issuance of a letter of warning, formerly known as a letter of admonition, or an admonition to a member may be revealed in any subsequent disciplinary proceeding.

(c) This provision will not be construed to prohibit the North Carolina State Bar from providing a copy of an attorney's response to a grievance to the complaining party where such attorney has not objected thereto in writing or to deny access to relevant information to authorized agencies investigating the qualifications of judicial candidates, to other jurisdictions investigating qualifications for admission to practice, or to law enforcement agencies investigating qualifications for government employment or allegations of criminal conduct by attorneys. Further, this provision will not be construed to prohibit the North Carolina State Bar, with the consent of the chairperson of the Grievance Committee, from providing relevant information concerning a letter of caution, letter of warning or admonition to authorized agencies investigating complaints against North Carolina attorneys, so long as the inquiring jurisdiction maintains the same level of confidentiality respecting the information as the North Carolina State Bar. In addition, the secretary will transmit notice of all public discipline imposed and transfers to disability inactive status to the National Discipline Data Bank maintained by the American Bar Association. The secretary may also transmit any relevant information to the Client Security Fund Board of Trustees to assist the Client Security Fund Board in determining losses caused by dishonest conduct of members of the North Carolina State Bar.

(a) The North Carolina State Bar will not treat as a grievance information that a member has used or is using illicit drugs except as provided in Rules .0130(c), (d) and (e) below. The information will be provided to the director of the lawyer assistance program of the North Carolina State Bar.

(b) If the director of the lawyer assistance program concludes after investigation that a member has used or is using an illicit drug and the member participates and successfully complies with any course of treatment prescribed by the lawyer assistance program, the member will not be disciplined by the North Carolina State Bar for illicit drug use occurring prior to the prescribed course of treatment.

(c) If a member under Rule .0130(b) above fails to cooperate with the Lawyer Assistance Program Board or fails to successfully complete any treatment prescribed for the member's illicit drug use, the director of the lawyer assistance program will report such failure to participate in or complete the prescribed treatment to the chairperson of the Grievance Committee. (e) If the North Carolina State Bar receives information that a member has used or is using illicit drugs and that the member has violated some other provision of the Revised Rules of Professional Conduct, the information regarding the member's alleged illicit drug use will be referred to the director of the lawyer assistance program pursuant to Rule .0130(a) above. The information regarding the member's alleged additional misconduct will be reported to the chairperson of the Grievance Committee.

If the judicial district in which the respondent attorney maintains his or her principal office does not have a fee arbitration committee, the chairperson of the district Grievance Committee shall refer the portion of the grievance involving a fee dispute to the State Bar Fee Dispute Arbitration Program for resolution. The letter from the district bar Grievance Committee enclosing the report shall follow the format set out in Rule .0217 of this subchapter.

(2) The district Grievance Committee shall submit its written report to the office of counsel no later than 180 days after the grievance is initiated or received by the district committee. The State Bar may recall any grievance file which has not been investigated and considered by a district Grievance Committee within 180 days after the matter is assigned to the committee. The State Bar may also recall any grievance file for any reason.

Further, if an attorney's response to a grievance proceeding relies in whole or in part upon the receipt of an informal ethics advisory, confidential information may be disclosed to Bar counsel, the Grievance Committee or other appropriate disciplinary authority.

(c) An ethics advisory issued by the executive director, assistant executive director, or designated staff counsel shall be promulgated under the authority of the committee and in accordance with such guidelines as the committee may establish and prescribe from time to time.

(d) An ethics advisory shall sanction or disapprove only the matter in issue, shall not otherwise serve as precedent and shall not be published.

(e) Ethics advisories shall be reviewed periodically by the committee. If, upon review, a majority of the committee present and voting decides that an ethics advisory should be withdrawn or modified, the requesting attorney shall be notified in writing of the committee's decision by the executive director or assistant executive director. Until such notification, the attorney shall be deemed to have acted ethically and in good faith if he or she acts pursuant to the ethics advisory which is later withdrawn or modified.

(2) review requests from attorneys concerning their placement on any list and obtain information pertaining to such placement;

(3) approve or disapprove an attorney's addition to or deletion from any list or the transfer of any attorney from one list to another, provided that an attorney's request to be deleted from a list or transferred to a lower numbered list shall not require committee approval;

(4) establish procedures with which to carry out its business;

(5) interview attorneys seeking placement on any list and witnesses for or against such placement.

(g) A majority of the committee must be present at any meeting in order to constitute a quorum. The committee may take no action unless a quorum is present. A majority vote in favor of a motion or any proposed action shall be required in order for the motion to pass or for the action to be taken.

(h) The committee shall meet in private, except it may invite persons to make limited appearances to be interviewed. Discussions of the committee, its records, and its actions shall be treated as confidentially as possible. The names of the members of the committee shall not be confidential.

History Note: Statutory Authority G.S. 7A-459, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994.

D.0505. Placement of attorneys on list.

(a) Any attorney who wishes to have his or her name added to or deleted from any list, or to have his or her name transferred from one list to another, shall file a written request with the administrator. The request shall include information that will facilitate the committee's determination whether the attorney meets the standards set forth in Rule .0503 above for placement on a certain list. The written statements of competency required by Rule .0503 above must be attached to the request.

(b) The administrator shall maintain records for the committee and shall advise each member of the committee of the name of the requesting attorney and the nature of this request before the committee meets to review the request. The administrator shall assure that all requests properly filed are brought to the committee's attention at the next meeting at which it is practicable for the committee to review the request.

(c) The administrator shall assure that all district court judges, resident superior court judges, any special superior court judge with a permanent office in the judicial district, and the district attorney for the _____ Judicial District, and the district's public defender, if any, are advised of any request concerning placement on any list so that such officials will have an opportunity to comment on the request to the committee.

(d) When the committee meets to review placement requests, it may require any requesting attorney to appear before it to be interviewed and may require information in addition to that submitted in the request. Any member of the committee may discuss requests with other members of the bar in a confidential manner and may relate information obtained thereby to the other members. Rules of evidence do not apply with respect to the review of requests.

The committee may hold a request in abeyance for a reasonable period of time while obtaining additional information.

(e) The committee shall determine whether an attorney requesting to be added to a list when he or she is not currently on any list or to be transferred from a lower numbered list to a higher numbered list (such as from the first list to the second list) meets all the applicable standards set out in Rule .0503 above. The request shall be granted or the addition or transfer allowed if the committee finds that he or she does meet all the standards. Conversely, the request shall be denied if the committee does not find that he or she meets all the standards. The findings shall be reduced to writing and kept in the regular records of the committee by the administrator. The committee shall assure that the requesting attorney is given prompt notice of the action taken with respect to his or her request and is advised of the basis for denial if the request is not granted.

(f) If at any time it reasonably appears to the committee that an attorney no longer meets a standard set forth in Rule .0503 above for the list on which he or she is placed or that he or she can no longer meet the responsibilities of representing indigent defendants with respect to such list, the committee shall direct the attorney to show cause why he or she should not be deleted from the list or transferred from a higher numbered list to a lower numbered list. If the attorney cannot show sufficient cause, the committee may take appropriate action, including suspending the attorney from receiving appointments in indigent cases for a definite or indefinite time, or deleting his or her name from the list he or she is on, or transferring him or her from a higher numbered list to a lower numbered list. Appropriate written findings shall be made by the committee in this regard, and the attorney shall be informed of the basis of any action taken.

(g) An attorney whose name is deleted from a list or who is transferred to another list by the committee may appeal the committee's action to the senior resident superior court judge of the _____ Judicial District. In such a case the resident superior court judge will make the final decision regarding the deletion or transferral of the attorney.

(h) Whenever an attorney who provides information to the committee, collectively or through any member, requests that his or her name not be used or that his or her information be treated confidentially, his or her request shall be granted unless doing so results in manifest unfairness.

The court shall proceed in alphabetical sequence in appointing attorneys. If an attorney's name is passed over because he or she is not on a list relating to a particular charge, the court shall return to his or her name for the next appointment consistent with his or her lists. The court may pass over the name of any attorney known not to be reasonably available because of vacation, illness, or other reasons.

The public defender shall proceed in sequence in appointing attorneys but may pass over the name of any attorney known to be unavailable because of vacation, illness, or other reasons, or, in his or her discretion, where justice so requires.

(g) If a judge is not reasonably available to appoint counsel to represent an indigent defendant, the clerk of court shall appoint the next eligible attorney on the list. Appointments of counsel by the clerk shall be subject to review and approval by the judge.

If the attorney representing the defendant at the trial level was retained, he may be appointed to represent the defendant at the appellate level even though he or she does not meet all the requirements of Rule .0503 above or the other pertinent provisions of these regulations. For good cause, the attorney at the trial level may be relieved of responsibility for the appeal. Whenever it is otherwise necessary to appoint an attorney to represent an indigent person at the appellate level, the attorney appointed shall be selected in a manner consistent with appointment of counsel at the trial level. If the trial attorney is not appointed, the appellate defender's office or any other qualified attorney may be appointed, in a manner consistent with these rules, to represent the defendant at the appellate level.

The attorney must allow at least 30 days after the client shall have received written notice of the fee dispute resolution program before filing a lawsuit. An attorney may file a lawsuit prior to expiration of the required 30-day notice period or after the petition is filed by the client if such is necessary to preserve a claim. However, the attorney must not take any further steps to pursue the litigation until he/she complies with the provision of the fee dispute resolution rules. Clients may request fee dispute resolution at any time prior to the filing of a lawsuit. No filing fee shall be required. The request should state with clarity and brevity the facts of the fee dispute and the names and addresses of the parties. It should also state that, prior to requesting fee dispute resolution, a reasonable attempt was made to resolve the dispute by agreement, the matter has not been adjudicated, and the matter is not presently the subject of litigation. D.1401. Purpose; Definitions.

(a) The Client Security Fund of the North Carolina State Bar was established by the Supreme Court of North Carolina pursuant to an order dated August 29, 1984. The fund is a standing committee of the North Carolina State Bar Council pursuant to an order of the Supreme Court dated October 10, 1984, as amended. Its purpose is to reimburse, in whole or in part in appropriate cases and subject to the provisions and limitations of the Supreme Court's orders and these rules, clients who have suffered financial loss as the result of dishonest conduct of lawyers engaged in the private practice of law in North Carolina, which conduct occurred on or after January 1, 1985.

(b) As used herein the following terms have the meaning indicated.

(2) "Attorney" shall mean an attorney who, at the time of alleged dishonest conduct, was licensed to practice law by the North Carolina State Bar. (4) "Council" shall mean the North Carolina State Bar Council.

(5) "Dishonest conduct" shall mean wrongful acts committed by an attorney against an applicant in the nature of embezzlement from the applicant or the wrongful taking or conversion of monies or other property of the applicant, which monies or other property were entrusted to the attorney by the applicant by reason of an attorney-client relationship between the attorney and the applicant or by reason of a fiduciary relationship between the attorney and the applicant customary to the practice of law.

(D) losses, reimbursement for which has been otherwise received from or paid by or on behalf of the attorney who committed the dishonest conduct;

(E) losses arising in investment transactions in which there was neither a contemporaneous attorney-client relationship between the attorney and the applicant nor a contemporaneous fiduciary relationship between the attorney and the applicant customary to the practice of law. By way of illustration but not limitation, for purposes of this rule (Rule .1401(b)(8)(E)), an attorney authorized or permitted by a person or entity other than the applicant as escrow or similar agent to hold funds deposited by the applicant for investment purposes shall not be deemed to have a fiduciary relationship with the applicant customary to the practice of law.

D.1417. Applications for reimbursement.

(a) The board shall prepare a form of application for reimbursement which shall require the following minimum information, and such other information as the board may from time to time specify:

(2) the name and address of the attorney who is alleged to have engaged in dishonest conduct;

(b) The application shall contain the following statement in boldface type:

"IN ESTABLISHING THE CLIENT SECURITY FUND PURSUANT TO ORDER OF THE SUPREME COURT OF NORTH CAROLINA, THE NORTH CAROLINA STATE BAR DID NOT CREATE OR ACKNOWLEDGE ANY LEGAL RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE ACTS OF INDIVIDUAL ATTORNEYS IN THE PRACTICE OF LAW. ALL REIMBURSEMENTS OF LOSSES FROM THE CLIENT SECURITY FUND SHALL BE A MATTER OF GRACE IN THE SOLE DISCRETION OF THE BOARD ADMINISTERING THE FUND AND NOT A MATTER OF RIGHT. NO APPLICANT OR MEMBER OF THE PUBLIC SHALL HAVE ANY RIGHT IN THE CLIENT SECURITY FUND AS A THIRD PARTY BENEFICIARY OR OTHERWISE."

(c) The application shall be filed in the office of the State Bar in Raleigh, North Carolina, attention Client Security Fund Board, and a copy shall be transmitted by such office to the chairperson of the board.

D.1418. Processing applications.

(a) The board shall cause an investigation of all applications filed with the State Bar to determine whether the application is for a reimbursable loss and the extent, if any, to which the application should be paid from the Fund.

(b) The chairperson of the board shall assign each application to a member of the board for review and report. Wherever possible, the member to whom such application is referred shall practice in the county wherein the attorney practices or practiced.

(c) A copy of the application shall be served upon or sent by registered mail to the last known address of the attorney who it is alleged committed an act of dishonest conduct.

(d) After considering a report of investigation as to an application, any board member may request that testimony be presented concerning the application. In all cases, the alleged defalcating attorney or his or her representative will be given an opportunity to be heard by the board if the attorney so requests.

(e) The board shall operate the Fund so that, taking into account assessments ordered by the Supreme Court but not yet received and anticipated investment earnings, a principal balance of approximately $1,000,000 is maintained. Subject to the foregoing, the board shall, in its discretion, determine the amount of loss, if any, for which each applicant should be reimbursed from the Fund. In making such determination, the board shall consider, inter alia, the following:

(1) the negligence, if any, of the applicant which contributed to the loss;

(2) the comparative hardship which the applicant suffered because of the loss;

(3) the total amount of reimbursable losses of applicants on account of any one attorney or firm or association of attorneys;

(4) the total amount of reimbursable losses in previous years for which total reimbursement has not been made and the total assets of the Fund;

(5) the total amount of insurance or other source of funds available to compensate the applicant for any reimbursable loss.

(f) The board may, in its discretion, allow further reimbursement in any year of a reimbursable loss reimbursed in part by it in prior years.

(g) Provided, however, and the foregoing notwithstanding, in no case shall the Fund reimburse the otherwise reimbursable losses sustained by any one applicant as a result of the dishonest conduct of one attorney in an amount in excess of $100,000.

(h) No reimbursement shall be made to any applicant unless reimbursement is approved by a majority vote of the entire board at a duly held meeting at which a quorum is present.

(i) No attorney shall be compensated by the board for prosecuting an application before it.

(j) An applicant may be advised of the status of the board's consideration of the application and shall be advised of the final determination of the board.

(k) All applications, proceedings, investigations, and reports involving applicants for reimbursement shall be kept confidential until and unless the board authorizes reimbursement to the applicant, or the attorney alleged to have engaged in dishonest conduct requests that the matter be made public. All participants involved in an application, investigation, or proceeding (including the applicant) shall conduct themselves so as to maintain the confidentiality of the application, investigation or proceeding. This provision shall not be construed to deny relevant information to be provided by the board to disciplinary committees or to anyone else to whom the council authorizes release of information.

(l) The board may, in its discretion, for newly discovered evidence or other compelling reason, grant a request to reconsider any application which the board has denied in whole or in part; otherwise, such denial is final and no further consideration shall be given by the board to such application or another application upon the same alleged facts.

History Note: Authority — Orders of the North Carolina Supreme Court, August 29, 1984; October 10, 1984; Readopted effective December 8, 1994; Amended effective March 6, 1997.

D.1419. Subrogation for reimbursement.

(a) In the event reimbursement is made to an applicant, the State Bar shall be subrogated to the amount reimbursed and may bring an action against the attorney or the attorney's estate either in the name of the applicant or in the name of the State Bar. As a condition of reimbursement, the applicant may be required to execute a "subrogation agreement" to such effect. Filing of an application constitutes an agreement by the applicant that the North Carolina State Bar shall be subrogated to the rights of the applicant to the extent of any reimbursement. Upon commencement of an action by the State Bar pursuant to its subrogation rights, it shall advise the reimbursed applicant at his or her last known address. A reimbursed applicant may then join in such action to recover any loss in excess of the amount reimbursed by the Fund. Any amounts recovered from the attorney by the board in excess of the amount to which the Fund is subrogated, less the board's actual costs of such recovery, shall be paid to or retained by the applicant as the case may be.

(b) Before receiving a payment from the Fund, the person who is to receive such payment or his or her legal representative shall execute and deliver to the board a written agreement stating that in the event the reimbursed applicant or his or her estate should ever receive any restitution from the attorney or his or her estate, the reimbursed applicant agrees that the Fund shall be repaid up to the amount of the reimbursement from the Fund plus expenses.

History Note: Authority — Orders of the North Carolina Supreme Court, August 29, 1984, October 10, 1984, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994.

History Note: Authority — Orders of the North Carolina Supreme Court, August 29, 1984, October 10, 1984, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994.

SECTION .1500. RULES GOVERNING THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE CONTINUING LEGAL EDUCATION PROGRAM

D.1501. Purpose and definitions.

(a) Purpose.

The purpose of these continuing legal education rules is to assist lawyers licensed to practice and practicing law in North Carolina in achieving and maintaining professional competence for the benefit of the public whom they serve. The North Carolina State Bar, under Chapter 84 of the General Statutes of North Carolina, is charged with the responsibility of providing rules of professional conduct and with disciplining attorneys who do not comply with such rules. The Rules of Professional Conduct adopted by the North Carolina State Bar and approved by the Supreme Court of North Carolina require that lawyers adhere to important ethical standards, including that of rendering competent legal services in the representation of their clients.

At a time when all aspects of life and society are changing rapidly or becoming subject to pressures brought about by change, laws and legal principles are also in transition (through additions to the body of law, modifications and amendments) and are increasing in complexity. One cannot render competent legal services without continuous education and training.

The same changes and complexities, as well as the economic orientation of society, result in confusion about the ethical requirements concerning the practice of law and the relationships it creates. The data accumulated in the discipline program of the North Carolina State Bar argue persuasively for the establishment of a formal program for continuing and intensive training in professional responsibility and legal ethics.

It has also become clear that in order to render legal services in a professionally responsible manner, a lawyer must be able to manage his or her law practice competently. Sound management practices enable lawyers to concentrate on their clients' affairs while avoiding the ethical problems which can be caused by disorganization. These rules therefore provide for the administration of a law practice assistance program which is expected to emphasize training in law office management.

It is in response to such considerations that the North Carolina State Bar has adopted these minimum continuing legal education requirements. The purpose of these minimum continuing legal education requirements is the same as the purpose of the Rules of Professional Conduct themselves—to ensure that the public at large is served by lawyers who are competent and maintain high ethical standards.

(b) Definitions.

This definition shall be interpreted consistent with the provisions of Rule .1501(b)(5) above.

(15) "Professionalism" courses are courses or segments of courses devoted to the identification and examination of, and the encouragement of adherence to, non-mandatory aspirational standards of professional conduct which transcend the requirements of the Revised Rules of Professional Conduct. Upon the termination of the member's exemption, the member may request carry over credit up to a maximum of twelve (12) credits for any accredited continuing legal education activity attended during the calendar year immediately preceding the year of the termination of the exemption. Appropriate documentation of attendance at such activities will be required by the board.

History Note: Authority — Order of the North Carolina Supreme Court, October 7, 1987, 318 N.C. 711; Readopted effective December 8, 1994; Amended effective February 12, 1997; Amended October 1, 2003.

D.1518. Continuing legal education program.

(a) Each active member subject to these rules shall complete 12 hours of approved continuing legal education during each calendar year beginning January 1, 1988, as provided by these rules and the regulations adopted thereunder.

(b) Of the 12 hours

(1) at least 2 hours shall be devoted to the areas of professional responsibility or professionalism or any combination thereof; and

(2) effective January 1, 2002, at least once every three calendar years, each member shall complete an hour of continuing legal education instruction on substance abuse and debilitating mental conditions as defined in Rule .1602(c). This hour shall be credited to the 12 hour requirement set forth in Rule .1518(a) above but shall be in addition to the requirement of Rule .1518(b)(1) above. To satisfy this requirement, a member must attend an accredited program on substance abuse and debilitating mental conditions that is at least one hour long.

(c) Members may carry over up to 12 credit hours earned in one calendar year to the next calendar year, which may include those hours required by Rule .1518(b) above. Additionally, a newly admitted active member may include as credit hours which may be carried over to the next succeeding year, any approved CLE hours earned after that member's graduation from law school.

(d) Members may carry over up to 12 credit hours earned in one calendar year to the next calendar year, which may include those hours required by Rule .1518(b)(1) above, but may not include those hours required by Rule .1518(b)(2) above. Additionally, a newly admitted active member may include as credit hours which may be carried over to the next succeeding year, any approved CLE hours earned after that member's graduation from law school.

D.1519. Accreditation standards.

The board shall approve continuing legal education activities which meet the following standards and provisions.

(1) They shall have significant intellectual or practical content and the primary objective shall be to increase the participant's professional competence and proficiency as a lawyer.

(2) They shall constitute an organized program of learning dealing with matters directly related to the practice of law, professional responsibility, professionalism, or ethical obligations of lawyers.

(3) Credit may be given for continuing legal education activities where live instruction is used or mechanically or electronically recorded or reproduced material is used, including videotape or satellite transmitted programs. Subject to the limitations set forth in Rule .1611 of this subchapter, credit may also be given for continuing legal education activities on CD-ROM and on a computer website accessed via the Internet.

(4) Continuing legal education materials are to be prepared, and activities conducted, by an individual or group qualified by practical or academic experience in a setting physically suitable to the educational activity of the program and, when appropriate, equipped with suitable writing surfaces or sufficient space for taking notes.

(5) Thorough, high quality, and carefully prepared written materials should be distributed to all attendees at or before the time the course is presented. These may include written materials printed from a computer presentation, computer website, or CD-ROM. A written agenda or outline for a presentation satisfies this requirement when written materials are not suitable or readily available for a particular subject. The absence of written materials for distribution should, however, be the exception and not the rule.

(6) Any accredited sponsor must remit fees as required and keep and maintain attendance records of each continuing legal education program sponsored by it, which shall be furnished to the board in accordance with regulations.

(7) Except as provided in Rule .1611 of this subchapter, in-house continuing legal education and self-study shall not be approved or accredited for the purpose of complying with Rule .1518 of this subchapter.

(8) Programs that cross academic lines, such as accounting-tax seminars, may be considered for approval by the board. However, the board must be satisfied that the content of the activity would enhance legal skills or the ability to practice law.

History Note: Authority — Order of the North Carolina Supreme Court, October 7, 1987, 318 N.C. 711, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994; Amended effective December 30, 1998; Amended effective March 1, 2001; Amended October 1, 2003.

D.1520. Accreditation of sponsors and programs.

(a) Accreditation of sponsors. An organization desiring accreditation as an accredited sponsor of courses, programs, or other continuing legal education activities may apply for accredited sponsor status to the board. The board shall approve a sponsor as an accredited sponsor if it is satisfied that the sponsor's programs have met the standards set forth in Rule .1519 of this subchapter and regulations established by the board.

(b) Presumptive approval for accredited sponsors.

(1) Once an organization is approved as an accredited sponsor, the continuing legal education programs sponsored by that organization are presumptively approved for credit and no application must be made to the board for approval. The board may at any time revoke the accreditation of an accredited sponsor for failure to satisfy the requirements of Rule .1512 and Rule .1519 of this subchapter, and for failure to satisfy the Regulations Governing the Administration of the Continuing Legal Education Program set forth in Section .1600 of this subchapter.

(2) The board may evaluate a program presented by an accredited sponsor and, upon a determination that the program does not satisfy the requirements of Rule .1519, notify the accredited sponsor that any presentation of the same program, the date for which was not included in the announcement required by Rule .1520(e) below, is not approved for credit. Such notice shall be sent by the board to the accredited sponsor within 30 days after the receipt of the announcement. The accredited sponsor may request reconsideration of such a decision by submitting a letter of appeal to the board within 15 days of receipt of the notice of disapproval. The decision by the board on an appeal is final.

(c) Unaccredited sponsor request for program approval. Any organization not accredited as an accredited sponsor that desires approval of a course or program shall apply to the board. The board shall adopt regulations to administer the accreditation of such programs consistent with the provisions of Rule .1519 of this subchapter. Applicants denied approval of a program may request reconsideration of such a decision by submitting a letter of appeal to the board within 15 days of receipt of the notice of disapproval. The decision by the board on an appeal is final.

(d) Member request for program approval. An active member desiring approval of a course or program that has not otherwise been approved shall apply to the board. The board shall adopt regulations to administer approval requests consistent with the requirements of Rule .1519 of this subchapter. Applicants denied approval of a program may request reconsideration of such a decision by submitting a letter of appeal to the board within 15 days of the receipt of the notice of disapproval. The decision by the board on an appeal is final.

(e) Program announcements of accredited sponsors. At least 30 days prior to the presentation of a program, an accredited sponsor shall file an announcement, on a form prescribed by the board, notifying the board of the dates and locations of presentations of the program and the sponsor's calculation of the CLE credit hours for the program.

(f) Records. The board may provide by regulation for the accredited sponsor, unaccredited sponsor, or active member for whom a continuing legal education program has been approved to maintain and provide such records as required by the board.

History Note: Authority — Order of the North Carolina Supreme Court, October 7, 1987, 318 N.C. 711, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994; Amended effective February 27, 2003.

D.1521. Credit hours.

The board may designate by regulation the number of credit hours to be earned by participation, including, but not limited to, teaching, in continuing legal education activities approved by the board.

History Note: Authority — Order of the North Carolina Supreme Court, October 7, 1987, 318 N.C. 711, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994.

D.1522. Annual report.

Commencing in 1989, each active member of the North Carolina State Bar shall make an annual written report to the North Carolina State Bar in such form as the board shall prescribe by regulation concerning compliance with the continuing legal education program for the preceding year or declaring an exemption under Rule .1517 of this subchapter. The annual report form shall be corrected, if necessary, signed by the member, and promptly returned to the State Bar. Upon receipt of a signed annual report form, appropriate adjustments shall be made to the member's continuing legal education record with the State Bar. No further adjustments shall thereafter be made to the member's continuing legal education record.

History Note: Authority — Order of the North Carolina Supreme Court, October 7, 1987, 318 N.C. 711; Readopted Effective December 8, 1994; Amended October 1, 2003.

D.1523. Noncompliance.

(a) Failure to comply with rules may result in suspension. A member who is required to file a report of CLE credits and does not do so or who fails to meet the minimum requirements of these rules, including the payment of duly assessed penalties and attendee fees, may be suspended from the practice of law in the state of North Carolina.

(b) Notice of failure to comply. The board shall notify a member who appears to have failed to meet the requirements of these rules that the member will be suspended from the practice of law in this state, unless the member shows good cause in writing why the suspension should not be made or the member shows in writing that he or she has complied with the requirements within the 30-day period after receiving the notice. Notice shall be served on the member pursuant to Rule 4 of the North Carolina Rules of Civil Procedure and may be served by a State Bar investigator or any other person authorized thereunder to serve process.

(c) Entry of order of suspension upon failure to respond to notice to show cause. If a written response attempting to show good cause is not postmarked or received by the board by the last day of the 30-day period after the member received the notice to show cause upon the recommendation of the board and the Administrative Committee, the council may enter an order suspending the member from the practice of law. The order shall be entered and served as set forth in Rule .0903(c) of this subchapter.

(d) Procedure upon submission of a timely response to a notice to show cause.

(1) Consideration by the board. If the member files a timely written response to the notice, the board shall consider the matter at its next regularly scheduled meeting or may delegate consideration of the matter to a duly appointed committee of the board. The board shall review all evidence presented by the member to determine whether good cause has been shown or to determine whether the member has complied with the requirements of these rules within the 30-day period after receiving the notice to show cause.

(2) Recommendation of the board. The board shall determine whether the member has shown good cause why the member should not be suspended. If the board determines that good cause has not been shown and that the member has not shown compliance with these rules within the 30-day period after receipt of the notice to show cause, then the board shall refer the matter to the Administrative Committee for hearing together with a written recommendation to the Administrative Committee that the member be suspended.

(3) Consideration by and recommendation of the Administrative Committee. The Administrative Committee shall consider the matter at its next regularly scheduled meeting. The burden of proof shall be upon the member to show cause by clear, cogent and convincing evidence why the member should not be suspended from the practice of law for the apparent failure to comply with the rules governing the continuing legal education program. Except as set forth above, the procedure for such hearing shall be as set forth in the Rule .0903(d)(1) and (2) of this subchapter.

(4) Order of suspension. Upon the recommendation of the Administrative Committee, the council may determine that the member has not complied with these rules and may enter an order suspending the member from the practice of law. The order shall be entered and served as set forth in the Rule .0903(d)(3) of this subchapter.

(e) Late compliance fee. Any member who complies with the requirements of the rules during the 30-day period after receiving the notice to show cause shall pay a late compliance fee as set forth in Rule .1608(b) of this subchapter.

History Note: Authority — Order of the North Carolina Supreme Court, October 7, 1987, 318 N.C. 711; Readopted effective December 8, 1994; Amended effective March 7, 1996; Amended effective March 6, 1997; Amended effective February 3, 2000; Amended October 1, 2003.

D.1524. Reinstatement.

(a) Reinstatement within 30 days of service of suspension order. A member who is suspended for noncompliance with the rules governing the continuing legal education program may petition the secretary for an order of reinstatement of the member's license at any time up to 30 days after the service of the suspension order upon the member. The secretary shall enter an order reinstating the member to active status upon receipt of a timely written request and satisfactory showing by the member that the member has cured the continuing legal education deficiency for which the member was suspended. Such member shall not be required to file a formal reinstatement petition or pay a $250 reinstatement fee.

(b) Procedure for reinstatement more than 30 days after service of the order of suspension. Except as noted below, the procedure for reinstatement more than 30 days after service of the order of suspension shall be as set forth in Rule .0904(c) and (d) of this subchapter, and shall be administered by the Administrative Committee.

(c) Reinstatement petition. At any time more than 30 days after service of an order of suspension on a member, a member who has been suspended for noncompliance with the rules governing the continuing legal education program may seek reinstatement by filing a reinstatement petition with the secretary. The secretary shall transmit a copy of the petition to each member of the board. The reinstatement petition shall contain the information and be in the form required by Rule .0904(c) of this subchapter. If not otherwise set forth in the petition, the member shall attach a statement to the petition in which the member shall state with particularity the accredited legal education courses which the member has attended and the number of credit hours obtained in order to cure any continuing legal education deficiency for which the member was suspended.

(d) Reinstatement fee. In lieu of the $125.00 reinstatement fee required by Rule .0904(c)(4)(A), the petition shall be accompanied by a reinstatement fee payable to the board, in the amount of $250.00 as required by Rule .1609(a) of this subchapter.

(e) Determination of board; Transmission to Administrative Committee. Within 30 days of the filing of the petition for reinstatement with the secretary, the board shall determine whether the deficiency has been cured. The board's written determination and the reinstatement petition shall be transmitted to the secretary within five days of the determination by the board. The secretary shall transmit a copy of the petition and the board's recommendation to each member of the Administrative Committee.

(f) Consideration by Administrative Committee. The Administrative Committee shall consider the reinstatement petition, together with the board's determination, pursuant to the requirements of Rule .0902(c)-(f) of this subchapter.

(g) Hearing upon denial of petition for reinstatement. The procedure for hearing upon the denial by the Administrative Committee of a petition for reinstatement shall be as provided in Section .1000 of this subchapter.

(c) Other committees. The chairperson may appoint committees as established by the board for the purpose of considering and deciding matters submitted to them by the board.

History Note: Authority — Order of the North Carolina Supreme Court, October 7, 1987, 318 N.C. 711, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994; Amended October 1, 2003.

D.1602. General course approval.

(a) Law school courses. Courses offered by an ABA accredited law school with respect to which academic credit may be earned may be approved activities. Computation of CLE credit for such courses shall be as prescribed in Rule .1605(a) of this subchapter. No more than 12 CLE hours in any year may be earned by such courses. No credit is available for law school courses attended prior to becoming an active member of the North Carolina State Bar.

(b) Bar review/refresher course. Courses designed to review or refresh recent law school graduates or attorneys in preparation for any bar exam shall not be approved for CLE credit.

(c) Professional responsibility courses on substance abuse, chemical dependency and debilitating mental conditions. Accredited professional responsibility courses on substance abuse, chemical dependency and debilitating mental conditions shall concentrate on the relationship between substance abuse, chemical dependency, debilitating mental conditions and a lawyer's professional responsibilities. Such courses may also include (1) education on the prevention, detection, treatment and etiology of substance abuse, chemical dependency, and debilitating mental conditions, and (2) information about assistance for chemically dependent or mentally impaired lawyers available through lawyers' professional organizations.

(d) Approval. CLE activities may be approved upon the written application of a sponsor, other than an accredited sponsor, on an individual program basis or of an active member on an individual program basis. An application for such CLE course approval shall meet the following requirements:

(1) If advance approval is requested by a sponsor, the application and supporting documentation, including two substantially complete sets of the written materials to be distributed at the course or program, shall be submitted at least 45 days prior to the date on which the course or program is scheduled. If advance approval is requested by an active member, the application need not include a complete set of written materials.

(2) In all other cases, the application and supporting documentation shall be submitted not later than 45 days after the date the course or program was presented or prior to the end of the calendar year in which the course or program was presented, whichever is earlier.

(3) The application shall be submitted on a form furnished by the board.

(4) The application shall contain all information requested on the form.

(5) The application shall be accompanied by a course outline or brochure that describes the content, identifies the teachers, lists the time devoted to each topic and shows each date and location at which the program will be offered.

(6) The application shall include a detailed calculation of the total CLE hours and hours of professional responsibility.

(e) Course quality. The application and materials provided shall reflect that the program to be offered meets the requirements of Rule .1519 of this subchapter. Written materials consisting merely of an outline without citation or explanatory notations generally will not be sufficient for approval. Any sponsor, including an accredited sponsor, who expects to conduct a CLE activity for which suitable written materials will not be made available to all attendees may obtain approval for that activity only by application to the board at least 45 days in advance of the presentation showing why written materials are not suitable or readily available for such a program.

(f) Records. Sponsors, including accredited sponsors, shall within 30 days after the course is concluded

(1) furnish to the board a list in alphabetical order, on magnetic tape if available, of the names of all North Carolina attendees and their North Carolina State Bar membership numbers;

(2) remit to the board the appropriate sponsor fee;

(3) furnish to the board a complete set of all written materials distributed to attendees at the course or program.

(g) Announcement. Accredited sponsors and sponsors who have advanced approval for courses may include in their brochures or other course descriptions the information contained in the following illustration:

> This course [or seminar or program] has been approved by the Board of Continuing Legal Education of the North Carolina State Bar for continuing legal education credit in the amount of ____ hours, of which ____ hours will also apply in the area of professional responsibility. This course is not sponsored by the board.

(h) Notice. Sponsors not having advanced approval shall make no representation concerning the approval of the course for CLE credit by the board.

The board will mail a notice of its decision on CLE activity approval requests within 15 days of their receipt when the request for approval is submitted before the program and within 30 days when the request is submitted after the program. Approval thereof will be deemed if the notice is not timely mailed. This automatic approval will not operate if the sponsor contributes to the delay by failing to provide the complete information requested by the board or if the board timely notifies the sponsor that the matter has been tabled and the reason therefor.

(i) In-House CLE and Self-Study. No approval will be provided for in-house CLE or self-study by attorneys, except those programs exempted by the board under Rule .1501(b)(9) of this subchapter or as provided in Rule .1611 of this subchapter.

(j) Facilities. Sponsors must provide a facility conducive to learning with sufficient space for taking notes.

(k) Course materials. In addition to the requirements of Rule .1602(c) and (e) above, sponsors, including accredited sponsors, and active members seeking credit for an approved activity shall furnish upon request of the board a copy of all materials presented and distributed at a CLE course or program.

(l) Nonlegal educational activities. A course or segment of a course presented by a bar organization may be granted up to three hours of credit if the bar organization's course trains volunteer attorneys in service to the profession, and if such course or course segment meets the requirements of Rule .1519(2)-(7) and Rule .1602(e), (h)-(j) of this subchapter; if appropriate, up to three hours of professional responsibility credit may be granted for such course or course segment. Except as noted in the preceding sentence or in extraordinary circumstances, approval will not be given for general and personal educational activities. For example, the following types of courses will not receive approval:

(1) courses within the normal college curriculum such as English, history, social studies, and psychology;

(2) courses which deal with the individual lawyer's human development, such as stress reduction, quality of life, or substance abuse unless a course on substance abuse or mental health satisfies the requirements of Rule .1602(c);

(3) courses which deal with the development of personal skills generally, such as public speaking (other than oral argument and courtroom presentation), nonlegal writing, and financial management;

(4) courses designed primarily to sell services or products or to generate greater revenue, such as marketing or advertising (as distinguished from courses dealing with development of law office procedures and management designed to raise the level of service provided to clients).

History Note: Authority — Order of the North Carolina Supreme Court, October 7, 1987, 318 N.C. 711; Readopted effective December 8, 1994; Amended effective March 6, 1997; Amended effective March 5, 1998; Amended effective March 3, 1999; Amended effective March 1, 2001.

D.1603. Accredited sponsors.

In order to receive designation as an "accredited sponsor" of courses, programs or other continuing legal education activities under Rule .1520(a) of this subchapter, the application of the sponsor must meet the following requirements:

(1) The application for accredited sponsor status shall be submitted on a form furnished by the board.

(2) The application shall contain all information requested on the form.

(3) The application shall be accompanied by course outlines or brochures that describe the content, identify the instructors, list the time devoted to each topic, show each date and location at which three programs have been sponsored in each of the last three consecutive years, and enclose the actual course materials.

(4) The application shall include a detailed calculation of the total CLE hours specified in each of the programs sponsored by the organization.

(5) The application shall reflect that the previous programs offered by the organization in continuing legal education have been of consistently high quality and would otherwise meet the standards set forth in Rule .1519 of this subchapter.

(6) Notwithstanding the provisions of Rule .1603 (3), (4) and (5) above, any law school which has been approved by the North Carolina State Bar for purposes of qualifying its graduates for the North Carolina bar examination, may become an accredited sponsor upon application to the board.

History Note: Authority — Order of the North Carolina Supreme Court, October 7, 1987, 318 N.C. 711, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994; Amended effective June 7, 2001.

D.1604. Accreditation of prerecorded programs and live programs broadcast to remote locations by telephone, satellite or video conferencing equipment.

(a) An active member may receive credit for attendance at, or participation in, a presentation where prerecorded material is used.

(b) An active member may receive credit for participation in a live presentation which is simultaneously broadcast by telephone, satellite or video conferencing equipment. The member may participate in the presentation by listening to or viewing the broadcast from a location that is remote from the origin of the broadcast.

(c) A member attending a prerecorded presentation is entitled to credit if

(1) the presentation from which the program is recorded would, if attended by an active member, be an accredited course;

(2) all other conditions imposed by the rules in Section .1600 of this subchapter, or by the board in advance, are met.

(d) A member attending a presentation broadcast by telephone, satellite or video conferencing equipment is entitled to credit if

(1) the live presentation of the program would, if attended by an active member, be an accredited course;

(2) there is a question and answer session with the presenter or presenters subject to the limitations set forth in Rule .1605(b)(5) of this subchapter; and

(3) all other conditions imposed by the rules in Section .1600 of this subchapter, or by the board in advance, are met.

(e) To receive approval for attendance at programs described in paragraphs (a) and (b) above, the following conditions must be met:

(1) Unless the entire program was produced by an accredited sponsor, the person or organization sponsoring the program must receive advance approval and accreditation from the board. Board Form 2 may be utilized for this purpose.

(2) The person or organization sponsoring the program must have a reliable method for recording and verifying attendance. Attendance at a telephone broadcast may be verified by assigning a personal identification number to a member. If attendance is recorded by a person, the person may not earn credit hours by virtue of attendance at that presentation. A copy of the record of attendance of active members must be forwarded to the board within 30 days after the presentation of the program is completed. Proof of attendance may be made by the verifying person on Board Form 5.

(3) Unless clearly inappropriate for the particular course, detailed papers, manuals, study materials, or written outlines are presented to the persons attending the program which substantially pertain to the subject matter of the program. Any materials made available to persons attending the original or live program must be made available to those persons attending the prerecorded or broadcast program who desire to receive credit under these regulations.

(4) A suitable room must be available for viewing the program and taking of notes.

(f) A minimum of five active members must physically attend the presentation of a prerecorded program. This requirement does not apply to participation from a remote location in the presentation of a live program broadcast by telephone, satellite or video conferencing equipment.

(g) EXAMPLES:

EXAMPLE (1): Attorney X, an active member, attends a videotape seminar sponsored by an accredited sponsor. If a person attending the program from which the videotape is made would receive credit, Attorney X is also entitled to receive credit, if the additional conditions under this Rule .1604 are also met.

EXAMPLE (2): Attorney Y, an active member, desires to attend a videotape program. However, the proposed videotape program (a) is not presented by an accredited sponsor, and (b) has not received individual course approval from the board. Attorney Y may not receive any credit hours for attending the videotape presentation without advance approval from the board.

EXAMPLE (3): Attorney Z, an active member, attends a videotape program. The presentation of the program from which the videotape was made has already been held and approved by the board for credit. However, no person is present at the videotape program to record attendance. Attorney Z may not obtain credit for viewing the videotape program unless it is viewed in the presence of a person who is not attending the videotape program for credit and who verifies the attendance of Attorney Z and of other attorneys at the program. All other conditions of this Rule .1604 must also be met.

EXAMPLE (4): Attorney Q, an active member, listens to a live telephone seminar using the telephone in the conference room of her law firm. To record her attendance, Attorney Q was assigned a personal identification number (PIN) by the seminar sponsor. Once connected, Attorney Q punched in the PIN number on her touch tone phone and her attendance was recorded. The seminar received individual course approval from the board. Attorney Q may receive credit if the additional conditions under this Rule .1604 are also met.

History Note: Authority — Order of the North Carolina Supreme Court, October 7, 1987, 318 N.C. 711; Readopted effective December 8, 1994; Amended effective March 6, 1997.

D.1605. Computation of credit.

(a) Computation formula. CLE and professional responsibility hours shall be computed by the following formula:

$$\frac{\text{sum of the total minutes of actual instruction}}{60} = \text{Total Hours}$$

For example, actual instruction totaling 195 minutes would equal 3.25 hours toward CLE.

(b) Actual instruction. Only actual education shall be included in computing the total hours of actual instruction. The following shall not be included:

(1) introductory remarks;

(2) breaks;

(3) business meetings;

(4) speeches in connection with banquets or other events which are primarily social in nature;

(5) question and answer sessions at a ratio in excess of 15 minutes per CLE hour and programs less than 30 minutes in length provided, however, that the limitation on question and answer sessions shall not limit the length of time that may be devoted to participatory CLE.

(c) Teaching. As a contribution to professionalism, credit may be earned for teaching in an approved continuing legal education activity. Presentations accompanied by thorough, high quality, readable, and carefully prepared written materials will qualify for CLE credit on the basis of three hours of credit for each thirty minutes of presentation. Repeat presentations qualify for one-half of the credits available for the initial presentation. For example, an initial presentation of 45 minutes would qualify for 4.5 hours of credit.

(d) Teaching at a law school. If a member is not a full-time teacher at a law school in North Carolina who is eligible for the exemption in Rule .1517(b) of this subchapter, the member may earn up to 12 hours of CLE credit for teaching courses at an ABA accredited law school. Two hours of CLE credit shall be earned for each hour of academic credit awarded to a law school course taught by the member. The member shall also complete the requirements set forth in Rule .1518(b) of this subchapter.

History Note: Authority — Order of the North Carolina Supreme Court, October 7, 1987, 318 N.C. 711, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994; Amended effective March 3, 1999; Amended October 1, 2003.

D.1606. Fees.

(a) Sponsor fee. The sponsor fee, a charge paid directly by the sponsor, shall be paid by all sponsors of approved activities presented in North Carolina and by accredited sponsors located in North Carolina for approved activities wherever presented, except that no sponsor fee is required where approved activities are offered without charge to attendees. In any other instance, payment of the fee by the sponsor is optional. The amount of the fee, per approved CLE hour per active member of the North Carolina State Bar in attendance, is $1.25 plus such additional amount as determined by the council as necessary to support the Chief Justice's Commission on Professionalism but not to exceed $1.00. The fee is computed as shown in the following formula and example which assumes a 6-hour course attended by 100 North Carolina lawyers seeking CLE credit and further assumes that the fee-per-hour is $2.25 which includes an assessment of $1.00 for the Chief Justice's Commission on Professionalism:

Fee: $ 2.25
x Total Approved CLE hours (x 6)
x Number of NC Attendees (100)
= Total Sponsor Fee ($1350)

(b) Attendee fee. The attendee fee is paid by the North Carolina attorney who requests credit for a program for which no sponsor fee was paid. An attorney should remit the fees along with his or her affidavit before February 28 following the calendar year for which the report is being submitted. The amount of the fee, per approved CLE hour for which the attorney claims credit, is set at $1.25 plus such additional amount as determined by the council as necessary to support the Chief Justice's Commission on Professionalism but not to exceed $1.00. It is computed as shown in the following formula and example which assumes that the attorney attended an activity approved for 3 hours of CLE credit and that the fee-per-hour is $2.25 which includes an assessment of $1.00 for the Chief Justice's Commission on Professionalism:

Fee: $ 2.25
x Total Approved CLE hours (x 3.0)
= Total Attendee Fee ($6.75)

(c) Fee review. The board will review the level of the fee at least annually and adjust it as necessary to maintain adequate finances for prudent operation of the board in a nonprofit manner. The fee of $1.25 charged to sponsors and attendees will be increased only to the extent necessary for those fees to pay the costs of administration of the CLE program. The council shall annually review the assessment for the Chief Justice's Commission on Professionalism and adjust it as necessary to maintain adequate finances for the operation of the commission.

(d) Uniform application and financial responsibility. The fee shall be applied uniformly without exceptions or other preferential treatment for a sponsor or attendee. The board shall make reasonable efforts to collect the sponsor fee from the sponsor of a CLE program when appropriate under Rule .1606(a) above. However, whenever a sponsor fee is not paid by the sponsor of a program, regardless of the reason, the lawyer requesting CLE credit for the program shall be financially responsible for the fee.

History Note: Authority — Order of the North Carolina Supreme Court, October 7, 1987, 318 N.C. 711, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994; Amended effective December 30, 1998; Amended October 1, 2003.

D.1607. Special cases and exemptions.

(a) Attorneys who have a permanent disability which makes attendance at CLE programs inordinately difficult may file a request for a permanent substitute program in lieu of attendance and shall therein set out continuing legal education plans tailored to their specific interests and physical ability. The board shall review and approve or disapprove such plans on an individual basis and without delay.

(b) Other requests for substitute compliance, partial waivers, other exemptions for hardship or extenuating circumstances may be granted by the board on a yearly basis upon written application of the attorney.

(c) Credit is earned through service as a bar examiner of the North Carolina Board of Law Examiners. The board will award 12 hours of CLE credit for the preparation and grading of a bar examination by a member of the North Carolina Board of Law Examiners.

History Note: Authority — Order of the North Carolina Supreme Court, October 7, 1987, 318 N.C. 711, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994; Amended October 1, 2003.

D.1608. General compliance procedures.

(a) Compliance period. The period for complying with the requirements of Rule .1518 of this subchapter is January 1 to December 31. A member may complete the requirements for the year on or by February 28 of the succeeding year provided, however, that this additional time shall be considered a grace period and no extensions of this grace period shall be granted. All members are encouraged to complete the requirements within the appropriate calendar year.

(b) Affidavit. Prior to January 31 of each year, commencing in 1990, the prescribed affidavit form shall be mailed to all active members of the North Carolina State Bar concerning compliance with the continuing legal education program for the preceding year.

(c) Late filing penalty. Any attorney who, for whatever reasons, files the affidavit showing compliance or declaring an exemption after the February 28 due date shall pay a $75.00 late filing penalty. This penalty shall be submitted with the affidavit. An affidavit that is either received by the board or postmarked on or before February 28 shall be considered to have been timely filed. An attorney who complies with the requirements of the rules during the probationary period under Rule .1523(c) of this subchapter shall pay a late compliance fee of $125.00 pursuant to Rule .1524 of this subchapter.

History Note: Authority — Order of the North Carolina Supreme Court, October 7, 1987, 318 N.C. 711, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994; Amended October 1, 2003.

D.1609. Noncompliance procedures.

(a) Reinstatement fee. The uniform reinstatement fee is $250 and must accompany the reinstatement petition.

(b) Petition. The attachment to the petition for reinstatement required by Rule .1524(b) of this subchapter shall list the CLE activities according to a form provided by the board.

History Note: Authority — Order of the North Carolina Supreme Court, October 7, 1987, 318 N.C. 711, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994, Amended March 7, 1996.

D.1610. Authority for appeals.

(a) Appeals. Except as otherwise provided, the board is the final authority on all matters entrusted to it under Section .1500 and Section .1600 of this subchapter. Therefore, any decision by a committee of the board pursuant to a delegation of authority may be appealed to the full board.

(b) Procedure. A decision made by the staff of the board pursuant to a delegation of authority may also be reviewed by the full board but should first be appealed to any committee of the board having jurisdiction on the subject involved. All appeals shall be in writing. The board has the discretion to, but is not obligated to, grant a hearing in connection with any appeal regarding the accreditation of a program.

History Note: Authority — Order of the North Carolina Supreme Court, October 7, 1987, 318 N.C. 711, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994.

D.1611. Accreditation of Computer-Based CLE.

(a) Effective for courses attended on or after July 1, 2001, a member may receive up to four (4) hours of credit annually for participation in a course on CD-ROM or on-line. A CD-ROM course is an educational seminar on a compact disk that is accessed through the CD-ROM drive of the user's personal computer. An on-line course is an educational seminar available on a provider's website reached via the Internet.

(b) A member may apply up to four credit hours of computer-based CLE to a CLE deficit from a preceding calendar year. Any computer-based CLE credit hours applied to a deficit from a preceding year will be included in calculating the mazimum of four (4) hours of computer-based CLE allowed in the preceding calendar year. A member may carry over to the next calendar year no more than four credit hours of computer-based CLE pursuant to Rule .1518(c) of this subchapter. Any credit hours carried-over pursuant to Rule .1518(c) of this subchapter will not be included in calculating the four (4) hours of computer-based CLE allowed in any one calendar year.

(c) To be accredited, a computer-based CLE course must meet all of the conditions imposed by the rules in Section .1600 of this subchapter, or by the board in advance, except where otherwise noted, and be interactive, permitting the participant to communicate, via telephone, electronic mail or a website bulletin board, with the presenter and/or other participants.

(d) The sponsor of an on-line course must have a reliable method for recording and verifying attendance. The sponsor of a CD-ROM course must demonstrate that there is a reliable method for the user or the sponsor to record and verify participation in the course. A participant may periodically log on and off of a computer-based CLE course provided the total time spent participating in the course is equal to or exceeds the credit hours assigned to the program. A copy of the record of attendance must be forwarded to the board within 30 days after a member completes his or her participation in the course.

History Note: Adopted March 1, 2001;
Amemded effective February 27, 2003.

(3) to appoint, supervise, act on the recommendations of and consult with specialty committees as hereinafter identified;

D.1718. Privileges conferred and limitations imposed.

The board in the implementation of this plan shall not alter the following privileges and responsibilities of certified specialists and other lawyers.

Subject to Canon 6 of the Rules of Professional Conduct, any lawyer, alone or in association with any other lawyer, shall have the right to practice in all fields of law, even though he or she is certified as a specialist in a particular field of law.

(2) No lawyer shall be required to be certified as a specialist in order to practice in the field of law covered by that specialty. Subject to Canon 6 of the North Carolina Rules of Professional Conduct, any lawyer, alone or in association with any other lawyer, shall have the right to practice in any field of law, or advertise his or her availability to practice in any field of law consistent with Canon 2 of the Rules of Professional Conduct, even though he or she is not certified as a specialist in that field.

(3) All requirements for and all benefits to be derived from certification as a specialist are individual and may not be fulfilled by nor attributed to the law firm of which the specialist may be a member.

(4) Participation in the program shall be on a completely voluntary basis.

(5) A lawyer may be certified as a specialist in no more than two fields of law.

(6) When a client is referred by another lawyer to a lawyer who is a recognized specialist under this plan on a matter within the specialist's field of law, such specialist shall not take advantage of the referral to enlarge the scope of his or her representation and, consonant with any requirements of the Rules of Professional Conduct, such specialist shall not enlarge the scope of representation of a referred client outside the area of the specialty field.

(7) Any lawyer certified as a specialist under this plan shall be entitled to advertise that he or she is a "Board Certified Specialist" in his or her specialty to the extent permitted by the Rules of Professional Conduct.

History Note: Statutory Authority G.S. 84-23, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994.

D.1719. Specialty committees.

(a) The board shall establish a separate specialty committee for each specialty in which specialists are to be certified. Each specialty committee shall be composed of seven members appointed by the board, one of whom shall be designated annually by the chairperson of the board as chairperson of the specialty committee. Members of each specialty committee shall be lawyers licensed and currently in good standing to practice law in this state who, in the judgment of the board, are competent in the field of law to be covered by the specialty. Members shall hold office for three years, except those members initially appointed who shall serve as hereinafter designated. Members shall be appointed by the board to staggered terms of office and the initial appointees shall serve as follows: two shall serve for one year after appointment; two shall serve for two years after appointment; and three shall serve for three years after appointment. Appointment by the board to a vacancy shall be for the remaining term of the member leaving the specialty committee. All members shall be eligible for reappointment to not more than one additional three-year term after having served one full three-year term, provided, however, that the board may reappoint the chairperson of a committee to a third three-year term if the board determines that the reappointment is in the best interest of the specialization program. Meetings of the specialty committee shall be held at regular intervals at such times, places and upon such notices as the specialty committee may from time to time prescribe or upon direction of the board.

(b) Each specialty committee shall advise and assist the board in carrying out the board's objectives and in the implementation and regulation of this plan in that specialty. Each specialty committee shall advise and make recommendations to the board as to standards for the specialty and the certification of individual specialists in that specialty. Each specialty committee shall be charged with actively administering the plan in its specialty and with respect to that specialty shall

(1) after public hearing on due notice, recommend to the board reasonable and nondiscriminatory standards applicable to that specialty;

(2) make recommendations to the board for certification, continued certification, denial, suspension, or revocation of certification of specialists and for procedures with respect thereto;

(3) administer procedures established by the board for applications for certification and continued certification as a specialist and for denial, suspension, or revocation of such certification;

(4) administer examinations and other testing procedures, if applicable, investigate references of applicants and, if deemed advisable, seek additional information regarding applicants for certification or continued certification as specialists;

(5) make recommendations to the board concerning the approval of and credit to be allowed for continuing legal education courses, or educational alternatives, in the specialty;

(6) perform such other duties and make such other recommendations as may be delegated to or requested of the specialty committee by the board.

History Note: Statutory Authority G.S. 84-23, Readopted effective December 8, 1994; Amended effective November 7, 1996.

D.1720. Minimum standards for certification of specialists.

(a) To qualify for certification as a specialist, a lawyer applicant must pay any required fee, comply with the following minimum standards, and meet any other standards established by the board for the particular area of specialty.

(1) The applicant must be licensed and currently in good standing to practice law in this state.

(2) The applicant must make a satisfactory showing, as determined by the board after advice from the appropriate specialty committee, of substantial involvement in the specialty during the five years immediately preceding his or her application according to objective and verifiable standards. Such substantial involvement shall be defined as to each specialty from a consideration of its nature, complexity, and differences from other fields and from consideration of the kind and extent of effort and experience necessary to demonstrate competence in that specialty. It is a measurement of actual experience within the particular specialty according to any of several standards. It may be measured by the time spent on legal work within the areas of the specialty, the number or type of matters handled within a certain period of time or any combination of these or other appropriate factors. However, within each specialty, experience requirements should be measured by objective standards. In no event should they be either so restrictive as to unduly limit certification of lawyers as specialists or so lax as to make the requirement of substantial involvement meaningless as a criterion of competence. Substantial involvement may vary from specialty to specialty, but, if measured on a time-spent basis, in no event shall the time spent in practice in the specialty be less than 25 percent of the total practice of a lawyer engaged in a normal full-time practice. Reasonable and uniform practice equivalents may be established including, but not limited to, successful pursuit of an advance educational degree, teaching, judicial, government, or corporate legal experience.

(3) The applicant must make a satisfactory showing, as determined by the board after advice from the appropriate specialty committee, of continuing legal education in the specialty accredited by the board for the specialty, the minimum being an average of 12 hours of credit for continuing legal education, or its equivalent, for each of the three years immediately preceding application. Upon establishment of a new specialty, this standard may be satisfied in such manner as the board, upon advice from the appropriate specialty committee, may prescribe or may be waived if, and to the extent, accreditable continuing legal education courses have not been available during the three years immediately preceding establishment of the specialty.

(4) The applicant must make a satisfactory showing, as determined by the board after advice from the appropriate specialty committee, of qualification in the specialty through peer review by providing, as references, the names of at least five lawyers, all of whom are licensed and currently in good standing to practice law in this state, or in any state, or judges, who are familiar with the competence and qualification of the applicant as a specialist. None of the references may be persons related to the applicant or, at the time of application, a partner of or otherwise associated with the applicant in the practice of law. The applicant by his or her application consents to confidential inquiry by the board or appropriate disciplinary body and other persons regarding the applicant's competence and qualifications to be certified as a specialist.

(5) The applicant must achieve a satisfactory score on a written examination designed to test the applicant's knowledge and ability in the specialty for which certification is applied. The examination must be applied uniformly to all applicants within each specialty area. The board shall assure that the contents and grading of the examination are designed to produce a uniform level of competence among the various specialties.

(b) All matters concerning the qualification of an applicant for certification, including, but not limited to, applications, references, tests and test scores, files, reports, investigations, hearings, findings, recommendations, and adverse determinations shall be confidential so far as is consistent with the effective administration of this plan, fairness to the applicant and due process of law.

(c) The board may adopt uniform rules waiving the requirements of Rules .1720(a)(4) and (5) above for members of a specialty committee at the time the initial written examination for that specialty is given and permitting said members to file applications to become a board certified specialist in that specialty upon compliance with all other required minimum standards for certification of specialists.

(d) Upon written request of the applicant and with the recommendation of the appropriate specialty committee, the board may for good cause shown waive strict compliance with the criteria relating to substantial involvement, continuing legal education, or peer review, as those requirements are set forth in the standards for certification for specialization. However, there shall be no waiver of the requirements that the applicant pass a written examination and be licensed to practice law in North Carolina for five years preceding the application.

History Note: Statutory Authority G.S. 84-23, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994.

D.1721. Minimum standards for continued certification of specialists.

(a) The period of certification as a specialist shall be five years. During such period the board or appropriate specialty committee may require evidence from the specialist of his or her continued qualification for certification as a specialist, and the specialist must consent to inquiry by the board, or appropriate specialty committee of lawyers and judges, the appropriate disciplinary body, or others in the community regarding the specialist's continued competence and qualification to be certified as a specialist. Application for and approval of continued certification as a specialist shall be required prior to the end of each five-year period. To qualify for continued certification as a specialist, a lawyer applicant must pay any required fee, must demonstrate to the board with respect to the specialty both continued knowledge of the law of this state and continued competence and must comply with the following minimum standards.

(1) The specialist must make a satisfactory showing, as determined by the board after advice from the appropriate specialty committee, of substantial involvement (which shall be determined in accordance with the principles set forth in Rule .1720(a)(2) of this subchapter) in the specialty during the entire period of certification as a specialist.

(2) The specialist must make a satisfactory showing, as determined by the board after advice from the appropriate specialty committee, of continuing legal education accredited by the board for the specialty during the period of certification as a specialist, the minimum being an average of 12 hours of credit for continuing legal education, or its equivalent, for each year during the entire period of certification as a specialist.

(3) The specialist must comply with the requirements set forth in Rule .1720(a)(1) and (4) of this subchapter.

(b) Upon written request of the applicant and with the recommendation of the appropriate specialty committee, the board may for good cause shown waive strict compliance with the criteria relating to substantial involvement, continuing legal education, or peer review, as those requirements are set forth in the standards for continued certification.

(c) After the period of initial certification, a specialist may request, in advance and in writing, approval from the board for a waiver of one year of the substantial involvement necessary to satisfy the standards for the specialist's next recertification. The specialist may request a waiver of one year of substantial involvement for every five years that the specialist has met the substantial involvement standard beginning with the period of initial certification. However, none of the years for which a waiver is requested may be consecutive. When a waiver of the substantial involvement requirement is granted, the specialist must satisfy all of the other requirements for recertification.

History Note: Statutory Authority G.S. 84-23, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994; Amended effective March 6, 2002.

D.1722. Establishment of additional standards.

The board may establish, on its own initiative or upon the specialty committee's recommendation, additional or more stringent standards for certification than those provided in Rules .1720 and .1721 of this subchapter. Additional standards or requirements established under this rule need not be the same for initial certification and continued certification as a specialist. It is the intent of the plan that all requirements for certification or recertification in any area of specialty shall be no more or less stringent than the requirements in any other area of specialty.

History Note: Statutory Authority G.S. 84-23, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994.

D.1723. Suspension or revocation of certification as a specialist.

(a) The board may revoke its certification of a lawyer as a specialist in the specialization program if the specialty is terminated or may suspend or revoke such certification if it is determined, upon the board's own initiative or upon recommendation of the appropriate specialty committee and after hearing before the board on appropriate notice, that

(1) the certification of the lawyer as a specialist was made contrary to the rules and regulations of the board;

(2) the lawyer certified as a specialist made a false representation, omission or misstatement of material fact to the board or appropriate specialty committee;

SECTION .1800. HEARING AND APPEAL RULES OF THE BOARD OF LEGAL SPECIALIZATION

D.1801. Reconsideration of applications, failure of written examinations, and appeals.

(a) Applications incomplete and/or applicants not in compliance with standards for certification.

(1) Incomplete applications. The executive director of the North Carolina State Bar Board of Legal Specialization (the board) will review every application to determine if the application is complete. The applicant will be notified of the incompleteness of his or her application. The applicant must submit the completed application within 21 days of the date of mailing of the notice. If the applicant fails to provide the required information for the application during the requisite time period, the executive director will refer the application to the specialty committee for review.

(2) Applicant not in compliance. The executive director shall refer to the specialty committee for review any application which appears complete on its face but which does not satisfactorily demonstrate compliance with the standards for certification in the specialty area for which certification is sought.

(3) Specialty committee action. The specialty committee shall review the incomplete applications and the applications not in compliance with the standards for certification. After reviewing the applications, the specialty committee shall recommend to the board the acceptance or rejection of the applications. The specialty committee shall notify the board of its recommendations in writing and the reason for any negative recommendation must be specified. The specialty committee must complete the above process within 14 days of receiving the applications.

(4) Notification to applicant of the specialty committee's action. The executive director shall promptly notify the applicant in writing of the specialty committee's recommendation of rejection of the application. The notification must specify the reason for the recommendation of rejection of the application. In addition, the notification shall inform the applicant of his or her right to petition the board for review of the application or request a hearing before the board.

(5) Petition for review by the board. Within 21 days of the mailing of the notice from the executive director that an application has been recommended for rejection by the specialty committee, the applicant may petition the board for review. The petition may be informal (e.g., by letter), but should include the date on which notice of the recommendation of rejection was received and the reasons for which the applicant believes the specialty committee's recommendation of rejection should not be accepted.

(6) Review of petition by the board. A three-member panel of the board, to be appointed by the chairperson of the board, shall review and take action by a majority of the panel upon the petition and notify the applicant of the board's decision. The notification shall inform the applicant of his or her right to appeal the decision to the North Carolina State Bar Council (the council) if the board's action is unfavorable to the applicant.

(7) Request for hearing. In lieu of a petition for review, an applicant may request a hearing before the board. The applicant shall notify the board through its executive director in writing of such request for a hearing within 21 days of the mailing of the notice regarding the specialty committee's recommendation of rejection of the application. The applicant shall set forth the grounds for the hearing before the board. In such a request, the applicant shall list the names of prospective witnesses and identify documentation and other evidence to be introduced at the hearing before the board. The applicant shall be notified of the board's decision, and if the board's decision is unfavorable to the applicant, the applicant will be notified of his or her right to appeal the board's decision to the council.

(8) Hearing procedures.

(A) Notice: Time and place of hearing. The chairperson of the board shall fix the time and place of the hearing as soon as practicable after the applicant's request for hearing is received. The applicant shall be notified of the hearing date. Such notice shall be given to the applicant at least 10 days prior to the time fixed for the hearing.

(B) Quorum. A panel of three members of the board, as appointed by the chairperson, shall be necessary to conduct the hearing with the majority of those in attendance necessary to decide upon the matter.

(C) Representation by counsel and witnesses. The applicant may be represented by counsel or represent himself or herself at such hearing. The applicant may offer witnesses and documents and may cross-examine any witness.

(D) Written briefs. The applicant is urged to submit a written brief (in quadruplicate) 10 days prior to the hearing to the executive director for distribution to the panel in support of his or her position. However, written briefs are not required.

(E) Depositions. Should the applicant or executive director desire to take a deposition prior to the board hearing of any voluntary witness who cannot attend the board hearing, such intention to take, and request to take, the deposition of a witness may be applied for in writing to the chairperson of the board together with a written consent signed by the potential witness that he or she will give a deposition for one party and a statement to the effect that the witness cannot attend the hearing along with the reason for such unavailability. The party seeking to take the deposition of a witness shall state in detail as to what the witness is expected to testify. If the chairperson is satisfied that such deposition from a possible witness will be relevant to the issue in question before the board, then the chairperson will authorize said taking of the deposition. The chairperson will also designate the executive director or a member of the specialty committee to be present at the deposition. The deposition may be taken orally or by video. Any refusal of the taking of the deposition by the chairperson shall be reviewed by the board at the request of the applicant. The cost connected with taking the deposition shall be borne by the party requesting the deposition.

(F) Continuances. Motions for continuance of the hearing should be made to the chairperson of the board and such motions will be granted or denied by the chairperson of the board.

(G) Burden of proof: Preponderance of the evidence. The panel of the board shall apply the preponderance of the evidence rule in determining whether or not to accept the application for certification. The burden of proof is upon the applicant.

(H) Conduct of hearings: Rights of parties.

(i) Hearings shall be reported by a certified court reporter. The applicant shall pay the costs associated with obtaining the court reporter's services for the hearing. The applicant shall pay the costs of the transcript and shall arrange for the preparation of the transcript with the court reporter. The applicant shall be taxed with all other costs of the hearing, but such costs shall not include any compensation to the members of the board before whom the hearing is conducted. The board in its discretion may refund to the applicant all or some portion of the necessary costs incurred as a result of the hearing.

(ii) The applicant may retain counsel at all stages of the investigation and at all meetings. The applicant and his or her counsel shall have the right to attend all hearings.

(iii) Oral evidence at hearings shall be taken only on oath or affirmation. The applicant shall have the right to testify unless he or she specifically waives such right or fails to appear at the hearing. If the applicant does not testify on his or her behalf, the applicant may be called and examined by the panel of the board, the executive director, and any member of the specialty committee. The applicant's failure to appear at the hearing ordered by the board, after receipt of written notice, shall constitute a waiver of the applicant's right to a hearing before the board.

(iv) At any hearing, the panel of the board, the executive director, any member of the appropriate specialty committee, and the applicant shall have these rights: (a) to call and examine witnesses; (b) to offer exhibits; (c) to cross-examine witnesses on any matter relevant to the issues even though that matter was not covered in the direct examination; and (d) to impeach any witness regardless of who first called such witness to testify and to rebut any evidence.

(v) Hearings need not be conducted according to technical rules relating to evidence and witnesses. Any relevant evidence shall be admitted if it is the sort of evidence on which responsible persons are accustomed to rely in the conduct of serious affairs, regardless of any common law or statutory rule which might make improper the admission of such evidence over objection in civil actions.

(vi) Any hearing may be recessed or adjourned from time to time at the discretion of the panel.

(9) Failure of applicant to petition the board for review or request a hearing before the board within the time allowed by these rules. If the applicant does not petition the board for review or request a hearing before the board regarding the specialty committee's recommendation of rejection of the application within the time allowed by these rules, the board shall act on the matter at its next board meeting.

(b) Failure of written examination.

(1) Review of examination. Within 30 days of the mailing of the notice from the board's executive director that the applicant has failed the written examination, the applicant may review his or her examination at the office of the board at a time designated by the executive director. The applicant shall not remove the examination from the board's office.

(2) Petition for grade review. If, after reviewing the examination, the applicant feels an error or errors were made in the grading, he or she may file with the executive director a petition for grade review. The petition must be filed within 45 days of the mailing of the notice of failure and should set out in detail the area or areas which, in the opinion of the applicant, have been incorrectly graded. Supporting information may be filed to substantiate the applicant's claim. At the time of filing the petition, the applicant must either (A) request a hearing before a three-member panel of the board; or (B) waive his or her right to a hearing before the board and request that the board render a decision based upon its review of the applicant's examination, supporting documents, and the recommendations of the review committee of the specialty committee.

(3) Review procedure. The applicant's examination and petition shall be submitted to a panel consisting of a minimum of at least three members of the specialty committee (the review committee of the specialty committee). All information will be submitted in blind form, the staff being responsible for deleting any identifying information on the examination or the petition. The review committee of the specialty committee shall review the entire examination of the applicant. The review committee of the specialty committee shall recommend to the board that the grade of the examination remain the same or be changed.

(4) Decision of the board. A panel of the board shall consider the applicant's petition for grade review either by hearing or by a review only of the applicant's submitted materials.

(5) Hearing procedures. The rules set forth in Rule .1801(a)(8) above shall be followed when an applicant petitions for a hearing before the board for a grade review of his or her examination.

(6) Burden of proof: Preponderance of the evidence. The panel of the board shall apply the preponderance of the evidence rule in determining whether the applicant's grade on the examination should remain the same or be changed. The burden of proof is upon the applicant.

History Note: Statutory Authority G.S. 84-23, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994, Amended Effective June 1, 1995.

D.1802. Denial of continued certification as a specialist.

(b) Notification of board action. The executive director shall notify the applicant of the board's decision to grant or deny continued certification as a specialist.

(c) Request for hearing. Within 21 days of the mailing of notice from the executive director of the board that the applicant has been denied continued certification, the applicant may request a hearing before the board.

(d) Hearing procedure. The rules set forth in Rule .1801(a)(8) of this subchapter shall be followed when an applicant requests a hearing regarding the denial of continued certification.

(e) Burden of proof: Preponderance of the evidence. A three-member panel of the board shall apply the preponderance of the evidence rule in determining

(6) the lawyer certified as a specialist has been disciplined, disbarred or suspended from practice in North Carolina or by the Supreme Court of any other state or federal court or agency.

(b) The executive director shall notify the specialist in writing of the board's consideration of the suspension or revocation of the specialist's certification. The specialist will also be notified of his or her right to a hearing on the issue. The specialist must request in writing a hearing within 21 days of the mailing of the notice of suspension or revocation of certification.

(c) At its next regular or specially called meeting, the board shall conduct a hearing according to the hearing procedures set forth in Rule .1801(a)(8) of this subchapter. The board shall apply the preponderance of the evidence rule in determining whether the specialist's certification should be suspended or revoked. The burden of proof is upon the board.

History Note: Statutory Authority G.S. 84-23, Readopted Effective December 8, 1994.

D.1804. Appeal to the council.
